MOSCOW (SEPT 13) TASS - ACCORDING TO THE INFORMATION OF THE USSR STATE COMMITTEE FOR STATISTICS, THE COUNTRY'S ECONOMIC SITUATION DETERIORATED IN AUGUST, IZVESTIA WROTE TODAY. DURING THE EIGHT MONTHS OF THE CURRENT YEAR INDUSTRIAL OUTPUT WENT DOWN BY 0.7 PERCENT AS AGAINST THE CORRESPONDING PERIOD OF 1989, WHILE THE FIGURE FOR AUGUST ALONE WAS 1.7 PERCENT.

ACCORDING TO DEPUTY CHAIRMAN OF THE STATE COMMITTEE FOR STATISTICS VLADIMIR TOLOKUSHIN, THE DISINTEGRATION OF ECONOMIC TIES BOTH ON THE UNION AND REPUBLICAN LEVELS, AS WELL AS DIRECT TIES BETWEEN SEPARATE ENTERPRISES, IS ONE OF THE REASONS EXPLAINING THIS SITUATION.

INDUSTRIAL OUTPUT WAS NOT REDUCED ONLY IN BYELORUSSIA, MOLDAVIA AND TADZHIKISTAN. IN ESTONIA IT REMAINED ON THE LEVEL OF 1989. IN THE REST OF THE REPUBLICS THE AUGUST FIGURES SHOWED THE DECLINE OF INDUSTRIAL OUTPUT.

ACCORDING TO TOLOKUSHIN, THE PRESENT CONCLUDING OF AGREEMENTS MAY DETERMINE THE COUNTRY'S ECONOMIC SITUATION IN THE NEXT YEAR. HOWEVER, NOT MUCH HAS BEEN ACCOMPLISHED SO FAR: AGREEMENTS COVER ONLY 25 PERCENT OF THE INDUSTRIAL OUTPUT THAT ENTERPRISES INTEND TO INCLUDE IN THEIR PLANS. THIS HAS HALF THE AMOUNT FOR SEPTEMBER 1, 1989.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (SEPT. 13) UPI - Engineers believe they have finally fixed an elusive hydrogen leak that grounded the shuttle Columbia last week, clearing the way for NASA to formally clear the ship for a fourth launch try Tuesday.

With time running out before a higher-priority October mission by the shuttle Discovery, NASA plans to restart Columbia's countdown at 1 a.m. EDT Saturday for a launch attempt at 1:28 a.m. Tuesday to finally kick off a 10-day astronomy mission originally set for takeoff in May.

If Columbia's seven-man crew fails to make it into orbit within a few days of the new target date, the flight will be delayed until after Discovery's launch around Oct. 8 to carry the European-built Ulysses solar probe into space.

Columbia was grounded last week when hydrogen gas built up in the shuttle's engine compartment during fuel loading the night before a planned Thursday launch try.

Engineers removed and replaced three suspect fuel pumps before discovering a damaged seal in a fuel line valve leading to main engine No. 3 that appears to explain the leak.

The washer-like seal, slightly larger than a silver dollar, apparently was damaged during installation earlier this year. The problem was not discovered until alert technicians became suspicious following weekend tests.

''It was crushed, flattened and misaligned 45 degrees around,'' said an engineer who requested anonymity. ''They say that was enough to account for the total leak. Do you believe that? I think that's great!''

Henry Pohl, director of engineering at the Johnson Space Center in Houston, was more cautious.

''I don't think there's any doubt that that's a big part of the problem,'' he said in a telephone interview. ''Does it explain all of the data? I don't know that we can say that yet.''

But technicians were unable to find any major leaks in the once- suspect fuel pumps, and the discovery and replacement of a seriously damaged seal in a fuel line would appear to resolve the matter once and for all.

The new launch date was announced after NASA and the Air Force settled a scheduling conflict involving Columbia and an unmanned Titan 4 rocket that sources said had been set for launch Monday night from the Cape Canaveral Air Force Station.

Early Wednesday, a reliable source said the Titan launch had been rescheduled, keeping Columbia on track for an early Tuesday liftoff.

Shuttle commander Vance Brand, 59, co-pilot Guy Gardner, 42, John ''Mike'' Lounge, 44, Robert Parker, 53, Jeffrey Hoffman, 45, and civilian astronomers Ronald Parise, 39, and Samuel Durrance, 46, plan to fly to Florida Sunday for final preparations.

Space agency managers are under considerable pressure to launch Columbia as soon as possible to clear the decks for Discovery's flight next month to carry the Ulysses probe into space.

The Ulysses mission has priority because to get the probe on the proper course to the sun, Discovery must be launched between Oct. 5 and Oct. 23 or the mission will face a 13-month delay.

WASHINGTON (SEPT. 13) UPI - Army Gen. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, the top U.S. military commander in Saudi Arabia, said the full buildup of U.S. forces needed to combat the Iraqi threat will not be completed for two more months,

The Washington Post reported Thursday.

In an interview, Schwarzkopf said the buildup has been slowed down because of breakdowns of ships carrying heavy combat equipment. He also said the Air Force will be required to reduce its airlift of troops and equipment to the region in coming weeks because the operation has taxed aging transports and many must have engines replaced.

The buildup of forces on the Arabian Peninsula also has been delayed because of sealift problems.

The four-star general said U.S. forces currently are adequate to provide a defense of Saudi Arabia, but will be even stronger soon.

''Give me another couple of months, and we will surely have the forces on the ground that we need to defend Saudi Arabia against any attack they (the Iraqis) could possibly have,'' he told the Post.

Based on Schwarzkopf's comments, it appears that the U.S. buildup will come about one month after the mid-October target reported by several congressmen who were briefed earlier this month with top U.S. commanders in Saudi Arabia, the Post said.

Schwarzkopf said that although the massive movement of troops and hardware operated smoothly in the first weeks of the mission, less than one-third of the Army's heavy combat armor has arrived in Saudi Arabia. The military has been forced to contract slower ships to transport some tanks and heavy artillery because of mechanical problems with some of the Navy's eight fast sealift vessels.

''The good news is that at the most dangerous time, everything went great,'' Schwarzkopf said. ''The bad news is it has slowed up, but it doesn't matter as much as it did before.''

(SEPT. 13) UPI - Talks between White House and congressional budget negotiators are expected to continue through Friday as they look for ways to help bring down the federal deficit. NO final decisions have been made. But one possibility reportedly being debated is a new tax on luxury items... such as expensive cars, private boats and airplanes, furs jewelry and electronic equipment. The sessions are taking place at Andrews Air Force Base outside Washington.

LANSING, Mich. (SEPT. 13) UPI - Opponents of a newly passed law denying abortions to girls under 18 without parental consent are fighting the measure in the courts, their only recourse for the veto-proof legislation.

The law, passed by the Legislature Wednesday, made Michigan the 34th state to legally limit a minor's access to abortion and was quickly challenged on the grounds it violates constitutional equal protection guarantees.

No court date was set for the lawsuit filed in Ingham County Circuit Court in Lansing Wednesday by Zolton Ferency, a criminal law professor at Michigan State University.

The measure, passed 28-9 in the Senate and 61-40 in the House, will go into effect April 1, 1991. Because it was introduced into the Legislature by a petition drive, not by a legislator or the governor, it cannot be vetoed.

The law would require written permission from a parent or guardian before an abortion could be legally performed on a girl under age 18. Girls who are reluctant to bring the issue up with a parent could seek a waiver by a probate court judge.

A similar measure passed by both houses of the Legislature was vetoed on Feb. 23 by Gov. James Blanchard, prompting the anti-abortion group Right to Life of Michigan to begin the petition drive that led to the law passed Wednesday.

Sen. Jack Welborn, a Republican who is one of the Legislature's most ardent abortion opponents, argued that the parental consent law will lead youngsters to use birth control or abstain from sex.

''It will be used as a deterent to pregnancy,'' he said.

Bill Bell of Indiana, whose 17-year-old daughter, Becky, died in 1988 from a botched illegal abortion she received because she was apparently afraid to tell her parents that she was pregnant, flatly denounced such attitudes.

''I would like to have them acknowledge that laws are not going to regulate teen-age sexuality,'' Bell said. ''What I would like to see is the proponents of these laws that limit the rights of kids who are pregnant tell the public where the money is funneled into sex education to provide the proper information about sex and birth control.''

Abortion rights advocates said they were not surprised that the measure was passed, and believed the move would help spur opponents of the law into action.

''This was not unexpected,'' said Rep. Maxine Berman, a Democrat who had spoken on the floor of the House for nearly 10 minutes urging her colleagues to defeat the measure. ''A lot of teen-agers are going to be in a horrible position as a result of this.''

Margy Long of Planned Parenthood said she believed abortion rights advocates have been slowly gaining ground for the past year but still have a long way to go. The result of the parental consent law, she said, will be an increase in the number of low birthweight babies and more girls showing up in hospitals suffering the effects of illegal or self- inflicted abortions.

''But, as you say, it will be difficult to keep statistics, but it's going to be the same as we've seen after Medicaid-funded abortions were cut,'' Long said.

Right to Life of Michigan President Barbara Listing said that a parental consent law would bring Michigan in line with the U.S. Supreme Court's 1989 Webster vs. Reproductive Services decision that gave states greater leeway in restricting abortions, and she said more such legislation could be coming.

Right to Life of Michigan gathered more than 200,000 signatures to bring the measure before the Legislature, well over the 191,726 needed. The signatures were validated on Monday, and the measure officially was introduced on Tuesday. The Legislature had 40 days to act, or the initiative would have automatically been placed on the 1992 general election ballot.

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (SEPT. 13) UPI - Salvadoran government and rebel representatives Thursday were to pick up where they left off in a fifth round of peace talks halted by failure to reach agreement on demilitarization.

The new round of talks will be held in Costa Rica, which also hosted the third and fourth rounds of the negotiations aimed at ending more than 10 years of civil war in El Salvador.

President Alfredo Cristiani said this week that government negotiators would arrive at the talks carrying the same proposals for military reforms that were rejected in two previous meetings by rebels of the Farabundo Marti National Liberation Front, known as the FMLN.

The rebels are insisting that both their guerrilla army and the government's 55,000-strong armed forces must be dismantled to allow for lasting peace.

''The FMLN is not going to accept cosmetic or merely quantitative changes in the military. We know better than that,'' rebel negotiator Salvador Samayoa said in an editorial published last week by the Los Angeles Times.

Describing the Salvadoran military as ''corrupt'' and ''brutal'', Samayoa said ''total demilitarization is absolutely necessary if we are to construct a modern democratic state.''

He defined demilitarization as a ''gradual, symmetrical and simultaneous process to dismantle and eliminate both armies and create a new civilian police force.''

In the opening rounds of talks, the rebels had demanded reductions in the armed forces and the removal of a large number of military officers.

Citing constitutional restrictions, Cristiani has repeatedly said in public that ''the government is not willing to put the existence of the armed forces on the table.''

On the eve of the talks, Cristiani said ''we maintain our proposal, but that does not mean we are going into (the talks) with an inflexible position.''

He said he was optimistic progress could be made in this, the fifth round of talks since the peace process began in May, but added his optimism was based on the possibility that the FMLN will change its position.

''We have heard some commentaries that could lead to optimism that the FMLN will come to this meeting with a more flexible position than the past one, which was totally radicalized,'' Cristiani said.

The Salvadoran government has offered to implement major military reductions after the war ends and has proposed that the country's three highly militarized police forces be transferred to civilian control and that the rag-tag Civil Defense forces that operate in rural areas be disbanded.

The rebels refuse to release their troop figures, but foreign diplomats estimate their strength at some 6,000 combatants.

WASHINGTON (SEPT. 13) UPI - Amid a nationwide surge in drug-related violence and murder, President Bush is headed for a showdown on Capitol Hill over his long-stalled anti-crime package.

Within the next few days, the full House is expected to vote on a much-revised version of the president's bill that Bush threatened to veto Wednesday as being pro-criminal and anti-police.

''We will not accept a crime bill that is tougher on law enforcement than it is on criminals,'' Bush told hundreds of state and local prosecutors gathered on the White House south lawn in a show of support for his sweeping bill.

Bush's Comprehensive Violent Crime Control Act, first submitted to Congress in May 1989, would expand the number of federal crimes punishable by death, including major drug dealing. It would also streamline the appeal process and eliminate ''loopholes'' that limit police search and seizure powers.

The Senate passed a version of Bush's bill. But he threatened to veto the measure because it contains a provision that would outlaw nine types of semiautomatic assault weapons.

The president has refused to ban the guns, despite pleas from police groups that say the semiautomatic has become weapon of choice among drug dealers and has no legitimate sporting use.

This anti-gun control stand is likely to be an issue in this fall's congressional elections. Voters view the rising crime rate as a top concern, particularly since the nation is expected to reach a record a number of homicides this year.

Among those who have lobbied for tougher gun control is Jim Brady, press secretary under President Ronald Reagan, who was wounded in the 1981 assassination attempt.

Brady backs a bill that would impose a seven-day waiting period for the purchase of a handgun. The administration opposes the measure. It says the bill would be ineffective since most criminals buy guns on the black market.

Speaking to the state and local prosecutors Wednesday, Bush made no mention of the volatile issue of gun control.

Instead, he raised such matters as the little-used death penalty, the lengthy appeal process and ''scales of justice (that) are unfairly loaded against dedicated lawmen and women like you.''

''The American people are fed up,'' Bush said. ''I urge Congress to heed the voices of our people, our police and our prosecutors and send me a crime bill that will help take back the streets.''

The House bill, now in committee, does not include a ban on semiautomatics.

But it would, the administration complains, lengthen the appeal process and thus effectively eliminate the death penalty. The House version, unlike Bush's bill, also does not extend the ''good faith'' exception in warrantless searches.

Many lawmen have been at odds with the administration over gun control. They have urged Bush to outlaw semiautomatic assault weapons and to back a waiting period for purchase of handguns.

In fact, the 6,500-member National District Attorneys Association, which was out in force Wednesday in support of Bush's bill, recently passed a resolution in favor of restrictions on semiautomatics.

''We didn't bring it up with the president today,'' said Richard Ieyoub, the association's president. ''We came here to talk about his crime bill.''

NEW YORK (SEPT. 13) UPI - CBS and the Public Broadcasting Service both won 10 news and documentary Emmy awards, the most among both network and cable stations, the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences announced.

ABC took six awards at the Wednesday night ceremony at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel, while NBC followed with five, and the Turner Broadcasting System garnered four.

Cable News Network, Fox, Home Box Office, MTV and syndicated programs all were awarded one Emmy each for news and documentary presentations.

Among the winning programs for CBS were its ''48 Hours'' program's ''Hurricane Watch,'' which won for outstanding general coverage of a single breaking news story; and ''Face the Nation's'' interview with John Tower, and ''Saturday Night With Connie Chung's'' interview with Marlon Brando.

Winning for outstanding individual achievement in writing were CBS's Perry Wolff, for ''The Moon Above, The Earth Below,'' and Charles Kuralt and Peter Freundlich, writing for ''Sunday Morning with Charles Kuralt's'' ''Milepost - Student Stopping Tank in Beijing.''

In total, CBS's ''48 Hours'' program was named in two awards; ''Face the Nation'' was named in one; ''Saturday Night with Connie Chung,'' two; ''CBS Evening News'' with Dan Rather, two; ''The Moon Above, The Earth Below,'' two; and ''Sunday Morning with Charles Kuralt,'' one.

PBS's ''The Aids Quarterly'' was named in two awards - including its ''The Education of Admiral Watkins'' that won for outstanding background-analysis of a single current story; ''The Power of the Word with Bill Moyers,'' one; ''P.O.V.,'' two; ''The American Experience,'' one; ''National Geographic Special,'' two; ''Frontline,'' one; and ''The Public Mind with Bill Moyers,'' one.

(SEPT. 13) UPI - Last week the Pittsburgh Pirates' three-game sweep of New York left the Mets spinning in self-recrimination, but Wednesday night David Cone and a raucous home crowd helped the Mets regain their pennant race equilibrium.

Cone fired a three-hitter and Dave Magadan doubled home two runs in the first inning to lift the Mets to a 2-1 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The victory, the Mets' 10th straight at home, moved New York to within 2 1-2 games of the front-running Pirates in the NL East.

''This was a huge, huge game tonight for us,'' said Cone, who outdueled Pittsburgh starter John Smiley. ''My only other bigger game was the 1988 (playoff) game when we were eliminated if we lost.''

Cone improved his career record to 5-0 against the Pirates and improved his mark to 12-8 on the season. He struck out eight, including cleanup hitter Bobby Bonilla three times. He retired 13 straight batters from the fourth to the eighth innings en route to his fifth complete game of the season.

Cone got a scare in the ninth when Sid Bream hit a long fly to right that Darryl Strawberry caught at the wall.

''I was lucky Bream's did not go out,'' Cone said. ''I looked at Darryl and thought he had a bead on it. He's 6-foot-6 and can jump six feet and I hoped he didn't need to. I was lucky.''

''I didn't hit it great but I thought I had enough,'' Bream said.

''We got outdueled,'' said Pittsburgh third baseman Wally Backman, a former Met. ''We had some opportunities we didn't take control of. You have to tip your hat (to Cone).''

The Mets improved their home record to a majors' best 49-22. Thursday night, Pittsburgh will send Doug Drabek to the mound against Dwight Gooden.

The two teams also play three times in Pittsburgh at the end of the season.

Smiley, 8-9, allowed just five hits. The left-hander went the distance for the second time this year. By beating him, the Mets raised their record to just 23-27 against lefty starters.

Gregg Jefferies opened the first by drawing a walk against a staff that has allowed the fewest bases on balls in the league. Keith Miller followed with a single and Magadan hit the first pitch into right- center, scoring both runners. Magadan said he changed his usual pattern at the plate.

''I have a reputation for taking a lot of pitches,'' Magadan said. ''I like to get used to a pitcher. But with the runners on I decided to swing at the first pitch. He was trying to get ahead of me and laid a fastball tight in.''

Pittsburgh pulled within 2-1 in the third. Smiley singled and Wally Backman forced him. Cone then walked Jay Bell, Andy Van Slyke and Bonilla, forcing home a run. Barry Bonds ended the inning with a popup.

Pittsburgh has scored just two runs in Smiley's last five losses.

--- AROUND THE NL ---

Elsewhere in the National League, Chicago pounded Philadelphia 9-3, San Francisco blitzed Atlanta 8-3, Montreal topped St. Louis 6-2; Houston edged Cincinnati 3-1; and Los Angeles crushed San Diego 10-3.

Cubs 9, Phillies 3

At Chicago, Andre Dawson ignited a six-run Chicago first with a two- run single and later added a solo homer to lead the Cubs. The first seven batters reached base safely against Phillies starter Jose DeJesus, 5-7. Chicago scored 10 runs in the second inning of an 11-6 victory Tuesday against Montreal. Greg Maddux, 13-13, allowed eight hits and one walk for the win. Ryne Sandberg hit his 34th homer of the year for the Cubs.

Giants 8, Braves 3

At San Francisco, Matt Williams hit a three-run homer and Gary Carter had three hits and two RBI to help the Giants extend their winning streak to five games. John Burkett, 12-7, scattered 10 hits over 7 2-3 innings to earn his first win since Aug. 11. Francisco Oliveras got four outs for his first major league save. Atlanta starter Charlie Leibrandt, 8-9, took the loss.

Expos 6, Cardinals 2

At Montreal, Delino DeShields drove in a career-high four runs to lift the Expos. Dennis ''Oil Can'' Boyd, 10-5, won his third game in a row, allowing five hits in seven innings. Bob Tewksbury, 10-6, was the loser. DeShields hit an RBI single, a two-run double and his fourth home run. Tim Raines had three hits and scored twice for the Expos.

Astros 3, Reds 1, 13 innings

At Cincinnati, rookie Mike Simms delivered his first major league hit - and RBI single - in the 13th inning to lift the Astros. With Eric Yelding on second, Simms lined a single to center to score Yelding and the Astros added another run on wild pitch by Tim Layana, 5-3. Juan Agosto, the Astros' fourth pitcher, 7-7, worked the final two innings for the victory.

Dodgers 10, Padres 3

At San Diego, pinch-hitter Kal Daniels hit a tie-breaking three-run double in the eighth, and Eddie Murray scored four runs and had three hits, including his 23rd homer of the year, to help the Dodgers remain in a tie for second place in the NL West. Tim Crews, 3-5, pitched 1-3 inning in relief of Jim Neidlinger, who allowed three runs and seven hits in 6 2-3 innings. Jay Howell pitched the final two innings for his 15th save. Atlee Hammaker, 4-8, took the loss.

(SEPT. 13) UPI - Around the world... around the clock... U-P-I brings you the latest news. .

Nearly 300 Americans who were airlifted out of Kuwait are to fly to North Carolina today. They arrived in London last night, along with other foreign hostages, including 68 Britons. The State Department in Washington says at least 286 Americans, mostly women and children, are in the group. .

The links between Iraq and its former enemy, Iran, apparently are strengthening. Iran's spiritual leader called for a holy war against U-S forces in the Persian Gulf, saying it's up to the Moslem nations in the region to deal with Iraq's occupation of Kuwait. The two nations earlier agreed to resume diplomatic ties.

Today is a big one for David Souter, the man President Bush nominated to succeed Justice William Brennan on the Supreme Court. Souter goes before the Senate Judiciary Committee for confirmation hearings that the White House hopes will go smoothly. He is almost certain to face tough questions about his views on abortion.

Budget negotiators are considering a possible new tax on luxury items in their bid to agree on a plan for cutting the huge federal deficit. White House and congressional negotiators meet again today at Andrews Air Force Base near Washington. The talks are expected to continue through tomorrow.

A new Michigan law restricting a minor's access to abortion is drawing fire from abortion rights activists. A Michigan State University law professor filed a suit challenging the measure on grounds that it violates the constitution. The new law, passed yesterday, denies abortions to girls under 18 without parental consent.

A New York state judge yesterday temporarily banned the sale of a book about the Mossad, Israel's intelligence agency. The temporary restraining order was requested by the Israeli government. It forbids sale of the book ''By Way of Deception: The Making and Unmaking of a Mossad Officer.'' It was written by a former agent, and includes embarrassing allegations.

The House wants the Japanese government to pay more of the cost of supporting the 50-thousand U-S troops now in Japan. Lawmakers voted 370- 53 yesterday to put Tokyo on notice that Washington will start withdrawing its troops unless things change. Japan now pays about two- point-four-BILLION dollars of the roughly seven-BILLION-dollar annual bill.

Cameras apparently are going to be allowed in U-S courtrooms, at least on a limited basis. The Judicial Conference of the United States voted yesterday to authorize a limited, three-year experiment allowing cameras in selected courtrooms for coverage of civil proceedings. The experiment starts July 1st, 1991.

Making his major league debut, the rookie walked eight of the 11 batters he faced in 1 1-3 innings Wednesday night, giving up three runs to help the Texas Rangers to a 5-4 victory over the New York Yankees.

''I kept missing the strike zone. I knew I would not get the calls from the umpires because I was all over the place,'' Adkins said. ''I thought I would cool off after the first inning (when he walked three) but then the wheels came off. I've just got to work on my mechanics. You've got to be a controlled pitcher to be effective in the major leagues.''

Texas took a 3-1 lead in the second when Adkins, 0-1, walked the final five batters he faced, allowing three runs without a base hit.

The Rangers drew a club-record 14 walks from five New York pitchers.

''I don't care how we score as long as we cross the plate,'' said Texas manager Bobby Valentine. ''I saw his (Adkins) minor league stats and I saw that he walks a lot of people.

Adkins walked 98 batters in 177 innings this season with Columbus (AAA) posting a 15-7 record and a 2.90 ERA.

Texas extended its lead to 5-2 in the fourth when, with two out, Rafael Palmeiro singled and scored on Ruben Sierra's double. Juan Gonzalez followed with a single up the middle, scoring Sierra.

Charlie Hough, 12-10, pitched 5 1-3 innings for the victory. Kenny Rogers, the fifth Rangers pitcher, recorded four outs to earn his 14th save.

Hough can commiserate with Adkins. He allowed 10 bases on balls, August 27 at California, to set the Rangers record.

The Yankees scored runs in the fifth and sixth on solo homers by Kevin Maas and Hensley Meulens. The homer was Maas' 17th of the season and the first of Muelens' major-league career.

--- AROUND THE AL ---

In other American League action, Oakland pounded Seattle 9-3, Boston pummeled Milwaukee 6-1, Baltimore edged Detroit 2-1, Cleveland routed Chicago 12-2, Kansas City downed Toronto 7-5, and California dropped Minnesota 8-6.

Athletics 9, Mariners 3

At Seattle, Terry Steinbach delivered a pinch-hit, two-run double to highlight a five-run sixth inning and lift Oakland. Scott Sanderson, pitching on two days rest, allowed six hits over six innings to run his record to 16-9. Seattle rookie Mike Gardiner, 0-1, making his first major league start, allowed eight runs in 5 1-3 innings.

Red Sox 6, Brewers 1

At Boston, Mike Boddicker, receiving his first runs of the season while pitching against Milwaukee, tossed a seven-hitter and Luis Rivera slapped a two-run single carrying Boston. Boddicker, 15-8, fanned three and didn't walk a batter en route to his fourth complete game. Boston broke through in the first with its first run of the season against Teddy Higuera, 10-7.

Orioles 2, Tigers 1

At Baltimore, Jeff McKnight hit his first major-league home run and Cal Ripken singled in a run in a two-run eighth inning leading Baltimore. Ben McDonald, 7-4, earned the victory after Tiger starter Jack Morris took a two-hitter into the eighth. Morris gave up both runs and dropped to 11-18.

McDonald allowed three hits, struck out seven and walked three. It was his second complete game.

Indians 12, White Sox 2

At Cleveland, Brook Jacoby went 4 for 4 and Alex Cole collected four hits, tripled twice and scored three runs to power Cleveland. Bud Black, 11-10, allowed eight hits and two runs in seven innings. He struck out a season-high eight and did not walk a batter. Melido Perez, 12-14, allowed five runs and nine hits in 5 1-3 innings for the loss.

Royals 7, Blue Jays 5

At Kansas City, Mo., Bo Jackson hit a three-run home run and drove in another run and George Brett collected four hits helping Kansas City snap a nine-game losing streak. The decision cost the Blue Jays a game in the standings as Boston defeated Milwaukee 6-1 to move its AL East lead back to four games.

Tom Gordon, 11-10, carried a two-hitter into the seventh inning but was touched for four runs in the inning and had to be relieved by Steve Crawford.

Angels 8, Twins 6

At Anaheim, Calif., Devon White delivered a solo homer and two-run single to lift California. Rookie Joe Grahe, 2-3, earned the victory despite surrendering five runs on nine hits in his six innings. Willie Fraser pitched the final three innings for his third save. Twins' reliever Tim Drummond, 3-5, gave up four runs on five hits in his 1 2-3 innings to get the loss.

TOKYO (SEPT. 13) UPI - Share prices on the Tokyo stock market eased Thursday in mixed trading.

The bellwether Nikkei average of 225 selected stocks rose in the morning but fell back under arbitrage selling to close down 141.06 points at 25,075.08.

The Nikkei had surged 611.48 points the day before.

The broader Tokyo Stock Price Index, which jumped 33.02 points Wednesday, barely moved, closing with a loss of 1.04 points at 1,912.68.

Volume continued to climb as an estimated 550 million shares changed hands, up marginally from 546.45 million the day before.

The market faced a tug-of-war through much of the day as investment trust buying wrestled with arbitrage selling to determine the market's direction, brokers said.

Despite the loss, analysts were unsure which way the market is poised to go. They pointed out that the much smaller loss in the TOPIX index of all major shares indicated that arbitrage - which centers on the Nikkei - was the major impetus for selling.

''The market was simply hovering,'' said analyst Tomoko Shimizu of Kokusai Securities Co.

Buyers went after so-called incentive-backed issues - those which promise gratis dividends or high earnings.

Selling hit some larger-capital stocks and banking shares lost widely.

MANILA (SEPT. 13) UPI - Communist guerrillas Thursday proposed a national dialogue involving all political forces to discuss the future of U.S. military bases, the debt crisis and reforms in the troubled armed forces.

''Its a positive development,'' said President Corazon Aquino's deputy press secretary Horacio Paredes. ''They want to talk and I think it will be considered seriously by the government.''

Meanwhile, Aquino said Thursday she has taken measures to mitigate the imminent increase in cost of petroleum products in the wake of the Persian Gulf crisis. She also said she has enough powers to deal with expected protests ''without invoking martial law.''

The latest rebel proposal was contained in a statement sent to news agencies a day after Aquino suspended military operations against the guerrillas in Manila and areas devastated by the July 16 earthquake as a step toward the resumption of peace talks.

''We wish to go beyond two-way talks between Aquino and us,'' said the statement by the National Democratic Front, an umbrella organization for 14 leftist groups.

''The nation's problems are so serious and so basic that they are beyond the two parties to fully resolve,'' it said.

''We propose a national dialogue that will involve all political forces, whether above ground or underground,'' said the statement. It said it could include opposition parties, businessmen, Moslem separatists and rebel soldiers who have tried six times to oust Aquino.

''The agenda should be the fundamental problems plaguing the country today - U.S. military bases and national sovereignty, the implementation of genuine land reform and national industrialization, the financial crisis and foreign debt and aid and the reform of the AFP (Armed Forces of the Philippines),'' it said.

''Within this framework, we are open to a cease-fire,'' said the Front, which represented the communist New Peoples Army in peace talks that broke down in February 1987 over rebel demands for power-sharing.

The Philippines hosts six strategic U.S. facilities, including the sprawling Clark Air Base and Subic Bay Naval Complex. Talks on the renewal of U.S. basing rights were expected to resume on Monday.

All off-base leave and non-essential travel have been indefinitely suspended for some 41,000 servicemen stationed at the facilities following threats from the NPA, which has vowed to kill Americans until Washington withdraws its forces.

At least 10 Americans have been killed since October 1987 in attacks blamed on the 19,000-member NPA, which has been seeking the establishment of a Marxist state in the Philippines for 21 years .

Mutinous soldiers were not covered by Aquino's cease-fire directive because they have allegedly resumed hostilities against the government. The rebel soldiers have been blamed for a string of several dozen bombings in the capital.

In other developments, the military said suspected NPA assassins gunned down a constabulary sergeant outside Manila on Wednesday. A bystander was wounded.

(SEPT. 13) UPI - Summer refused to end in the West and Northeast Thursday as hot weather prompted a fight in Colorado among weather forecasters competing for the highest temperature while dense fog covered the Midwest.

Strong thunderstorms hit central and eastern Upper Michigan, and extended into Lake Superior, dumping heavy rain near Marquette and over Grand Island. A special marine warning was in effect for the area.

Showers also hit western North Carolina, where a thunderstorm with heavy rain hit Statesville, and Georgia, where low level flooding was reported as a large area of slow moving thunderstorms moved across the northwestern part of the state.

It was so hot in Colorado the National Weather Service said fighting broke out Wednesday among reporting stations for the highest temperatures. The contest was won by the town of Rifle with 98 degrees.

Except for the Oregon and Washington coasts, warm and hot weather prevailed Thursday in most of the West. Temperatures generally were expected to cool down to normal as the weekend approached.

Thick fog that cut visibility to near zero in some areas covered much of Ohio, northern Kentucky, Indiana and Lower Michigan. Visibility at Michigan's Flint Bishop airport dropped to half a mile, but reports of zero visibility were common across the region.

Summer-like temperatures and humidity persisted around New York City and Boston early Thursday, while thundershowers threatened and patchy fog was reported in western portions of New York state.

In western Pennsylvania, clouds moved in and threatened a slight chance of rain by later Thursday.

A weak high pressure system that has been stalled over the South moved slowly eastward, but humid weather broken by scattered thundershowers remained.

ATLANTA (SEPT. 13) UPI - Delta Air Lines said it will raise all fares 4.2 percent on Oct. 1, bringing the total increase in ticket prices to 9.5 percent since Aug. 30.

Delta is the second major airline to announce another fare increase this month to offset fuel costs that have escalated sharply in the Persian Gulf crisis.

Pan American World Airways has said it will raise fares 4.4 percent next Tuesday. Other major carriers, American, United, Eastern, Northwest and TWA, said they were considering fare increases.

Delta, which is based in Atlanta, said Wednesday its fuel costs rose 33 1/2 cents a gallon since July 31, which would amount to an annual cost increase of $670 million.

Analysts said the fuel-price increase will cut deeply into airline earnings this year, changing what would have been a profitable year for the industry into a loss.

BEIJING (SEPT. 13) UPI - China Thursday denounced as ''slander'' an Amnesty International report that 1,100 Chinese had been sentenced to death in a sweeping year-old crackdown, and again accused the human rights group of meddling in China's internal affairs.

Amnesty International's latest report said a roundup of criminal suspects and the exceptionally large number of executions comprised the most severe nationwide crackdown since 1983.

The latest crackdown began in the wake of China's violent suppression of nationwide pro-democracy protests.

China's Foreign Ministry normally rebuffs questions about domestic affairs,but typically prepares harsh responses to the London organization's accusations of human rights abuses, and the response delivered Thursday was no exception.

''On the question of human rights, there are always differing interpretations '' ministry spokeswoman Li Jinhua said at a weekly news briefing.

''Some organizations like Amnesty International have always tried to interfere in China's internal affairs on the human rights count. Their slandering and attacking of China is totally groundless,'' she said.

Li refused to comment on group's the specific charges.

The Amnesty report said 1,100 Chinese are known to have been sentenced to death in the last year and more than 500 have been executed this year alone.

The group expressed concern about a ''dramatic increase'' in death sentences ''because China's trial system falls far below international standards.''

''Those executed are among the 1,100 people we know have been sentenced to death in the past 12 months,'' Amnesty said. ''And while that number is high, it is only the tip of the iceberg.''

Among those receiving capital sentences were Chinese convicted of ''counterrevolutionary'' religious activities and of violence connected to last year's crushed pro-reform movement.

Most of the death sentences appear to have been meted out to people convicted of crimes of violence rather than of politics.

Many Chinese news accounts of the anti-crime crackdown have attributed it to a government desire to ''make China safe'' for this month's Beijing Asian Games.

Executions in China usually are carried out immediately upon conviction, typically by means of a pistol or rifle shot to the base of the neck.

DHAHRAN, Saudi Arabia (SEPT. 13) UPI - Gen. Colin Powell, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, planned Thursday to tour U.S. military positions in eastern Saudi Arabia to assess the American forces.

Officials said America's highest-ranking serviceman would give a news conference later in the day, but security rules prevented them from revealing exact details of his itinerary.

Powell was to review American troops who were moved into Saudi Arabia following the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait Aug. 2 and was scheduled on Friday to visit a U.S. naval vessel in the Persian Gulf before departing from the area.

Air Force Chief of Staff Michael Dugan has spent the last two days touring American-operated air facilities in the kingdom.

NEW YORK (SEPT. 13) UPI - The publisher of a book about the Mossad, Israel's intelligence agency, said a temporary ban on its sale is an unprecedented act of censorship by a foreign government.

State Supreme Court Justice Michael Dontzin on Wednesday ordered St. Martin's Press to stop both publication and distribution of the book, ''By Way of Deception: The Making and Unmaking of a Mossad Officer,'' by ex-agent Victor Ostrovsky and a Canadian journalist Claire Hoy.

Thomas McCormack, chief executive officer of St. Martin's, said he believed the judge's action ''marked the first time an American publisher or any media has been effectively muzzled by a foreign government.''

''We're distressed and angry that a foreign nation's attempt to enlist the support of an American court in banning a book has so far met with success,'' he said.

McCormack said he hoped to have the decision reversed by the Appellate Division of New York State Supreme Court on Thursday, or at the latest, in a state Supreme Court hearing on Friday.

''The revelations in 'By Way of Deception' are astonishing and should be made public,'' McCormack said. ''They are profoundly embarrassing to the Israeli leadership. It is therefore not surprising that the Israeli government should want this book suppressed, but is surprising that an American court would assist it.''

The ruling on the 300-page book by Ostrovsky, a Canadian native who moved to Israel at age 2 and who was a Mossad agent from 1984 to 1986, came just one week after the Israeli government won a similar injunction from a court in Ontario, Canada.

Meanwhile, Ostrovsky's publisher said his client, who lives in Canada with his wife and two children, has gone into hiding after receiving a threatening visit from Israeli agents. Ostrovsky said he was offered money to stop publication of his book and now fears the spy agency may try to kill him.

The New York Times Thursday said it had reached Ostrovsky through the Canadian publisher, Stoddart Publishing Co., and that the author said he was ''sleeping in a different place every night'' after the visit by two former Mossad bosses.

The book says the Mossad knew in advance of the Oct. 23, 1983, terrorist bombing of U.S. Marine barracks in Beirut, Lebanon, but did not warn Washington because it hoped the attack would ruin U.S.-Arab relations. The Beirut explosion killed 241 servicemen. Israeli government sources have denied the story.

''The general attitude about the Americans was: 'Hey, they wanted to stick their nose into this Lebanon thing, let them pay the price,''' it said.

The book also details a June 1981 Israeli air raid against an Iraqi nuclear research facility in Baghdad. Israel was said to believe the facility was to be the base of an Iraqi effort to develop nuclear weapons.

The New York restraining order was issued as about 18,000 copies of the book were en route to bookstores. An additional 30,000 books were being withheld because of the order. Selected reviewers received copies last week.

Senior Israeli sources Tuesday told the Jerusalem newspaper Maariv that attempts to prevent the publication of Ostrovsky's book were a mistake.

But the newspaper also quoted sources close to Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir as saying the attempts to stop the publication were taken not only because the book could damage the Mossad and state security, but also because it would set a serious precedent.

The 1971 Pentagon Papers case - when the government of the United States failed to stop publication of confidential government documents - produced a ruling that it must be demonstrated a book will result in ''direct, immediate and irreparable damage'' to the nation or its people if its publication is to be stopped.

(SEPT. 13) UPI - Stock prices on the Tokyo Stock Exchange closed mixed Thursday amid a volatile last trading session for the September futures and options contracts.

The bellwether Nikkei Average of 225 selected stocks, which surged 611.48 points Wednesday, slipped 141.06 points to 25,075.08 in arbitrage selling.

The broader-based Tokyo Stock Exchange Price Index, which jumped 33.02 points Wednesday, barely moved, closing with a loss of 1.04 points at 1,912.68.

Advances outnumbered declines 538 to 421, while 167 issues remained unchanged.

Elsewhere in Asia, stock prices on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange slipped in light, directionless trading with the Gulf crisis continuing to dampen action.

The Hang Seng Index, which gained 20.47 points Wednesday, shed 11.07 points to 3,093.93.

Among the narrower indexes, financials shed 8.55 points, utilities lost 9.53, industrials dropped 11.46, properties fell 18.27 points.

Volume remained light as an estimated 657 million shares changed hands, compared with 650 million shares Wednesday.

In Singapore, stocks dipped in moderate trading on the Singapore Stock Exchange in line with the drop in Tokyo as institutional investors stayed away amid the ongoing stalemate in the Middle East.

The key Straits Times Industrial Index, which gained 5.56 points Wednesday, fell 6.94 points to 1241.80. The broader-based All Singapore Index slipped 0.75 points to 350.42.

An estimated 51.6 million shares changed hands, compared with 65.3 million shares Wednesday.

In Australia, stocks closed lowqer in light trading on the Sydney Sharemarket amid some disappointing corporate earnings.

The All Ordinaries Index, which gained 13.2 points Wednesday, fell 17.8 points to 1,494.7. The Gold Index fell 3.1 points to 1,483.0.

An estimated 59.8 million shares changed hands, compared with 77.8 million shares Wednesday.

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (SEPT. 13) UPI - The International Monetary Fund is confident the Gulf crisis will not push the United States into a recession, IMF Senior Adviser Charles Gardner said Thursday.

''Previously, we were not anticipating any recession and even with the Gulf crisis we still do not think a U.S. recession is in the cards,'' Gardner said after releasing the IMF's annual report for the year ended April 30.

Gardner said that prior to the outbreak of the Gulf crisis, there was some hope of an improvement in the U.S. fiscal position.

''In 1987 and 1988, the U.S. in fact managed to reduce its government deficit by a significant two percentage points of gross national product. But now more needs to be done,'' he said.

Gardner said on the basis of the IMF's preliminary calculations based on oil prices at $25 a barrel, inflation and interest rates in the industrial countries were likely to rise by about half a percentage point each in 1990 and 1991.

The hike in oil prices was expected to place additional pressure on the IMF's projection - made before the outbreak of the crisis - of a 4.5 percent inflation rate for the world economy in 1990 and in 1991.

''However, it is very difficult to gauge the actual situation as we do not know how high the oil prices will wind up and for how long they will stay there,'' Gardner said.

''But if the Gulf situation really persists and is prolonged, the inflationary rate would not only be higher but would tend to reduce growth levels globally, even below the figures we have projected.''

He said the positive effect of higher oil prices on oil-exporting debtor developing countries far outweighed the negative impact the crisis would have on oil-importing debtor developing countries.

''Contrary to what was imagined, the impact on debtor developing countries, as a group, could still be positive,'' Gardner said.

He said debtor developing countries which are heavily dependent on oil imports would be assisted in meeting their oil-import bills by the IMF and others.

On the outlook for the world economy over the next two years, Gardner said, ''The scenario will be a slowing economy but accompanied by a stabilizing rate of growth in inflation.''

He said developing countries as a group were expected to experience a strong resumption of growth from 1991 after slower growth as a result of a tightening of their economies and monetary and budgetary policies over the past few years.

''They can depend on growth speeding up in the years ahead,'' Gardner said.

Regarding world trade, Gardner said the IMF had predicted growth in terms of volume would also decline somewwat this year after softening to 7.5 percent in 1989 from 9 percent in 1988.

CUSTER, SD (SEPT. 13) UPI - Firefighters from several volunteer departments and state and federal agencies Thursday battled a fast-moving blaze that has engulfed an estimated 5,000 acres of land in the Black Hills.

Officials Wednesday night evacuated a number of homes in the Bluebell and Mt. Coolidge area as winds and high temperatures fueled the fire, said Charlene Heilman, spokeswoman for the Custer County Sheriff's office. Officials also evacuated the Bluebell Lodge and a youth forestry camp, she said.

''It's going real fast and far,'' Heilman said. ''One firefighter estimated it has covered 5,000 acres. We've had such a lush and beautiful summer, the undergrowth is thicker than usual. But now that it's becoming fall, the brush is drying out,'' she said.

So far, the blaze has not claimed any structures, she said. It was not known exactly how many families were evacuated since many of the homes were summer residences and may not have been occupied, Heilman said.

''About 20 of the families have gone to the Custer Armory, but a lot have gone to stay with family and friends,'' she said.

The fire Wednesday night jumped state Route 87 and spread into Custer State Park, Heilman said.

Fire officials, concerned about a possible explosion, pumped out a 3, 000 gallons of gasoline from a tank at the Bluebell Lodge, she said.

Todd Phillipe, National Forest Service Public Service information director, said the fire is burning ''really hot'' because of high temperatures, low humidity and winds of 10 to 15 mph.

The fire, believed to be ''human caused,'' was first reported at about 10:30 a.m. Wednesday on National Forest Service land near the Battle Mountain Lookout station, Phillipe said.

Two air tankers from Denver were dispatched to help fight the fire, which is being handled by fire trucks, bulldozers, helicopters and a crew of about 60 firefighters. A third tanker is being sent but it was not known when it would be on the scene to help battle the fire.

Crews fighting the blaze include firefighters from Custer, Pringle and Hot Springs and crews from the South Dakota National Guard, Wind Cave National Park, Custer State Park, the National Forest Service, and the state Division of Forestry.

TOKYO (SEPT. 13) UPI - Survivors of the U.S. atomic bomb attack on Hiroshima said Thursday they have written a protest letter to the pilot of the plane that dropped the device who was reported to have toured the United States selling A-bomb memorabilia.

The Japan Confederation of A- and H-bomb Sufferers Organizations sent a letter to Paul Tibbets, pilot of the Enola Gay, asking him to stop trying to make a profit from their tragedy that killed ''innocent people like mere worms in the hellish configuration.''

''A news report says that you have started a tour of booty, hawking 'A-bomb goods,''' said the letter dated Sept. 7. ''In the name of humanity, and along with all the people who love peace, we strongly condemn this anti-human and immoral behavior.''

''We want to ask you, Mr. Paul Tibbits, how do you see the fact that some 65 percent of the people who died in agony from the bombing ... were children, women and the elderly,'' said the letter, signed by Satoru Konishi, the director of the group's international commission and himself a victim of the Hiroshima bombing.

The group also sent Tibbets two volumes of eyewitness accounts of the Aug. 6, 1945, bombing that killed 140,000 people.

The Asahi Shimbun, a major Japanese newspaper, published a story in August, saying Tibbets was touring the United States selling A-bomb memorabilia. The group wrote Tibbets in response to the news story, a spokeswoman said.

The Japan Confederation of A- and H-bomb Sufferers Organizations has approximately 200,000 members. They estimate there are 360,000 people suffering from the aftereffects of the bombings of Hiroshima and Nagasaki still living in Japan.

''You and President Harry Truman killed those innocent people like mere worms in the hellish conflagration,'' the letter said. ''An another hundreds of thousands who barely escaped the immediate death, had to suffer from acute symptoms and delayed effects of the A-bomb radiation.

''Have you ever turned your ears to the appeal from the Hibakusha (bomb victims),'' the letter asked.

BANGKOK, THAILAND (SEPT. 13) UPI - Cambodian leaders, who this week reached a breakthrough agreement on a peace plan, tentatively agreed Thursday to hold the first meeting of a council joining the four battling factions on Monday in Bangkok, officials said.

Cambodian Prime Minister Hun Sen said the Supreme National Council should name Cambodia's new joint delegation to the United Nations, appoint a Council chairman, consider a moratorium on foreign arms aid and discuss a voluntary cease-fire.

All four questions may be difficult for the opposing groups to settle, but there were no signs of pulling back from the agreement reached in Jakarta, Indonsia on Monday to form the Council and follow a U.N. peace plan to end the 11-year-old conflict.

Thai foreign ministry officials said representatives of the three resistance factions met Kasem Samosorn Kasemsi, the permanent secretary of the ministry, to discuss opening the first Council meeting in Bangkok.

''From the attitude of the representatives, it looks like it will probably go ahead on Monday, but they have to officially report to their superiors before the date and venue can be confirmed,'' said one official.

Thai Prime Minister Chatichai Choonhavan told reporters that since the Council was Cambodian, it should meet at the former Cambodian embassy.

Work crews began cleaning out the embassy building that has rarely been used since the U.S.-backed Cambodian government fell to the hard- line communist Khmer Rouge in 1975. The Khmer Rouge regime, which has been accused of killing at least 1 million Cambodians, was ousted by a 1978 Vietnamese invasion that installed the current Cambodian government of Hun Sen.

Hun Sen proposed the date and venue for the meeting in discussions with Chatichai Wednesday night.

He left for home Thursday, but said he and the other five government representatives on the 12-man Council were ready to return to Bangkok by Monday.

Continuing an analogy of getting all four factions aboard the same boat headed towards a peace settlement, he said ''the most important thing is to get the boat to go. Now we have the key to start the engine, but we don't know whether it will start or not.''

Hun Sen said without a formal peace agreement, any cease-fire would have to be based on self-restraint. He said assistance from the five permanent members of the U.N. Security Council, who worked out the U.N. peace plan, would be invaluable for a workable cease-fire.

The leader of the Vietnamese-installed government reacted coolly when asked whether he would agree to having resistance leader Prince Norodom Sihanouk as chairman of the Supreme National Council.

''Right now we respect his decision to take a rest. We do not want to bother him,'' he said.

Sihanouk refused to attend the Jakarta meeting and then announced he was taking a six-month leave of absence from all duties because of health problems.

Hun Sen met with senior diplomats from France and the Soviet Union, but Chinese, British and U.S. diplomats turned down his invitations for meetings.

A U.S. embassy spokesman said Ambassador Daniel O'Donohue had declined the invitation, but noted the U.S. Ambassador to Indonesia John Monjo had met Hun Sen in Jakarta and the charge d' affairs at the U.S. embassy in Laos had meetings with Cambodian embassy officials earlier this month.

The meetings were the first political meetings between U.S. officials and officials of the government that was installed by Vietnam.

China, which is the main backer of the Khmer Rouge resistance faction, announced Wednesday it was prepared to meet with Hun Sen's government for the first time, but gave no further details.

Strong pressure from China and the Soviet Union, which supplies the Hun Sen government, has been credited with bringing the opposing parties closer together after more than 11 years of bitter conflict.

NEW DELHI, INDIA (SEPT. 13) UPI - An unemployed youth broke into the cockpit of an Indian Airlines Boeing 737 passenger plane Thursday and made an abortive attempt to hijack the aircraft to Sri Lanka, the Press Trust of India news agency said.

The incident occurred moments after a state-owned Indian Airlines plane took off from Coimbatore, about 1,250 miles south of New Delhi, bound for the southern Indian city of Bangalore, the news agency said.

A passenger, later identified as T. Mahalingam, broke into the cockpit and ordered the pilot to fly to Colombo, the capital of the nearby Indian Ocean island nation of Sri Lanka, the agency said.

The Press Trust said that Mahalingam, an unemployed youth, displayed a round object which he claimed was a hand grenade, and threatened to blow up the plane if the pilot failed to do as he was told. The object later turned out to be a bar of soap, the news agency said.

The pilot convinced the hijacker the plane was enroute to Colombo, but landed on schedule at Bangalore, where the youth was arrested by police, the Press Trust said.

CHICAGO (SEPT. 13) UPI - The Italian grain trading firm that was the target of an emergency order in the July 1989 soybean futures contract at the Chicago Board of Trade has filed suit against the exchange.

Ferruzzi Finanziaria and its Central Soya unit, in a petition filed Wednesday, accused former CBOT Chairman Karsten Mahlmann and other officials of ''manipulating soybean prices downward ... to avoid losses to their firms,'' the Chicago Sun-Times reported Thursday.

Mahlmann had a conflict of interest because he presided over a trading firm that ''was in a precarious financial condition and might have failed had the order not been issued,'' the lawsuit said.

Mahlmann resigned his positions as chairman of the Stotler Group and the CBOT on the same day.

The petition seeks at least $30 million in damages and said Ferruzi faces disciplinary action by the exchange based on its trading of soybean futures contracts in the summer of 1989.

The CBOT board issued an emergency order requiring liquidation of large positions in July 1989 soybean futures, fearing that Ferruzzi was trying to corner the market.

CBOT counsel Scott Early told the newspaper there is no basis for the lawsuit.

''The litigation is the last act of a desperate company,'' he said. ''We will resist it fully. We're not going to let these kind of spurious lawsuits interfere with our obligation to protect our markets.''

In a separate petition, Ferruzzi asked the court to block a disciplinary hearing that exchange officials have scheduled for next week.

(SEPT. 13) UPI - General Colin Powell is touring U-S military positions in eastern Saudi Arabia today to get a first-hand look at American troop deployments in the region. Officials say Powell, the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, will hold a news conference later today. He's to visit a U-S naval vessel in the Persian Gulf tomorrow. .

Iran's spiritual leader wants Moslems to join in a holy war to force U-S troops out of the Persian Gulf. Ayatollah Ali Khamenei issued the call yesterday, undercutting Iran's earlier condemnation of Iraq's annexation of Kuwait. Khamenei says any Moslem killed in the holy war against Americans will be considered a martyr.

China accuses the human rights group Amnesty International of meddling in its internal affairs. The charge follows Amnesty's latest report saying there's been a ''dramatic increase'' in death sentences in China. Amnesty says 11-hundred people were given death sentences in the past year, and more than 500 have been executed.

Salvadoran peace talks resume today in Costa Rica. El Salvador's President Alfredo Cristiani says the government will present the same proposals for military reforms that were rejected by the rebels in two previous rounds of talks. It was failure to agree on demilitarization that stalled the previous talks.

A U-S military team goes to Hanoi today to pick up suspected remains of 20 Americans missing in action in Vietnam. The remains will be brought to a U-S identification lab in Hawaii for examination in hopes of making individual identifications. 16-hundred-77 Americans are still listed as missing in Vietnam.

PHILADELPHIA (SEPT. 13) UPI - Mayor Wilson Goode said Wednesday the city would delay its sale of $375 million in short-term loan notes for at least a week.

The notes were due to go on sale Wednesday but things went awry when a Swiss bank withdrew its backing for $50 million of the notes. Swiss Bank Corp. was the only outside backer of the issue.

Goode, in an evening news conference, said more time was needed to attract interest in the bond sale.

The $375 million is needed to cover a cash shortage until property and business tax revenues begin coming in next year.

Without the cash from the notes, the city may run out of operating cash this fall, according to city officials and financial experts.

The city had been trying unsuccessfully to get local bank backing for the notes. While the Swiss bank had agreed to guarantee $50 million worth of the notes, the city was forced to serve as sole backer for the remaining $325 million.

Swiss Bank Corp. officials said Wednesday they opted out of the deal when the city failed to meet certain conditions stipulated in the agreement. Those conditions were not disclosed.

The notes, if issued, must be paid off on May 31. In the face of the city's $206 million budget deficit projected for this year, many investors may be concerned over whether the notes will be paid off.

Goode said he has ordered the city's finance department to set aside city funds in secured accounts to cover long-term-debt payments should the loan-note sale not go off.

Goode said he has also ordered the finance department to make a list of extraordinary budget measures that could be instituted to keep the city from running out of cash.

CHICAGO (SEPT. 13) UPI - GLOBEX, the automated after-hours trading system for futures and options, is expected to be in operation during the first quarter of 1991, officials said Thursday.

The Chicago Mercantile Exchange, Chicago Board of Trade and Reuters Holdings

PLC are developing GLOBEX as a joint venture.

Officials said they are pleased with the results of testing of the system's functions and capacity.

''However, this testing is taking longer than anticipated and it has also been necessary to make systems modifications in support of the exchanges' combined volume and instruments,'' according to a news release.

Subject to completion of negotiations and the subsequent approval by the CBOT Board of Directors and membership, GLOBEX should be launched early next year.

Original plans were to implement the system this fall.

WASHINGTON (SEPT. 13) UPI - Each year, out of a defense budget of $300 billion, the United States spends as much as $170 billion to defend Europe, Japan, Korea and other allies.

That drain on the treasury - a legacy of the Cold War - has grated on a Congress struggling with rising deficits, trade imbalances and a national debt that now tops $3.16 trillion.

And the fact that Germany and Japan - beneficiaries of U.S. defense spending over the years - have done relatively little to help bear the cost of massive military response to the Persian Gulf crisis has added fuel to the debate during consideration of the $283 billion 1991 defense authorization bill.

Wednesday, the House sent a strong message of dissatisfaction to Japan, voting 370-53 to put Tokyo on notice that if it does not start covering more of the roughly $7 billion it costs to support the 50,000 U.S. troops in Japan, the United States will start withdrawing the protective shield. Japan now pays about $2.4 billion of the $7 billion bill.

It was one of several votes on the general topic. Members rejected, 265-157, a move to cap the number of troops in South Korea at 30,000, requiring a cut of an additional 6,000 above the 7,000 now due to be pulled out over three years.

Another vote saw a 249-174 endorsement of the bill's demand that the 401st Tactical Air Wing of 72 F-16s, now being forced out of Spain, come back to the United States. The bill orders the Pentagon to drop plans for a new base for the planes at Cretone, Italy, on the southern flank of the NATO alliance. It also would require ''dual-basing,'' or rotating troops through Europe on short tours, rather than permanently basing units there.

The House was also refighting the battle of how much money to give to the Strategic Defense Initiative. The bill provides $2.9 billion of the $4.6 billion the administration sought for ''Star Wars'' work, and the Senate's version of the bill provides $3.57 billion.

The issue was put over for a decision until Thursday. The amendment likely to prevail - over ones to slash the program back to $1.5 billion or to boost spending to the Senate level - would cut it back to $2.3 billion. That would give the House leverage in negotiations with the Senate.

Also discussed briefly was earmarking $200 million of the bill for the start of a program to help in the economic conversion of U.S. defense industries and defense workers as the military budget declines.

For any number of reasons, White House press secretary Marlin Fitzwater said the bill would be veto material for President Bush because of its proposed cuts in his requests for weapons, troops and flexibility in restructuring U.S. defenses.

Of the vote to pull American troops out of Japan, Fitzwater said, ''We don't think that's an appropriate way to conduct foreign policy or gauge our relationship with Japan.''

During the burden-sharing debate, Rep. Patricia Schroeder, D-Colo., noted that on the issue of financing gulf operations, Germany ''told us to take a walk: No troops, no ships, no money. Nein.''

Rep. David Bonior, D-Mich., author of the amendment to cut troop levels in Japan if it does not start paying the bill for the U.S. forces there, noted that Japan relies heavily on Persian Gulf oil, but has made only a small contribution to the operation - $1 billion, with conditions.

He told the House that ''collective defense means collective responsibility. ... It is a clear message that Japan must pay its share of the burden. ... We're tired of carrying the Japanese economy on the backs of American workers.''

''We should not be subsidizing our toughest trading partner,'' said Bonior, calling his amendment ''a wake up call, a real wake up call, for the new world order.''

Rep. David Martin, R-N.Y., countered Bonior, saying, ''Those 50,000 troops are there for our defense and not the defense of Japan. ... However you feel about the Japanese and their lack of contribution today, please don't make a decision that is going to hurt our national security.''

BANGKOK, THAILAND (SEPT. 13) UPI - A giant U.S. Air Force C-5 Galaxy transport plane missed a Qantas airliner with 382 people aboard by only 50 feet in a near collision over southern Thailand, the Australian airline said Thursday.

''Qantas has launched a full investigation into a near miss between one of its (Boeing) 747-400s and a United States Air Force C-5 Galaxy over Thailand on Tuesday,'' said the statement issued by the Qantas office in Bangkok.

A spokesman for the U.S. embassy said he had no information about the incident.

The Qantas statement said the C-5, the largest aircraft used by the U.S. Air Force, was heading in a northerly direction when it passed directly above the Qantas aircraft, which was heading east.

The statement said pilots of the two aircraft estimated they missed each other by only 50 feet. The incident occurred at 4:31 p.m. above Phuket, about 450 miles south of Bangkok, it said.

The Qantas plane, flight Qf10 from London to Singapore, was carrying 360 passengers and 22 crew members, it said.

In Washington, Air Force Capt. George Assilia said, ''Apparently an Air Force C-5 and a Qantas Airways 747, both traveling at 37,000 feet and in control on Bangkok (Thailand) center, had a near collision or came too close. I don't have specifics.''

''Both planes continued on their routes and there was no evasive action and no injuries,'' Assilia said, adding his information was based on a report from Qantas airline. He also said he did not know destination of the C-5.

There was speculation the American plane may have been involved in the operation to bring troops and supplies to U.S. forces in the Persian Gulf. Earlier this month, Thai officials said the United States had asked permission for refueling in Thailand for flights to the gulf area.

The Qantas statement indicated the near collision may have resulted from an error in the timing of the flights. It said Thailand Air Traffic Control said the Qantas flight was expected over Phuket at 4:31 p.m., while the Air Force plane was expected in the same position at 4:13 p.m.

A Qantas official in Bangkok said both planes were flying at about 37,000 feet.

The Qantas statement quoted Ted Radford, the airline's deputy chief executive, as saying he already dispatched a Qantas safety inspector to Thailand investigate the incident.

''We are treating this near miss with the utmost concern,'' he said.

Radford said the airline was working with the Australian Bureau of Air Safety Investigation ''to find out what happened and how we might prevent a recurrence.''

Phuket air traffic control was involved in another near collision in 1987, when a Thai domestic airliner maneuvered to avoid a Dragonair plane from Hongkong. The planes avoided colliding, but the Thai aircraft stalled and plunged into the sea, killing all 83 people aboard.

TOKYO (SEPT. 13) UPI - The Persian Gulf crisis has torn down the foreign-policy facade that Japan so carefully erected at the Houston summit in July, reviving doubts whether the nation can play a full role as a member of the Western alliance.

In Houston, Japan boldly proclaimed an independent line on China and resisted German efforts at a consensus on aiding the Soviet Union.

Weeks later, Japan trailed its allies in slapping sanctions on Iraq for invading Kuwait and then bogged down over what to do next.

Snarled as much by bureaucratic and political inertia as by its anti- military constitution, Japan appears to have reverted to its familiar policy of trying to find the minimum concession needed to satisfy its allies, especially the United States.

After nearly a month of wrangling over what contribution Japan might make to the U.S.-led multinational force in Saudi Arabia, Prime Minister Toshiki Kaifu announced in late August that Japan would send 100 medical personnel, some civilian transport and $1 billion for logistical support.

While the United States welcomed the statement as a ''first step,'' Kaifu said it was the maximum his nation could offer.

Two weeks later, with the U.S. Congress making angry noises, Japan reportedly has agreed to double the figure and has revived the idea of sending 1,000 or more non-combat troops to the gulf.

Foreign Ministry officials have expressed frustration at the apparent lack of appreciation in the West of Japan's contributions.

They noted with alarm that Americans responding to a Newsweek poll pointed to Japan as the country that had been least helpful in the crisis, trailing even the Soviet Union, which has not contributed any funds and still maintains military advisers in Iraq.

''If they could see how hard everyone is working, day and night in all the different ministries, they would not think so (little of Japan's effort),'' said Taizo Watanabe, the ministry's chief spokesman.

What he failed to say, though, was that much of that hard work was going into fighting with the other ministries.

The gulf crisis has highlighted how remarkably weak and fractured Japan's government really is.

When Kaifu joked and debated with the leaders of major Western countries in Houston, the Japanese media applauded him for filling the role of a strong, assertive leader that had so often been lacking in Japan.

But Kaifu then was acting on two issues on which the Japanese establishment had already reached consensus - normalizing relations with China and keeping the Soviets at bay.

When the gulf crisis broke, Kaifu simply lacked the power to line up his bureaucracy and party behind a policy.

Kaifu is extraordinarily weak in that he has no power base within the Liberal Democratic Party, over which he nominally presides. But even a comparatively strong figure like former Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone was unable to prod the government into a positive reaction in the gulf shipping crisis of 1987 during the Iran-Iraq war.

Despite Japan's 70 percent dependence on Middle East oil, Nakasone could not win approval for sending minesweepers to the gulf to protect oil tankers.

Key members of his Cabinet feared to do so would upset Japan's Middle East policy - to tilt toward the Arabs rather than Israel, but otherwise not take sides in a regional conflict that might threaten the flow of oil.

This has since come to be known in Japan as the ''clean hands'' policy among those who want the nation to maintain an independent role in the gulf crisis, one primarily concerned with the release of 141 Japanese hostages in Iraq.

The ''clean hands'' people tend to overlap with those who believe Japan's Constitution - which bars the use of force in international conflicts - disqualifies the nation from doing anything, even giving money, to help confront Iraq.

Notable among these is Takako Doi, the charismatic leader of the nation's largest opposition party, the Japan Socialists.

(SEPT. 13) UPI - The Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, General Colin Powell, is scheduled to tour U-S military positions in Saudi Arabia today, and a U-S naval vessel in the Persian Gulf. Officials say security rules prevent them from revealing Powell's exact location, but they say he will give a news conference later today. Powell is the nation's highest-ranking serviceman. .

Looking tired and drained, hundreds of foreigners arrived in London last night following a long journey that began in Kuwait. Among the foreigners were 300 Americans who are traveling to North Carolina this morning. One former hostage said she hid out in Kuwait for six weeks because she was too scared to venture outside. Another said conditions are getting worse in the occupied country and medical supplies are in short supply.

Witnesses in South Africa say authorities trying to end a utility payment boycott shutoff electricity to two black townships today. The cut-offs affect some 500-thousand people in two satellite cities east of Johannesburg that have been rocked by black-on-black fighting. NEW YORK (SEPT. 13) UPI - William Zeckendorf, one of the key players of the New York real estate market in the 1980s, has been hit by the crisis affecting the industry, the Wall Street Journal said Thursday.

''In New York City's tottering real estate market, apparently no one is immune '' the daily business newspaper said. ''Zeckendorf is being forced to restructure loans on two of his biggest projects.''

The developer has been meeting for three months with his lenders, Bank of Montreal and Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States, to restructure loans which are part of Zeckendorf's liabilities estimated at $5 billion, the newspaper said.

Tighter credit and declining New York real estate values negatively affected Zeckendorf's business, regarded among the most soundly established throughout the 1980s, the Journal said.

The developer currently is in Tokyo to negotiate with Japanese builder Tobishima Corp. the sale of a substantial chunk of his New York properties, the newspaper said, adding that the deal was far from completed.

Zeckendorf's problems, which reflect the crisis affecting the industry, involve a number of leveraged real estate acquisitions which are not generating enough revenues to cover interest payments on the financing loans.

The developer has failed to rent out since February more than 300,000 square feet of office space at the Zeckendorf Towers at Union Square, and there is vacant space totaling more than 200,000 square feet at another building at Times Square, with no potential tenants due to the sluggish business environment in New York, the Journal said.

NEW YORK (SEPT. 13) UPI - New York Post union and management respresentatives went into down-to-the-wire negotiations Thursday in an effort to agree on economic concessions that might save the nation's oldest daily.

Daylong talks began with a morning strategy meeting at the Sheraton Centre Hotel of the Allied Printing Trades Council, which represents nine unions with some 850 members employed by the Post.

Although council president George McDonald said there was little progress made in more than eight hours of negotiations Wednesday but he remained ''optimistic'' that an agreement could be reached by the Friday deadline for the Post's closure.

However, union negotiators appeared gloomy and Barry Lipton, president of the Newspaper Guild, said his union was unwilling to accept the huge salary cuts demanded by Post publisher Peter Kalikow.

''We're going to keep at it anyway,'' Lipton said, adding that the Post had effectively demanded a 46 percent cut in wages and benefits from the 352 newsroom, advertising and circulation personnel represented by the Guild.

Negotiators met separately Wednesday with some of the paper's nine unions. Kalikow has set a Friday 8 p.m. deadline for reaching agreement.

''I desperately want to keep it open,'' Kalikow said Thursday. But he said he was no longer willing to put more money into the paper, which he said had cost him more than $100 million since he acquired it in 1988.

It was necessary for the Post to negotiate individually with the unions rather than their umbrella organization, the Allied Printing Trades Council, because settlements with each union will vary according to the type of concessions the Post needs to ensure survival, McDonald said.

''The unions have been asked for $17 million in economic concessions and the Post has said to each union what concessions it needs,'' McDonald said. ''That's what we're negotiating now.''

Originally Kalikow, a real estate tycoon said to be worth more than $400 million, had set Saturday midnight as the deadline for concluding negotiations successfully. He announced hat he was moving the deadline up 28 hours on Tuesday after his representatives had met with the unions for only 90 minutes.

McDonald said union accountants had gone over the Post's books and reported Kalikow's claim that he would lose $27 million publishing the paper this year appeared valid. Kalikow bought the paper from Rupert Murdoch for $37.6 million.

At the time of the purchase, Kalikow got $22 million in concessions from employees, mostly through elimination of jobs and wage cuts.

Kalikow now wants the paper's 850 unionized employes to make more concessions that would give him at least $17 million in savings this year. In return, the unions are asking for a share in Post ownership, possibly 49 percent of the stock and several seats on the board.

The Post's circulation as of March was 504,720 as of March, down about 30,000 from last year. But the paper has seen its advertising linage drop 16 percent in the past year amid a weakening regional economy.

Management at The New York Times said Thursday it expects to seek to gain concessions as well to the extent they are related to adverse economic conditions that have affected both the Post and News, that newspaper reported Thursday.

MOSCOW (SEPT. 13) UPI - Secretary of State James Baker and Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze resumed talks Thursday after the American side said aircraft and troop levels may be dropped from a conventional forces agreement.

The two met Thursday afternoon on the last day of a three-day Baker visit to Moscow. On Wednesday he participated in the signing of the treaty on external aspects of German unification.

Both Baker and Shevardnadze said Wednesday they would take up issues of arms control and a conventional forces agreement in their talks before Baker left for Syria to discuss the Persian Gulf crisis.

Speaking at a news conference after the signing of the treaty on German unification, Baker said there are still ''substantial differences'' between the American and Soviet positions on aircraft limits in Europe.

''Our preference would be to find a way to bridge those differences so that we could have aircraft included in a conventional forces agreement,'' Baker said. ''But we would want a conventional forces agreement in any event.

''Much has already been agreed upon,'' Baker said. ''What has been agreed upon could serve as the basis for a rather substantial conventional forces agreement.''

Both Baker and Shevardnadze have said that an agreement on American and Soviet troop levels reached in Ottawa in February had been ''overtaken by events'' after the Soviet agreements to withdraw from East Germany and other former East Bloc countries.

Although American disarmament officials have generally referred in the past to the Ottawa agreement in the context of the CFE talks, Baker said it ''has never been intended that manpower generally be part of the initial conventional forces agreement.''

In Ottawa, the United States and Soviet Union agreed to a limit of 195,000 Soviet and 225,000 U.S. troops in Europe, but the Soviets have reportedly asked that in the aftermath of Soviet withdrawals U.S. troops now be limited to 70,000 to 80,000.

SEATTLE (SEPT. 13) UPI - The Boeing Co. used its ''financial and political clout'' to delay enforcement of environmental laws at its hazardous waste disposal site in Kent, Wash., a former Boeing waste management expert testified.

Boeing used its influence with congressmen, legislators and regulators, and knew nearly 20 years ago of serious pollution problems at the site, Peter M. Ricca testified Wednesday in a federal civil trial in Seattle.

Ricca took the witness stand on behalf of insurance companies that have refused to pay Boeing's $97.5 million bill for federally ordered cleanup projects at two disposal sites.

In some of the most damaging testimony against Boeing, Ricca said it was a ''given fact'' among company officials that pollution laws were being violated at Western Processing.

Ricca, who now works for Alyeska Pipeline Co. of Alaska, said he first became aware of pollution at Western Processing when he visited the 13-acre site in December 1970.

''What I found at the site was really quite dramatic and what one would call ghastly,'' Ricca said.

He said he first noticed contamination in the parking area and the more he walked through the site, ''the more ghastly it got.''

''It was sort of like watching a disaster happen in slow motion,'' he said, citing poor equipment, rusted storage drums and pits with damaged and

''extremely thin'' plastic lining.

Ricca headed a Boeing task force that documented the pollution problems.

His testimony bolstered the key argument of the insurers, who maintain that Boeing should not be compenstated because the company knew it was causing pollution when it dumped 24 million gallons of hazardous wastes into lined and unlined ponds at Western Porcessing and Queen City Farms, a second disposal site, between 1957 and 1967.

Boeing is suing the companies for the cleanup costs, saying the pollution was unexpected and accidental.

Ricca said he was assigned in late 1970, a time when Boeing was experiencing a severe economic downturn, to head an 11-member task force that was asked to explore the company's methods of disposing of its industrial wastes.

Western Processing, which was the only hazardous waste disposal site in the Northwest, faced increasing pressure from the state Department of Ecology to improve the site and was in danger of closing, he said.

Early in the project, Ricca said, the task force, which included two top Boeing pollution-control officials, was well aware that pollution violations were occurring at Western Processing.

''It was more of a dump than a processing operation,'' Ricca said, disputing Boeing's claim that company officials believed Western Processing was recycling much of its wastes.

In a report completed five months later, the task force concluded that to keep Western Processing in operation, Boeing would have to ''intercede'' with the state Department of Ecology to insure that Boeing would only have to pay for ''minimal improvemnts'' to keep the dump in business.

''It was general knowledge that The Boeing Company had financial and political clout,'' with state ecology officials, Ricca said.

Boeing had the power to help Western Processing stay in business, Ricca said.

In general, Ricca testified, Boeing officials could speak to congressmen and ''say we need more time'' to deal with environmental problems.

Boeing could also influence legislators and pollution control boards, he said.

The federal Environmental Protection Agency shut down Western Processing in 1983 after discovering dozens of toxic and cancer-causing chemicals pollution in the soil and groundwater.

Queen City Farms, which Boeing used from 1957 to 1974, was also closed by the EPA in the early 1980s.

Boeing, the biggest customer of the sites, and other companies were directed under a court-ordered consent decrees to pay cleanup costs.

COLOMBO, SRI LANKA (SEPT. 13) UPI - Soldiers backed by jets and helicopters crossed a narrow waterway in rubber boats Thursday and battled their way through rebel lines to relieve about 200 troops trapped inside a 300- year-old Dutch fort on the northern Jaffna peninsula.

Part way through the operation, a Sri Lankan jet went out of control while flying bombing sorties around the fort and crashed into Jaffna Lagoon, killing the pilot, officials said. The pilot reported a mechanical problem moments before the plane went down.

About 360 soldiers in rubber boats crossed the narrow waterway from Mandaithivu island shortly after daybreak despite heavy fire from Tamil guerrillas and fought their into the fort on the eastern edge of the northern port of Jaffna, defense officials said.

As the soldiers crossed the waterway, Sri Lankan pilots in Italian- made jets flew bombing sorties while helicopters mounted with 50-caliber machine guns strafed rebel positions to provide covering fire, military sources said.

The Liberation Tigers of Tamil Eelam fired mortars, rocket-propelled grenades and 81mm guns at the advancing troops, the sources said. At least 12 Sri Lankan soldiers were killed in the fighting and 40 were wounded, the Defense Ministry said.

The ministry said more than 100 Tamil rebels had been killed in the fighting. It was not possible to independently confirm the rebel casualties, and military sources have routinely reported rebel death tolls several times higher than their own.

The Tigers have been fighting since 1983 to create an independent Tamil homeland in the north and east of the country. But the situation in the teardrop-shaped Indian Ocean island had remained relatively quiet for a year before the latest outbreak of warfare in June.

The minority Tamils, who are mostly Hindu, claim a separate state is necessary because of years of oppression by the majority Sinhalese, who are predominantly Buddhist and control the Colombo government.

''Four companies of about 360 soldiers fought their way into the fort camp shortly after daybreak today,'' a military official said. ''The old Dutch fort camp and its environs are under our control, but there is still enemy resistance.''

''The assaulting battle groups have now successfully relieved the fort and are consolidating and clearing adjacent areas,'' a Defense Ministry statement said. ''Heavy resistance by the LTTE terrorists has been reported.''

The attack capped a massive military operation, dubbed ''Operation Fort,'' that was launched Aug. 22. Military officials initially believed they would seize control of the area around the 17th century Dutch fort within three days.

The offensive quickly bogged down because of stiff resistance and diversionary attacks by the Tigers, who control the northern Jaffna peninsula and are fighting for an independent Tamil homeland in the north and east of the country.

The military indefinitely suspended Operation Fort Sept. 2, but continued to build up their forces, clear mines and stage attacks in a bid to relieve the 200 troops trapped inside the star-shaped military complex.

The military formally resumed Operation Fort at daybreak Thursday, when authorities ordered an area curfew and warned residents to remain indoors by dropping leaflets and broadcasting announcements on state-run radio.

''With air cover, our troops entered the fort around 7:30 a.m. Now we have consolidated ourselves on the ground. We have begun mopping up operations. We have cleared several terrorist bunkers in the area,'' a defense official said.

A military source in Colombo said Ranjan Wijeratne, minister of state for defense, flew to Jaffna Thursday and had lunch with the soldiers and police trapped inside the fort since hostilities broke out in mid-June - when the Tigers launched simultaneous attacks on four army camps in the eastern part of the country.

Since then, more than 2,600 soldiers, rebels and civilians have been killed in the fighting.

NEW DELHI (SEPT. 13) UPI - The secretary-general of the 50-nation Commonwealth organization said Thursday he supports the ''sovereignty and integrity of Kuwait,'' but the association has not tried to involve itself in the gulf crisis.

''I am for the security of small countries, so I am for the sovereignty and integrity of Kuwait,'' Ameka Anyaoku, the Commonwealth secretary-general, told a news conference.

''There is as yet no Commonwealth program or initiative into the matter,'' he added. ''The Commonwealth has not decided on how the situation should be tackled.''

Anyaoku's comments came at the end of a three-day visit to New Delhi. The Commonwealth is an association of former British colonies whose member nations represent more than a quarter of the world's population. Queen Elizabeth is the symbolic head of the organization.

Anyaoku said the events unfolding in the gulf should be the concern of all members of the international community and the crisis should be resolved through the United Nations.

The secretary-general said he was concerned that the citizens of so many Commonwealth countries were suffering as a result of the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait and the subsequent U.N. embargo against the two countries.

Hundreds of thousands of people from the Commonwealth nations of India, Bangladesh, Pakistan and Sri Lanka were working in Kuwait and Iraq at the time of the invasion. Thousands have been forced to flee their homes and have become refugees throughout the Mideast.

Anyaoku met with several Indian leaders during his visit in New Delhi, including Prime Minister V.P. Singh, President Ramaswamy Venkataraman and Vice President Shankar Dayal Sharma.

CHICAGO (SEPT. 13) UPI - The September crop report and moderating weather conditions prompted widespread selling Thursday of grain and soybean futures.

Midmorning prices were lower to sharply lower on the Chicago Board of Trade, but had recovered from session lows.

Although the soybean estimate was virtually the same as last month, prices were lower on profit-taking and liquidation following moderate gains earlier this week.

Soybeans also were pressured by the weakness in soybean oil and meal.

Commercial and commission house selling of corn and wheat was based on higher production estimates from the Agriculture Department. Trading was active, and prices had rallied from the lows at midmorning.

Widespread cash protection across the Grain Belt contributed to the weakness across the floor.

The new five- and 10-day weather outlooks call for normal temperatures and rainfall throughout most of the major production areas.

The midmorning prices:

Corn Sep 2.33 3/4 off 5 1/2; Dec 2.27 1/4 off 7; Mar 2.36 3/4 off 6 1/2.

Soybeans Sep 6.25 1/4 off 3 1/4; Nov 6.37 off 4 1/4; Jan 6.51 off 3 3/4; Mar 6.64 1/4 off 3 3/4.

INDIANOLA, MS. (SEPT. 13) UPI - Some 1,200 production and maintenance workers walked off their jobs at the world's largest catfish processor, the first major labor dispute in nearly a decade in Mississippi's $875 million catfish industry.

Frank Dininger, international vice president of the Memphis, Tenn.- based United Food and Commercial Workers Union Local 1529, said the workers walked off their jobs at midnight Wednesday. He said picket lines went up at two plants owned by Delta Pride Inc. at Indianola.

''We don't have any idea how long we'll be here. We're prepared for the long haul,'' said Dininger.

Earlier this week, union members had voted 410-5 against the company's final three-year contract offer. Contract negotiations got under way Aug. 9.

Carolyn Ann Sledge, assistant marketing director at Delta Pride, said the plants reopened for business as usual Thursday. She said the main question right now is how many of the company's 1,670 producers would remain off their jobs. She said less than 40 percent of the workers are dues-paying union members.

''We don't have a good handle on how many showed up for work, but business is going on as usual,'' Sledge said.

Sledge said the company is prepared to turn to the Mississippi Employment Service office in Indianola to hire temporary workers to fill vacant jobs and reopen a closed plant in Sunflower, Miss., to maintain production volume.

Delta Pride Chief Executive Officer Larry Joiner said the company had bargained in good faith and made ''a fair and final offer.''

He said the company offered pay increases ranging from 35 cents to 90 cents per hour over three years. He said the 45-cent per hour minimum wage increase, which would have gone into effect April 1, was factored into the offer. The package would cost $2.5 million to $3 million, he said.

The highest paid workers make $4.30 an hour. The union had demanded raises totaling 19 1/2 cents per hour over three years.

Delta Pride has four plants in the Mississippi Delta, but plants at Belzoni and Sunflower are non-union.

Bill Allen, president of the Catfish Institute in Belzoni, said Delta Pride produces 30 to 40 percent of the industry's catfish. The company, which can process over 2 million pounds a week, has an annual payroll of $20 million.

Other area processors fear the industry may not ship enough catfish fillets if output falls at Delta Pride. As a more distant concern, processors fear erratic prices could develop at the wholesale level.

Restaurant chains and grocery wholesalers throughout the nation every month buy nearly 20 million pounds of catfish grown and processed into fillets by a 7,000-employee industry located chiefly in the Mississippi Delta.

ORACLE, AZ (SEPT. 13) UPI - Four men and four women ranging in age from 30 to 66 have been selected to spend two years isolated in a prototype of a space colony.

The environmental experiment, sponsored by the private firm Space Biospheres Ventures, will require the eight to live inside Biosphere 2, a 3-acre geodesic frame of glass and steel that is hermetically sealed from all but the light and energy of the environment of Earth. The names of the eight inhabitants were announced Wednesday. The experiment is to begin Dec. 5.

Margaret Augustine, president of Space Biospheres Venture, said the eight represent the ''international scope'' of the project which has been in the planning stages for five years.

''All of the crew members have held key staff and management positions on the project since its beginning,'' Augustine said. ''''Each ''

The eight will have to get their food and water from inside the self-contained structure. Electricity and information will be provided and only information will be allowed to flow out.

Named to participate in the experiment were Linda Leigh, 38, a botanist and University of Arizona graduate; Bernd Zabel, 41, an electrical engineer from Munich, West Germany and captain of the Biosphere 2 crew; Sally Silverstone, 35, a native of Walthamstow, England, and director of information systems within Biosphere 2; Jane Paynter, 28, a native of Surrey, England, who will manage the agricultural sector; Dr. Roy Walford, 66, a research gerontologist, nutritionist and professor of pathology at the UCLA School of Medicine; Abigail K. Alling, 31, a marine biologist from Maine who will direct the project's marine ecological systems; Taber Kyle MacCallum, 26, of Albuquerque, N.M., who is in charge of the analytical laboratory, and Mark Van Thillo, 29, of Wilrijk-Antwerp, Belgium, who has been in charge of construction quality control.

Sponsors say the structure not only is a prototype for an eventual habitat on Mars, but could be used for research for environmental problems on Earth.

The $30 million project is financed by Edward Bass, a Texas oil man. It has seven climatic regions, including a rain forest, a savannah, an ocean, fresh and saltwater marshes, a desert, an agricultural area and an apartment complex and laboratories.

PITTSBURGH (SEPT. 13) UPI - Major-league owners Thursday unanimously approved Robert Nederlander to succeed George Steinbrenner as general partner of the New York Yankees.

The vote by 26 owners from the American and National Leagues followed the recommendation of baseball's ownership committee. The vote came on the second and last day of the quarterly meeting.

''I am honored that major-league baseball has approved me and given me the opportunity to serve as the general partner of the New York Yankees baseball club,'' Nederlander said in a statement.

Nederlander, 57, was the choice of the Yankees' limited partners when they met in Cleveland Aug. 15 to name a candidate for the post. Nederlander is the president of the Nederlander Organization. He has been a limited partner in the Yankees since 1973.

The owners voted to transfer the Yankees' general partner's position from Steinbrenner to Nederlander. He needed nine votes of approval from AL owners and a majority from National League owners to be confirmed.

Steinbrenner was ordered by Commissioner Fay Vincent to give up control of the Yankees by Aug. 20.

American League owners also voted to extend the contract of league President Dr. Bobby Brown for two years.

Brown originally was elected to the AL presidency for a term of five years beginning January 1984 and he was given a two year extension, which was to expire Dec. 31, 1990.

The AL owners also indicated that the league's Board of Directors shortly would begin a search for a successor to Brown, with the design to name a president-elect by Jan. 1, 1992.

GENEVA (SEPT. 13) UPI - The League of Red Cross Societies said Thursday it has agreed to supply medicines to Iraq for ''the most vulnerable civilian groups'' and that ''every effort'' would be made to establish genuine need.

U.S. Assistant Secretary of State John Bolton said earlier that strict controls were necessary to prevent the possible use of medical products for chemical weapons or other military purposes.

The United States, meanwhile, pledged an additional $27 million Thursday in aid for some 76,000 displaced people in camps in Jordan fleeing Iraqi-occupied Kuwait.

League Secretary General Per Stenbaeck said in a statement that the medicines bound for Iraq would be for ''the most common ailments and diseases'' and be supplied to the member Red Crescent society of Iraq.

The Geneva-based League is an umbrella coordinating agency for all national Red Cross organizations and the equivalent Red Crescent in Moslem countries.

It makes up the International Red Cross together with the International Committee of the Red Cross, the all-Swiss agency responsible for protecting civilians and prisoners in times of armed conflict.

Stenbaeck of Finland said he agreed on medical supplies for Iraq at a meeting in Amman, Jordan, Wednesday with Iraqi Red Crescent President Dr. Ibrahim Al-Nouri.

''The League has agreed to supply medicines to the Iraqi Red Crescent for the most vulnerable civilian groups in Iraq,'' he said. ''The Iraqi society will be provided with medicines to treat the most common ailments and diseases.''

''Medicines are not subject to U.N. sanctions but we shall make every effort to establish real need and to see that supplies reach their intended destination,'' he said.

Bolton, who is in charge of International Organization Affairs, said Washington ''fully supports'' the appointment of Prince Sadruddin Aga Khan as special U.N. delegate to assess food and medical needs of trapped third country nationals.

Bolton said Sadruddin will fly this weekend to the region and also visit Baghdad because ''his mandate includes help for what could be as many as 2 million (people) inside as well as those who have left.''

While around 76,000 persons are in camps in Jordan on the border with Iraq, Bolton said, there is no available estimate for numbers on Iraqi borders with Turkey and Iran.

Bolton told a coordination meeting of United Nations and non- governmental aid agencies that Washington would be donating $13 million in food to the World Food Program. He said an additional $10 million would go to the International Organization for Migration to help repatriate those fleeing Iraq and Kuwait.

Another $4 million will be allocated according to need among involved U.N. and other relief agencies, he said.

Bolton said the United States has already given $300,000 to the International Committee of the Red Cross and $700,000 has been provided to the government of Jordan.

U.S. support and contributions are conditional, he said, on distribution of supplies by international agencies and not by Iraq, which could mean relief going to Iraqi armed forces, he said.

BOGOTA, COLOMBIA (SEPT. 13) UPI - Colombia's foreign minister has said relations with the United States will no longer be based on the battle against cocaine trafficking.

Foreign Minister Luis Fernando Jaramillo told Congress on Wednesday the emphasis of President Cesar Gaviria will be on commercial relations.

Colombia must ''de-narcotize its relations with the United States because you cannot continue to talking with that country only about narcotics trafficking '' Jaramillo said.

U.S.-Colombian relations will be based on agreements reached at the Feb. 15 anti-drug summit in Cartagena, Colombia, attended by the presidents of the two countries along with those of Peru and Bolivia, he said.

President Bush at the summit promised to consider the trade proposals of the three South American nations to strengthen their economies and help battle the powerful cocaine industry.

Gaviria is pushing the United States and other industrial nations for special trade treatment for Colombian products. He argues the opening of markets to Colombian goods is needed to help improve the nation's economy that has been hurt by its battle against the cocaine cartels.

''We do not want a hand-out, nor the charity of anyone,'' Jaramillo said.

LONDON (SEPT. 13) UPI - Stock prices closed lower in lackluster trading

Thursday on the London International Stock Exchange under the combined effects of the continuing crisis in the Gulf and grim financial forecasts and results from a number of companies.

The blue-chip Financial Times 100-stock index, which eased 2.0 points Wednesday, closed off 15.2 points to 2,127.1. The narrower top 30 industrial average fell 10.4 points to 1,632.9.

Volume amounted to around a light 335 million shares compared with 435 million shares changing hands Wednesday.

Analysts said prices drifted lower from the opening bell as a barage of local earnings reports failed to inspire institutional investors.

Dealers said trading activity remained depressed by a view that London's markets will not soon be able to recover to pre-Gulf crisis levels, even world leaders were able to forge an early solution.

Market concerns were compounded by a new rise in the price of North Sea Brent crude and an opening decline on Wall Street.

Fears that Britain's inflation could move through the ten percent level Friday also curbed trading, dealers said.

On the local ecomonic front, the the Department of Employment reported Britain's unemployment in August rose by 22,300 to a seasonally adjusted 5.8 percent of the work force from 5.7 percent in July but down from 6.1 percent in August 1989.

The report compared with market expectations of a 13,500 rise in unemployment from the previous month.

In a seperate report, the Department of Employment reported the underlying annual rate of increase in average earnings in Britain during July was 10 percent, unchanged from June.

Average earnings as a whole were up a seasonally adjusted 0.1 percent in July from June but were up 9.8 percent from July 1989, the government said.

Market watchers said both reports, which were inline with expectations, were ignored by investors.

Among the most widely traded stocks, in the building sector, John Laing shares plunged 66 cents to $3.79 after its chairman warned that it may be forced to cut its dividend because of 63 percent fall in pre-tax profits.

The warning from Laing, one of Britain's major builders, shook the entire sector. Higgs Hill lost 20 cents to $5.31 in sympathy.

RTZ, Britain's largest mining company, eased 2 cents to $8.05 after announcing its net profits to shareholders fell 3.6 percent.

Rolls-Royce, the airplane engine maker, tumbled 32 cents to $3.24 after reporting its pretax profits rose 14 percent, well below market expectations.

Elsewhere in Europe, stock prices on the Frankfurt Stock Exchange closed lower in thin trading.

The closely watched German Stock Index, which climbed 20.92 points Wednesday, fell 15.39 points to 1,582.95.

New York (SEPT. 13) UPI - The New York Mercantile Exchange, the world's largest oil exchange, Thursday said it had begun a probe of whether members had profited by planting rumors to drive up oil prices during the Persian Gulf crisis.

A Merc spokeswoman, who asked not to be identified, said the exchange's compliance department was looking into Monday's trading when prices soared $1.60 a barrel in the last 10 minutes and $2.60 a barrel in the last hour.

The surge may have been triggered by unfounded rumors of Iraqi troops moving toward Jordan and Saudi Arabia, although most Merc traders said they were unaware of them until after the exchange closed at 3:10 p.m. EDT.

The investigation will ''see if rumors drove the market. We're trying to find out if that is true or not. We don't know in fact if this was the case,'' the spokeswoman said.

She said the Merc has never prosecuted a member for spreading false rumors and that the investigation ''is not a major exchange issue.''

''It's being blown out of proportion,'' the spokeswoman said, although she could not say when the exchange had last launched such an investigation.

If found guilty of falsely spreading rumors, a trader could be fined $250,000 and face possible suspension, the spokeswoman said.

Tom Bentz, director of trading for United Energy Inc. in New York who had said Monday he was unaware of the rumors until after the close of Merc trading, said, ''I don't know how they're going to find out who started the rumor and who passed them on.''

The trader said, ''I heard that the rumor originally came from the financial market - either the New York Stock Exchange, or bond markets - and not the Merc. It may have been a case of someone coming in from the outside.''

News and rumors about the Middle East have been playing a part in oil markets since the Persian Gulf crisis was triggered by Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of oil-rich Kuwait and the Aug. 6 U.N. embargo of exports from the two nations threw markets into turmoil.

Monday's rumor was denied by the State Department and prices initially fell Tuesday, but then rose around midday because of another rumor that Iraqi troops were fighting Syrian troops.

Pentagon spokesman Pete Williams later said U.S. intelligence had detected an ''increase in Iraqi military activity along the Syrian and Turkey borders, but nothing to indicate imminent hostilities.''

Friday, another unfounded rumor, apparently from Japan, that Iraq's President Saddam Hussein had been ousted in a coup helped drive down crude prices by as much as $2 a barrel.

''Rumors that popped up on the Tokyo Stock Exchange resulted in a morning of self-doubt on oil markets,'' Peter Gignoux of Shearson Lehman Hutton's London office said at the time.

No immediate comment on the Merc investigation could be obtained from the Commodity Futures Trading Commission, the federal agency regulating the exchange.

In July, the CFTC charged three East Coast brokers and a futures trader with fraud in connection with a year-long criminal and civil probe of trading practices at the Merc and three other New York commodity exchanges.

JOHANNESBURG, SOUTH AFRICA (SEPT. 13) UPI - Thousands of refugees poured out of war-torn black townships east of Johannesburg Thursday amid a resurgence of factional fighting and after authorities cut off electricity in response to a boycott of utility payments.

Women, children and infants crowded into the halls, passages and stairwells of clinics and a major hospital, collapsing with exhaustion after their flight from the internecine strife - which in its sixth week left more than 700 people dead and hundreds of homes destroyed.

''These people are terrified... there must be at least 3,000 of them looking for safety here and in clinics,'' said a matron at the Natalspruit Hospital, which serves the townships of Thokoza and Katlehong. ''All they want is a ''

The refugees refused to return to areas of Thokoza and Katlehong and the decimated squatter camp of Phola Park after the savage fighting surged late Tuesday and authorities cut off their power supplies.

In the nation's largest black township of Soweto, south of Johannesburg, police reported firing teargas and birdshot to separate marauding rival groups but continued to find bodies in isolated spots. Township dwellers, apparently beginning to target police, have shot or stabbed to death at least four lawman this week - two on Thursday.

The African National Congress has accused police of siding with its arch rival, the exclusively Zulu Inkatha, and senior members said township residents were becoming increasingly hostile to security forces as South Africa's worst-ever suburban fighting, which flared Aug. 12, raged almost out of control.

Refugees from Phola Park alleged a white man, whom they thought to be a policeman, was among a marauding Inkatha group late Wednesday. ''We saw him and we killed him,'' one male refugee said, but did not know what had happened to the body.

Winnie Mandela, wife of ANC leader Nelson Mandela, asserted in Thokoza that ''police bullets'' were killing the people.

Trains passing through the hardest-hit townships straddling Johannesburg came under petrol-bomb and stone attacks overnight and into Thursday, and some connections were delayed several hours.

Authorities earlier Thursday further panicked the townships' residents when they cut off electricity supplies in a bid to force an end to a boycott of service payments.

The cutoffs to some 500,000 people followed two days of renewed violence across the eastern townships which police said killed at least 96 people, left row upon row of houses flattened by fire and the residents homeless, and pushed the total death toll to over 700.

The end to the power supplies led to ''chaos here, chaos... people were first fearing for their lives and now they don't even have the basics of a reasonable existence,'' volunteer doctor Michael Markham said in Thokoza. ''They're lighting fires in the streets to warm their food.''

Police said they were trying to quell the region's battles between Zulu migrant workers and residents, who are predominantly Xhosa supporters of the ANC, but noted patrols could not blanket the areas.

The fighting in the townships has defied emergency rule and effective martial law imposed by President Frederik de Klerk Aug. 26. ANC leader Nelson Mandela warned Tuesday it was threatening talks between anti-apartheid groups and the government on ending 42 years of white minority rule.

Defending the electricity cutoffs, officials said the action was designed not to exacerbate the situation, but to enforce payment after combined losses in Thokoza and Katlehong of some $4.2 million this year.

More than 50 townships nationwide have been boycotting water and electricity payments for periods ranging from months to years, at a total cost of some $780 million, over allegations that their local administrations provide poor service.

The cutoffs in the two townships followed similar action in at least two others in Transvaal province.

Mandela told de Klerk at a meeting on Tuesday pressure was mounting on the ANC to arm its supporters and resume the ''armed struggle'' against white rule it suspended last month after 29 years.

Despite assurances from de Klerk that police were acting impartially and that the government was deeply concerned about the violence, Mandela said Pretoria must use its capacity to bring back calm or face a possible breakdown in talks on ending apartheid.

CHICAGO (SEPT. 13) UPI - Dr. John Marshall Branion, a doctor convicted of killing his wife and who served as physician to Martin Luther King Jr. and later Ugandan dictator Idi Amin has died following a lengthy illness.

Branion, 64, who fled the country after being sentenced to 20 to 30 years for murder, died at the University of Illinois Hospital last Saturday, hospital officials said Thursday.

The body was cremated Tuesday.

Branion, convicted in 1968 of killing his wife, Donna, fled to Uganda while his case was under appeal. In Uganda, he served as Idi Amin's doctor until he was arrested in 1983 and returned to the United States to serve his prison term.

Supporters had been trying to re-open the murder case, saying the conviction was racially motivated. They said it would have been impossible for Branion to have killed his wife on Dec. 22, 1967, between the time he left a hospital and the time police were called to the murder scene.

Branion had been King's personal doctor when the civil rights leader was in Chicago. Branion's trial took place during the riots that followed King's assassination in 1968.

Branion suffered from a brain turmor and heart ailment. Gov. James R. Thompson commuted his sentence to time served on Aug. 7.

Branion is survived by his second wife, Shirley, and four children.

MOSCOW (SEPT. 13) UPI - An Israeli delegation arrived in Moscow Thursday on the highest-level official visit since the Soviet Union cut diplomatic relations in 1967, an Israeli diplomat said.

An Israeli government source said in Jerusalem Wednesday that the trip by the Israeli Foreign Ministry delegation was ''the most important visit in some time'' from a political standpoint.

Israel Mey-Ami, the No. 2 representative in the permanent group of Israeli diplomatic officials based at the Dutch Embassy in Moscow, said the visiting delegation would hold talks with Soviet Foreign Ministry officials Friday at the level of experts.

''It is the first official delegation since 1967,'' Mey-Ami said. ''This is the first time that there has been this kind of experts' meeting.''

As the official delegation arrived, Israeli Housing Minister Ariel Sharon left Moscow to end a private weeklong visit to the Soviet Union, Mey-Ami said.

The Soviet Foreign Ministry said that Sharon, Israel's former defense minister was invited by a construction cooperative for a visit ''supported'' by the Moscow City Council, which is now controlled by political radicals.

Sovetskaya Rossiya, the official newspaper of the Russian Federation's government, called Sharon a "butcher" because of his past policies as Israeli defense chief. Russian leader Boris Yeltsin told deputies that his government should disassociate itself from the newspaper because of its conservative views.

The Soviet Union broke diplomatic ties with Israel in 1967 after the Six Day War between Israel and Egypt, then a close ally of Moscow.

Soviet-Israeli relations have steadily improved since Mikhail Gorbachev assumed power in March 1985 and began a reform drive including increased emigration of Soviet Jews.

Mey-Ami declined to say specifically what the expert-level delegations from the two countries' foreign ministries would discuss.

''Naturally, we will be discussing the problems of our region and, of course, bilateral relations between our two countries,'' Mey-Ami said.

The independent Interfax news agency said the delegation included two deputy director-generals of the Israeli Foreign Ministry, Joseph Govrin and Eitan Ben-sur, and Department of Political Analysis chief David Afek. An Israeli Foreign Ministry spokesman in Jerusalem and Mey-Ami confirmed those names.

Interfax quoted an unidentified Soviet Foreign Ministry spokesman as saying that ''the consultations will proceed within the framework of the continuing dialogue between the Soviet Union and Israel.''

Mey-Ami said the official purpose of the one-day meeting was to prepare for talks in New York next week at the U.N. General Assembly session between Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze and his Israeli counterpart, David Levy.

Mey-Ami acknowledged, however, that such contacts at U.N. sessions in the past have not been preceded by expert-level preparatory meetings.

Levy said Wednesday that the Soviet Union could have greater involvement in the Middle East peace process if it stopped selling arms to Arab nations and pressured those countries to make peace with Israel.

Moscow cut off arms shipments to Iraq, its former ally, on Aug. 2 after Baghdad invaded Kuwait and has strongly condemned the aggression. After meeting with Gorbachev in Helsinki on Sunday, U.S. President George Bush indicated the Soviet response in the gulf crisis has earned it a larger role in the Middle East.

A Soviet consular delegation was set up in Israel in July 1987. Mey-Ami is part of Israel's consular delegation to Moscow that began its mission in July 1988.

The Soviet consular group works out of the Finnish Embassy in Tel Aviv. The Israeli group in Moscow is under the control of the Dutch Embassy, which handles Israeli visa applications from Soviet citizens.

The Israeli group moved into its country's former embassy in June last year, but it cannot fly the Israeli flag and the building is formally administered by the Dutch government.

Israeli officials in Jerusalem said that Sharon came to Moscow to investigate possible cooperation with Soviet companies to build housing for the quickening flow of Soviet Jewish emigrants to Israel.

''Now this butcher is strolling around Red Square and the streets of Moscow,'' Sovetskaya Rossiya said. ''Do our cooperators (private businessmen) and newly brought-to-light 'democrats' know whose hand they are shaking, with whom ... they want to make a deal?''

DAMASCUS, SYRIA (SEPT. 13) UPI - Secretary of State James Baker flew to Syria Thursday in the first such diplomatic visit in almost a decade, indicating relations between Damascus and Washington have thawed as the Gulf crisis has heated up.

Baker, due to arrive in Syria at 10:30 p.m. (3:30 p.m. EDT) on a flight from Moscow, was scheduled to hold intensive talks with Syrian President Hafez Assad on the crisis, touched off Aug. 2 when Iraq invaded its tiny oil-rich neighbor Kuwait.

His visit coincides with an announcement by Assad that Syria was prepared to dispatch more troops to serve in a U.S.-led multinational force deployed in the Gulf region to deter Iraqi aggression.

Syria, Iraq's main rival in the Arab world because the two countries are governed by rival wings of the Baath socialist party, has already sent 3,000 troops to Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emriates.

Assad has also joined the United States in condemning the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait and demanding the immediate withdrawal of troops from the occupied emirate.

Such cooperation with U.S. policy has made Washington take a fresh look at Syria, long on its list of countries that support terrorism. The State Department's most recent report on human rights describes Syria as a country ''ruled by an authoritarian regime which does not hesitate to use force when it is threatened.''

Nevertheless, the Bush administration announced Baker would travel to Damascus in the first trip to Syria by a Secretary of State since George Schultz visited in the early 1980's.

The visit to Damascus could open a new chapter in relations between Syria and the United States, which had reached a low ebb prior to the Iraqi invasion.

''The visit could be a signal the United States is ready to cooperate with Syria to solve the Middle East crisis,'' one Western diplomat in Cairo said.

''It is obvious now that Syria would be qualified to play a role in Middle East affairs in the future,'' he said. ''This role would be decided according to Damascus response to the U.S. policy in the Middle East.''

Baker held talks earlier Thursday with Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze in Moscow. He held a round of talks with Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev during a three-day visit to the Soviet Union and participated in the signing of an historic treaty on German unification.

BRUSSELS, Belgium (SEPT. 13) UPI - The European Community, faced with increasing U.S pressure to contribute to the Persian Gulf effort, is split over whether to set a precise figure for the aid at a meeting next week, diplomats said Thursday.

Some countries led by Britain said a firm EC aid figure at next Monday's meeting of foreign ministers could limit subsequent aid from other countries by providing a too-convenient formula.

Other nations, including EC president Italy, feel the wealthy Community should set an aid figure right away to show Europe's commitment to the U.S.-led opposition to Iraq's invasion of Kuwait.

The split, though largely tactical, coincides with increasing U.S. pressure for European allies to contribute far more to the gulf crisis, and EC diplomats acknowledged that a delay in aid at next week's meeting could send the wrong signal to Washington.

''We think it's important to send a clear political message right away by setting aid figures. We should show the Community is ready to commit itself,'' said an official of the EC executive Commission.

At a special meeting in Rome last Friday, the EC foreign ministers approved aid in principle but left the exact figure to next week's regular monthly meeting in Brussels.

The EC Commission has proposed aid through 1991 of $1.95 billion for Egypt, Turkey and Jordan, three countries particularly hard-hit by economic sanctions on Iraq.

Commission officials say those three countries stand to lose about $9 billion through lost trade and higher oil prices through 1991. Other estimates put the pricetag far higher.

The EC should cover part of their loss, but the bulk should come from oil-rich Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates, the Commission says.

Britain feels the EC would make a tactical mistake next Monday by ''publicizing'' the three countries' needs, an aid formula and the EC's share, because it would tend to set ''ceilings'' on contributions from the rich Gulf states and other donors.

Behind-the-scenes negotiations should first take place between the gulf states the EC and the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development, British officials say.

Joining the British position are Belgium, Denmark, Holland, Greece and West Germany, said British diplomatic sources. Italy and France have been most supportive of the Commission position.

''We want to see what our partners from the rest of the world intend to do,'' said a spokesman for Belgian Foreign Minister Mark Eyskens. ''As there is not yet a consensus of what other western and Arab countries will contribute, an EC figure would seem to be premature.''

A spokesman for Italy, which holds the rotating EC presidency through December said, ''We are ready to take a decision next Monday. We would like to have a proposal approved at that meeting.''

The issue is being hotly debated this week, however, and the sources said positions could change by Monday's meeting.

On a less fractious matter, the EC foreign ministers are expected to easily approve a Commission proposal for $58.5 million in humanitarian aid for refugees stranded as a result of the crisis.

EC officials said Monday's long-scheduled meeting comes at an inopportune time just a week after Secretary of State James Baker visited Brussels and asked for greater financial and military help from America's European allies.

Commentators in the United States have described Europe, particularly unification-preoccupied West Germany, as terribly stingy in the crisis.

WASHINGTON (SEPT. 13) UPI - The Senate voted Tuesday to relax restrictions on exports of sophisticated technology, helping open new markets for American producers in Eastern Europe and other areas.

The Senate approved the bill, which extends controls through 1990, to the House that has passed its own version of the bill.

The measure adopted by the Senate would bring U.S. restrictions on the sale of high-tech goods to Eastern Europe in line with those adopted this summer by the 17-nation Coordinating Committee for Multilateral Export Controls (Cocom).

The controls, first adopted in 1979, were designed to keep computers and other sophisticated technology with potential military use away from the Soviet Union and countries behind the now-demolished Iron Curtain.

The bill would make it easier to export the high-tech goods to Central and Eastern European countries - although not to the Soviet Union - and also would sharply reduce the number of items subject to controls.

The legislation would also permit the federal Export-Import Bank to finance military sales for the first time in 20 years.

BALTIMORE (SEPT. 13) UPI - Scientists have discovered a hormone that may play a key role in the development of high blood pressure, it was reported Thursday.

The hormone appears to slow movement of sodium out of cells, which can cause blood vessels to constrict and blood pressure to increase, said researchers from The Upjohn Co. in Kalamazoo, Mich., and the University of Maryland.

The findings could lead to tests to identify people prone to high blood pressure and better ways to treat a leading risk factor for strokes and heart attacks that affects some 60 million Americans, the researchers said.

''We think the implications are profound,'' said Dr. Mordecai Blaustein of the University of Maryland School of Medicine in Baltimore, who was involved in the research.

''I think that this substance plays a major role in causing the elevation of blood pressure,'' he said before presenting the findings at an American Heart Association meeting.

Scientists plan to study the hormone to get a better understanding of what it does naturally in the body, its relationship to blood pressure and potential therapeutic uses, he said.

''This opens up major new avenues for research,'' he said.

The substance was dubbed ''ouabin-like compound'' because it appears virtually identical to a hormone called ouabin that occurs naturally in a plant. Ouabin is similar to the digitalis drug used to treat congestive heart failure, he said.

''That's startling. That will raise lots of eyebrows. Nobody knew the substance was produced in the human body,'' Blaustein said.

The hormone was discovered by analyzing blood plasma until scientists isolated a small amount of the substance, he said.

''We have learned in the last 20 or 30 years that every cell in our bodies has a receptor for digitalis compounds. So there's long been interest in finding a endogenous compound that interracts with that receptor,'' he said.

The discovery of the substance may lead to better ways to identify peopleprone to high blood pressure because there is evidence the levels of the substance increase before blood pressure goes up, he said.

''It may be a predictor of future development of high bloood pressure. You might know early on who's salt sensitive and who you should put on a low-salt diet,'' he said.

Scientists may be able to find ways to block the action of the hormone, which may be produced by the adrenal gland, he said.

''If you know that this hormone acts on the sodium pump in various cells to promote high blood pressure then you want to interact with the synthesis or secretion of this hormone or block its action,'' he said.

CHICAGO (SEPT. 13) UPI - Amoco Production Co. Thursday announced an agreement with the Soviet Union that could eventually lead to a joint-venture for development of oil fields in western Siberia.

Amoco Production said its Amoco Eurasia Petroleum Co. subsidiary has signed a protocol with the Soviet state gas industry to study the technical and economic feasibility of developing several oil fields in western Siberia as a joint venture with Soviet organizations.

''Amoco technology and expertise in drilling, well completion and production practices should enhance the commercial potential of these fields,'' said Amoco Eurasia President Robert Blanton.

''Our objective is economic development of these fields in a manner which is consistent with environmental concern and recognizes the interests of the local native population,'' Blanton said.

He said the company believes the oil and natural gas resources of the western Siberian fields is significant.

The protocal signed in Moscow by Blanton and V.S. Chernomyrdin, chairman of the Soviet state gas consortium, enumerates guiding principles that would be incorporated in a joint venture agreement for development of the fields.

Amoco has been involved in discussions of possible joint ventures with Soviet officials since 1988. The ongoing talks also concern possible petroleum exploration and development in other areas of the Soviet Union.

NEW DELHI, India (SEPT. 13) UPI - President Ramaswami Venkataraman approved a bill Thursday intended to grant autonomy to state-owned radio and television, fulfilling an electoral promise of Prime Minister V.P. Singh's National Front government.

State-run All-India Radio said the president gave his approval to the government plan to set up an autonomous ''Prasar Bharati'' broadcasting corporation to run the government's All-India Radio and Doordarshan television.

Information and Broadcasting Minister P. Upendra promised to set up the corporation by March 31, 1991, All-India Radio reported.

The Prasar Bharati bill earlier was passed unanimously by members of the Lok Sabha, Hindi for the lower house of parliament, and was adopted by the Rajya Sabha, or the upper house of parliament.

Singh's five-party National Front alliance promised prior to the November 1989 parliamentary general elections that if voted to power, the alliance would grant autonomy to the tightly controlled government electronic media.

The alliance made the promise amid widespread criticism that the former government of Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi was using the radio and television to promote the interests of his Congress (I) Party.

Gandhi during his prime ministry rejected calls to confer autonomous status on All-India Radio and Doordarshan, the only broadcasting entities allowed to operate in the world's largest democracy.

Singh's National Front alliance won the 1989 election, ousting Gandhi's government. The Thursday approval of the government media bill is the fulfillment of an electoral pledge.

Some newspapers and opposition Congress (I) Party have in recent days accused Singh's government of manipulating the radio and television to give prominence to ruling party's views.

Others have contended the government will continue to maintain tight control over the electronic media because top officials of the Prasar Bharati broadcasting corporation would be appointed by the government.

Newspapers and magazines in India are mostly privately owned and free of government control.

NEW YORK (SEPT. 13) UPI - The New York Mercantile Exchange, the world's largest oil exchange, Thursday said it had begun a probe of whether members had profited by planting rumors to drive up oil prices during the Persian Gulf crisis.

A Merc spokeswoman, who asked not to be identified, said the exchange's compliance department was looking into Monday's trading when prices soared $1.60 a barrel in the last 10 minutes and $2.60 a barrel in the last hour.

The surge may have been triggered by unfounded rumors of Iraqi troops moving toward Jordan and Saudi Arabia, although most Merc traders said they were unaware of them until after the exchange closed at 3:10 p.m. EDT.

The investigation will ''see if rumors drove the market. We're trying to find out if that is true or not. We don't know in fact if this was the case,'' the spokeswoman said.

She said the Merc has never prosecuted a member for spreading false rumors and that the investigation ''is not a major exchange issue.''

''It's being blown out of proportion,'' the spokeswoman said, although she could not say when the exchange had last launched such an investigation.

If found guilty of falsely spreading rumors, a trader could be fined $250,000 and face possible suspension, the spokeswoman said.

Tom Bentz, director of trading for United Energy Inc. in New York who had said Monday he was unaware of the rumors until after the close of Merc trading, said, ''I don't know how they're going to find out who started the rumor and who passed them on.''

The trader said, ''I heard that the rumor originally came from the financial market - either the New York Stock Exchange, or bond markets - and not the Merc. It may have been a case of someone coming in from the outside.''

News and rumors about the Middle East have been playing a part in oil markets since the Persian Gulf crisis was triggered by Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of oil-rich Kuwait and the Aug. 6 U.N. embargo of exports from the two nations threw markets into turmoil.

Monday's rumor was denied by the State Department and prices initially fell Tuesday, but then rose around midday because of another rumor that Iraqi troops were fighting Syrian troops.

Pentagon spokesman Pete Williams later said U.S. intelligence had detected an ''increase in Iraqi military activity along the Syrian and Turkey borders, but nothing to indicate imminent hostilities.''

Friday, another unfounded rumor, apparently from Japan, that Iraq's President Saddam Hussein had been ousted in a coup helped drive down crude prices by as much as $2 a barrel.

''Rumors that popped up on the Tokyo Stock Exchange resulted in a morning of self-doubt on oil markets,'' Peter Gignoux of Shearson Lehman Hutton's London office said at the time.

No immediate comment on the Merc investigation could be obtained from the Commodity Futures Trading Commission, the federal agency regulating the exchange.

In July, the CFTC charged three East Coast brokers and a futures trader with fraud in connection with a year-long criminal and civil probe of trading practices at the Merc and three other New York commodity exchanges.

John Heine, a spokesman for the Securities and Exchange Commission in Washington, said it was SEC policy not to confirm ''the existence or non-existence of commission investigations.''

New York Stock Exchange spokesman Ray Pellechia said, ''Our policy is to investigate unusual market activity ... It's also policy not to comment on investigations.''

HERSHEY, PA (SEPT. 13) UPI - An army colonel who was a hostage in Iran 10 years ago said President Bush should not let concern for the current hostages prevent him from taking military action, if necessary, in the Middle East.

Col. Charles Scott, former chief military officer of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran, was one of 52 hostages held for 444 days in 1979-80.

''We're going to lose people. Usually they wear khaki outfits or blue outfits. We need to take a more callous view,'' he said in comments to the Pennsylvania Petroleum Association in Hershey Wednesday night, and reported by The Patriot-News of Harrisburg.

''If it's in America's national interest to do something, under no circumstances should we let hostages stand in the way,'' he said.

Hundreds of Americans and other Westerners remain trapped in Kuwait and Iraq following Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of the neighboring country, apparently to discourage military action by the United States.

Scott said his hostage experience, which included nine months in solitary confinement, strengthened and rejuvenated him.

''People say, 'How can you spend nine months in solitary confinement?' I tell them I'm in good company,'' he said.

He praised Bush's handling of the situation, but warned the president should not hesitate to declare war if border conflicts erupt ''so we don't have another Vietnam.''

Besides the hostages in Iraq and Kuwait, six Americans remain in Beirut, Lebanon, captives of a variety of fractious Islamic fundamentalist groups.

Among them is Norristown native Joseph Cicippio, who marked his fourth year in captivity Wednesday. The longest held is Associated Press correspondent Terry Anderson, who was kidnapped in March 1985.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (SEPT. 13) UPI - Youths armed with guns and knives rampaged through a train near Johannesburg, killing at least 20 commuters and wounding dozens more in a bloody surge of black factional violence Thursday, witnesses said.

The attack came Thursday evening after thousands of refugees poured out of black townships east of Johannesburg seeking safety from renewed strife which has razed hundreds of homes and pushed the death toll in the sixth week of battles to more than 700.

The youths opened fire and hacked out at commuters on a train bound from Johannesburg to satellite black townships, according to radio reports and witnesses.

The witnesses said the dead and injured were strewn on the tracks and described scenes of terror aboard the train, including people jumping from windows for safety. They said about six black youths carried out the attack.

''It's a slaughter house out there, a bloody slaughter house,'' paramedic Joe van Wyk said. ''It looks like about 25 dead.'' Later reports said the death toll could be slightly lower, but that dozens were injured.

Police sealed off the train and launched a massive hunt for the attackers. Dozens of ambulances were summoned from across the city to ferry the injured from staging points near the train to nearby hospitals in and around Johannesburg.

In eastern townships, women, children and infant refugees from violent clashes crowded into the halls, passages and stairwells of clinics and a major hospital, collapsing with exhaustion.

They refused to return to areas of the stricken townships of Thokoza and Katlehong and the decimated squatter camp of Phola Park after savage fighting surged late Tuesday and authorities cut off their power supplies.

In the nation's largest black township of Soweto, south of Johannesburg, police reported firing teargas and birdshot to separate marauding rival groups but continued to find bodies in isolated spots. Township dwellers, apparently beginning to target police, have shot or stabbed to death at least four lawman this week - two on Thursday.

The African National Congress has accused police of siding with its arch rival the exclusively Zulu Inkatha, and senior members said township residents were becoming increasingly hostile to security forces as South Africa's worst-ever suburban fighting, which flared Aug. 12, raged almost out of control.

Refugees from Phola Park alleged a white man, whom they thought to be a policeman, was among a marauding Inkatha group late Wednesday. ''We saw him and we killed him,'' one male refugee said, but did not know what had happened to the body.

Winnie Mandela, wife of ANC leader Nelson Mandela, asserted in Thokoza that ''police bullets'' were killing the people.

Trains passing through the hardest-hit townships straddling Johannesburg came under petrol-bomb and stone attacks overnight and into Thursday, and some connections were delayed several hours.

Authorities earlier Thursday further panicked the townships' residents when they cut off electricity supplies in a bid to force an end to a boycott of service payments.

The cutoffs to some 500,000 people followed two days of renewed violence across the eastern townships which police said killed at least 96 people, left row upon row of houses flattened by fire and the residents homeless, and pushed the total death toll to over 700.

The end to the power supplies led to ''chaos here, chaos... people were first fearing for their lives and now they don't even have the basics of a reasonable existence,'' volunteer doctor Michael Markham said in Thokoza. ''They're lighting fires in the streets to warm their food.''

Police said they were trying to quell the region's battles between Zulu migrant workers and residents, who are predominantly Xhosa supporters of the ANC, but noted patrols could not blanket the areas.

NEW YORK (SEPT. 13) UPI - Gedale Horowitz, senior executive director of Salomon Brothers Inc., has been nominated as 1991 chairman of the Securities Industry Association, the association said Thursday.

Horowitz was director of SIA in 1984-1986 and 1988-1990 and he was teasurer of the association in 1987.

Horowitz served as chairman of the Public Securities Association in 1977. If SIA's board ratifies his nomination, he will become the only person to serve as chairman of both securities industry trade associations.

Horowitz will succeed Robert N. Downey, a partner at Goldman Sachs and Co. Downey will continue as an officer and a director of SIA.

ATLANTA (SEPT. 13) UPI - American consumers can expect to pay more for peanut butter this winter as a result of a hot, dry summer that has left the Southeast with its worst crop of peanuts in a decade, an industry trade group reported Thursday.

Peanut farmers in Georgia, Florida and Alabama are expected to suffer losses of $575 million, and consumers can expect price hikes of at least 10 percent for peanut butter by January, the Peanut Advisory Board said.

Mitch Head, a spokesman for the trade association, said the price increase was determined through surveys of manufacturers' needs and shellers' on-hand supply of nuts.

The region's peanut harvest, which is now in progress, is expected to total 1 million tons, down 23 percent from last year - and the lowest since 1980.

The board's predictions were borne out in part by the Georgia Agricultural Statistics Service, which Thursday reported a 24 percent decline in peanut production.

Agriculture officials blame the decline on the lack of rain and above normal temperatures in the Southeast this summer. Heavy infestations of insects, spider mites and army worms also have caused problems.

Peanuts grown in the three-state Southeastern region account for 65 percent of the total U.S. harvest and for nearly all the peanuts typically used in peanut butter and confectionary products. Georgia alone produces nearly half of the peanuts grown in the United States.

The price of peanuts jumped 4 percent to $760 a ton Thursday, up from $731 a day earlier, Head said. In the last seven days alone, peanut prices have increased 12 percent to $731 a ton, and more dry weather and worm infestations could push the price up higher, he said.

The board said some of the crop shortfall will be made by farmers in Virginia, North Carolina and Texas, where growing conditions were better this year.

The national peanut harvest is expected to total 1.7 million tons, down 11 percent from last year but sufficient for domestic needs, the board said.

Americans used 1.5 million pounds of peanuts last year, half of that for peanut butter. Another 500,000 tons were exported.

CHICAGO (SEPT. 13) UPI - The top executives of the Chicago Board of Trade said Thursday the exchange will contest two lawsuits filed against the CBOT in U.S. District Court by the Ferruzzi Group.

One seeks to stop the CBOT from proceeding with hearings to consider charges against Ferruzzi of market manipulation and violations of other exchange rules. Those charges arose from the emergency action taken by the CBOT board in the July 1989 soybean futures market.

The other seeks damages of $30 million on charges the CBOT manipulated the market and conspired to drive market prices downward because of the emergency order.

''The CBOT will resist these lawsuits to the fullest extent of the law,'' Chairman William O'Connor said. ''We will not permit them to interfere with our responsibility to protect the integrity of the market through our disciplinary process.''

Ferruzzi and its Central Soya unit, in a petition filed Wednesday, accused former CBOT Chairman Karsten Mahlmann and other officials of ''manipulating soybean prices downward ... to avoid losses to their firms.''

It also said Mahlmann had a conflict of interest because he presided over a trading firm that ''was in a precarious financial condition and might have failed had the order not been issued.''

Mahlmann resigned his positions as chairman of both the Stotler Group, of Chicago, and the CBOT last month.

''These lawsuits are obviously frivolous and without merit,'' CBOT President and Chief Executive Officer Thomas Donovan said. ''The Commodity Futures Trading Commission and the General Accounting Office conducted separate investigations and concluded there were no conflicts of interest.''

In July 1989, the CBOT board issued an emergency order requiring liquidation of large positions in July 1989 soybean futures, fearing that Ferruzzi was trying to corner the market.

WARSAW, POLAND (SEPT. 13) UPI - NATO Secretary-General Manfred Woerner, in the first visit to Poland by a chief of the alliance, said Thursday ''no partial solutions are acceptable'' in the Persian Gulf crisis.

Woerner called for continued commitment and burden-sharing by the international community to end Iraqi aggression, and echoed a warning by President Bush Tuesday that if sanctions did not force Iraq to withdraw from Kuwait, other means would be used.

''We cannot rest until Iraq has withdrawn from Kuwait and freed the hostages '' the former West German defense minister told members of the Foreign Affairs and Defense committees of the Polish parliament, or Sejm.

''No partial solutions are acceptable,'' he said.

Woerner said the international community must continue its commitment to sanctions against Iraq in the 6-week-old crisis, as well as assisting nations that are making sacrifices to implement the sanctions.

''The price will be high, but we cannot afford the even higher price of allowing Iraq to escape with impunity,'' he said.

Poland had contracts with Iraq for oil deliveries which were meant as payment against Iraqi debt to Poland, but only about one-fourth of the contracted shipments arrived before the embargo.

Poland is expected to lose $205 million in buying the lost oil on the world market and $2 billion overall as a result of the economic sanctions.

Woerner said NATO's aim is a Europe in which military aggression ''becomes materially impossible and politically meaningless.''

But he cautioned that this does not mean the alliance will disappear as the Council for Security and Cooperation in Europe, which is concluding disarmament talks in Vienna, takes on a greater role.

''The CSCE can certainly enhance security, but it cannot substitute for the Atlantic Alliance,'' he said. ''It does not have the means to take sanctions or ensure their implementation.''

He called for a new relationship between Poland and the NATO countries.

''The hostility and mistrust of the past must be buried,'' he said. ''We need to work together. Only in this way can we build the Common European Home or the European Confederation or the New European Order, call it what you will.''

He promised NATO help as Poland attempts to rebuild its shattered economy.

''We must now allow a division of Europe to continue according to wealth, for such a gap would ultimately undermine the stability and prosperity of all of us,'' he said.

Woerner was in Prague last week as part of NATO's effort to establish bilateral ties with the Warsaw Pact nations. Poland established permanent diplomatic contacts with NATO last month.

(SEPT. 13) UPI - The Florida state lottery jackpot has rolled over the 100-Million- dollar mark and is making a challenge to become largest in U-S history. The record is held by last year's 115-Million-dollar jackpot in Pennsylvania. The Florida total is expected to grow tomorrow and Saturday, usually the best days for sales.

High temperatures and low humidity are helping feed wildfires that have swept an estimated five-thousand acres in the Black Hills of South Dakota. The fire jumped state route 87 last night and spread into Custer State Park. A number of homes have been evacuated and two air tankers have been sent from Denver to help firefighters contain the flames.

TALLAHASSEE, FL (SEPT. 13) UPI - Florida's Lotto jackpot soared to $100 million Thursday and was still climbing as psychologists warned players about the ''lottery fantasy syndrome,'' a form of depression that can occur in some ticket buyers.

Dr. Robert R. Butterworth, a Los Angeles psychologist who has researched the syndrome, said some players firmly believe they are going to win and begin making plans, usually involving drastic life changes, on how they are going to spend their winnings.

''People purchase a ticket, ignore the odds (1 in 13.98 million) and start thinking of the impossible: quitting their jobs, buying items that they've always wanted, going places that they have never been, and some even think of divorcing their spouses and starting their lives completely over,'' Butterworth said.

Failure to win results in ''the same old reality as before,'' he said. ''Life becomes more difficult, depression and apathy can occur - just because someone buys a lottery ticket.''

Florida's lottery prize is the second largest in U.S. history, the largest being a $115 million Pennsylvania jackpot split by 14 winners in April 1989.

Lottery officials said players were buying the $1 Lotto tickets at a rate of more than $24,000 a minute - 450 to 500 tickets a second - Thursday morning, about five times higher than the best Thursday on record.

That pace, if it continues, could exceed the central lottery computer's capability of handling 33 million entries a day. Lottery Secretary Rebecca Paul said sales Thursday should easily surpass the previous high for daily sales in Florida of 22 million and could surpass the national record of 28 million.

Lottery officials added another 30 computer terminals Wednesday and Thursday at retail outlets along the Florida border with Alabama and Georgia where all but three of the state's top 20 sales outlets are located.

The additional terminals brought the total statewide to about 7,480 outlets and close to the lottery computer's capacity of 7,500 outlets.

Paul said the fevered pace of sales caused her to believe there is ''only a slim chance that there will be no winner'' in Saturday's drawing.

''We had 90 percent of the combinations played last week when the jackpot was $55 million,'' she said.

Ticket sales end at 10:30 p.m. Saturday, 30 minutes before the drawing. Paul said the computer should be able to determine whether there was a winner or winners by noon Sunday, but it would not be able to determine the locale where the winning ticket or tickets were sold until Monday afternoon, because of the volume of tickets involved.

The ticket-buying frenzy is expected to get even worse Friday and Saturday since those are traditionally the days when sales increase. Approximately 75 percent of Lotto ticket sales take place on those days, in part because many players get paid at the end of the week or buy their tickets while doing grocery shopping.

Several outlets reported earlier this week that customers are having to wait up to two or three hours to purchase tickets, so lottery officials Thursday urged last-minute buyers to wear comfortable shoes and bring along a book to read and an umbrella for protection from sun and rain.

GUATEMALA CITY (SEPT. 13) UPI - The supreme court ordered electoral officials to allow former military ruler Gen. Efrain Rios Montt to file an application to run for president in November elections, judicial officials said Thursday.

The decision by the court allowed Rios Montt to present to the country's registry his formal request to be accepted as a candidate. Electoral official still must decide whether his application will be accepted.

The electoral tribunal had originally rejected Rios Montt candidacy, saying that a clause in Guatemala's constitution prohibiting anyone who has led a military coup from running for president applied in his case.

Rios Montt led a coup by junior officers in March, 1982 and ruled the country until being ousted in August the following year. His presidency was marked by a sharp increase in brutal human rights violations in Guatemala.

Candidates had until midnight Wednesday to file their applications to run for president in the Nov. 11 general elections. The Citizen's Registry was notified at 11:30 p.m. local time of the court's decision permitting Rios Montt to register.

In their decision, the court judges said, ''The decision of the Electoral Tribunal of Sept. 3 is to be suspended and all the candidates (nominated by the three parties supporting Rios Montt) should register today.''

The court said the appeal of the electoral tribunal decision filed by Rios Montt had to be granted provisionally in order to guarantee that fundamental rights, including the right of appeal, are respected.

The decision was signed by supreme court president Edmundo Vasquez and six other judges. Two voted against the decision.

A total of 13 candidates, including Rios Montt, have presented their applications to run for president. The Registry will analyze all of the requests and determine which candidates have the legal right to run.

ATLANTA (SEPT. 13) UPI - Delta Air Lines said Thursday it will raise fares by an additional 4.2 percent on Oct. 1 because of the rising cost of jet fuel, and spokesman for several other major carriers said they were studying the move.

''We are still kind of studying the precise application, but we expect to go along,'' said Jim Ashlock at Eastern Airlines in Miami.

''There is no question that the fuel situation is of such magnitude that it has to be passed through,'' he added. ''So Eastern will be a part of that, and can be expected to match the Delta action.''

Delta and other major U.S. carriers raised fares by 5.3 percent on Aug. 30 to cover higher fuel costs triggered by the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait on Aug. 2.

But airline spokesman have said that increase failed to make up for the added expense. In the meantime, jet fuel prices have continued to rise.

''When we announced the 5.3 percent increase, fuel at that time was up between 10 and 12 cents a gallon,'' said Delta spokesman Neal Monroe. ''There has been a continuing dramatic increase in fuel prices since then.''

Monroe said Delta's fuel costs have risen by 33 1/2 cents a gallon on a systemwide basis, adding about $670 million to the airline's annual fuel bill.

Other airlines have experienced similar increases.

The court-appointed trustee for Eastern Airlines said this week the price of jet fuel had risen from 56.5 cents a gallon to 84.5 cents since Aug. 1, adding $5 million to $10 million to the airline's monthly fuel bill.

Delta is the second major airline to announce an additional increase. Pan American World Airways earlier announced plans to raise fares by 4.4 percent on Tuesday, but the increase was delayed until Sept. 21, a spokeswoman said.

Spokesman for American Airlines, in Dallas, Washington-based USAir and Minnesota-based Northwest said their airlines were studying Delta's fare increase. United Airlines, in Chicago, declined to comment.

''We're aware of it and we're studying it,'' said American spokesman Tim Smith.

Smith said the earlier 5.3 percent fare hike probably hurt business, but because the increase coincided with the traditional fall traffic slump, American was not able to gauge its true impact.

''Domestic travel in August was already down, international travel up. That trend has been continuing,'' Smith said. ''We have been seeing flat or slightly negative growth in domestic travel.''

Major airlines imposed the earlier 5.3 percent increase only after several weeks of uncertainty and delay. Several airlines scrapped proposals to hike fares by 10 percent when competitors failed to match those hikes.

Monroe at Delta said further surcharges are possible, based on what fuel prices do over the next several weeks and months.

DALLAS (SEPT. 13) UPI - Southland Corp. Thursday extended for the third time its offer to exchange $1.8 billion of publicly-held debt for new securities as part of a massive restructuring leading to sale of 70 percent of the company to Japanese partners.

The new deadline, unless further extended, is Sept. 25.

For the plan to go through, at least 95 percent of the outstanding notes must be tendered, as well as two-third of the outstanding preferred stock.

But Southland, which operates the 7-Eleven store chain, has already met the target for the preferred stock.

''Over the past two weeks, we've succeeded in identifying the vast majority of Southland security-holders who have not yet tendered their securities,'' said Clark Matthews, Southland's chief financial officer. ''Over the next eight days, we will intensify our efforts to communicate with them, to explain the merits of the proposed restructuring and to urge them to tender their securities.''

Once the exchange offer is successfully completed, Southland's Japanese partners, Ito-Yokado Co. Ltd. and Seven-Eleven Japan Co. would acquire 70 percent of the company's new common stock in return for a capital infusion of $430 million.

Of the remainder of the new common stock, the bond and preferred stock holders will get 25 percent and Southland's existing sharehoders the other 5 percent.

The $1.8 billion debt, mostly in junk bonds, is part of the $4.9 billion debt incurred by Southland's founding Thompson family when it too the company private in 1987.

Simultaneously with the latest announcement, Southland said its Japanese partners had agreed to extend the termination date of their stock purchase agreement to the same Sept. 25 deadline.

WARSAW, POLAND (SEPT. 13) UPI - Railway drivers held a one-hour wildcat warning strike Thursday over a pay dispute, delaying several dozen passenger trains in the most serious labor unrest for the Solidarity-led government since farmers' protests last summer.

The engine drivers union, which refused to join three other trade unions in accepting a government offer of a monthly pay increase equaling $5, called for a second warning strike Friday.

The strike, which mainly affected passengers trains in the north and southeast was joined by engine drivers of electric trains in the Baltic tri-city area of Gdansk, Gdynia and Sopot. Some trains going through Krakow and Poznan were also halted.

Neither the Solidarity union nor OPZZ, the formerly communist-run federation of trade unions, participated in the action.

Transport Minister Ewaryst Waligorski told parliament that the settlement reached with three rail unions provides for promotion of 65 percent of the workers. Such promotions, traditionally held Jan. 1 and Aug. 1, have not been held for three years, he said.

The agreement also provides that neither passenger nor freight rates will be raised, and the funds needed for the pay raises will come from reduced spending on repairs and purchases.

He said there are plans to close 1,200 miles of unprofitable railway lines and to reduce overall employment on the railways.

At Warsaw's Central Station, most trains did not appear to be affected by the strike, despite an announcement that some service might be delayed.

All international trains arrived on time during the strike, except one for which an unrelated 15-minute delay had been announced earlier.

BRUSSELS, BELGIUM (SEPT. 13) UPI - The European Community is considering a German draft of a transatlantic declaration stressing the EC's special relationship with the United States, diplomats said Thursday.

The declaration would call for cooperation in science and technology, drugs, the environment and security matters. It would also call strongly for free trade, said a diplomatic source who had seen the draft prepared by West Germany.

''It provides a general overview of the relation between the U.S. and the European Community in the political and economic spheres,'' the source said. ''It seeks to underline the importance of the relationship in light of all the recent changes in Europe, to stress that a special relationship exists.''

A draft declaration will likely be reviewed by EC leaders at a summit in Rome next month, and be taken by the EC president, Italian Prime Minister Giulio Andreotti, to the United States in early November for negotiation over the language, sources said.

Initial discussion of the document could begin at next Monday's meeting of EC foreign ministers in Brussels, diplomats said.

The declaration stems from U.S. Secretary of State James Baker's much-cited speech in Berlin last fall and from a June EC summit in Dublin, both of which called for closer transatlantic ties.

West Germany forwarded its draft to the EC executive Commission, which has also received suggestions from other EC delegations.

''A transatlatic declaration is the logical next step,'' said an EC Commission spokesman. ''It would send a political message that both parties are eager to identify areas of continuing cooperation.''

No opposition to such a declaration is expected from EC member states, though Britain is concerned such a statement could look silly if the current round of trade-liberalization talks collapse late this year.

The trade talks, known as the Uruguay Round of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, have been deadlocked over the issue of EC agricultural supports, and the United States has been the EC's leading critic. The talks are due to conclude in Brussels in December.

TALLAHASSEE, FL (SEPT. 13) UPI - The Florida Supreme Court ruled Thursday that the state constitution's guarantee of privacy gives incurably ill patients the right to refuse life support.

The court ruled in a unanimous decision that if the patient is unable to make such decisions for himself, but previously expressed his wishes in writing or in remarks to friends or loved ones while he was in a competent state, his guardians can withhold sustenance for him.

The opinion written by Justice Rosemary Barkett says essentially that the state has no business regulating private medical decisions, even for people who are mentally incapacitated.

''The right involved here is one of self-determination that cannot be qualified by the condition of the patient,'' Barkett wrote.

''We are persuaded that when the patient has taken the time and the trouble to specifically express his or her wishes for future health care in the event of later incapacity, the surrogate need not obtain prior judicial approval to carry out those wishes.''

The ruling applies regardless of whether there is an actual written living will. The court said that it is sufficient if a patient has expressed the desire not to be kept alive by artificial means.

The court said that such decisions need not be made solely by a legally designated guardian, but may also be made by family members or close friends. Additionally, persons holding proxies to make medical decisions for incompetent patients were given the authority to withhold life support.

The court recognized that its ruling might be open to abuse, but rejected the state's arguments that judges should be consulted.

''We are loath to impose a cumbersome legal proceeding at such a delicate time in those many cases where the patient neither needs nor desires additional protections,'' the court said.

The court's ruling stems from a suit filed by the guardians of Estelle Browning, an elderly woman from Pinellas County. A judge had refused to permit her legal guardian to carry out the terms of Browning's ''living will'' stipulating that she did not want to be kept alive artificially.

Browning died July 16, 1989. The court said it was deciding the case anyway to clarify the legal issues under the constitutional right to privacy.

The long-awaited ruling came under privacy language inserted in the Florida Constitution through a 1978 referendum. The court used the same language one year ago to uphold the right of women and teenaged girls to seek abortions.

''We're buoyed by the decison, certainly, and will look for the continued extension of privacy rights within the state of Florida,'' said Robyn Blumner, director of the Florida chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union.

The court did say that the surrogate must make sure the patient signed any living will willingly and without undue influence, or that any oral declaration is reliable; that there is no reasonable possibility of recovery; and that any limitations in the written or oral declarations are satisfied.

In meeting those obligations, the court ruled, the surrogate may rely upon a certificate signed by three doctors.

The court said it would permit legal challenges only on the question of whether a patient is really terminally ill or suffering an incurable illness, whether he or she has had a change of mind since making the declaration, or whether the particular details of the patient's declaration are being honored.

The focus should be on what the patient would have wanted, the court said, and not on what the guardian wants.

In 1986, at age 86, Browning suffered brain damage in a stroke that left her unable to swallow. She was placed in a nursing home where she required constant care and had to be fed through tubes, according to court records.

Two years later, with Browning plagued by physical difficulties including numerous episodes of vomiting and bleeding, her cousin and only living relative, Doris Herbert, asked a circuit judge to have her feeding tube removed.

However, the judge ruled Browning's condition was not covered under Florida's living will law because her illness was not technically terminal and the law did not provide for withdrawal of sustenance, although it has since been changed to cover situations such as hers.

WASHINGTON (SEPT. 13) UPI - Federal Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan urged lawmakers Thursday to be cautious in their efforts to reform the federal deposit insurance system, which runs the risk of depletion should the economy worsen or a major bank fail.

Greenspan's comments came amid reports from the General Accounting Office and the Congressional Budget Office that the $13.2 billion insurance fund, which protects depositors when banks fail, is facing its greatest danger since the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. was created in 1933, at the depth of the Great Depression.

''Reform is required. So is caution,'' Greenspan told the House Banking Committee.

''If we were starting from scratch, the board believes it would be difficult to make the case that deposit insurance coverage should be as high as its current $100,000 level,'' Greenspan said.

Greenspan also said he supports requiring banks to maintain higher levels of capital as a way to ease the strain on the deposit insurance system. Such a move also would tend to speed the move toward bank consolidation and slow bank asset growth.

''Higher capital standards should go a long way toward inducing market-like behavior by banks,'' Greenspan said.

The GAO said the fund's 1989 financial statement showed a loss of $852 million during the year, marking its second consecutive loss. A GAO audit showed the fund's balance declined 28 percent during the past two years to $13.2 billion from $18.3 billion due to steady levels of high bank failures.

Although the bank insurance fund is under considerable stress, Greenspan said there is no need to panic.

Several members of the committee told Greenspan they believed banks are following the same disasterous path as the thrift industry.

''There is a great dal of fear in Congress and the country that we are going through this whole thing all over again,'' said Rep. Charles Schumer, D-N.Y.

But Greenspan disagreed, noting that the banking industry, overall, is better capitalized than thrifts and that banks face tougher federal supervision.

''The order of the magnitude of the size of the problem is quite different,'' Greenspan said.

Greenspan also repeated his suggestions that the Federal Reserve would move to ease interest rates should the White House and lawmakers agree to a substantial reduction in the federal budget deficit.

''If there is enacted a credible, enforceable budget agreement, such that the markets perceive this is real and not just goals that are vague, it is my judgment that long-term interest rates will go down,'' he said.

He told the panel that the Fed's easing in June was prompted by the independent tightening by banks of consumer credit. Although he said a substantial portion of the credit pullback was good, he believes bankers went overboard.

''In the last couple of months it was more restrictive than necessary,'' he said.

(SEPT. 13) UPI - Iraq's ambassador to the United States now says an eight-minute videotape made by President Bush will get an airing, if it is sent to Baghdad through the proper channels. Bush made the tape yesterday to tell the Iraqi people just why the rest of the world is against their government's move into Kuwait. The ambassador says the tape will be broadcast in Iraq five times and then released to the rest of the world.

The 50-member nations of the Commonwealth organization support Kuwait , but the organization will NOT become involved in the Persian Gulf crisis. Hundreds of thousands of people from the former British colonies making up the Commonwealth worked in the area when Iraq invaded Kuwait. Thousands made it back to their homes, but thousands more are still trapped by the conflict.

The questioning of U-S Supreme Court nominee David Souter has begun in Washington... and the major question now is- how far will members of the Senate Judiciary Committee go in trying to find out everything they can. Committee Chairman Joseph Biden says that while he won't push for specific answers, he wants to know the principles and philosophies that Souter embodies.

A small army of searchers are using everything from metal detectors to trained dogs as they go over every inch of ground near the area where five University of Florida students died last week. Searchers plan to cover one-thousand to two-thousand acres of land within a 10-square-mile area of the Gainseville murder scenes looking for anything they can. They have instructions to mark anything suspicious but to touch nothing.

#90256u1280 09/13/1990 ~United Press International

WASHINGTON (SEPT. 13) UPI - Energy Secretary James Watkins said Thursday the world faces an ''uncertain'' oil supply situation later this year and that a decision is possible by October on tapping government-held strategic petroleum reserves to offset the loss of Middle East oil.

Watkins, appearing before the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee to discuss the cutoff of Kuwaiti and Iraqi oil, also announced a new 14-point program to encourage energy conservation, promote fuel- switching and boost domestic oil production over the next 18 to 24 months.

Among those ''medium-term'' measures, Watkins asked Congress to approve legislation to open up Alaska's Arctic National Wildlife Refuge to oil exploration - an effort that has been stalled since the Exxon Valdez oil spill in March 1989.

The program also calls for:

-Speeding up government approval of natural gas pipeline projects and incinerators that burn garbage to produce energy.

-A presidential order directing federal agencies to buy more alternative-fuel cars and increase energy efficiency in government buildings.

-A national advertising campaign to encourage Americans to conserve oil by reducing electricity use, replacing inefficient furnaces and using lower-octane gasoline.

On a related issue, Watkins urged caution on bills to penalize price- gouging at the pump by oil companies. He said that while gasoline prices had gone up suspiciously fast, similar price-gouging charges were made last winter about heating oil, but a subsequent government investigation showed no abuses.

As for the overall oil supply outlook, Watkins said there were no immediate concerns, partly because the world still had access to Kuwaiti and Iraqi oil shipped before the world imposed an embargo on Iraq as punishment for its Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait.

But he said there could be a squeeze when the full impact of the trade embargo against Iraq kicks in later this fall.

''The full effects of the oil embargo will not be fully evident until late September,'' Watkins said. ''We view the current market as relatively stable, but uncertain about future supply.''

''I don't like to say now there is going to be a shortage because that's a self-fulfilling prophecy,'' he added. ''I believe we can manage this.''

Watkins said the United States and its allies were taking aggressive measures to improve conservation and raise oil production, with Saudi Arabia, Venezuala and other oil-producing nations pledging major increases.

But he said there was still a shortfall that currently was being covered by draw-down of existing commercial oil stocks. He said commercial stocks were very high earlier this year, but quickly were being depleted and likely would reach ''normal'' levels by the end of September.

He said the world community would review the oil supply situation - and the possible use of government-held strategic petroleum reserves - at a meeting of the International Energy Agency scheduled for late September.

''That will be a very key meeting as to whether the (conservation) measures we all agreed to are doing the job,'' Watkins said.

He said the status of commercial oil stocks would be a crucial factor in determining whether the U.S. government, Japan, West Germany and others begin selling off their strategic reserves.

''It's going to be a stocks issue,'' he said. ''I don't think any of us want to use it (strategic reserves) too quickly. It's a finite resource.''

Watkins said the administration would not open up its 590-million- gallon Strategic Petroleum Reserve - half of all government-held strategic stocks - unless other countries took similar action.

Short of tapping its strategic reserve, Watkins said the Energy Department already had achieved substantial success in reducing U.S. oil imports with various ''short-term'' conservation and production initiatives announced Aug. 15. Those ranged from higher output from Alaskan oil fields to pleas that Americans keep their car tires properly inflated to ensure optimum gas mileage.

All told, Watkins said he hoped to cut U.S. oil imports by over 1 million barrels a day to help offset the loss of 4.3 million barrels of Kuwaiti and Iraqi oil daily.

Among the 14 new ''medium-term'' energy security initiatives, Watkins urged Congress to act on several administration legislative proposals, including more tax incentives for exploratory drilling and the bill to open up the Arctic wildlife refuge to oil companies.

''The time has come to move forward on the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge in an environmentally sound manner,'' Watkins said. ''The coastal plain of the refuge should be explored, and if significant resources are found, it should be developed without damage to wildlife.''

The Senate energy panel approved legislation authorizing exploration in early March of 1989, but the bill was shelved following national outrage over the grievous environmental damage caused by the Exxon Valdez disaster.

JERUSALEM (SEPT. 13) UPI - Israeli officials Thursday played down U.S. Secretary of State James Baker's visit to Syria, but analysts wondered whether the new alliances forged by the gulf crisis would not place greater pressure on Israel.

Baker's scheduled Friday meeting with Syrian President Hafez Assad is the first such diplomatic visit in almost a decade and coincides with Syria's announcement it was prepared to send more troops to the gulf region to deter Iraqi aggression.

Foreign Minister David Levy has said Baker assured him no decision would be taken during the visit ''behind Israel's back or at Israel's expense.'' Among Israel's Arab neighbors, Syria is the most steadfast foe.

''I don't see any sign of any pressure on Israel nor do I see any need for any pressure since we issued a public invitation to Mr. Assad to come and talk peace with us,'' said Yossi Olmert, director of Israel's Government Press Office and an expert on Syria. ''We don't need anyone to pressure us to do it again.''

Earlier this year, Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir issued an appeal to Arab leaders, particularly to Assad, to negotiate peace with Israel. Egypt is the only Arab nation to have made peace with Israel, with the signing of the 1978 Camp David Accords.

While the gulf crisis and Syria's role is expected to be at the top of Baker's talks with Assad, the Israeli-Arab conflict would be on the back burner and ''certainly as general thoughts for the future,'' Israeli analyst Amos Gilboa said.

''The central question that will begin to concern (Israel) from now is - will there be a softening of the harsh Syrian standpoints with regards a settlement with Israel?'' Gilboa wrote in a front-page commentary in the Ma'ariv newspaper. ''Or in fact will the position of strength that Assad is to be found in at the moment strengthen his harshness and motivate him to pressure the United States to draw compromises from Israel?

''I tend to the second possibility. We will wait and see,'' Gilboa said.

If the gulf crisis pushes Syria into a more moderate position toward Israel and into a peace process, Olmert said, Damascus ''would be most welcome.''

''But I think there is a fundamental problem here that we ought to pay attention to. Coalitions, alliances and new order, all these nice terms that people attach to the current situation in the Middle East, are all determined by the gulf situation,'' he said.

''I would caution if people think that those coalitions are going necessarily to survive beyond the crisis and to become a permanent set of life in the Middle East.''

MOSCOW (SEPT. 13) UPI - President Mikhail Gorbachev, facing a chorus of demands for Premier Nikolai Ryzhkov's resignation, is on the verge of taking urgent steps to stabilize the economy, a senior aide said Thursday.

Nikolai Petrakov, Gorbachev's personal economic adviser, also told reporters that the Soviet leader wants to see the beginning of a market economy established by Jan. 1 with a partial freeing of prices from state control.

''We are drawing the line under the command-administrative methods of management that dominated our economy,'' Petrakov said. ''We believe that these methods did not stand the test of time. They have discredited themselves. The best proof of which methods are better is the end result. We are going through a deep economic crisis.''

In an interview broadcast Thursday evening on national television, Boris Yeltsin, radical leader of the Russian Federation, accused Ryzhkov of blocking fundamental economic change and called again for the prime minister to resign along with his central government.

''We do not have any time left,'' Yeltsin said. ''Time today is our biggest shortage.''

The Russian republic's Parliament headed by Yeltsin, which Tuesday approved a radical economic program to take effect Oct. 1, continued its aggressive campaign by setting up free enterprise zones in several areas in the huge republic that takes up three-quarters of the Soviet Union.

The central government, meanwhile, released new statistics showing that the Soviet economy weakened further in August with a 1.7 percent drop in industrial production, the steepest monthly fall this year.

Amid a host of other shortages, a government official said state- owned presses that print newspapers, passports and currency are running out of ink and may have to shut down in several weeks.

Petrakov said that Gorbachev within several days will likely create an ''emergency inter-republican economic council'' that will be accountable to him and charged with coordinating urgent measures implemented by presidential decree.

Petrakov's disclosure indicated that Gorbachev may not wait for action by the Soviet Parliament, which has been bogged down in bitter debate over competing economic-reform plans.

Yeltsin supports the creation of an emergency council under Gorbachev's command, Petrakov said.

''I believe, and my opinion is shared by Yeltsin, that the new body should be responsible to the Soviet president, especially if we take into account that, according to the Constitution, he can quickly issue decrees,'' Petrakov said.

Petrakov was part of a 13-member panel set up last month by Gorbachev and Yeltsin, which used Yeltsin's bold ''500 Days'' program for Russia as the basis of a plan for the whole country.

The radical strategy has been opposed by Ryzhkov, who warned the Soviet Parliament Tuesday that it would cause rampant inflation, unemployment and a sharp drop in living standards. Ryzhkov is pushing his own program, which keep central pricing and maintain a large degree of central control over the economy.

Yeltsin has vowed to implement the radical plan in the Russian Federation on Oct. 1 whether or not the Soviet legislature has approved it by then. He said Thursday that the first 100 days would be focused on stabilizing the ruble, the Soviet currency that has become virtually worthless in its own country.

Petrakov also said the first emergency steps taken by Gorbachev should be to stem the ruble's decline, but neither he nor Yeltsin provided details on how it might be strengthened.

Moscow Mayor Gavriil Popov added his voice to the chorus of demands for Ryzhkov's resignation, telling the independent Interfax news service that Gorbachev will not be able to implement radical reforms as long as Ryzhkov is in power.

Petrakov sharply rebutted Ryzhkov's criticism of the radical economic program, accusing his government of pursuing a ''scorched earth'' policy of obstruction.

''The market must begin on Jan. 1, 1991,'' Petrakov said. ''We cannot leave this business to the ministries. The ministries must go.''

Yeltsin said the huge central ministries that have run the Soviet economy for seven decades must be eliminated. He said the Russian republic will eventually be administered by just four or five ministries, with most power wielded by local authorities.

WASHINGTON (SEPT. 13) UPI - The Senate voted Thursday to relax restrictions on exports of sophisticated technology, helping open new markets for American producers in Eastern Europe and other areas.

The Senate approved the bill, which extends controls through 1990, to the House that has passed its own version of the bill.

The measure adopted by the Senate would bring U.S. restrictions on the sale of high-tech goods to Eastern Europe in line with those adopted this summer by the 17-nation Coordinating Committee for Multilateral Export Controls (Cocom).

The controls, first adopted in 1979, were designed to keep computers and other sophisticated technology with potential military use away from the Soviet Union and countries behind the now-demolished Iron Curtain.

The bill would make it easier to export the high-tech goods to Central and Eastern European countries - although not to the Soviet Union - and also would sharply reduce the number of items subject to controls.

The legislation would also permit the federal Export-Import Bank to finance military sales for the first time in 20 years.

WASHINGTON (SEPT. 13) UPI - The 2,500-man 13th Marine Expeditionary Unit capable of amphibious landings and special operations has moved into the Persian Gulf, posing a seaborne threat to Iraqi forces occupying Kuwait.

The 13th MEU, based at Okinawa, is supported in the gulf by the battleship USS Wisconsin, whose powerful 16-inch guns can bombard enemy positions if a conflict erupts and it is decided to land U.S. forces on Kuwaiti beaches.

The Marine unit, codenamed Amphibious Ready Group Alpha, is described in messages to the Pentagon as being ''special operations capable,'' which a defense official said meant the Marines had been trained in hostage-rescue situations and in seizing key posts.

In addition, at least nine amphibious ships carrying the 15,000-man 4th Marine Expeditionary Brigade from Norfolk, Va., were in the Gulf of Oman Thursday and on their way to the Persian Gulf.

This will be the final 15,000-strong Marine unit to arrive in the region, where some 30,000 Marines are already holding down forward positions on the ground in northern Saudi Arabia, authorities said.

Defense officials have refused to publicly disclose numbers of U.S. troops or forces in the region, other than to say there are ''well over 100,000 military personnel'' in the area, including more than 55 American warships.

Pentagon officials who asked not be identified said there are more than 140,000 U.S. military personnel in Saudi Arabia and the Middle East. This includes between 30,000 and 40,000 naval forces aboard the 55 warships, and another 30,000 Air Force personnel. The remaining 70,000 are ground troops.

Air Force Gen. John Loh disclosed in a speech this week that the Air Force has the equivalent of five tactical fighter wings committed to Operation Desert Shield. There are 72 planes in a wing, meaning there are at least 360 F-15s, F-16s, A-10s and F-117A stealth fighters in the region.

In addition, Loh said, ''Long-range strategic B-52 bombers are poised in the region capable of striking at the heart of Iraqi's industry and leadership if required.''

The Navy's three aircraft carriers in the region carry another 70 combat aircraft each, for a total of 210 aircraft. That means there are about 600 U.S. Navy and Air Force fighters, bombers and attack aircraft in the area.

OTTAWA (SEPT. 13) UPI - Federal government policies and weakening growth could plunge Canada's largest provinces into a recession before the end of the year, the Conference Board of Canada warned Thursday.

The organization, a respected economic think tank, said the manufacturing sector, based mainly in Ontario and Quebec, was already in recession because of the sluggish U.S. economy, a highly-priced Canadian dollar and weakening domestic consumption.

Gilles Rheaume, spokesman for the Board's forecasting and analysis group, also warned that Atlantic Canada and the four western provinces, which have posted economic growth well above the national average this year, will follow central Canada into a recession in 1991.

''Overall, the Canadian economy is entering a very difficult period of sluggish growth and potential recession,'' Rheaume said.

The Conference Board report followed an admission last week by Finance Minister Michael Wilson that the country was possibly heading into a recession. Wilson made the comment after Statistics Canada figures showed the economy had shrunk for the first three months of this year after nearly four years of growth.

''It's a possibility, but it's too early to say,'' Wilson said when asked whether the country was headed into a recession.

Canada last suffered a recession, technically defined as two consecutive quarters of declining gross domestic product, in 1981-82. At that time, the economy declined for six quarters, before rebounding.

Rheaume said the Bank of Canada, the country's central bank, would likely continue its strict monetary policy, including high interest rates, at least until late 1991 to stave off inflation.

Rheaume said no province would escape the effects of high interest rates, which include lower consumer spending, housing and capital spending.

In addition, he said the federal government's plan to implement an eight percent tax on goods and services next January 1 would restrict personal spending and housing in all provinces in 1991.

The combination of high interest rates and the new tax ''will lead to weak growth in all parts of Canada in 1991,'' he said.

Meanwhile Thursday, the Bank of Canada dropped its trend-setting rate to 12.70 percent from 12.82 a week ago, the 12th such decline in as many weeks.

In response, the Bank of Montreal dropped its lending rate on prime loans to 13.75 percent from 14 percent.

John Crow, governor of the Bank of Canada, said the slight progress in battling inflation could be upset by the recent surge in oil prices and the proposed goods and services tax. If inflationary pressures intensify, he said, the Bank of Canada will respond with higher interest rates.

BETHESDA, MD (SEPT. 13) UPI - The first official effort at human gene therapy is expected to start Friday when government scientists insert genes into the cells of a 4-year-old child to correct an immune system defect, officials said Thursday.

National Institutes of Health researchers will attempt the ground- breaking therapy ''pending Food and Drug Administration approval, the clinical status of the child, and readiness of the gene-corrected cells for infusion,'' according to an NIH statement.

The child suffers from a condition known as ADA Deficiency, a rare childhood immune system deficiency that afflicted the famed Texas ''bubble boy.''

The disease affects no more than 20 children worldwide at any given time, and in the past, some affected youngsters lived in plastic bubbles to guard against life-threatening infections. Now, most such children undergo bone marrow transplants or receive injections of the missing enzyme.

The disorder is caused by defect in a gene that prevents the production of an enzyme known as adenosine deaminase.

Dr. W. French Anderson of the National Heart, Lung, and Blood Institute and Dr. R. Michael Blaese of the National Cancer Institute lead a team of scientist who plan to insert correct copies of the gene into the young patient's white blood cells and then put the cells back into the body.

Anderson's team plans to perform gene therapy on three to four children annually who do not have siblings who can donate bone marrow and who are not responding well to enzyme replacement.

The proposal has gone through more than three years of review to address concerns of critics who worry gene therapy could lead to ethically questionable attempts at genetic engineering.

Although the first two government-sanctioned plans for gene therapy involve relatively rare diseases, the work could pave the way for development of a new breed of treatments for a wide range of illnesses.

An NIH advisory panel in July endorsed two plans to use gene therapy to treat children with depressed immune systems and cancer patients.

The FDA is still reviewing the proposal of Dr. Steven Rosenberg of the National Cancer Institute, who applied two weeks ago to use gene therapy to enhance another experimental therapy in patients suffering from melanoma, a rare, deadly type of skin cancer.

Jeremy Rifkin, president of the non-profit Foundation on Economic Trends in Washington, has criticized the plan to use gene therapy in children.

''We feel the experiment is premature and we question whether it has any redeeming value as an experiment,'' said Rifkin, who for 13 years has called for tighter regulation of genetic research to prevent misuse.

Rifkin noted the current enzyme replacement drug is marginally effective to very effective in the sick children, and even the researchers caution that gene therapy might trigger cancer or cause antibiotic resistance.

''Technology is rushing way ahead of the willingness of the government to make sure it is not abused and does not run amok,'' he said.

Every person has about 100,000 genes bearing the instructions for everything from eye color to the risk of developing certain diseases. Gene therapy involves inserting genes with correct information into cells that contain defective genes, or putting in new genes that code for disease-fighting substances.

Ten years ago, without the government's approval, Dr. Martin Cline from the University of California-Los Angeles unsucessfully tried gene transplant techniques on two women with an inherited blood disorder. The NIH severely reprimanded Cline, and there has been an unofficial moratorium on such experiments since.

WASHINGTON (SEPT. 13) UPI - As of Thursday, the United States had committed the following forces to Saudi Arabia and nearby waters in support of Operation Desert Shield. The forces in the gulf region or designated to go include:

Navy
Joint Task Force-Middle East
(In the Persian Gulf - 13 ships)
1 Joint Task Force Command ship: USS LaSalle
1 Battleship: USS Wisconsin
1 Amphibious command ship: USS Blue Ridge, flagship for the commander of U.S. naval forces, U.S. Central Command.
2 Cruisers: USS England and USS Antietam
2 Destroyers: USS David R. Ray, one other
3 Frigates: USS Robert G. Bradley, USS Barbey, one other. Three Amphibious ships carrying the 2,500-man 13th Marine Expeditionary Unit, or Amphibious Ready Group Alpha, from Okinawa.

Independence Battle Group
(In the Gulf of Oman - 18 ships)
1 Carrier: USS Independence
1 Cruiser: USS Jouett
1 Destroyer: USS Goldsborough
2 Frigate: USS Reid and USS Brewton
4 Supply ships
9 Marine amphibious ships carrying the 15,000-man 4th Marine Expeditionary Brigade headed for the Persian Gulf.

(In the Gulf of Aden)
Five amphibious ships of the 4th Marine Expeditionary Brigade are trailing behind, in the Gulf of Aden.
Saratoga Battle Group

(In the Red Sea - 8 ships)
1 Carrier: USS Saratoga
2 Cruisers: USS Philippine Sea and USS Biddle
1 Destroyer: USS Sampson
3 Frigates: USS Elmer Montgomery, USS Thomas C. Hart and USS Samuel B. Roberts
1 Fast combat ship

Kennedy Battle Group
(In the Mediterranean - more than 15 ships)
1 Carrier: USS John F. Kennedy
4 Cruisers: USS Mississippi, USS San Jacinto, USS Thomas S. Gates, one other
2 Destroyers: USS Moosbrugger, one other
4 Auxiliary ships
4 Amphibious ships, Mediterranean Amphibious Ready Group 3-90, carrying the 2,500-man 26th Marine Expeditionary Unit.
Other U.S. warships, including the 6th Fleet flagship, the USS Belknap, are in the Mediterranean.

Air Force
Military Airlift Command (MAC) C-141, C-5 and C-130 cargo aircraft are involved in moving personnel and equipment to the Middle East
-Strategic Air Command (SAC) KC-135 and KC-10 aerial tankers are refueling aircraft en route to the Middle East.
-F-15 Eagle fighters from 1st Tactical Fighter Wing, Langley Air Force Base, Va.
-F-15E Eagle fighters from 4th Tactical Fighter Wing, Seymour Johnson Air Force Base, N.C.
-F-16 Fighting Falcon fighters from 363rd Tactical Fighter Wing, Shaw Air Force Base, S.C.
-E-3 Airborne Warning and Control System (AWACS) planes from 552nd Airborne Warning and Control Wing, Tinker Air Force Base, Okla.
-RC-135 reconnaissance aircraft.
-F-117A stealth fighter-bombers from 37th Tactical Fighter Wing, Tonopah Test Range Airfield, Nev.
-A-10 Thunderbolt II ground-attack aircraft from 354th Tactical Fighter Wing, Myrtle Beach Air Force Base, S.C.
-F-111F fighter-bombers from 48th Tactical Fighter Wing, Royal Air Force, Lakenheath, England.
-F-4G Wild Weasel fighters from 35th Tactical Fighter Wing, George Air Force Base, Calif.
-C-130 Hercules cargo aircraft from 435th Tactical Airlift Wing, Rhein Main Air Base, West Germany; 317th Tactical Airlift Wing, Pope Air Force Base, N.C.; and 314th Tactical Airlift Wing, Little Rock Air Force Base, Ark.
-Air Transportable Hospitals from MacDill, Langley, Shaw, Seymour Johnson and Myrtle Beach Air Force bases.
-F-16 jets from 401st Tactical Fighter Wing, Torrejon Air Base, Spain, to Qatar.

Army - Elements of:
-1st Cavalry Division, Fort Hood, Texas
-2nd Armored Division, Fort Hood.
-82nd Airborne Division, Fort Bragg, N.C.

-24th Infantry (Mechanized) Division, Fort Stewart, Ga.
-101st Airborne Division, Fort Campbell, Ky.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (SEPT. 13) UPI - A divorced woman Thursday lost her landmark court battle for exclusive custody of ''my babies'' - the seven frozen embryos she hoped to donate to another couple against her ex-husband's wishes.

The Tennessee Court of Appeals struck down Blount County Circuit Judge W. Dale Young's unprecedented ruling that awarded custody of the fertilized eggs to Mary Sue Davis Stowe rather than her ex-husband, Junior Davis.

Young ruled last September that the embryos are ''human beings,'' even if formed in a laboratory dish, and cannot be destroyed as mere tissue.

But the appeals court pointed out that the eggs were fertilized through ''mechanical manipulation'' and that ''at this juncture there is no development of the nervous system, the circulatory system, or the pulmonary system.''

The appeals court sent the case back to Young and ordered him to award the couple joint custody of the embryos they created at an in vitro fertilization center before deciding to divorce last year.

''On the facts of this case, it would be repugnant and offensive to constitutional principles to order Mary Sue to implant these fertilized ova against her will,'' the appeals court ruled.

''It would be equally repugnant to order Junior to bear the psychological, if not the legal, consequences of paternity against his will. Jointly, the parties share an interest in the seven fertilized ova.''

Lawyers for Mary Sue Davis Stowe could not be reached. But Junior Davis's lawyer, Charles Clifford, said the ruling means the embryos will be held in frozen storage indefinitely unless the couple agree on their use.

''It's precisely what we had asked the trial and appeals courts for,'' Clifford said. ''We hope she accepts this opinion as just. They should have equal say. Neither of them has the right to compel the other to live with the disposition.''

During the custody trial, Stowe, who is childless, called the seven fertilized eggs ''my babies,'' and urged Young to let her have them implanted in her womb.

But in appeals court papers filed in May, Stowe, who since has remarried, told the court she wanted ''to donate the embryos so that another childless couple may use them.'' Stowe, 28, refused to say why she changed her mind.

Junior Davis, 30, who was raised in a broken home, argued during the custody trial that use of the embryos would force him into unwanted fatherhood. He wanted the eggs frozen indefinitely unless he and his ex- wife agreed on their use.

After his ex-wife filed the appeals court papers, Davis objected to use of the eggs by another couple, telling reporters his ex-wife had a serious drinking problem and consumed a six-pack of beer at a sitting even after she entered the in vitro fertilization program at Fort Sanders Medical Center in October 1988.

''The court needs to know it,'' Davis said. ''If they rule against me and allow these to be donated, these things could possibly be defective because of alcoholism. I don't want another couple to have them just as I don't want her to have them.''

Stowe's family denied she had a drinking problem.

The custody trial focused the nation's attention on the moral dilemmas posed by in vitro fertilization. In making his ruling, Young acknowledged there were no laws to guide him. The nation's population of frozen embryos exceeds 4,000 but no state has established rules for their handling or disposition.

Junior Davis's appeal argued that Young overstepped his authority in determining that ''life begins at conception'' and awarding the embryos the protection generally accorded human life.

DHAHRAN, Saudi Arabia (SEPT. 13) UPI - Gen. Colin Powell toured U.S. military positions in eastern Saudi Arabia Thursday, and was questioned by American soldiers about how long they might be stationed in the hot and dusty desert as a bulwark against the armies of Saddam Hussein.

The chairman of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff said during a press conference there were now ''well, well over 100,000'' U.S. personnel involved in the operational theater being constructed.

He said there had been ''glitches'' in the massive logistical operation to move further heavy armor into the kingdom, but refused to comment on a Washington Post report that delays had meant full deployment would not be until November.

''There have been certain parts of the deployment that have been slower than we would have expected,'' America's highest ranking serviceman said, explaining that the holdups were mostly maritime. ''But you have to stand back from those glitches and see what we have been able to accomplish in five weeks.''

The four-star general also refused to be drawn by several questions about when the American military may have adequate forces to stage an offensive and end the Iraqi occupation of Kuwait, which began with Baghdad's Aug. 2 invasion.

''The only mission I have been assigned is to deter and defend,'' he said. ''The force is being structured for that purpose.''

The four-star general toured an air base and a hospital before traveling by helicopter to desert positions of the 24th Infantry Division (Mechanized), which has the M1 tanks regarded as vital should the Bush administration and allied Arab forces decide it time to advance against Iraq. He then traveled to a port facility and a final air base, where he met personnel of the Marine Air Wing and was given a briefing.

At most stops, the senior soldier was repeatedly asked by low-ranking personnel when they might be leaving from their new deployments, which began full-scale Aug. 8.

At a hospital lab he shook hands with Sgt. Robert Tate, who, when asked how he was doing, replied, ''I would be better if I was at home.''

''Me too,'' replied Powell.

One staffer called out as the general was leaving the ward, ''Are you going to get us out of here, sir?''

Powell said that he was ''trying to get everybody out of here fast.''

At the 1st Tactical Air Wing, Powell told a group of troopers, ''Don't have any second thoughts about the importance of your mission ... I wish I could tell you when it will be over. Everybody wants that answer. I just don't have it yet.''

The soldiers gave a barely audible, ''Yes, sir,'' when asked if they were getting regular mail and showers. But when Powell asked if they wanted to return to their base in Virginia, they bellowed an affirmative response.

Powell told reporters that the Pentagon was investigating rotating troops through if the stay is long term. Free mail was probable, and authorities were also trying to make available for service personnel telephone calls home and a facsimile service, he said.

Powell also said the chain of command between the U.S. forces and allied Arab ground troops was ''clean and clear and precise.'' Assignment by geographical sector and exchanging liaison officers were ways of making the vastly different militaries more compatible, he said.

He said the Iraqi forces were stationed in Kuwait in a circular formation along the coast and border.

''We have learned with Mr. Saddam Hussein not to simply look at his positions on the ground and think we are seeing the whole truth,'' Powell said. ''It is right now a robust defense, but has the capability to become an offensive operation.''

Powell was scheduled Friday to visit a U.S. naval vessel in the Persian Gulf before leaving the area.

(SEPT. 13) UPI - The Senate Judiciary Committee today opened its confirmation hearing of Supreme Court nominee David Souter with a stern warning for the New Hampshire jurist. The Democrat-dominated panel told Souter that he has to prove he deserves a spot on the nation's highest court at this- quote- ''critical constitutional crossroad.'' .

The hearings were briefly interrupted by members of the AIDS activist group ACT-UP. A man in the audience stood up and shouted- in his words- ''Judge Souter is unacceptable.'' Several other people began shouting and throwing leaflets in the air before security officials removed them from the room.

A Northwest Airlines jet is flying 263 Americans who had been held in Iraq home to the United States. The plane took off this morning from Gatwick Airport near London, where the Americans arrived late yesterday on a flight with other foreign hostages. The Northwest flight is to arrive in Raleigh, North Carolina, this afternoon. .

The top U-S military commander in Saudi Arabia says problems in transporting equipment to the region is causing a delay in the full buildup of American forces. Army General Norman Schwarzkopf says the operation will take two more months because ships carrying heavy combat equipment are breaking down.

Thousands of South Africans fled black townships near Johannesburg when officials cut power in response to a boycott of utility payments. Women and children filled halls of clinics and a major hospital as they fled renewed internecine fighting and the lack of electricity. WASHINGTON (SEPT. 13) UPI - The United States admitted 107,000 refugees in 1989, the most since 1981, with the largest group coming from the Soviet Union the government said Thursday.

Refugees are people who fled their country because of political, religious or nationality persecution and are eligible for U.S. financial assistance. Immigrants, on the other hand, left their country of origin for economic or other reasons and are ineligible for automatic financial aid.

The figures were included in the Refugee Resettlement Program's annual report to Congress. The program, which falls under the Department of Health and Human Services, reimburses states and private sector groups for the cost of providing cash, medical assistance and social services to help the refugees become employed and self-sufficient. Total funding in 1989 was $380 million.

The 107,000 refugees admitted to the United States in 1989 represented the largest wave of admissions since 1981, when 158,000 came to America. It was also an increase of 31,000 over the 1988 level of 76, 800 refugees.

While the 1989 figure was relatively high, it did not reach the refugee ceiling of 116,500 set by the government for 1989.

Of the 107,000, 39,414 came from the Soviet Union, double the 1988 number and the largest yearly total ever recorded for that group. The bulk of the Soviet refugees were Jews, with the remainder primarily Pentecostal Christians and Armenians.

New York was the most popular destination for the Soviet refugees, especially the Jews, while Northwestern states became home for most of the Pentecostals and California for the Armenians.

Others making up the 107,000 refugee pool included 37,066 Southeast Asians, 8,721 Amerasians (children with a Vietnamese mother and American father); 4,826 Iranians; 3,808 Cubans; 3,579 Polish; 3,282 Romanians; 2, 220 Cambodians; 1,745 Afghans and 1,724 Ethiopians.

The nearly 46,000 Southeast Asian and Amerasians represented a 29.2 percent increase from 1988 but just shy of the 50,000 ceiling set for both groups. Not surprisingly, 38.6 percent of the Southeast Asians and Amerasians settled in California, with about a dozen other states receiving much smaller numbers.

Of the total 107,000 refugees, California received the most, with 31, 089; followed by New York, 20,033; Illinois and Florida, each receiving 5,000-6,000; Texas, Washington, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts, each receiving 3,000-5,000; New Jersey, 2,000-3,000, with other states receiving the rest.

''A key to refugee resettlement success is our actions to address the distinctive problems of newly arrived refugees,'' said Jo Anne Barnhart, Health and Human Services Assistant Secretary for Family Support.

''With the success of programs such as vocational training and English language training last year, over 24,000 refugees were placed in unsubsidized employment. These individuals and their families are now repaying this country through with work efforts and their tax dollars,'' she said.

Since 1975, the United States has admitted more than 1.3 million refugees.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (SEPT. 13) UPI - Two gangs armed with guns and machetes rampaged through a train near Johannesburg, killing at least 26 commuters and wounding more than 100 in a bloody surge of black factional violence Thursday, authorities said.

Police expected the death toll to climb as patrols discovered more bodies.

The attack came after thousands of refugees poured out of black townships east of Johannesburg seeking safety from renewed strife which has razed hundreds of houses and shacks.

The train slaughter pushed the death toll in the sixth week of battles to more than 720.

Six men boarded the train at Jeppe station near Johannesburg and began gunning down and hacking commuters, sending people jumping from the carriages for safety and leaving dead and injured strewn on the seats and between the tracks police spokesman Col. Frans Malherbe said.

A second gang jumped on at Benrose station, down the line, and attacked the fleeing and panic-stricken people with machetes, Malherbe added.

He said both gangs fled the scene together.

''They were madmen, they wanted to kill us all and we screamed like animals,'' passenger Gladys Mncini shouted as paramedics dressed a gash in her arm while she lay beside the rails.

Fourteen-year-old David Mokaba, breathless with fear and hugging two younger sisters in a makeshift aid station, panted, ''I kicked open the doors... I was so scared... we all jumped out together.''

Paramedic Joe van Wyk said, ''It's a slaughter house out there, a bloody slaughter house'' and a nurse at the Hillbrow hospital reported the injured ''are coming in wide-eyed and stunned, like automatons.''

Malherbe said 15 people were killed and the hospitals reported 11 other deaths.

Paramedics estimated a calculation by Malherbe of at least 100 injuries was conservative and said scores more people might have been hurt while jumping but had not come in for treatment.

Police sealed off the train and launched a massive hunt for the attackers. Dozens of ambulances were summoned from across the city to ferry the injured from staging points near the train to nearby hospitals in and around Johannesburg.

Law and Order Minister Adriaan Vlok expressed his ''shock and revulsion'' at the massacre and promised police would do everything in their power to find those responsible.

In eastern townships, women, children and infant refugees from violent clashes crowded into the halls, passages and stairwells of clinics and a major hospital, collapsing with exhaustion.

They refused to return to areas of the stricken townships of Thokoza and Katlehong and the decimated squatter camp of Phola Park after savage fighting surged late Tuesday and authorities cut off their power supplies.

In the nation's largest black township of Soweto, south of Johannesburg, police reported firing teargas and birdshot to separate marauding rival groups but continued to find bodies in isolated spots. Township dwellers, apparently beginning to target police, have shot or stabbed to death at least four lawman this week - two on Thursday.

The African National Congress has accused police of siding with its arch rival the exclusively Zulu Inkatha, and senior members said township residents were becoming increasingly hostile to security forces as South Africa's worst-ever suburban fighting, which flared Aug. 12, raged almost out of control.

Refugees from Phola Park alleged a white man, whom they thought to be a police officer, was among a marauding Inkatha group late Wednesday. ''We saw him and we killed him,'' one male refugee said, but did not know what had happened to the body.

BOSTON (SEPT. 13) UPI - The Bush Administration brought its appeal for energy conservation to the public Thursday with a new multi-media advertising assault urging consumers to cut down their oil use in response to the Mideast crisis.

The hastily developed radio, print and billboard campaign was unveiled by Energy Secretary James Watkins and Transportation Secretary Samuel Skinner at the National Association of Broadcasters convention in Boston.

The campaign, expected to air in several segments over the next year, was produced for the government under the auspices of the non-profit Ad Council and was designed by the New York-based Bozzell adversiting agency.

Included in the package of public service spots were four brief radio ads, all finishing with the tag line, ''President Bush asks that you do your part: Drive smart.''

The ads contain many of the same urgings the federal government made during the 1970s oil crisis. They included driving 5 mph slower than usual, filling tires, using car pools and public transportation, and using the lowest octane fuel possible.

The ads seek to ''change the culture of our society at this time and try to put peer pressure - local peer pressure - on our side'' in the fight to make up for the oil lost in the Iraq and Kuwait embargo, Watkins said.

Federal officials hope the messures, which also include suggestions for home heating oil and industrial conservation, can reap a 530,000 barrel per day savings by December 1991.

''There's no real change in lifestyle necessary - we're just saying do your part,'' Watkins said.

The secretary deflected questions about the public relations message sent by the president's much publicized use of his gas-guzzling cigarette boat during his recent vacation, saying the query had been repeatedly answered by Bush.

Another group criticized the campaign for not going far enough, saying the president should push for real gas-saving measures such as placing fuel efficiency requirements on new cars.

''We think the Bush Administration needs to take concrete action to improve energy efficiency instead of just relying on public relations,'' said Alan Nogee, director of the Massachusetts Energy Program for the Public Interest Research Group.

NEW YORK (SEPT. 13) UPI - The dollar plunged against all the major currencies in heavy trading Thursday after Alan Greenspan, the Federal Reserve chairman, remarked on the possibility of lower U.S. short-term interest rates.

Currency dealers market participants, who had pushed the dollar up in recent sessions for mainly technical reasons, also dumped the currency in expectation of further negative U.S. economic data in the morning.

The sell-off snowballed on remarks from a Federal Reserve governor who told a Kansas City gathering that recession risks were high, traders said.

In late New York trading the dollar was quoted at 1.5672 German marks, down nearly 2 1/2 pfennigs from 1.5915 marks Wednesday, and at 136.10 Japanese yen, off nearly 2 yen from 138.05 yen the day before.

That brought the dollar to nearly a 14-month low against the yen, said Ann Mills, a Shearson Lehman Brothers currency analyst.

''It was a pretty wild day,'' said Barry O'Sullivan, a trader with Union Bank of Switzerland. ''The dollar went straight down.''

He said the selling binge was triggered by Greenspan's testimony to the House Banking Committee. The Fed chairman said interest rates could fall if Congress and the White House substantially trimmed the federal deficit.

O'Sullivan said Greenspan's comments caught a number of European players with too many dollars on their hands, prompting wild stop-loss selling. ''Most of the market was caught long'' on dollars, he said.

Trader Radhika Rajan of Manufacturers Hanover said players also were short of German marks and Swiss francs, which had shown weakness in recent days as big investors shifted through the dollar to the Japanese yen.

Added O'Sullivan, ''The yen has been strong all week and basically everything else caught up today.''

Other New York dollar rates: 1.3020 Swiss francs, off from 1.3285; 5.2500 French francs, down from 5.3295; and 1,169.50 Italian lire, off from 1,187.

The British pound shot up to $1.8820 from $1.8585.

In Europe, the dollar rose against most of the major monies in quiet trading influenced mainly by technical factors, dealers said.

London and Zurich dealers said the dollar was helped by cross-trading between the yen and the mark, as well as from a weakened Swiss franc.

George Magnus, a currency economist with Warburg Securities in London, said dealers were looking to a batch of economic indicators set to be released in the United States Friday for direction on the U.S. unit.

''There's not an awful lot of significant trade today, the dollar is thrashing around in narrow ranges,'' Magnus said. He said poor U.S. data would ''certainly cause us to see some more (dollar) wobbles.''

In Frankfurt, the dollar softened to 1.5750 marks vs. 1.5840. But in Zurich, it rose to 1.3195 Swiss francs from 1.3190.

In London, the pound recovered, moving up to $1.8750 vs. $1.8670.

The dollar gained in Paris, Brussels and Milan to close at 5.3315 French francs vs. 5.3065, 32.74 Belgian francs vs. 32.59, and 1,186.45 Italian lire vs. 1,182.90.

Earlier in Tokyo, the dollar kept falling as institutional investors carried out the second leg of European-to-yen transactions which used the dollar as an intermediary, by selling dollars for more desirable yen.

The dollar closed at 137.65 yen, off 0.65 yen from 138.30 yen Wednesday.

''Investors continued to dump European currencies in favor of the yen,'' said Junpei Ishii, a Mitsu Taiyo Kobe Bank vice president.

Gold closed higher in Zurich at $382.50 an ounce vs. $381.50, and also was up in London at $383.75 an ounce vs. $381.50.

Republic National Bank in New York closed cash gold at $383.75 an ounce, up from $383 Wednesday. The New York Commodity Exchange settled contract gold at $382.90 an ounce, ahead from $382.10.

Silver closed lower in Zurich at $4.80 an ounce vs. $4.85, but was unchanged in London at $4.82 an ounce.

Republic closed cash silver at $4.81 an ounce, off from $4.83. Comex silver ended at $4.773 an ounce, down from $4.801.

WASHINGTON (SEPT. 13) UPI - Budget talks are ''down to the end point'' with near agreement on defense, domestic spending and benefit program cuts, but deep divisions remain over a Republican call for a capital gains tax cut, sources said Thursday.

Sources familiar with activity at the White House and congressional budget talks, taking place at Andrews Air Force Base outside Washington, said that the GOP push for cutting the capital gains tax on profits from the sale of assets remained ''a continuing battlefield'' that has delayed agreement.

''That is a sticking point,'' a source said when asked about capital gains. ''I can't see a lot of progress.''

A democratic source said that Republicans insistent on having a capital gains cut in the final package ''want something that we aren't going to give them'' unless Republicans, in return, agree to raise income tax rates on the wealthy. The GOP has refused to accept any income tax rate hikes.

In many other areas, including what to do about Medicare and other federal benefit programs, called entitlements, differences have been significantly narrowed, sources said.

''We have closed almost to the point of total agreement on entitlements; we have closed almost to the point of total agreement on defense; we have closed almost to the point of total agreement on domestic discretionary (spending levels,'' a source said.

''There's not that much room left to narrow the differences. We only have a few outstanding issues left and those seem to be as wide as ever. We're down to the end point.''

After spending several hours at the talks Thursday, House Speaker Thomas Foley D-Wash., said ''it's going to take a couple more days'' before negotiators reach final agreement.

''They're making progress,'' he said. ''I think it'll be done the end of this week or this weekend.''

White House press secretary Marlin Fitzwater said budget director Richard Darman does not think there will be a budget agreement until Monday or Tuesday.

Negotiators have been trying since talks began May 15 to reach agreement on a plan to cut the federal budget deficit by $50 billion in fiscal year 1991, which begins Oct. 1, and by about $500 billion over five years.

Failure to cut the deficit significantly by Oct. 1 would trigger $105.7 billion in across-the-board spending cuts, split between defense and domestic programs. Those cuts are required under the Gramm-Rudman balanced budget law as a penalty for failing to meet annual deficit reduction targets.

The fiscal 1991 target is $64 billion.

Negotiators, who have been meeting in seclusion at Andrews since last Friday, had moved toward including in their final package new taxes on energy, alcoholic beverages and luxury items, such as expensive cars, boats, jewelry and electronic equipment, the source said.

It was still uncertain, however, whether negotiators would also include an increase in the current 16 cents-a-pack cigarette tax.

The source also said Republicans appeared to be ''backing off'' a proposal first submitted by Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, to make wealthier senior citizens pay higher annual premiums for their Medicare coverage.

If implemented, such a change would, for the first time, turn Medicare into a ''means tested'' program in which costs would vary based on a beneficiary's ability to pay. Currently, all Medicare participants get the same benefits at the same cost, regardless of outside income.

Democrats have questioned how means-tested Medicare proposal would be administered and Republican have had trouble answering those questions, the source said.

WASHINGTON (SEPT. 13) UPI - The U.S. Agency for International Development announced a $50 million program Thursday to combat measles among children in developing countries.

The program is aimed at reducing the number of deaths from measles by 95 percent by 1995, primarily by increasing the number of children who get vaccinated against the disease from the current level of 60 percent to 90 percent.

The money will be used to improve equipment to ensure the measles vaccine is kept cold enough to be potent, improve health care workers' training and public education about the importance of vaccination.

''People feel measles is not harmful, but it kills by devastating a child's immune system, opening the way for a host of other illnesses and infections,'' said agency director Dr. Ronald Roskens. ''It is especially deadly to children in developing countries.''

Measles is caused by a virus. It usually causes a rash, fever and cold-like symptoms. Patients normally recover after about a week. But the disease can lead to more serious, potentially deadly complications, such as pneumonia and brain infections.

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (SEPT. 13) UPI - Defense Secretary Dick Cheney acknowledged problems with aging transport ships Thursday, but said the overall deployment of U.S. forces to combat the Iraqi threat to Saudi Arabia has been smooth.

''Some (Navy ships) have not been maintained as well as we would have liked,'' Cheney said. ''But to suggest there has been a fundamental breakdown does not fit reality at all.''

Cheney was commenting on an article in Thursday's Washington Post, in which Army Gen. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, chief of the U.S. Central Command, said the buildup of U.S. forces has been slowed about a week by breakdowns of ships carrying heavy combat equipment.

The article said that because of sealift delay and other logistical problems, the full buildup will come about one month after the mid- October target reported by several congressmen who were briefed earlier this month with top U.S. commanders in Saudi Arabia.

But Cheney said at a news conference that the tone of the story did not accurately reflect the interview with Schwarzkopf.

''Certainly there are problems,'' he said, but delays have been ''relatively minor.''

Cheney acknowledged that some of the 41 mothballed Ready Reserve Force ships called on for Persian Gulf duty ''had not been maintained as well as we liked.'' He also said some are steam-powered, and that many of today's naval crews are not experienced at operating steam vessels.

''I'm sure there is a lesson to learn from this exercise,'' Cheney said. ''But I think in balance it has been a tremendous performance.''

Speaking later to a luncheon meeting of the Comstock Club and Air Force Association, Cheney said some 5 billion tons of cargo has been sent or is en route to the Persian Gulf and the Middle East.

In Washington, Pentagon spokesman Bob Hall said there are 75 sealift ships currently en route to the Middle East and that only two have experienced breakdowns. ''It's going very well; it's not perfect,'' he said.

Cheney talked to reporters during a three-day California trip that includes meetings with civic groups and with the media in Sacramento, San Francisco and Palm Desert.

Cheney also blasted a House vote that would force him to abandon efforts to shut down 35 domestic military installations that he announced in January he was considering closing.

The House voted 287-134 Wednesday to require him to come up with a new, bipartisan method to select the military bases that should be closed to accommodate defense budget cuts desired by Congress and the administration.

Cheney said that Congress in effect told him, ''Yes, Mr. Secretary, cut the defense budget ... and oh, by the way, don't close the base in my district.

''That's garbage,'' he said.

Cheney said overhead costs will be the first to go in his budget cutting so that he can ''first and foremost protect military capability.''

''We want to be as fair and equitable as we can,'' he said. ''But the bottom line is I've been told to cut the defense budget.''

In response to a question following his luncheon speech, Cheney said he will announce within the next couple of weeks ''well over 100'' foreign military facilities with U.S. forces that he plans to close over the next couple of years.

RALEIGH, N.C. (SEPT. 13) UPI - A ragtag band of weary women and children held hostage by Iraqi President Saddam Hussein for more than a month arrived

Thursday in the United States, met by anxious relatives, teddy bears and tears.

The passengers included 147 children under age 12, including 37 infants; one person in a wheelchair, five cats and one woman who was 8 1/2 months pregnant and accompanied by her four children.

Altogether, there were 263 Americans and 47 Canadians aboard the Northwest Airlines flight that left London at 9:10 a.m. EDT and reached American soil at 4:54 p.m. Nearly all were women and children.

Marlene Boland, of suburban Cincinnati, Ohio, burst into tears when the plane touched down.

On board were the three sons - ages 9, 5 and 3 - she had left in Kuwait with her husband in June when she and their 11-year-old daughter returned to the United States.

''I've waited so long,'' she sobbed. ''I haven't seen them in three months. I love them and thank God.''

A repatriation center with medical, financial and traveling assistance was set up to receive the weary former hostages, each of whom was to receive a yellow carnation. The Red Cross had teddy bears for the children.

The plane had left Baghdad Wednesday, dropping off British citizens in London, where several British women told the British Broadcasting Corp. of the increasingly desperate situation in Kuwait with looting, food shortages and Iraqi violence against Kuwaitis.

''They're crazy, they're going mad, they're killing Kuwaitis,'' one British woman said of the Iraqi troops.

''They're taking them out of their homes. They're doing terrible things to them ... everybody talks about the shortage of food. They're making people really suffer. They're torturing them,'' she said.

''The resistance - these are young boys and men trying to defend their country and it's a terrible situation.''

Elizabeth Waters said she was forced by the Iraqis to leave her 19- year-old son in Baghdad after Iraqi soldiers ordered him to stay because of his age.

''I fought for a long time, saying he's a student. They say, 'No, he's 18, he's a man, he will stay,''' Waters said.

The BBC said about 750 Britons have been evacuated so far from Iraq and Kuwait with approximately 1,000 still there.

The United States has arranged another charter for Friday, which will bring to five the number of American evacuation flights since Sept. 7.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman in London said the flight would follow the same procedures as Wednesday's flight, heading from Kuwait via Baghdad to London, and would be open to Britons and probably other foreign nationals, too.

About 1,400 Americans remain trapped in Kuwait, according to updated U.S. figures. There was no breakdown of how many are women, children, men born in the United States or men born in Arab countries.

Another 200 Americans, including diplomats, are in Iraq - double the previous estimate, officials said. The increase from earlier figures was apparently due to the fact that some Americans, afraid to contact the U.S. Embassy earlier, were now doing so as the situation grows more desperate.

The State Department believes ''about 80'' Americans have been detained by the Iraqi authorities in Iraq, and Americans in Kuwait have reported increased harassment from Iraqi authorities.

About 600 Americans were evacuated from Iraq and Kuwait prior to Wednesday.

WASHINGTON (SEPT. 13) UPI - A temporarily banned book about the Mossad, Israel's chief spy agency, says up to 27 Israeli intelligence agents operate in the United States chiefly to gather data about the Arab world but that U.S. companies and citizens have been targeted for information.

The agents recruit, organize and carry out covert activities, mainly in New York and Washington, as part of a top secret unit of the Mossad known as Al, the Hebrew word for ''above'' or ''on top,'' said the book, ''By Way of Deception: The Making and Unmaking of a Mossad Officer.''

Further, the book said the Mossad believes that the official U.S. version of President John F. Kennedy's assassination Nov. 22, 1963, ''was pure, unadulterated hokum.''

The 361-page book by Victor Ostrovsky, who was born in Canada, has dual Canadian-Israeli citizenship and was a Mossad operative from 1984- 1986, and Claire Hoy, a Canadian journalist, discloses a host of secrets and some chilling details of the spy agency's worldwide activities.

Ostrovsky's father, Syd Osten, lives in Omaha, Neb. Ostrovsky, who wrote that he quit the Mossad after it used him as a scapegoat in the failure to capture Arab terrorist leaders, is said to be hiding in Canada.

In a foreward, Ostrovsky wrote that he was ''laying my life on the line'' in publishing the account.

The book, whose distribution temporarily was blocked in New York state and Canada at the request of Israel's government, threatened to confront Israel with its biggest embarrassment since nuclear engineer Mordechai Vanunu revealed in 1986 that Israel has stockpiled weapons- grade plutonium at its nuclear plant in Dimona. Vanunu was caught by Mossad agents in Rome and has been jailed in Israel.

But galleys of the book were made available for review by its publisher, St. Martin's Press of New York City.

The spokeswoman for the Israeli Embassy in Washington, Ruth Yaron, declined to comment about the book, citing the court action.

But she said Israel asked for the court injunction because Ostrovsky violated his contract with the Mossad by not first clearing the book for publication and because her government ''feels that there are details that could harm the security of Israel and Israelis.''

If the first person accounts of Mossad operations, training procedures and organization are true - it was virtually impossible to verify them immediately - the book provides the most complete portrait ever presented publicly of Israel's most significant intelligence agency.

''Mossad'' is an acronym for The Institute for Intelligence and Special Operations. The agency's operatives, who the book says number no more than 1,200, including secretaries, refer to it simply as ''the office.''

The Al unit that operates in the United States with 24 to 27 employes ''is so secretive, and so separate from the main organization, that the majority of Mossad employees don't even know what it does and do not have access to its files on the computer. But it exists,'' the book said.

''Their primary task,'' it said of the operatives, ''is to gather information on the Arab world and the PLO, as opposed to gathering intelligence about U.S. activities. But as we shall see, the dividing line is often blurred, and when in doubt, Al doesn't hesitate to cross over it.''

One example was the theft of research material from some major U.S. defense contractors to help Israel get a five-year $25.8 million contract in 1986 to supply the Navy and Marines with unmanned reconnaissance drones known as the Mazlat Pioneer I, the book said.

As for the Kennedy assassination, the book said the Mossad's ''theory was that the killers - Mafiosa hit men, not Lee Harvey Oswald - actually wanted to murder Texas Gov. John Connally. Oswald was seen as a dupe in the whole thing and Connally as the target of mobsters trying to muscle their way into the oil business.''

Connally was in Kennedy's car in the Dallas motorcade and was wounded.

The Warren Commission, the official body that investigated the assassination, said that Oswald acted alone in killing Kennedy and there had been no conspiracy.

Ostrovsky did not support the contention that organized crime may have been behind Kennedy's killing.

But he wrote that the Mossad carried out a simulated exercise using better, more powerful weapons than Oswald's 6.5mm rifle and telescopic sight and couldn't hit a moving target from the 88-yard distance Oswald was from the motorcade.

''A single bullet is supposed to have gone through the back of Kennedy's head, out his chest and into Connally,'' the book said. ''If you look at the film (of the assassination), you'll see those points were not aligned. If ever a bullet could do a Waltzing Matilda, that was it.''

MEXICO CITY (SEPT. 13) UPI - A proposed meeting of five Latin American and Caribbean oil producers, to have been held this weekend in Trinidad and Tobago was canceled Thursday, a Mexican Energy Ministry official said.

The official said the decision to call off the meeting, intended to discuuss the international oil situation following Iraq's invasion of Kuwait, was made when several ministers said they could not attend.

The proposal was for an informal meeting with no agenda, attended by representatives from Colombia, Ecuador, Mexico, Venezuela and Trinidad and Tobago.

Latin America, which produces about 6.4 million barrels of oil a day, has proven reserves of about 115 billion barrels, with Mexico and Venezuela controlling 90 percent of the total.

Venezuela and Ecuador are the only Latin American members of the 13- nation Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

DAMASCUS, Syria (SEPT. 13) UPI - U.S. Secretary of State James Baker arrived in Syria Thursday night for talks with President Hafez Assad in an apparent indication that relations between the two countries have thawed as the gulf crisis has heated up.

Damascus and Washington, long at odds with each other over Middle East policy, have found themselves in the same trench in the tense crisis touched off by Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of its oil-rich neighbor Kuwait.

Baker, greeted at the airport by Syrian Foreign Minister Farouk al- Sharaa', was scheduled to hold intensive talks with Assad Friday on their common response to the Iraqi invasion.

His visit coincides with an announcement by Assad that Syria was prepared to dispatch more troops to serve in a U.S.-led multinational force deployed in the gulf region to deter Iraqi aggression.

Syria, Iraq's main rival in the Arab world because the two countries are governed by rival wings of the Baath socialist party, has already sent 3,000 troops to Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emriates.

Assad has also joined the United States in condemning the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait and demanding the immediate withdrawal of troops from the occupied emirate.

Such cooperation with U.S. policy has made Washington take a fresh look at Syria, long on its list of countries that support terrorism. The State Department's most recent report on human rights describes Syria as a country ''ruled by an authoritarian regime which does not hesitate to use force when it is threatened.''

Nevertheless, the Bush administration announced Baker would travel to Damascus in the first trip to Syria by a secretary of state since George Shultz visited in the early 1980s.

The visit to Damascus could open a new chapter in relations between Syria and the United States, which had reached an ebb prior to the Iraqi invasion.

''The visit could be a signal the United States is ready to cooperate with Syria to solve the Middle East crisis,'' one Western diplomat in Cairo said.

''It is obvious now that Syria would be qualified to play a role in Middle East affairs in the future,'' he said. ''This role would be decided according to Damascus response to the U.S. policy in the Middle East.''

Baker held talks earlier Thursday with Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze in Moscow. He held a round of talks with Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev during a three-day visit to the Soviet Union and participated in the signing of a historic treaty on German unification.

WASHINGTON (SEPT. 13) UPI - The Hubble Space Telescope's flaw apparently was caused in part by a measuring rod being used upside down while assembling a critical device used to test the observatory's mirrors, officials announced Thursday.

A NASA investigative team led by Lew Allen of the Jet Propulsion Laboratory in Pasadena, Calif., traced the foul-up to a blunder with a ''metering rod'' used to carefully align a device known as a ''null corrector.''

The $1.5 billion telescope had been expected to revolutionize astronomy by studying the deep corners of the universe in greater detail than ever before from high above Earth's atmosphere.

But about a month after the long-awaited instrument was placed into space in April, NASA discovered the telescope's supposedly perfect 94- inch main mirror was slightly misshapen, preventing the telescope from sharply focusing.

The investigative team previously announced they had found the original ''null corrector'' in the Hughes Danbury Optical Systems Inc. in Danbury, Conn., where the mirror was built 10 years ago when the company was called Perkin-Elmer Corp.

The ''null corrector,'' a sophisticated optical device used to measure the shape of the mirror to make certain it met extremely precise specifications, was off by 1.3 millimeters - enough to have caused the problem.

On Thursday, after the latest in a series of meetings at the plant, the panel announced the null corrector had been reset just before the mirror's construction began using devices known as ''metering bars'' or ''metering rods.''

''The metering bars were used by reflecting a focused beam of light off their ends. To ensure that the beam of light was reflected off the very center of the bar's end, a field stop, or end cap, was used with a 'pin-hole' in its center to hold the light beam centered,'' Allen said in a statement.

''It appears now that there was a reflective region around the pinhole and that the light beam was reflected off that surface rather than the end of the metering bar,'' he said.

In addition, the chances ''this type of problem'' caused the error ''was increased by the fact that the two ends of the metering bars are slightly different and there is strong evidence that the bar was used in an inverted position,'' he said.

In trying to explain how such an error could have escaped detection until the telescope was placed into orbit 380 miles above Earth, Allen noted that the ''assembly of the null corrector involved many precise and subtle steps.''

When the panel issues its final report, probably by November, it will ''address the question'' of ''various indications'' during the mirror's construction ''which could have revealed the problem but weren't recognized at properly at the time,'' he said.

Discovery of the telescope's defect triggered a storm of criticism of NASA and came amid a series of setbacks for the space agency, including the grounding of the space shuttle fleet due to fuel leaks.

NASA officials have said the telescope can be fixed when a camera is replaced by a space shuttle mission in 1993, and stressed the telescope could still conduct valuable research in the meantime.

PHILADELPHIA (SEPT. 13) UPI - The Philadelphia 76ers have signed a 30-year lease to play their games in a new arena to be constructed in either Philadelphia or New Jersey.

The agreement between the 76ers and the operators of the Spectrum, which was signed Wednesday, clears the way for a decision to be made on the site of the new facility and ends chances that Sixers owner Harold Katz could take his team to a new arena by himself.

Spectacor, the corporation that owns the Philadelphia Flyers, must now decide whether to build a new arena on the present site of JFK Stadium in south Philadelphia or along the waterfront in Camden, N.J.

Both the 76ers and Flyers now play at the Spectrum, a 23-year-old facility managed by Spectacor that is located next to JFK Stadium, but Katz last year said he wanted to build a new arena because of his costly lease.

Katz and the Flyers soon joined forces and agreed to move jointly to a new arena and the city of Philadelphia and the state of New Jersey have made financial offers to the teams.

The city, with help from the state, has agreed to pay the costs of tearing down JFK Stadium but Spectacor would be required to pay most of the costs for constructing a new facility.

New Jersey, meanwhile, has proposed covering the construction costs through a bond issue that would be repaid through taxes collected from the new arena and its offer is believed to be more financially attractive.

Katz first announced in June that he had agreed on a new lease but the signing was delayed by haggling over contract language. The new agreement would provide the 76ers with revenues from advertising, parking, concessions and luxury suites.

The Spectrum has also modified its current lease with the 76ers, which will continue in effect until a new building opens, when the new 30-year agreement would begin.

Spectacor officials have been reluctant to say how soon they will pick a site for the new arena. They had predicted a decision would be made by early September but that deadline, like many others throughout the tedious process, was missed.

NEW YORK (SEPT. 13) UPI - The United Arab Emirates, whose oil policies may have spurred Iraq's invasion of Kuwait, expects its economy to grow 11 percent this year as a result of the Persian Gulf crisis, it was reported Thursday.

The Opecna news agency of the 13-nation Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries reported the UAE's planning ministry has projected the nation's gross domestic product as growing from $27.7 billion in 1989 to $30.8 billion this year.

The agency quoted UAE financial officials as saying the rise was due mainly to the increase in crude oil prices to nearly $32 a barrel since the Aug. 2 Iraqi invasion and the resulting U.N. embargo of Iraqi and Kuwaiti exports.

Abdul Malik al-Hamar, governor of the UAE's central bank, last week said oil revenues of the tiny Gulf emirate would rise from $10 billion last year to $13 billion in 1990.

Since the invasion, the UAE has raised production to help offset the oil lost because of the U.N. embargo.

Prior to the invasion Iraqi President Saddam Hussein charged both the UAE and Kuwait had damaged his nation's economy by producing too much crude oil and holding world prices low.

All three nations belong to the OPEC cartel, which attempts to support prices by limiting its members' output. The cartel pumps more than a third of the world's crude.

NEW YORK (SEPT. 13) UPI - Stocks closed sharply lower Thursday in very dull trading as program selling extended losses tied to fears about an escalation of conflict in the Mideast and anxiety about the economic data due out Friday.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which rose 13.12 Wednesday, tumbled 43.07 to close at 2582.67, the lowest close since it bottomed out in late August at about the 2500 level.

Among broad market gauges, the New York Stock Exchange composite index fell 1.93 to 175.16. The price of an average share lost 34 cents. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index fell 3.89 to 318.65.

Declines led advances 1,006-421 among the 1,939 issues crossing the NYSE tape. Volume amounted to about 123,370,000 shares, down slightly from the 129,890,000 traded Wednesday.

Analysts blamed the decline on computerized program selling, used to profit on price differences between stocks and stock-index futures. But they said the programs were sparked by fears of hostilities in the Mideast and nervousness about what the economic data due out Friday may show.

''That old wild card, the Middle East, hit us again,'' said Dale Tills, manager of institutional equity trading at Charles Schwab & Co.

Tills cited a report that Iraq had issued a warning to U.S. officials about possible terrorist attacks against American interests as fanning fears about the possible outbreak of hostilities in the region.

''It brings the fear of war back into everybody's minds and then we sold off after crude oil ran up,'' he said. October crude oil futures closed up 10 cents to $31.07 a barrel.

Worries about Friday's economic reports, especially the report on August producer prices, also pressured stocks, analysts said.

The nervousness was heightened by the fact that the producer price report will be the first inflation data to reflect the surge in oil prices since Iraq invaded Kuwait Aug. 2. Analysts are looking for a 1.4 percent rise.

Hopes that a plan to cut the federal budget deficit might be near buoyed the market earlier this week. But negotiators still have not reached an agreement and talks are expected to continue through Friday, which weighed on the market as well, analysts said.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said Thursday the Bush administration was ''still optimistic'' that an agreement could be reached in the next few days. Reports quoted an administration official, however, as saying the negotiators had not yet begun to wrestle with key issues, such as which taxes should be raised.

On the trading floor, Tandem Computers was the most active issue, unchanged at 11 5/8.

Canadian Pacific followed, up 1/8 to 15 3/4. AT&T was third, down 1/2 to 30 1/8.

Digital Equipment was also active, down 2 3/8 to 59 1/4. Analysts have reportedly been lowering earnings estimates on the company this week.

In the banking sector, Chase Manhattan fell 3/8 to 16 3/4 after falling Wednesday because of a poorly received note auction. Other banks were also lower. BankAmerica fell 5/8 to 21 3/4, Chemical Banking lost 1/2 to 20 7/8 and J.P. Morgan fell 1/2 to 32 1/8.

Among the other blue chips, IBM slumped 2 7/8 to 105, General Electric sank 1 5/8 to 60 3/8, Coca-Cola lost 1 1/8 to 41 1/4, Eastman Kodak fell 1 1/8 to 40 3/8 and Merck dropped 1 1/8 to 80.

Elsewhere, Hilton Hotels sank 2 1/4 to 29 1/4 after saying it expects a decline in third-quarter net income.

Volume of NYSE-listed issues, including trades in stocks on regional exchanges and in the over-the-counter market, totaled 148,040,300 shares, compared with 157,487,620 shares traded in the previous session.

Prices fell in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange.

The Amex Market Value index lost 1.18 to 322.01. Declines led advances 331-168 among the 779 issues traded. The price of an average share fell 4 cents. Composite volume totaled 11,700,900 shares vs. 10, 820,200 traded Wednesday.

Energy Service led the Amex issues, off 1/8 to 3 1/2.

The National Association of Securities Dealers composite index fell 4.14 to 376.18.

MEXICO CITY (SEPT. 13) UPI - Mexico will invest $1.4 billion in its petrochemical industry and could inject $300 million more if plans to export an oxygenating compound for gasoline go ahead, the state-owned Pemex oil company announced Thursday.

Francisco Rojas, director of Petroleos Mexicanos, made the announcement in Coatzacoalcos at the inauguration of the Morelos industrial park, located adjacent to a petrochemical plant.

Pemex will spend $25 million to modernize the Cangrejera and Pajaritos plants and invest $170 million in the unfinished plant on the Morelos estate, where Pemex will produce acetaldehyde, propylene, polypropylene and acrylonitrile, Rojas said.

He said the country will also invest $1.2 billion in new petrochemical plants.

Rojas said Pemex is studying the feasibility of investing a further $300 million in plants to produce an oxygenating compound recently introduced into Mexico's leaded gasoline to improve combustion and reduce air pollution. The investment would be aimed at exporting the compound.

A fourth series of projects involves the possible production of bases for biodegradable detergents. The investment being considered on this was estimated at $35 million, with an additional $65 million to be sought from private investors.

Rojas said the new investments were aimed at satisfying national demand for primary and secondary petrochemical products.

In a report published in March, Pemex said production of basic petrochemicals jumped to 16.882 million metric tons in 1989, up 9.2 percent from 1988 levels.

KANSAS CITY, MO (SEPT. 13) UPI - Energizer Bunny - that tireless, drum-beating rabbit marching through spoofs of television commercials - soon will appear on the silver screen on behalf of Eveready Battery Co.

The character's appearance in a 60-second movie trailer beginning Sept. 21 is an extension of Eveready's Energizer award-winning campaign that is built around a pink stuffed rabbit wearing thongs and sunglasses.

The company plans to add print advertising and in-store promotions featuring the Eveready Bunny as it attempts to appeal to consumers' hearts, said Michael Rivard, marketing category manager of advertising and promotions at Eveready, a division of Ralston Purina Co. in St. Louis.

''He's doing that in a number of ways - in TV, now he's going to be breaking onto the big screen, and is going to shortly be seen in our packaging and in every facet of our marketing communication mix,'' Rivard said.

The company will introduce three television commercials on network television beginning Monday.

The bunny character will show up in a parody of a movie preview, interrupting a seemingly romantic interlude between a ballet dancer and her lover in ''Dance with Your Feet.''

The trailer will be shown in 52 markets nationwide through Oct. 18. A condensed version will air on television.

The new parody commercials will show the rabbit interrupting ads for a long-distance telephone company, ''Chug-A-Cherry'' soda, and ''Airdale'' air freshener.

In the ''Chug-A-Cherry'' spot, the rabbit marches onto the ceiling, along with a man dancing upside down on the ceiling to tout a soft drink. In ''Airdale,'' the rabbit wears a gas mask.

''The personality and tone is very upbeat, very likable, very positive,'' Rivard said.

Consumer reaction to the campaign has been positive, Rivard said, citing research that shows ''unaided brand awareness'' increased 33 percent and long-lasting recall 49 percent.

Barbara Lippert, ad critic for Adweek, said Eveready is not overdoing the parody concept with its new TV commercials and the movie trailer.

''I think people always laugh when they see these parodies of commercials, and they're still surprised. They're not primed to think it's the bunny,'' she said Thursday. ''The reason these are so wonderful is they're not offensive or annoying. They're funny and they say, 'We know you're smarter than most commercials.' ''

Lippert, who noted that Duracell, a rival battery brand, used a campaign for years showing toys that did not stop because they were powered by Duracell batteries, said one of the most important things for an advertiser is to maintain a constant image.

Rivard said reports are incorrect that the Energizer campaign is benefiting Duracell, which also has ads featuring a rabbit.

''If we look at the most recent numbers, the EB campaign is being identified by consumers as Energizer by over 60 percent of consumers,'' he said. ''About 30 percent were identifying it as a Duracell campaign.''

Initially, Eveready's campaign was a comparison of the two products, he said.

''Now, at this point, because we've been able to tell people that nothing lasts longer than the Energizer, we're no longer interested with the competitor's campaign,'' Rivard said.

NEW YORK (SEPT. 13) UPI - Prosecutors Thursday submitted a sentencing report for former junk bond king Michael Milken, who is scheduled to be sentenced next month for admitted securities law violations.

Contents of the report, filed with U.S. District Court Judge Kimba Wood, were not released publicly.

Prosecutors have requested the report be kept sealed until names of unindicted co-conspirators could be deleted.

Milken's attorneys are seeking to have the report sealed until his sentencing, set for Oct. 1, to avoid prejudicing the case.

Representatives of the news media objected to keeping the report sealed, and the judge gave them until Monday to file their objections with the court.

Milken tearfully pleaded guilty in April to six felony counts and agreed to pay $600 million in penalties.

As part of his plea bargain, he agreed to allow prosecutors to release the memorandum at the time of the sentencing.

Milken was indicted last year on 98 counts of securities law violations and racketeering. He reached the plea agreement with prosecutors to avoid a new and broader indictment.

In pleading guilty to charges of conspiracy and securities and mail fraud, Milken admitted manipulating stock prices and illegally eluding regulatory requirements.

The former head of the high-risk, high-yield bond department at Drexel Burnham Lambert Inc., Milken pioneered the use of so-called junk bonds in fueling corporate takeovers in the 1980s. From 1984 to 1987, he earned $1.1 billion in compensation.

He faces a possible prison sentence of 28 years if the maximum terms were to be served consecutively. However, prosecutors have agreed not to ask that they be served consecutively.

Milken was implicated by former Wall Street financier Ivan Boesky, who pleaded guilty to one felony and agreed to pay the government $100 million. Boesky was sentenced to three years in prison and agreed to become an informant for the government.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (SEPT. 13) UPI - Economic factors are leading to cuts in the size of Central America's armies, but the idea of a completely demilitarized region is a long way off, analysts and diplomats say.

Large reductions in weapons and troop strength by the year 2000 have been forecast, and the U.S. presence in Central America and Panama is also expected to be reduced to next to nothing.

''It is impossible to achieve the social and economic development that our countries need, and at the same time maintain current military levels,'' Nicaraguan Foreign Minister Enrique Dreyfus said.

He said the future of Central American security lies in economic rather than military strength.

Some, like Nicaraguan President Violeta Chamorro, have said they want to reduce and change the role of the militaries, making them internal police forces similar to that of Costa Rica.

Others, like Honduran President Rafael Callejas and Salvadoran President Alfredo Cristiani, advocate eventual reductions, but maintain support for the continued existence of defensive military forces.

''Certainly, the Costa Rican model is a worthy goal, but it is utopian in any foreseeable time frame,'' said a Western diplomat based in San Jose, Costa Rica.

The changes have already begun to take shape and Vice Defense Ministers from five Central American countries met this week in El Salvador to discuss further reductions.

Nicaragua, with its war against Contra rebels over, has been the first to initiate major cuts, from 95,000 last year to the current 35, 000. Honduras, which has the smallest army in the region - about 20,000 - has also reduced its armed forces in the past year, although it still has the most powerful air force in the region with its U.S.-supplied jet fighters and helicopters.

Panama has been excluded from Central American regional meetings in recent years, but figures prominently in the region's concerns because of its proximity and the presence of some 10,000 U.S. troops of the U.S. Southern Command.

A Panama-based military analyst, however, estimated that not only will the U.S. honor its commitment under the Panama Canal treaties to withdraw the Southern Command by Dec. 31, 1999, but that it will probably do so before deadline.

With the Panamanian Defense Forces of former military ruler Manuel Antonio Noriega now disbanded, Panama would be left with a 12,500-member National Police Force.

The Guatemalan military has been among the most reluctant to change. Despite recent rumors of a coup attempt by the military, the army announced last week that it will ''respect and ensure respect'' for Nov. 11 presidential elections.

The Guatemala army continues to control the civilian government, and frequent killings by members of the military go unpunished despite the fact that the guerrilla threat has been greatly diminished since the early 1980s.

''The insurgency in El Salvador remains the nut that has to get cracked before any regional demilitarization comes about,'' a military analyst said.

Demilitarization is the key issue in ongoing negotiations between the Salvadoran government and the FMLN, which resumed Thursday in San Jose.

''Although reduction of the armed forces is a necessity, it has to correspond to the action taken by the FMLN and the threat represented by the FMLN,'' said Col. Mauricio Ernesto Vargas, the No. 2 man in the Salvadoran joint chiefs-of-staff.

Reductions in the Salvadoran military would be likely to bring more reductions in the militaries of both Honduras and Nicaragua.

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (SEPT. 13) UPI - Alaska Gov. Steve Cowper said Thursday that Exxon must return in 1991 to continue cleaning up the oil spilled by the tanker Exxon Valdez 18 months ago.

Exxon has declared the cleanup a success and pulled its crews off Alaska shores for the winter as it packs up to leave Alaska. But Cowper told a news conference that Exxon cannot consider its job finished while so much oil remains in the environment, much of it buried beneath the surface.

''There are areas that are heavily oiled,'' Cowper said. ''Those areas have to be treated. If you leave them alone, they will continue to leach toxic substances for a long, long time. If we treat them, then the period of recovery will be considerably less.''

More than 61 miles of coastline remain oiled after two summers of extensive cleanup, according to state Department of Environmental Conservation surveys released by the governor. The survey said 11.5 miles of shore have medium or heavy concentrations of oil and the rest is lightly oiled.

Some 1,200 miles of shoreline were hit by crude oil in March 1989 when the Exxon Valdez smashed into Bligh Reef and broke open, spewing 11 million gallons of crude into a pristine wilderness in the nation's worst spill.

''I think there's been a big improvement in Prince William Sound due to the people's efforts who worked there this summer,'' Cowper said. ''At the same time, it is clear ... that there's more work to do next summer.''

Exxon and Alaska Coast Guard spill coordinators have said that spring shoreline surveys will determine what, if anything, the oil company must do next year. But Cowper said he planned to give Exxon work orders.

''We're going to make a list of specific areas that we want Exxon to clean up and specify the methodology, how they clean it up,'' Cowper said.

But Cowper acknowledged that Alaska lost some key cleanup battles over the summer when the Coast Guard overruled state objections about treatment of certain beaches.

In the most glaring example of such a disagreement earlier this month, the Coast Guard ordered Exxon to dig up the shores of Ushagat Island in the Gulf of Alaska to let waves wash away buried oil. Cowper cabinet members angrily accused the Coast Guard and Exxon of releasing several thousand gallons of crude into the water in what amounted to a new spill that no one cleaned up. The state had urged that the oil be picked up and taken away.

Cowper criticized the Coast Guard and showed a video proving state claims that the cleanup-caused spill put more oil in the water and that sea birds died. The same video showed the governor reaching down into a ''cleaned'' beach last week and pulling out his hand - covered with oil.

Cowper also rejected Exxon claims that a record 1990 Prince William Sound salmon season could be used show that spill damage was over. The governor said fish caught this summer were spawned in 1988 and that it will take years before scientists know whether oil has had a lasting effect on fishing.

Oil's impact on native subsistence food gathering continues for Aleut villagers who live in the spill impact zone, Cowper said.

''Sure the subsistence harvest has been affected,'' he said. ''Some of the smaller villages, Tatitlek, Chenega Bay, utilize the islands and beaches that were directly hit by the oil. They have noticed a decline in certain animals that they use'' such as otters and deer.

If Exxon had put more effort into its second season of cleanup, the beaches would be in better shape, Cowper said. ''Perhaps there should have been more people and more equipment.''

Exxon staged its own spill wrap-up show Tuesday night, presenting videos, making speeches and declaring its $2 billion cleanup a success. Thursday, Exxon repeated its claims of a successful cleanup, dismissing state concerns while heralding a successful fishing season, making claims that wildlife was abundant in the spill zone and asserting that remaining oil was virtually harmless.

With no more dead animals flashing on national TV screens, and Exxon and the Coast Guard trumpeting a successful operation while showing increasing signs of restlessness and impatience at continuing state demands, Cowper said, ''We're the people who have gotten the role of trying to push the cleanup along.''

''I don't know if we've lost our audience or not,'' Cowper said. ''We haven't lost our oil on the beach and that's what we have to treat next summer. We're in for the long run whether we like it or not and so it's up to us to apply whatever pressures and whatever authority we have to make sure that the oil is cleaned up as best we can do it. We have to keep pushing.''

WASHINGTON (SEPT. 13) UPI - David Souter, trying to prove he deserves a seat on the Supreme Court, told the Senate Judiciary Committee Thursday he believes Americans have far broader rights than those in the Constitution, but he avoided any hint of how he would vote on the issue of abortion.

On the first day of the committee's examination of President Bush's choice to replace liberal Justice William Brennan, Souter, a quiet New Hampshire jurist, went to great lengths to dispel criticism that he may be out of touch with the problems of average Americans.

Showing an unexpected display of emotion, Souter, a 50-year-old bachelor, stressed his Yankee independence and argued that the Constitution is grounded in a sense of limited governmental power and a belief that Americans had many unspecified rights, including a right to privacy.

A right to privacy is one of the underpinnings of the court's 1973 Roe vs. Wade decision that women have a right to seek an abortion. While Souter said he believes in the privacy guarantee, he refused several times, under questioning from committee Chairman Joseph Biden, D-Del., and others to specifically say whether he would vote to uphold the abortion ruling.

Souter conceded that his unknown view on the abortion case ''has been on everyone's mind and everyone's lips since the moment of my nomination,'' but he stressed it would be inappropriate to say whether he would vote to preserve or throw out that decision.

Souter's refusal to answer any specific questions indicating how he would rule on Roe vs. Wade was in part because it is considered improper for a sitting judge to comment on pending cases and, perhaps even more important, because both sides in the intense abortion debate have implicitly agreed not to let the issue be a single-issue ''litmus test'' in the confirmation process.

But abortion was the subject that provided the most emotional exchange of the day.

When Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, pushed Souter on whether he could empathize with women who are struggling with whether to have an abortion, Souter recounted an experience from 24 years ago in which he spent two hours counseling a woman who was considering aborting a pregnancy by herself.

''I learned that afternoon what was at stake,'' Souter said. ''I hope I have learned since then what is at stake on both sides of the controversy.''

In that exchange and others, Souter spent much of his day trying to show he can relate to problems of average Americans.

In his opening statement, he said judges must remember that ''at the end of our task, some human being is going to be affected. Some human life is going to be changed in some way by what we do.''

''If, indeed, we are going to be trial judges whose ruling will affect the lives of other people and who are going to change their lives by what we do, we had better use every power of our minds and our hearts and our beings to get those rulings right,'' he added.

''What you want to avoid is a judge who will not listen,'' said Souter. ''I think I have a record as a judge that indicates that I will.''

The comments appeared to have an impact on several senators, including Biden, who said, ''I think you've given us a little glimpse of your heart.''

''You are a good listener and that leaves me with a very good feeling,'' added Sen. Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., considered a swing vote on the panel.

Metzenbaum, a staunch liberal, said he still was not sure of Souter's judicial philosophy, but noted he was satisfied Souter was ''a man of sincerity, integrity and conscience.'' For Souter to take a seat on the high court, he must first go through an examination by the Democratic- majority Judiciary Committee and be approved by the full Senate.

NEW YORK (SEPT. 13) UPI - The Federal Reserve Board said Thursday that the basic U.S. money supply, narrowly defined under the name of M1, rose $4.4 billion in the latest reporting week. The broader aggregates M2 and M3 also went up.

M2 increased by $12.7 billion and M3 rose by $11.0 billion.

M1, which is made up of cash, checking accounts and NOW accounts - money that is available for immediate spending - rose to a seasonally adjusted average of $820.0 billion in the week ended Sept. 3 from a revised $815.6 billion the week before.

Over the latest 13 weeks, M1 averaged $812.1 billion, a 3.2 percent rate of increase from the previous 13 weeks, the Fed reported.

The broader measure of money, M2, averaged an estimated $3,316.4 billion in the latest week, up from a revised $3,303.7 billion. M2 includes M1, plus passbook savings, small time deposits, including money market deposit accounts consumer money market mutual funds and certain other short-term assets.

M3, which includes M2 plus large time deposits, repurchase agreements longer than one day at banks and thrifts, and institutional money market funds, averaged $4,103.4 billion in the latest week, up from a revised $4,092.4 billion, the Fed said.

NEW YORK (SEPT. 13) UPI - Assets of the nation's 522 money market mutual funds rose by $474.2 million to $407.01 billion in the week ended Wednesday, the Investment Company Institute reported Thursday.

The Washington-based institute said broker-dealer fund assets increased $608.2 million to $165.57 billion, assets of general purpose funds increased $118 million to $143.8 billion and institutional fund assets fell $252 million to $97.64 billion.

The Investment Company Institute, a national association of the American investment company industry, reports the assets of money market funds to the Federal Reserve Board each week.

The Donoghue Organization, of Holliston, Mass., said average seven- day simple yields were unchanged at 7.47 percent, and 30-day simple yields fell to 7.48 percent from 7.49 the previous week.

The average maturity of fund portfolios was 47 days, up from 46.

The Bank Rate Monitor, of North Palm Beach, Fla., gave average rates as follows: money market deposit accounts, 5.89 percent, unchanged; Super-Now accounts, 4.97 percent, unchanged; six-month certificates of deposit, 7.49 percent, down from 7.51 percent; 1-year CDs, 7.59 percent, down from 7.61; 2 1/2-year CDs, 7.68 percent, up from 7.67; and five-year CDs, 7.80 percent, up from 7.79.

The average rate for a one-year, adjustable-rate mortgage was 8.26 percent, down from 8.28 percent.

The average rate on a 15-year, fixed-rate mortgage fell in the latest week to 9.71 percent from 9.77, while the average rate for a 30-year, fixed-rate mortgage also dropped, to 10.02 percent from 10.08.

The average rate for a four-year automobile loan was 12.23 percent, down from 12.26 percent.

(SEPT. 13) UPI - South African authorities say at least 26 people were killed and 100 more were injured as two gangs armed with guns and machetes rampaged through a train near Johannesburg. But police expect the death toll to climb as patrols discover more bodies. Police say the attackers fled the scene, described as a ''slaughter house'' by one paramedic. The attack came as thousands of refugees fled black factional fighting in black townships east of Johannesburg.

As Secretary of State Baker travels to Syria today, many analysts are wondering if such alliances forged by the gulf crisis place greater pressure on Israel to pursue Middle East peace talks. But Israeli officials are playing down Baker's visit to Syria. They say Baker has assured them NO decisions will be made behind Israel's back or at Israel's expense.

A senior Soviet aide says President Gorbachev is on the verge of urgent steps to stabilize the economy. Gorbachev's personal economic adviser says the president wants to see the beginning of a market economy established by the first of next year... along with a partial freeing of prices from state control. He says Gorbachev will likely create an ''emergency inter-republican economic council.''

Government health officials say mammograms can help prevent about one-third of breast cancer deaths in women over 40. But the officials say many doctors fail to recommend women take the test. A federal survey of 980 women found 45 percent of them who never had a mammogram said their doctor never recommended the procedure.

SAN FRANCISCO (SEPT. 13) UPI - A federal appeals court Thursday expanded national environmental law to require the U.S. Forest Service to consider the effects of logging on ''biological diversity,'' not simply a single species such as the spotted owl.

The 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruling said the Forest Service violated the National Environmental Policy Act by failing to study the impacts of logging on biological diversity.

Nathaniel Lawrence, attorney for the Natural Resources Defense Council, hailed the ruling as a ''landmark victory in the fight to stop the destruction of our native forests.''

''It is the first decision to force the government to take heed of the biological diversity of the ancient forests of the Pacific Northwest,'' Lawrence said.

The decision requires the Forest Service to study the impact of a proposed 3,000-acre timber salvage and harvest plan on an area burned during a 1987 fire that swept through 15,000 acres in the Klamath National Forest.

Environmentalists argue preserving biological diversity requires protection of a forest so that sufficient numbers of all plant and animal life can survive to sustain the diversity of an area.

The environmental groups asked that the Forest Service consider creation of a biological corridor between the Marble Mountain and Red Butte wilderness areas to allow animal species and even plants to migrate from one forested area to another.

Judge Alfred Goodwin wrote for the majority that the Forest Service failed to take a ''hard look'' at the biological corridor issue and settled on the half-mile wide strip without ''any apparent study or supporting documentation.''

Goodwin, a former justice on the Oregon Supreme Court and now chief judge of the 9th Circuit, ordered the Forest Service to study the corridor issue and the impact on biological diversity.

Wesley Higbie, attorney for the timber firms named in the lawsuit, said, ''I think the circumstances really do not permit a seemingly endless analysis of environmental impacts.''

Higbie said the proposed biological corridors around Marble Mountain could take in virtually all stands of old growth timber that have not been harvested. He said there is no proof species would use the corridors to migrate from one area to another.

Activists say the connecting corridors could allow creatures such as wolves, bears, mountain lions and spotted owls to sustain gene-pool diversity.

The northern spotted owl has become a focal point in the battle over the future of old-growth forests in the Pacific Northwest. The Fish and Wildlife Service listed the owl as a threatened species this summer, forcing the government to draft a plan on how to operate the forests to preserve the owl.

The Bush administration appointed a special inter-agency task force with the goal of saving the owl while mininizing job losses to loggers.

WASHINGTON (SEPT. 13) UPI - The Senate passed and sent to the White House Thursday a bill giving the president new discretion to draw oil from the strategic petroleum reserve during a domestic energy crisis or an oil import disruption.

Final congressional action on the measure came two days before the Energy Department's authority under existing law to purchase and store oil for the reserve was due to expire.

The legislation, a compromise that reconciles differing House and Senate versions of the bill passed months ago, cleared the House, 391-0, and passed the Senate on a voice vote about an hour later.

The White House had issued veto threats against both the original House and Senate versions of the bill. However, a Senate staff member who asked not to be identified said the administration signaled Thursday that President Bush would sign the compromise measure into law.

''The way it was put to me is: 'There was no veto threat,''' the staffer said.

The White House had no immediate comment on the bill.

Maintaining the reserve and expanding the president's authority to use it in times of national energy emergencies has taken on greater importance since Iraq invaded Kuwait last month, threatening Western access to Persian Gulf oil.

''This is much needed legislation,'' said Senate Energy Committee Chairman Bennett Johnston, D-La. ''It happens to be the only part of a domestic energy policy that this country has that makes any sense.''

Johnston used the occasion to repeat earlier calls to increase domestic oil and gas exploration to help ''change from a policy of imports to a policy of 'made in America.'''

The strategic petroleum reserve was established in 1975 following the Arab oil embargo to ensure the United States an emergency supply of oil. The reserve now holds about 590 million barrels of crude oil, stored in salt caverns on the Gulf Coast of Louisiana and Texas.

Under current law, the president can order the government to draw on the reserve only in the event of a severe cut-off of imported oil or if such a disruption is imminent. This authority has never been invoked.

The legislation goes further by allowing the president to tap the reserve if a severe interruption in domestic oil supplies occurs or is likely. However, such use would be limited to 30 million barrels of oil for up to 60 days.

The original House bill would have allowed the president to draw up to 50 million barrels of oil for up to 90 days.

The White House had threatened to veto the original Senate bill because of a provision to expand the size of the reserve to 1 billion barrels. Congress instead adopted language authorizing such an enlargement after 1996, when the reserve's existing capacity of 750 million barrels is expected to be reached.

Another key feature of the compromise bill is a provision that for the first time would require a portion of the reserve, now made up entirely of crude oil be devoted to refined petroleum products, such as heating oil or gasoline.

But to ward off a veto threat triggered over this issue, storage of refined products would be authorized only as a three-year pilot program rather than as a permanent part of the petroleum reserve as the House originally intended.

The stockpile of refined products is to make up roughly 10 percent of the overall reserve and is to be ''located on national distribution systems that can meet the needs of those areas that are particularly dependent on foreign products.''

This provision was designed to speed delivery of gasoline or heating oil in the event of a supply shortage, shortening the time it would otherwise take to refine the petroleum before it can be shipped.

PHILADELPHIA (SEPT. 13) UPI - With fiscal disaster looming, city officials Thursday began to explore ways to reassure jittery investors and cut costs following the collapse of its $375 million sale of short-term loan notes on Wall Street.

The maneuvering came as the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce called on Mayor Wilson Goode, Gov. Robert P. Casey and members of City Council and the state Legislature to attend a budget summit next week. The city is facing a $206 million deficit this year that is expected to double next year.

City Council member Lucien Blackwell, a likely mayoral candidate next year, charged that bankers are holding the city ''hostage,'' even though the city has never missed a bond payment, because City Council refused to raise taxes this year.

''Donald Trump missed a payment,'' Blackwell said. ''They reorganized his finances and gave him money at 2 percent interest. They tell us ... with 1.6 million people, that we have to pay 9 percent.''

City Finance Director Betsy Reveal, in her first comments to local reporters in seven weeks, painted a stark picture of the city's financial future if the notes cannot be sold.

''We will be out of money in 12 to 18 weeks,'' Reveal said. ''One hundred percent of city services are at risk.''

Reveal said the city would look at possible cash saving measures next week. That could include leaving positions vacant, postponing payments to vendors, and delaying planned payments to the city's pension board.

For seven weeks the city has been trying to find backers for its note sale, and after seeming to get a commitment for $50 million from Swiss Bank Corp., set the sale for Wednesday. Then the Swiss had second thoughts, leaving the city with no collateral, and the sale was off.

Reveal said the city had a signed committment from the bank for the support, and hinted officials might take legal action.

''We believe the breach (of contract) to be actionable, and we are pursuing all our options for appropriate redress,'' Reveal said.

''Clearly their inability to access the market is of significant concern,'' said Michael Johnston, a regional vice president of Moody's Investors Service.

Moody's, which last month dropped its rating on the city's long-term notes to Ba - just above junk bond status - is considering possible further rating action.

On Thursday, Fitch Investors Service Inc. lowered its rating of the city's bonds from BBB to B, which is junk bond level.

Reveal said it is now up to state and local elected officials to take steps to reassure investors.

''At a minimum, elected officials at the state and local level have got to say they will do everything within their power to be sure the city avoids insolvency and pays back the notes,'' Reveal said.

She blamed the crisis on ''a collective failure over 2 1/2 years to do everything that was necessary to ensure the city did not come up to the brink of insolvency.''

At an impromptu news conference, Casey sidestepped the question of a regional sales tax for the city, saying, ''It's not helpful to talk in terms of a hypothetical situation.''

A half-cent increase in the state sales tax to support the regional transit authority was proposed in the General Assembly by Philadelphia Democrat Rep. Dwight Evans earlier this year. Sources said the governor was strongly opposed to any tax increase proposal.

Casey reiterated his stance that the city's political and civic leaders have to reach agreement on a resolution to Philadelphia's financial crisis before the state's role can be defined.

The governor said it would not be possible for the state to loan the city money because its budget has already been passed.

HALIFAX, Nova Scotia (SEPT. 13) UPI - Canadian Coast Guard officials were trying to determine Thursday whether five hard-packed Styrofoam cylinders retrieved from the northern Atlantic Ocean came from a Boeing 727 that ditched with 16 people aboard.

Canadian Coast Guard spokesman Capt. Ross Brown told United Press International that officials would not know for several hours if they have located material from the Peruvian plane that ditched Tuesday southeast of Cape Race, Newfoundland after it ran low on fuel.

The cylinders were spotted floating in the ocean by one of several search planes and retrieved by a Coast Guard vessel.

''It could be anything. The ocean has its fair share of foreign objects,'' Brown said. He said the cylinders measured 14 inches by 4.75 inches and could have been discarded by a passing ship.

Meanwhile Thursday, worsening weather conditions, including winds and high waves, hampered search efforts for the 727.

Canadian Coast Guard spokesman Chip Chase said in an interview that an international force of nine aircraft, including two U.S. Air Force Reserve Hercules, one from Iceland and the other from Greenwood, Nova Scotia, and a Royal Airforce long range Nimrod joined Canadian planes in the search. Five ships are also participating in the hunt, he said.

Despite the massive effort, searchers have been unable to pinpoint the plane or any wreckage.

Chase said searchers were conducting an ''electronic sweep'' of a 300,000-square-mile area, but were hampered by deteriorating weather conditions, including winds of 25 miles per hour and 16-foot high waves. Visibility has also decreased and the area was being hit with rain and fog, Chase added.

The aircraft, with 15 Peruvian adults and one infant aboard, ditched Tuesday in the north Atlantic Ocean after its pilot issued a mayday call about 180 miles south of Newfoundland. There were no immediate reports of casualties.

The plane, owned by Faucett Airlines of Lima, Peru, a company established in 1928, was equipped with lifeboats, lifevests and emergency locator transmitters.

The plane was on loan to Air Malta for the summer and had been painted white and red, the colors of the European airline. The aircraft left Milan, Italy Tuesday and refuelled in Iceland. It was scheduled to refuel in Gander, Newfoundland before continuing to Miami.

But Chase said the plane ran low on fuel and ditched before reaching Gander.

Rescuers also continued searching Thursday off the Labrador coast for a smaller Cessna aircraft with six passengers and two crew aboard that went missing Tuesday.

The plane last made contact with authorities 15 minutes after takeoff from Greenland. It was enroute to Laborador.

MOSCOW (SEPT. 13) UPI - Commerce Secretary Robert Mosbacher and top American executives said Thursday they expect Soviet-American business cooperation to skyrocket despite some major remaining impediments to foreign investment.

Speaking at a news conference after a four-day presidential trade mission to the Soviet Union, the business leaders said they hoped American companies could quickly catch up with European firms in the amount of business done in the Soviet Union.

''This mission is extraordinarily significant, perhaps a watershed in our trade relations,'' said Dwayne Andreas, chairman and chief executive of Archer-Daniels-Midland Co. ''This is the first time in my memory that a president has said emphatically that he would like us to do all the business here that is appropriate and profitable.

''Those words alone will allay the fears and inhibitions of many of our corporate people who have been very reticent during the Cold War.''

Mosbacher said he felt the trade mission, which included chief executives from 15 U.S. companies, had ''accomplished a great deal.''

But he added that there were still major impediments to foreign investment in the Soviet Union, such as the lack of real private property rights, the confusion over the respective authority of central and local governments and the shortcomings in ''physical and legal infrastructure'' including the lack of a convertible currency.

''One other thing that needs to be accomplished of course is the passage of the (Soviet) emigration bill so that the president can send to Congress a recommendation for a Jackson-Vanik waver (of trade restrictions) and allow the most-favored nation process to work,'' he said.

President Bush said at his summit with Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev in Helsinki Sunday that the Soviet stand on the Gulf crisis had encouraged him to ask Congress to aid Moscow. But there has been no indication since then that U.S. conditions for improved trade status have changed.

The United States has demanded that the Soviets make concrete moves to implement a market economy and pass a new law allowing free emigration before beneficial trade laws are enacted.

But the business leaders who wrapped up their visit to Moscow Thursday said they were confident the obstacles to better trade would soon fall.

Andreas said Gorbachev had assured the group that the Soviet Union was committed to the move to a market economy and also planned to pass the emigration bill in the next several months.

A proposed law to allow 100 percent foreign ownership of businesses in the Soviet Union was also an encouraging sign, the executives said.

''There are some political and economic issues yet to be resolved but it is my opinion based on discussions that we had this week that those are moving forward with dispatch,'' said Lodwrick Cook, chairman of the Chevron Corp. ''The attitude is very positive for developing opportunities for joint ventures in a number of fields, particularly in the energy field.''

The Soviet Union is suffering from a decline in its oil and gas production, with a corresponding drop in badly needed hard currency earnings, and a major focus of the trade mission was the energy industry. Of the 15 executives, six were from energy companies, and Mosbacher made his fortune in the oil industry.

Members of the delegation met with Gorbachev and other top officials of the central government as well as radical local politicians seeking to wrest economic control away from the Kremlin. They also met with Soviet business leaders and several said they were near completion of new deals.

Mosbacher also announced a new program called the Soviet-American Business Internship Training Program under which the 15 companies in the mission and other businesses would host Soviet businesspeople for three to six months of training in Western business practices.

WASHINGTON (SEPT. 13) UPI - Five Eastern European nations can buy U.S. rice at subsidized prices, the government said Thursday in a step taken to offset the loss of the Iraq market and to counter European Community subsidies.

The offer of up to 100,000 metric tons of rice at discount prices to Hungary, Yugoslavia, Romania, Czechoslovakia and Poland was one of the largest rice offers in the history of the Export Enhancement Program.

''We will continue to use the EEP aggressively to counter subsidized commodities from the European Community,'' Agriculture Secretary Clayton Yeutter said in a statement. ''This effort will move U.S. rice, which will help our farmers and the people of Eastern Europe.''

An aide said the offer also would ''help out rice farmers who have traditionally sold rice to Iraq.'' Sales have been cut off as part of the international trade embargo against Iraq.

Iraq was the No. 1 market for U.S. rice exports, buying 20 percent of the U.S. total in fiscal 1989. It purchased 302,254 tons of rice in the first eight months of this fiscal year.

The EEP is the major U.S. export subsidy program. U.S. officials have complained the European Community unfairly subsidizes its farm exports and distorts world trade. The United States has made elimination of export subsidies a goal in world trade reform negotiations.

Arkansas, California, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri and Texas are the major rice-growing states.

BOCA RATON, FL (SEPT. 13) UPI - Both professional and college players will make up the 1992 U.S. Olympic basketball team, and the squad will be directed by an NBA coach, a committee devising guidelines decided Thursday.

C.M. Newton, athletic director at Kentucky and chairman of the games committee of the U.S. Basketball Council, said players on the team would be selected by the committee and the coaching staff. There will be no Olympic trials as there have been in the past.

Newton; Dave Gavitt of the Boston Celtics and president of USA Basketball; and Russ Granik, an NBA deputy commissioner and vice president of USA Basketball, appeared in behalf of the full committee to announce the developments after the opening day of the annual NBA meetings.

They said they did not reach any decision as to how many NBA players and how many college players would be on the roster. Teams are allowed to take 12 players to the Olympics, but the original roster was expected to be larger than that to allow for injuries and other problems.

''Our recommendation is that they not all be professional in this transitional period,'' Newton said.

Newton said the head coach would have to have eight years of coaching experience, three of them as an NBA head coach, and must have been active in the NBA in two of the last three years at the time of his selection.

He said no names were brought up during the meeting of the 12-member committee on Thursday. Among coaches rumored to be prospects are Pat Riley, who resigned as head coach of the Los Angeles Lakers earlier this year.

Assistant coaches would include one NBA head coach and two active college coaches, with at least one of them possessing international experience.

The guidelines will be presented to the 17-member USA Basketball Council for approval and then must be approved by the U.S. Olympic Committee.

''We will reconvene in November and start putting this into action,'' Newton said.

He said he hoped to select the coaching staff ''as quickly as possible.'' As for the players, he said, ''It is our hope that through the NBA players association and general managers we will know by February who has an interest. We will have the best players and the best coaching, which has not been available to us before.''

The United States has struggled in international competition recently, using young college players against internationally seasoned competition. It won its last Olympic gold medal in Los Angeles in 1984.

The international basketball federation voted last year to allow professional players in the Olympics.

Newton said the team's first competition would be in the Olymypic Qualification Tournament for the Americas at an undetermined site in the United States. The zone qualifying must be completed by July 5. Four teams would be selected from the 10 teams competing.

It is anticipated that tournament would take about a week and would start only a week or two after the NBA championship series is over.

Play in the Olympics starts at Barcelona Aug. 26.

''We don't have any choice in terms of timing,'' said Newton, a former head coach at Vanderbilt and Alabama.

Newton said he expected wide participation by NBA players.

''Rolando Blackman, who is also a vice president of the players Association, and Quinn Buckner sat in on our meeting, and their input was invaluable for helping us understand things from a player's perspective,'' Newton said.

He said Blackman said at the meeting that he would play on the team if selected.

(SEPT. 13) UPI - Acting Secretary of State Lawrence Eagleburger is making some demands regarding President Bush's videotaped message to the Iraqi people. Eagleburger insists that the tape be shown in the evening hours and in its entirety- without any editing. Iraq's ambassador to the United States promises the tape will air five times on state-run television. The State Department will send the tape to Baghdad by diplomatic courier in the next few days.

The U-S-O and retailing giant Montgomery Ward say they are developing a program dubbed ''Operation Better than a Letter.'' The two-Million- dollar program will allow U-S troops stuck in the Middle East or aboard a ship during Christmas to send home video-taped messages. World U-S-O President Chapman Cox believes the program will do wonders for the troops' morale.

Canadian Coast Guard officials say five Styrofoam cylinders recovered from the northern Atlantic Ocean are NOT from a missing Peruvian airliner. Says spokesman Captain Ross Brown- ''We're back to square one. The search is continuing.'' Meanwhile, worsening weather is hampering the hunt for the Boeing 727 with 16 people aboard that ditched southeast of Newfoundland Tuesday.

Agents with the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms today arrested a Miami Florida, man they say provided the weapons that Moslem rebels used to stage July's coup attempt in Trinidad. Officials say Louis Haneef used a wad of 100-dollar bills to buy dozens of assault rifles as federal agents looked on. But the agents could do nothing until they confirmed the weapons had been shipped out of the country.

SHEPHERD, MONT. (SEPT. 14) BUSINESS WIRE - Third quarter earnings of $126,479 or 2 cents per share, were reported by United Tote Inc. (NASDAQ:TOTE), a leading supplier of wagering systems for the pari-mutuel and sports betting industries with more than 320 customer facilities worldwide.

Chairman of the Board Lloyd Shelhamer said revenues for the three months ended July 31, 1990, totaled $19.8 million, a 172 percent increase over the same period of fiscal 1989.

Most of the revenue increase was provided by Autotote Ltd., a Delaware-based wagering systems firm acquired by the company in December of last year.

Management is currently addressing an antitrust action brought against the company by the U.S. Department of Justice following the Autotote purchase. The suit is scheduled for an Oct. 17 trial in Delaware Federal Court.

Third quarter revenues of $19.8 million and earnings of $126,479, or 2 cents per share, compare with revenues of $7.3 million and earnings of $881,802, or 29 cents per share, for the third quarter of last year.

Through nine months of fiscal 1990, United Tote reported total revenues of $48.1 million and a loss of $1.2 million, or 23 cents per share, on 5.3 million shares.

The company attributed much of the loss to increased interest, depreciation and amortization expenses resulting from the Autotote acquisition, legal costs arising from the Justice Department action and delays in international sales.

Revenues from long-term service contracts - the company's main revenue source - and equipment sales were $14.5 million and $2.8 million respectively for the third quarter. Contract revenues totaled $31.1 million and equipment sales, $5.9 million through the first nine months of the fiscal year.

Revenues from ownership and management of racetracks generated $2.5 million for the third quarter and $10.7 million for the first nine months of fiscal 1990. These compare with $1.9 million and $10.4 million for the same periods last year.

PORTLAND, OR (SEPT. 14) BUSINESS WIRE - Joseph J. Barclay, president and chief executive officer of Cascade Corp. (NASDAQ:CASC), reported operating results for both the second quarter and six month period ended July 31, 1990.

Consolidated net sales of $41,680,000 for the second quarter of 1990 were up 6 percent when compared to sales of $39,225,000 for the same period in 1989. Net income for the second quarter of 1990 was $2,200,000, or 36 cents per share, compared to 1989 second quarter net income of $2,975,000, or 50 cents

For the six months ended July 31, 1990, net sales of $84,135,000 were also 6 percent higher than 1989 sales of $79,520,000. Net income for the first six months of 1990 totaled $4,580,000, or 76 cents per share, compared to net income of $5,705,000, or 95 cents per share, for the corresponding 1989 period.

Barclay noted that the benefit from higher sales volume in both the second quarter and first six months was more than offset by lower gross margins associated with increased costs for raw materials and purchased components, a shift in product mix, and higher selling and administrative expenses.

Cascade Corp., with headquarters in Portland, is a leading international manufacturer of materials handling attachments for lift trucks and hydraulic cylinders.

PIKEVILLE, KY (SEPT. 14) BUSINESS WIRE - Burlin Coleman, chairman of Pikeville National Corp. (NASDAQ:PKVL), and James E. Whitlock, chairman of First Federal Savings Bank, Campbellsville, Ky., announced Friday that Pikeville National Corp. and First Federal have entered into an agreement in principle pursuant to which Pikeville National Corp. would acquire First Federal.

In connection with the acquisition, Pikeville National Corp. intends to issue and sell approximately 120,000 shares of its common stock. The proceeds of the sale, expected to be approximately $3 million will, be contributed to the capital of First Federal by Pikeville National Corp.

First Federal also announced that its board of directors will adopt a proposed plan to convert First Federal, a Federally chartered mutual savings bank to a Federally chartered capital stock savings bank. Following the conversion, First Federal will be merged with a wholly owned subsidiary of Pikeville National Corp.

Pikeville National Corp. will offer its common stock to eligible depositors of First Federal, eligible directors and officers of First Federal, eligible Pikeville National Corp. shareholders, and to the Pikeville National Corp. Employee Stock Ownership Plan. Any stock remaining after completion of the offering described above may be sold in a public offering or private placement.

The conversion and the merger will be subject to approvals of various regulatory agencies, including the Office of Thrift Supervision and the Federal Reserve Board.

Depositors of First Federal will continue to hold their accounts at First Federal following its conversion, with no changes in dollar amount, rate of return and other general terms, and all such accounts will continue to be insured by the Savings Association Insurance Funds of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

Borrower's loans will also be unaffected by the conversion, and the amount, rate, maturity, security and other conditions will remain contractually fixed as they existed prior to the conversion.

''We have the highest respect for James Whitlock and his staff,'' Coleman said. ''There will be no change in management, employees or directors. First Federal Savings Bank will continue to do business under its present name and its management will continue to respond to the needs of its customers, employees and community. We look forward to a great and exciting future and welcome Jim Whitlock and his people to our team.''

''We believe this is a very positive step for First Federal,'' Whitlock said. ''Current banking laws and regulations require us to operate more like a commercial bank. Pikeville National Corp. can help us respond to the needs of our customers and community as well as the regulatory changes and demands. We look forward to becoming a member of a much larger team.''

First Federal had assets of $145,034,258 and capital of $3,970,174, as of June 30, 1990. In addition to its Campbellsville offices, First Federal has branches in Columbia, Jamestown, Greensburg, Edmonton and Somerset.

Pikeville National Corp. is a bank holding company with assets of approximately $970 million. Pikeville National Corp. owns banks in Pikeville, Whitesburg, West Liberty, Mount Sterling, Williamsburg, Flemingsburg and Ashland.

BURLINGTON, MA (SEPT. 14) BUSINESS WIRE - Semicon Inc. (OTC-Pink Sheets) Friday announced results for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1990.

Net sales decreased 35 percent to $10,015,000, down from $15,324,000 in the prior year. Net income decreased from $1,550,000 in 1989 to a net loss of $4,248,000. Income per share decreased from 50 cents to a loss per share of $1.31 in 1990.

Net sales in the fourth quarter of fiscal year 1990 were $2,171,000 compared to $3,480,000 in the same period last year. Net income decreased from $227,000 a year ago to a net loss of $3,974,000 this quarter. Net income per share decreased from 7 cents to a loss of $1.22 per share in the fourth quarter of fiscal year 1990.

Results for the fourth quarter and fiscal year were significantly affected by one time charges aggregating $3,679,000. Charged to earnings in the fourth quarter were a $2,328,000 provision for estimated restructuring expenses, a $776,000 charge for discontinued operations, and a $575,000 charge for product requalifications.

Harold W. Mahar Jr., president and chief executive officer of Semicon, said, ''Although the reserves were significant, we felt they were necessary to address the problems facing Semicon.''

Mahar continued, ''The operating losses for the fourth quarter and the year, without regard to reserves, were distressing. However, we have continued our efforts to reduce costs in order to operate at lower revenue levels. Our cost reduction program has included significant employee reductions, consolidation of operations to one building and management reorganization. Despite these efforts, we expect to report a loss for the first quarter ending September 30, 1990. We still face the necessity of restructuring our long term debt to continue as a going concern.''

REDONDO BEACH, CALIF. (SEPT. 14) BUSINESS WIRE - Daniel S. Goldin, vice president and general manager of the TRW Space & Technology Group, has announced the following reassignments and promotions within his organization.

The TRW Space & Technology Group specializes in the design and production of spacecraft systems and instruments and technologies, lasers and propulsion systems.

Dr. Paul W. Mayhew, has been named vice president and assistant group general manager for programs reporting directly to Goldin. Mayhew was formerly vice president and general manager of the Space & Technology Group's Engineering and Test Division. In his new role, Mayhew will be responsible for the oversight of all group programs and in the startup of new commercial and international activities.

Edward J. Nowacki, former vice president and program manager of Advanced Technology Programs, succeeds Mayhew as president and general manager of the Engineering and Test Division. The division designs, develops and fabricates, assembles and tests spacecraft equipment and subsystems.

Donald C. Winter has been named vice president and general manager of a consolidation of the former Space and Technology Group Advanced Technology Programs, Defense Projects Division and Strategic Mission Programs. This new division, the Defense Systems Division, will manage special programs. Winter was formerly vice president and manager of Strategic Mission Programs.

Dr. Joseph Miller replaces Gerard W. Elverum, who has retired, as vice president and general manager of the Applied Technology Division. Miller was formerly assistant general manager of the division, which produces electro-optical and instrument systems, propulsion subsystems, high-energy lasers and laser technology, advanced payloads technology, superconductivity technology and performs research in the physical sciences.

Edward C. Rea, has been named vice president and general manager of the Ballistic Missiles Division, which provides systems engineering to the U.S. Air Force on the Minuteman, Peacekeeper and Small ICBM and Advanced Systems programs. Rea replaces J. Michael Gorman, who retired earlier this year. Rea was formerly assistant general manager and project manager for the division's work on the Small ICBM.

PHOENIX (SEPT. 14) BUSINESS WIRE - DATAPHAZ Inc. (NASDAQ:DPHZ) Friday announced operating results for the second quarter and six month period ended July 31, 1990.

Sales and revenues for the second quarter of fiscal 1991 declined 31.4 percent to $20,379,000 from the $29,702,000 reported in the year earlier period. Net income of $195,000, or 5 cents per share, was reported for the current quarter compared to a loss of $309,000 or 8 cents per share, reported in the second quarter of the prior year.

Sales and revenues for the six months ended July 31, 1990, declined 26.4 percent to $39,928,000 from the $54,271,000 reported in the prior year period.

Net income of $215,000, or 6 cents per share, was reported for the current six month period, compared to a net loss of $868,000, or 23 cents per share, for the comparable prior year period.

Same store sales and revenues declined $3.8 million between the comparable quarter and six month periods. This decrease results in part from moving $2.6 million and $4.3 million in normal customer sales during the current quarter and six month period, respectively, to the ComputerLand Assisted Sales Program (CAS). These transactions do not appear as sales in the financial statements; rather fees were recorded for arranging the sale and delivery of the equipment.

Using CAS in combination with normal sales transactions, the company was able to increase total sales activity between the comparable six month periods from its primary market in Phoenix. However, sales and revenues did decline in the company's remaining markets as a result of slowing economic conditions, reorganizations in the Las Vegas and Denver stores, and the company's decision to limit bids and participation in highly discounted business which does not meet the criteria for CAS.

The improved net income results for the current quarter and six month period were attributed to the disposition of the Albuquerque and Dallas/Ft. Worth operations, an increased mix of service and support revenues, the company's decision to limit bids and participation in highly discounted business, a decrease in same store selling, general and administrative expenses and interest savings resulting from a reuction of average short-term borrowings.

DATAPHAZ presently operates five ComputerLand locations in three states and continues to be one of ComputerLand Corp.'s largest domestic franchisees. The company's corporate offices are located at 15002 N. 25th Drive, Phoenix, Ariz. 85023.

KANSAS CITY, MO (SEPT. 14) BUSINESS WIRE - US Sprint is presenting the Emergency Medical Services (EMS) National Leadership Award to Acadian Ambulance Service Inc., which serves 1.5 million people in southern Louisiana.

The award will be presented Sunday during the 1990 EMS Management Academy at the Hyatt Regency Hotel in Kansas City.

Acadian, based in Lafayette La., was honored for its pioneering contributions to the emergency medical services field, including its work in developing subscription/membership plans and customer service programs.

Steven P. Akin, president of the Consumer Services Group for US Sprint, will present the award. US Sprint sponsored the annual award in conjunction with Fitch & Associates Inc., the largest emergency medical services consulting firm in the country. Both companies are headquartered in Kansas City.

''This prestigious award recognizes Acadian's exceptional leadership in the emergency medical services industry,'' said Joseph J. Fitch, Ph.D., president of Fitch & Associates. ''Other public and private ambulance providers have adopted Acadian's programs in their own communities with great success.''

In addition to their model efforts in both air medical and ground ambulance services, Acadian has developed customer subscription programs that have proven successful in financing ambulance operations in the company's service region, as well as in other rural areas.

''People may not think about paramedics until they are involved in an emergency situation,'' Akin said. ''Leaders of emergency medical services systems are often the unsung heroes in their communities. US Sprint is delighted to recognize the efforts of those who provide vital community service.''

More than 150 ambulance service officials from across the United States participated in the sixth annual EMS academy, held each year in Kansas City.

SAN JOSE, CALIF. (SEPT. 14) BUSINESS WIRE - The key architect of Apple Computer's desktop mapping campaign is joining Strategic Mapping Inc. as director of marketing, the company announced Friday.

Cesar Melgoza, who, as an Apple solutions marketing manager, focused on promoting Geographic Information Systems (GIS) and other information management tools, joins Strategic Mapping just as the software company has unveiled major new products for both the Macintosh and IBM PC.

Melgoza will spearhead the company's drive to establish the use of GIS as a widely used business and government planning and decision support tool enabling users to analyze and display geographic data from spreadsheets and databases.

''For most business users, desktop mapping and GIS are brand new technologies, and Cesar Melgoza brings with him a detailed knowledge of how to help users understand and apply this software,'' said Stephen Poizner, president of Strategic Mapping Inc.

Geographic information systems enable users to link maps and data to optimize sales territories, plan distribution channels, evaluate site locations, and perform other types of geographic or demographic analyses. Geographic information systems provide ''visual databases'' which allow users to make queries by clicking on parts of the map with a mouse, or to change the displayed map by editing the underlying data.

As marketing director, Melgoza's primary role will be to plan and implement the company's overall marketing strategy, establishing broader markets for its line of desktop mapping and GIS products.

Melgoza will create marketing plans for the two newly released products, ATLAS MapMaker 4.5 for the Macintosh, and ATLAS GIS for IBM PCs, as well as Strategic Mapping's existing product line, which includes ATLAS Graphics, ATLAS Draw, and a complete library of map boundary and data files. Melgoza will also play a key role in identifying new product opportunities for Strategic Mapping.

Strategic Mapping Inc., formerly Strategic Locations Planning, is headquartered in San Jose, Calif. The company's desktop mapping products are used by more than half the Fortune 500 companies as well as thousands of other businesses, universities, government agencies and research organizations. ZEELAND, MI (SEPT. 14) BUSINESS WIRE - AmeriMark Corp. announced Friday that its wholly owned subsidiary, AmeriShop, has entered into an agreement with Midway Airlines to provide benefits to their frequent flyer passengers.

This program was designed for Midway Airlines by AmeriShop. The program offers Midway's customers a unique discount shopping service that provides them high quality brand name merchandise at substantial savings. Each member will have toll-free telephone access to a centralized computer data base with over 60,000 merchandise products.

Flyers First members will be offered an incentive to pay a smaller annual fee based on the type of membership level they have earned. The program will offer a unique ''double the difference price guarantee'' assuring each member the lowest possible price on merchandise purchased in the United States.

To further promote this program, a new airline in-flight catalog is being designed which offers preselected merchandise to non-members as well as members. Members will have special discounted pricing available to them.

AmeriMark Corp. is presently the second largest electronic buying service company in the United States. AmeriMark is one of only a few companies that maintain a sophisticated centralized computer product data base.

AmeriMark is a publicly held company trading on the over the counter market.

FULLERTON, CA (SEPT. 14) BUSINESS WIRE - Ropak Corp. (NASDAQ:ROPK) has been awarded distribution rights to a line of collapsible plastic materials-handling bins owned by North American Van Lines Inc.

The agreement, initially for one year, gives Ropak worldwide marketing rights in all industries except the household-moving business.

North American Van Lines' shipping and storage bins stand approximately 8 feet high and are on 44-by-44-inch or 44-by-88-inch bases. The two sizes have 95 and 190 cubic feet of interior space, respectively, and can be fitted with shelves for the movement or storage of furniture, appliances, office records and the like. Each of the bins can be collapsed to about one-fourth its full size.

Ropak's present product line includes similar collapsible materials-handling containers in sizes ranging from 32 cubic feet down to 2.5 cubic feet. Management believes this to be the industry's broadest line of collapsible, multiple-use, recyclable plastic containers.

The company's pallet-size JIT collapsible plastic bins support ''just-in-time'' manufacturing and inventory-control systems and have come into widespread use in a number of businesses, including automotive, agriculture, raw materials, textiles and foodstuffs. Multiple-trip containers eliminate costly disposable packaging and significantly reduce landfill waste.

Ropak is a leading multinational maker of plastic packaging and handling products for foods, coatings and a variety of agricultural and industrial materials.

Ropak also distributes, for a company in which it holds a one-third equity interest, a line of test kits for the measurement of the human eye-and-skin-irritation potential from raw ingredients and finished formulations in cosmetics and household chemicals. Ropak has 10 plants in the United States, Canada and Japan.

REDONDO BEACH, CALIF. (SEPT. 14) BUSINESS WIRE - Philip N. Papaccio, deputy general manager of the TRW Systems Integration Group, has also assumed responsibility for all activities related to the Global Change Initiative for the TRW Space & Defense Sector.

As TRW's newly named vice president and program executive for the Global Change Initiative, Papaccio is overseeing all aspects of this far-reaching environmental program at TRW. He will develop and implement a sector-wide strategy and coordinate the many activities TRW has that are related to global change.

The Global Change Initiative is a worldwide effort to collect information on the Earth's natural processes and study records of past environmental changes to establish a sound scientific data base to develop policies on global change issues.

As part of the Global Change Initiative, NASA is sponsoring Mission to Planet Earth. This far-reaching program will place instruments and sensors aboard

U.S., European and Japanese as well as U.S. National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) polar orbiting platforms to provide long-term measurements of environmental conditions.

The program also includes activity by the Departments of Commerce, Energy, Interior, Defense and Agriculture; the Environmental Protection Agency; and the National Science Foundation.

''Phil will provide leadership for TRW's participation in this critical global environment program,'' said Edsel D. Dunford, executive vice president and general manager of the Space & Defense Sector. ''He will be the executive interface to our customers and other industry participants, and will coordinate a wide range of TRW initiatives in space- and software-based systems.''

TRW Space & Defense Sector provides a broad range of products and services for space, defense, electronics and information technology. With headquarters in Redondo Beach, the sector employs about 27,000 people worldwide. Cleveland-based TRW Inc. is an international company that provides high-technology products and services to the space and defense, automotive and information systems markets.

HOUSTON (SEPT. 14) BUSINESS WIRE - Transco Energy Co. said today that the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC) has issued a decision in the so-called ''Transition Cost Proceeding'' of its subsidiary, Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line Corp. (TGPL).

The decision affirmed an earlier administrative law judge (ALJ) decision which would require TGPL to refund approximately $48.5 million, together with interest, associated with gas costs incurred by TGPL during the 1985-86 period.

The decision also would require TGPL to forego recovery of $26.5 million associated with gas costs incurred by TGPL during the same period and would require a refund of approximately $36.7 million of transportation revenues, together with interest from May 31, 1989, which TGPL earned in transporting certain quantities of gas during such period.

Transco President and Chief Executive Officer George S. Slocum said: ''Transco steadfastly believes that the actions taken by TGPL and its affiliates in 1985-86 did not violate either the letter or the spirit of the law or the FERC's regulations, and were entirely consistent with the Commission's policies of increasing customer access to market responsive gas supplies. Consequently, we will seek court review of the FERC's decision.''

Slocum continued, ''This decision denies TGPL the right to pass through to its customers gas costs which were found to be reasonable in earlier phases of the proceeding. Two different ALJs, in the earlier phases of the proceeding, had agreed that TGPL was legally entitled to pass these costs on to its customers. However, the effect of the FERC's decision is inconsistent with such findings.

''TGPL's actions were designed to reduce its then-escalating take- or-pay exposure resulting from the FERC's issuance of Order 380, which essentially relieved customers of their obligations to purchase pipeline gas supplies,'' Slocum noted. ''The FERC's decision gives no consideration to the significant reduction in take-or-pay costs which otherwise would have been substantially borne by TGPL's customers had TGPL not engaged in the transactions in question.

''TGPL, without enriching itself, achieved the dual purpose of substantially improving its ability to perform its commitments to its producers-suppliers during the chaotic period following Order 380 while, at the same time, providing low cost gas to its customers.

''The record evidence on these savings is clear and uncontradicted. One customer alone calculated that it had reduced its gas costs almost $20 million by participating in TGPL's programs. For the FERC now to impose a large penalty on TGPL for undertaking such actions in a period of market transition is inexplicable and indefensible.''

SANTA CLARA, CALIF. (SEPT. 14) BUSINESS WIRE - Applied Materials Inc. Friday announced the opening of its Applied Implant Technology (AIT) customer demonstration and applications lab in Santa Clara.

With a new Precision Implant 9200 installed in a Class-10 cleanroom facility, the company now has demonstration facilities in Santa Clara; Horsham England; and Narita, Japan.

The facility occupies a total of 3,300 square feet, with 600 square feet rated as Class-10 cleanroom and the remaining area as Class-1000. The lab's Precision Implant 9200 is fitted with the latest options and enhancements, including the Automated Variable Angle Implant feature, and can handle the full range of wafer sizes, including 200mm (8-inch) wafers.

''The new facility is part of our increasing commitment to the U.S. ion implant market. Our customers will now be able to utilize the Precision Implant 9200 in a Class-10 environment for joint development of customer-specific applications. We will also be using the lab for demonstrations for potential new customers,'' said John Stewart, vice president of the Applied Implant Technology organization.

Since its introduction in late 1985 as the first ''new generation'' automated implanter, the Precision Implant 9000/9200 has steadily gained acceptance and is the leader in the fully automated, high-current implant market.

Applied Materials Inc. is a global growth company based in Santa Clara, and is the leading independent supplier of wafer fabrication systems to the worldwide semiconductor industry. It is a market leader in chemical vapor deposition, dry plasma etching and silicon deposition. The company is also a leading manufacturer of ion implantation systems and recently launched its entry into the physical vapor deposition market.

SANTA MONICA, CA (SEPT. 14) BUSINESS WIRE - National Medical Enterprises Inc. (NME) (NYSE/PSE/LoSE:NME) Friday announced it will redeem all extendable notes due 1999 that have not been tendered for repayment on or before Oct. 1, 1990.

There are currently $98 million in principal amount of notes outstanding. NME issued the notes in October 1984.

The company said it will redeem the notes on Oct. 15, 1990, at 100 percent of the principal amount. Interest accrued through Oct. 14, 1990, will be paid to holders of record on Sept. 30, 1990. The current interest rate is 9.4 percent and the current interest period expires Oct. 14.

Holders have the option of tendering the notes for repayment on or before Oct. 1, 1990. Notes so tendered will be repurchased on Oct. 15, 1990, at 100 percent of the principal amount plus accrued interest through Oct. 14, 1990.

The option of tendering for repayment arises when a new interest period and rate for the notes is established. Under the terms of the notes NME is required to establish a new interest period and rate for the period beginning Oct. 15, 1990, although all notes will be tendered or redeemed. NME has set a rate of 8.65 percent for the five-year period beginning Oct. 15, 1990.

NME noted that official notices of redemption and of the resetting of the interest rate and right to tender have been mailed to all holders of record.

The trustee for the notes is The Bank of New York. The addresses for tendering for repayment and redemption are included in the official notices.

National Medical Enterprises, one of the nation's largest health care services companies, owns, operates and manages acute, psychiatric and physical rehabilitation hospitals and substance abuse treatment centers throughout the United States and internationally.

SANTA MONICA, CA (SEPT. 14) BUSINESS WIRE - TVN Entertainment Corp.'s launch of its Satellite Movie Rental service is set for Friday when it uplinks 10 pay-per-view movies on AT&T's Telstar 303 satellite.

TVN is the first DBS service to offer 10 pay-per-view channels, each featuring one of Hollywood's top 10 movies.

Highlighting TVN's opening lineup are Academny Award winners ''Born on the Fourth of July'' and ''My Left Foot.'' Also included in the initial cinematic package are Warner Bros.' ''Hard to Kill'' and ''Men Don't Leave,'' Paramount's ''Internal Affairs'' and ''Flashback,'' Touchstone/Disney's ''Blaze,'' Columbia's ''Revenge,'' Universal's ''Tremors,'' and ''Ski Patrol'' from Epic.

TVN will operate its 10 channel movie service, implementing its state-of-the-art ordering and authorization system which utilizes AT&T's Automatic Number Identification (ANI) technology.

TVN also announced that it will begin taking subscription orders next month for its service that includes a package of basic and premium services. ''We have completed negotiations for the four initial cable programming services which will anchor TVN's monthly subscription package,'' said Stuart Levin, TVN's president and chief executive officer. Documents are currently being signed and TVN will then announce its opening slate of services.

As soon as TVN's subscription programming package is announced, TVN will be taking orders from subscribers. TVN has already received more than 60,000 calls for subscription information at its AT&T Transtech facility.

TVN's electronic in-home video rental service will be initially targeted at America's 3 million home satellite dish owners. TVN's films will be transmitted from T303 transponders 1-9 and 20, in scrambled format, using TVN's proprietary D-Code encryption system. TVN will also continue transmitting its 24-hour unscrambled promotional channel on T303, transponder 24.

DENVER (SEPT. 14) BUSINESS WIRE - Bayly Corp. reported a net loss of $4,219,000 for the third quarter of fiscal 1990 which ended July 31.

This represents a $3,245,000 change from the $974,000 loss experienced in the same quarter of fiscal 1989. The change is largely attributable to a decrease in net sales and gross margins of $7,893,000 and $3,490,000, respectively.

Gross margins for the third quarters of fiscal 1990 and fiscal 1989 were 10 percent and 23 percent, respectively. Although gross margins were considerably lower for the third quarter of fiscal 1990 when compared to the same quarter of fiscal 1989, the gross margin achieved in the first nine months of fiscal 1990 of 26.5 percent is comparable to the 26.8 percent achieved for the first nine months of fiscal 1989.

Net sales decreased by $7,893,000 from the third quarter of fiscal 1989 to the third quarter of fiscal 1990. The decrease was primarily the result of reduced sales of Op and private-label products of $3,340,000 and $4,602,000, respectively.

Cancellations of orders by major customers and delays in deliveries from contracted sources affected the company's ability to achieve expected sales levels. Also, a general softening of the retail market negatively impacted both Op and private-label net sales. The company's backlog of unshipped orders as of the end of the third quarter of fiscal 1990 is down $9.2 million (56 percent) from the same time during fiscal 1989.

The reduction is primarily in the Op product line ($5.1 million) but private-label product orders are also lower ($3.2 million). The softening of the retail market is causing customers to place orders much nearer to the delivery date than in past years.

Also, due to the soft retail market, major producers who have used Bayly as a source for overflow production for their own product lines during past summers have had excess capacity themselves and, therefore, have not placed work with the company.

Administrative, selling, and distribution expenses remained under tight control and at fairly constant levels during the third quarter and first nine months of fiscal 1990 compared to the same periods of fiscal 1989. Interest expense decreased $296,000 and $414,000 from fiscal 1989 to fiscal 1990 for the quarter and nine months, respectively.

Headquartered in Denver, Bayly Corp. (NASDAQ:BAYL) designs, manufactures and sells young men's wear under license from Ocean Pacific (Op) Sunwear Ltd., men's and boys' sportswear under the nationally known brand name of O'Neill, as well as private-label apparel.

Bayly's customers include major department and specialty stores for its branded products and mass merchandisers and other retailers for its private-label apparel.

IRVINE, CA (SEPT. 14) BUSINESS WIRE - American Savings Bank is launching its most extensive sales campaign ever, which will reward customers with free or discounted travel tickets to Europe, Mexico, the United States and Hawaii.

Continental Airlines is American Savings' partner in the travel campaign and is supplying tickets to all destinations it serves.

The new campaign, which runs from Sept. 17 to Dec. 15, will be supported by an extensive multifaceted advertising campaign including prime-time television commercials, radio and print.

The television spots are a romantic fantasy with a silhouetted couple dancing to the song ''Dancing the Continental'' against a backdrop of Big Ben, the Eiffel Tower, Fount Fuji and the Statue of Liberty.

American Savings' three- or six-month option adjustable rate mortgage (ARM) loan awards two free round-trip tickets to anywhere in the United States, Hawaii or Mexico. The offer is available for purchases or refinances with a minimum loan amount of $50,000.

Customers who open a six-month CD with a minimum deposit of $20,000 in new money earn a free round-trip companion ticket to France, England, Japan, Hawaii or to 87 cities in the contiguous United States.

A new six-month $10,000 CD nets the customer a 75 percent discount on a companion ticket. A minimum deposit of $2,500 will earn a customer a 50 percent discount on a round-trip companion ticket.

A $20,000 tax-deferred annuity, purchased through ASB Financial Services, gives a 75 percent companion ticket discount, and a $10,000 annuity brings a bonus of a 50 percent companion ticket discount.

Money market checking accounts or American Savings Bank VISA Gold or Classic cards also offer travel bonuses with discounts from $25 to $100 on round-trip tickets to any of Continental's 87 U.S. destinations.

Residential and income property loan applications must be received by Dec. 15 and funded by Jan. 18, 1991. Tickets are valid for round-trip travel from Sept. 18 to Sept. 1, 1991.

BEAUMONT, TX (SEPT. 15) BUSINESS WIRE - Gulf States Utilities Co. Friday withdrew its temporary rate request.

A Public Utility Commission of Texas examiners' order provides for a resumption of hearings in the company's permanent rate proceeding based on a Supreme Court of Texas decision on Wednesday.

GSU filed a motion with the PUCT in July for a temporary rate increase because of the long delay in the rate case filed in March 1989. Wednesday's Texas Supreme Court ruling prohibits the PUCT from considering the prudence of River Bend construction costs in the suspended case. The commission can continue hearings into other phases of the case, company officials explained.

Under the November 1989 Examiners' Order No. 47, hearings into Docket 8702 -- the case GSU filed in March 1989 -- will begin about Oct. 12. A hearing into GSU's temporary rate request was scheduled for Oct. 9.

In a letter to the PUCT filing clerk, the company withdrew the temporary request and asked that all related hearings be canceled.

The company has said that it can justify $126 million in additional revenues to cover expenses not related to the diputed part of River Bend. Under GSU's Regional Recovery Plan, the company requested a net first-year increase of $67.5 million. The temporary rate request was for $56.5 million, an amount the PUCT staff had said the company could justify.

DALLAS (SEPT. 14) BUSINESS WIRE - BANK ONE, TEXAS Friday assumed all the deposits and certain other liabilities and purchased certain assets of Capitol City Federal Savings Association of Austin, announced Harvey R. Mitchell, chairman and chief executive officer of BANK ONE, TEXAS, and William J. Renfro chief executive officer of BANK ONE's Austin office.

Capitol City Federal Savings, with $250 million in deposits at June 30, 1990, was closed Friday by the Office of Thrift Supervision, which appointed the Resolution Trust Corp. as receiver. The main office is located at 919 Congress.

The eight offices of Capitol City Federal Savings will be open Monday during their normal hours doing business as usual, with no interruption of services for customers.

Mitchell noted that the Capitol City Federal Savings acquisition is a part of BANK ONE's ongoing strategy of expanding its presence in the Texas marketplace and enhancing its convenience and service for customers.

Renfro said: ''This expansion is not only an outstanding opportunity for BANK ONE, but also a new opportunity for the customers to bank with one of the nation's strongest financial institutions. We welcome our new valued customers with our pledge to provide quality service and innovative products.''

Customers of Capitol City Federal Savings should continue to use their checks and make deposits and loan payments as before. All deposits were transferred intact to BANK ONE and remain insured to the applicable limits by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. Savings Association Insurance Fund.

BANK ONE, TEXAS' previous acquisitions this year include Bright Banc Savings Association (Dallas); American Bank of Arlington; The Everman National Bank (Fort Worth); Trinity National Bank (Dallas); First State Federal Savings Association (San Antonio); United Bank of Waco; and Northside Bank (San Antonio).

BANK ONE, TEXAS, NA had assets of $13.1 billion, including $2.1 billion of assets in the special collection pool, and deposits of $10.9 billion at June 30, 1990. BANK ONE, TEXAS has more than 110 offices statewide and is an affiliate of BANC ONE CORPORATION, which reported assets of $27.9 billion and common equity capital of $2.69 billion at June 30, 1990.

LOS ANGELES (SEPT. 14) BUSINESS WIRE - RCM TECHNOLOGIES, INC. (NASDAQ Symbol: RCMT, RCMTZ; BSE Symbol: RMT) Friday announced operating results for the third quarter and nine months ended July 31.

For the third quarter ended July 31, revenues increased 16 percent to $7,082,052 from $6,059,769 reported for the third quarter ended July 31, 1989. Net loss for the quarter ended July 31, was $88,598, or $(0.00) per share, compared to a net loss of $149,913, or $(0.01) per share, reported in the same period a year ago.

Revenues for the nine months ended July 31, increased 23 percent to $20,060,521 from $16,334,905 for the nine months ended July 31, 1989. Net loss for the nine months ended July 31, was $444,544, or $(0.03) per share, compared to a net loss of $574,741, or $(0.04) per share, for the nine months ended July 31, 1989.

Commenting on the results, Robert Sackett, chairman and CEO of RCM TECHNOLOGIES, INC. stated, ''The company's wholly-owned subsidiary, Intertec Design, Inc. continued to show solid progress for the third quarter and nine months ended July 31, 1990.

Sackett continued, ''We anticipate that revenues for the fiscal year ending October 31, 1990 will exceed $28 million, as compared to revenues for fiscal 1989 of $22.7 million. In addition, we expect that the loss for the year will be less than $400,000, almost half of last year's loss of $774,166, or $0.06 per share.''

Sackett concluded, ''We anticipate that RCM will become profitable in fiscal 1991, as we continue to market RCM's System 99 for reducing hazardous emissions from coal-burning plants. In addition, we expect that the System 99 could potentially generate annual revenues of $600 to $700 million within 10 years.''

RCM TECHNOLOGIES, INC. is involved in the development and marketing of its patented ''System 99'' which is designed to control hazardous emissions from smoke stacks, a major cause of acid rain. TUSTIN, CA (SEPT. 14) BUSINESS WIRE - Trimedyne Inc. (NASDAQ:TMED) Friday announced it has completed the sale of its non-medical laser-manufacturing subsidiary in Florida to a venture-capital group based in Orange County for $450,000.

Trimedyne received an immediate payment of $300,000 and a note for $150,000, with the proceeds to be received over a period of 24 months beginning in October 1990.

The company recorded a $650,000 provision for the loss on the sale of this subsidiary in its third quarter ending June 30, 1990. This writedown was a non-cash charge, and the company does not expect to recognize any additional loss on the transaction.

The company further reported it has negotiated an early termination of the lease for its 70,000-square-foot office and manufacturing facility in Tustin, which relieves the company of a lease obligation of approximately $6.3 million over an eight-year period.

The company will relocate at the end of 1990 to approximately 48,000 square feet of office and manufacturing space in nearby Irvine at a significant cost savings.

Trimedyne's president and chief executive officer, Howard K. Cooper, said: ''The sale of our non-medical laser subsidiary is consistent with our plans to divest facilities outside our core medical business. The sale of this subsidiary, which has been losing money, will help to reduce our expenses. We are presently planning for an additional divestiture and instituting further cost-cutting measures.''

Cooper further stated: ''We are significantly reducing operating costs on our core medical business. These cost reductions will become effective with the beginning of our next fiscal year, Oct. 1, 1990, and will not delay the development of our new Holmium ('Cold') laser system for treating cardiovascular disease.''

Trimedyne is the leading manufacturer of proprietary and patented lasers and laser catheters for removing blockages from blood vessels as an alternative or an adjunct to bypass surgery and balloon angioplasty.

SEATTLE (SEPT. 14) BUSINESS WIRE - Jay Jacobs Inc. (NASDAQ: JAYJ) Friday reported unaudited sales and earnings for its quarter ended Aug. 31, 1990.

Net sales for the second quarter of 1990 were $30,642,000, an increase of 21 percent over sales of $25,300,000 in the second quarter of 1989. Net earnings from continuing operations for the second quarter of 1990 were $899,000, or 15 cents per share, up 32 percent from net earnings of $683,000 or 12 cents per share, in the second quarter of 1989.

As previously announced, the company discontinued its wholesale division during the first quarter of the current fiscal year as it had generally been unprofitable for the past three years. During 1989, the wholesale division reported a profit in the second quarter of $793,000, its only profitable quarter in fiscal 1989. Because the wholesale division had no operations during the second quarter of 1990, net income decreased by 39 percent.

Douglas A. Swerland, president of Jay Jacobs Inc., said: ''We are pleased with the second quarter results in view of today's difficult retailing environment. During the second quarter of 1990, eight new stores were opened and one store was closed, bringing the total number of stores in operation at Aug. 31, 1990, to 186. The company plans to open approximately 15 stores during the balance of the fiscal year.''

Jay Jacobs sells fashion forward merchandise to young women and men through its 186 apparel stores located principally in regional shopping malls in 11 Western states and three Midwestern states.

PHOENIX (SEPT. 14) BUSINESS WIRE - Gregory J. Petras, president and chief executive officer of National Health Enhancement Systems Inc. (NASDAQ:NHES) Friday announced financial results for the three and six months ended July 31, 1990.

Petras reported that the company had its most profitable quarter and six months in the company's history.

Petras stated that the company has experienced improved operating performance during its second fiscal quarter due to the success of its two new products, The Professionals and Centramax, and as a result of the sale of its Riskcan health risk appraisal, a minor product line, for $150,000 to a major publishing company.

Net revenues for the second quarter of fiscal 1991 were $1,047,270 compared to $929,717 for the corresponding quarter last year. The company's net income for the three months ended July 31, 1990, was $192,181, or approximately 12 cents a share, compared to net income of $29,699, or approximately 2 cents a share, for the same period last fiscal year.

For the six month period ended July 31, 1990, net revenues increased approximately 8 percent, to $1,942,218 compared to $1,788,380 for the same period last year. Net income was $63,611 or approximately 4 cents a share, compared to net income of $40,340 or approximately $.025 a share, for the same six month period of last fiscal year.

Petras also reported that the company obtained $125,000 in capital from an independent group of investors in a recently closed loan transaction. Petras indicated that the improved operating results and additional capital have improved the company's financial position.

National Health Enhancement Systems Inc. is a developer and distributor of marketing systems for the healthcare industry.

LOUISVILLE, KY. (SEPT. 14) BUSINESS WIRE - Vencor Inc. (NASDAQ/NMS:VCOR) Friday announced that it has signed an agreement to lease and operate the 72-bed Atlanta Hospital in Atlanta.

The acquisition represents the eleventh facility in Vencor's network of hospitals and expands the company's operations into an eighth state.

W. Bruce Lunsford, chief executive officer, noted that this expansion marks the third hospital Vencor has acquired thus far this year. Lunsford said: ''The facility, to be operated as Vencor Hospital Atlanta, brings the total number of licensed beds in Vencor's network of hospitals to 720, representing a 71 percent increase since the start of 1990. Like our other hospitals, Vencor Hospital Atlanta will specialize in providing long-term hospital care to patients suffering from catastrophic illnesses.''

Lunsford remarked: ''This acquisition follows our general strategy of focusing Vencor's expansion on the nation's largest markets. Each of our long-term hospitals is located in one of the top 40 markets in the U.S. We are pleased with this opportunity to bring Vencor's long-term hospital services into the greater Atlanta area and are confident about the demand there for quality, long-term healthcare in an acute-care environment.''

Vencor specializes in providing long-term hospital care for patients who suffer from catastrophic illness. The company has 11 hospitals located in Arizona, Colorado, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Louisiana and Texas.

HINTON, Va. (SEPT. 14) BUSINESS WIRE - WLR Foods, Inc. (NASDAQ:WLRF) announced Friday that it will market all of its poultry products for distribution in the United States under a single brand name, Wampler-LongacreR effective January 1991.

The Company's chicken products have been sold primarily under the RockinghamR brand name, while most of its turkey products are offered under the Wampler-LongacreR label. As a result of the brand consolidation, WLR Foods becomes one of the few companies to distribute both chicken and turkey products under one brand name.

Effective September 11, 1990, the Company announced that its Rockingham Poultry subsidiary was renamed Wampler-Longacre Chicken, Inc. Its turkey subsidiary Wampler-Longacre was renamed Wampler-Longacre Turkey, Inc.

James L. Keeler, President and Chief Executive Officer, commented: ''These actions were taken after thorough study of our markets and will enable us to promote one strong regional poultry brand throughout our entire marketing area. In addition, the economies of scale we can achieve will allow us to be more aggressive in our promotional efforts.''

As a result of the brand consolidation, RockinghamR product labels will undergo a series of changes over the next few months. Extensive consumer communication will familiarize customers with the transition.

''The consumer will still see the same fresh chicken products long associated with the RockinghamR brand in retail store meat cases throughout our market area,'' Mr. Keeler noted. ''They will simply carry a new label. We will continue our rigorous quality and customer service standards through the product line. And, of course, we will make the transition to the new labels and truck signage with plenty of support behind the brand.''

Mr. Keeler concluded: ''There are important strengths and synergies in offering our broad line of more than 250 fresh and value-added chicken and turkey products to customers under the Wampler-LongacreR label. We have taken an important step forward with our brand decision.''

An exception will be made in the export market and for certain products sold to the military. The RockinghamR brand is well-established and popular in export markets, especially in Hong Kong, China, Singapore and Japan, and products sold there will continue to carry the RockinghamR label.

WLR Foods is the eighteenth largest chicken producer and ninth largest turkey producer in the United States, with processing and further processing plants in Virginia, West Virginia and Pennsylvania. Its primary market area extends from Massachusetts to North Carolina.

WLR Foods, Inc. is engaged in fully integrated turkey and chicken production, processing, further processing and marketing. The Company is the eighth largest poultry processor/further processor in the United States.

BURBANK, Calif. (SEPT.14) BUSINESS WIRE - CADAM, an IBM company, Friday announced MICRO CADAM 3D, the first integrated 3D software package providing a full range of 3D capabilities including wireframe, NURBS surfaces, solids and parametric design capabilities in a single module under DOS.

''MICRO CADAM 3D is a powerful engineering tool that allows companies to test the integrity of a product design at the conceptual stage in the development process,'' said Frank Puhl, president of CADAM. ''PC CAD users can now move from design concept to completion with fewer physical prototypes in an extremely cost-effective way.''

MICRO CADAM 3D is the newest product in the MICRO CADAM software family. The MICRO CADAM product line provides a wide range of design and drafting features in a flexible, easy-to-use system. The 3D package is used with MICRO CADAM PLUS, a design tool that harnesses the power and speed of the 80386 chip to bring high productivity 2D capabilities to the PC.

''MICRO CADAM 3D's features are designed and optimized to ensure high user productivity in real-world design and product environments,'' said David Brazier, director of strategic marketing. ''The product also protects the user's 2D expertise and investment by providing the ability to create 3D models from 2D data,'' said Brazier.

MICRO CADAM 3D integrates the functions for working with wireframe, surfaces and solids in a single module. By integrating all 3D capabilities into one system, users eliminate the need for switching between different software products or user interfaces.

MICRO CADAM 3D can quickly display fully shaded, high definition images of both surfaces and solids. ''Dynamic Rendering'' is achieved because the product's performance is high enough to generate high resolution pictures without having to employ separate rendering applications.

In addition, the product provides three color shading options - including Gouraud shading - which match speed, resolution and hardware. Key elements of the 3D display technology are provided by HOOPS graphics subsystem.

MICRO CADAM 3D's unique parametric design of solids allows users to quickly develop solid models by parametrizing the distances between pairs of planar features and later changing the distances by simply entering new values. The product's ability to manipulate solid objects eliminates the need to re-construct the object numerous times.

MICRO CADAM 3D implements Non-Uniform Relational B-Spline (NURBS) surfaces which can be input in a variety of methods. NURBS technology is a highly flexible architecture for MICRO CADAM 3D, as well as a foundation for future product developments.

MICRO CADAM 3D can organize individual design components into an assembly so users can separate the items and quickly produce definitive ''exploded'' views. Such views may take hours to produce manually.

To further increase productivity, users can review simultaneously multiple orientations of a single model, such as top, front, isometric or true views, within an arrangement of viewports. Special pop-up viewports can also be moved or sized dynamically.

As a 3D extension to MICRO CADAM's powerful ''detail'' feature, MICRO CADAM 3D lets users create, use and save 3D ''details'' of a drawing. Copies of these collections of 3D geometry and text can even be associative with the master version, immediately reflecting any changes to the master.

The MICRO CADAM user interface provides instant access to several powerful design functions including 2D/3D toggle; pan/zoom/rotate functions using keystrokes or menus; element and volume analysis; and ''screen plot'' which lets users file the current screen contents for later plotting via HP-GL or PostScript.

Additional features include 2D/3D point markers, 3D text and Dimensions, 3D Library creation and user On Line ''Help.''

MICRO CADAM 3D runs in conjunction with MICRO CADAM PLUS and will be available in November 1990.

With over 200,000 users operating 75,000 computer terminals in production worldwide, CADAM is a leader in the computer-aided design and manufacturing software arena. CADAM produces CAD/CAM/CAE software for mechanical, electrical, and AEC applications operations on mainframes, workstations and personal computers.

In January of 1990, IBM acquired CADAM as part of its expanding CIM solution strategy. IBM has been a strategic partner of CADAM since 1978. CADAM is now a wholly owned subsidiary of International Business Machines Corp. (IBM).

CADAM's corporate headquarters is located at 1935 N. Buena Vista St., Burbank, Calif., 91504.

Earnings per common share were $1.28 for the nine months of 1990, a 19 percent increase over the $1.08 reported for the first nine months of 1989.

Apple Computer remained the company's largest customer accounting for approximately 21 percent of Adobe's total revenue for the quarter and 22 percent for the nine months. Royalty revenue totaled $28,152,000, an increase of 32 percent compared to $21,297,000 in the third quarter of fiscal 1989.

The company received a royalty payment from an existing customer of approximately $3 million for Display PostScript software to upgrade the customer's installed base of workstations. For the nine months ended Aug. 31, royalty revenue was $73,422,000, a 27 percent increase over the $57,857,000 reported for the first nine months of fiscal 1989.

Application product revenue of $12,500,000 increased 65 percent over the $7,576,000 reported in the third quarter fiscal 1989. Application product revenue for the first nine months of fiscal 1990 was $35,694,000, a 63 percent increase over the $21,856,000 for the like period last year.

During the quarter, the company continued to enhance its position in the PC market with initial shipments of Adobe's PostScript cartridge for the H-P Laserjet II series printers, as well as the announcement of Adobe Type Manager for Windows 3.0. On the Macintosh platform, the company also announced Adobe Illustrator 3.0, a significant new revision to its award winning graphics application software.

Adobe Type Manager 2.0 software also began shipping in August giving Macintosh users significant enhancements in performance and quality.

In early September, Adobe announced a letter of intent for a new and expanded technology licensing agreement with Apple Computer, which calls for the two companies to work closer together to provide new products based on Adobe's PostScript software and printer technology developed by Apple Computer. In July, Apple began shipping a new PostScript printer, the Personal LaserWriter NT.

Adobe's board of directors declared a cash dividend for the third quarter of 6 cents per common share for shareholders of record as of Sept. 20, payable on Oct. 4.

NASHVILLE, TN (SEPT. 14) BUSINESS WIRE - Dana C. McLendon Jr. has resigned from First American Corp. (NASDAQ/NMS:FATN) and will leave the company during the first part of November.

''I am planning to leave First American at some point in the next few weeks,'' McLendon said. ''After a tremendous amount of personal relection, I have come to the decision that, as First American Corp. moves into the future, the chairman of the company must have the flexibility to hand pick his management team. I have made this decision to leave in order to give the orgranization's management that flexibility as they work to restore the corporation's level of profitability.

''My parting will not be abrupt. I intend to remain on the job over the next few weeks, and will function with the same levels of authority and responsibility I have held.

''I am fully supportive of the actions now underway to return First American Corp. to an appropriate level of profitability, and I am most appreciative of Chairman Jim Smith's cooperation and willingness to work with me through my decision.

''First American Corp. is a strong banking organization, and one with which I am proud to have shared an association.''

Commenting on McLendon's decision, Chairman James F. Smith Jr., said: ''Dana McLendon has been a valued member of the First American team and has a strong record of accomplishments with the company. His decision to leave First American has been made in the interest of opening up options for himself, as well as the bank. He will not be leaving immediately, since we intend to secure his assistance with certain bank business during the month of October.

''I want to stress that the relationship First American and Dana McLendon have shared has been totally satisfactory, and I fully respect the decision he has made.

''We express to him our thanks and wish him every success in his future endeavors,'' Smith concluded.

Since joining First American in 1988, McLendon has served as president and chief executive officer of First American National Bank of Nashville and regional president-Middle Tennessee, as well as president of the Specialized Banking Group of First American National Bank.

NEWPORT, KY. (SEPT. 14) BUSINESS WIRE - After nearly 30 months of engineering construction, and installation, Newport Steel Corp. celebrated the start up of its new continuous slab caster with the casting of the first slab on Thursday, Sept. 6, 1990.

The company's new reheat furnance was also completed in the first week of September, and is reheating slabs purchased on the outside market to supplement the start up of the caster. The caster and reheat furnance project is the single largest capital investment made by Newport in its history, at a cost of $45 million.

Clifford R. Borland, president and chief executive officer of NS Group Inc. (NYSE:NSS), the parent of Newport Steel, noted ''We couldn't be more pleased with the outcome of the project. The caster was completed on budget and start up actually occurred a couple of weeks ahead of schedule. We now look forward to a speedy and successful break-in period of the new equipment.''

Newport's plans call for casting one to two heats per day for the first couple weeks of operation to allow for proper testing of the machinery and integrity of the product. The company anticipates producing approximately 40 percent continuosly cast material by December of this year and 100 percent by June of 1991.

Mannesmann Demag, designer and manufacturer of the caster equipment, will have personnel on site through December to assist company personnel with the operation and analysis of the equipment.

NS Group Inc. is a holding company that owns four operating subsidiaries: Newport Steel Corp., a tubular steel producer; Kentucky Electrical Steel Corp. a producer of steel bars; Erlanger Tubular Corp., a processor of tubular products; and Imperial Adhesives Inc., an adhesives manufacturer.

WAYNE, NJ (SEPT. 14) BUSINESS WIRE - Union Camp Corp. and Chase Packaging Corp. jointly announced that Union Camp will acquire all the common and preferred stock of Chase Packaging for approximately $86 million.

Commenting on the transaction, Gene Cartledge, chairman and chief executive officer of Union Camp, said, ''Chase Packaging is an excellent fit. It will significantly expand Union Camp's bag business by increasing our participation in a high-value-added segment of that business, multiwall and specialty bags. Chase also extends our product line and geographic reach.''

In his own comments on the acquisition, William F. Luddington, president and chief executive officer of Chase, said, ''Since 1847, we at Chase have worked hard to continuously improve for the benefit of our customers. We have developed a reputation for quality products and dependability. We are pleased to join forces with a company that shares our emphasis on those values. I will continue to be active in the business following the merger as will most of our key operating people.''

Under the terms of the merger agreement which has been signed, Chase common stockholders may choose Union Camp common stock or cash in exchange for their shares. Francis H. Luddington, sole trustee of family trusts that together owns 55 percent of Chase, said that the trusts fully support the transaction and would elect to take Union Camp stock.

Discussing the benefits of the transaction, Cartledge explained that the product lines of Chase and Union Camp ideally complement each other. ''There is almost no overlap. Union Camp is a major manufacturer of bags for consumer products such as pet food and charcoal, while Chase is a major bag supplier to the seed, feed and agricultural chemical industry, and a leader in bags for microwavable products. Chase is also a major producer of high performance polyethylene industrial packaging plastic shipping sacks.''

''Through Chase we will have the capability to produce coated and laminated packaging products. And it gives us West Coast bag manufacturing facilities '' Cartledge said. ''There are also synergies that will allow us to substantially lower costs and improve profitability.''

Union Camp earned $299 million on sales of $2.8 billion in 1989. Chase Packaging earned $6.9 million on sales of $183 million in 1989.

The merger is subject to regulatory approvals, formal approval by Chase shareholders and procedures for the exercise by Chase directors and the aforementioned trustee of their fiduciary duties. It is expected that a Chase shareholders meeting will be held during the fourth quarter and that the merger will be effective shortly after that meeting.

FAIRFIELD, N.J. (SEPT. 14) BUSINESS WIRE - Ramada Assured Income Associates, a Delaware limited partnership (RAIA), announced Friday that it had been advised that Prime Motor Inns Inc. is currently negotiating with certain of its creditors to restructure its indebtedness and, if such negotiations are unsuccessful, it may file for reorganization under Chapter 11 of the Federal Bankruptcy Code.

Prime's subsidiaries, RAM Investors Inc. and TexInns Inc. are, as a result of Prime's acquisition of Ramada, the general partner of RAIA and the manager of RAIA's properties, respectively.

If such a filing is made, it may result in RAM Investors Inc. ceasing to make certain required capital contributions and TexInns Inc. ceasing to make working capital loans to RAIA, which could have a material adverse effect on RAIA and would result in lesser distributions to its unitholders.

MADRID, SPAIN (SEPT. 14) BUSINESS WIRE - Telefonica, the Spanish telecommunications authority, and AT&T announced Friday an agreement to expand cooperation between the two companies, including participation of Telefonica in AT&T Network Systems International, headquartered in the Netherlands.

The agreement was reached by AT&T Chairman Robert E. Allen and Telefonica Chairman Candido Velazquez during Mr. Allen's visit to participate in the opening of a new development and manufacturing center for AT&T Network Systems Espana, at Tres Cantos.

While some details of the agreement are still to be worked out, Telefonica will exchange its shares in AT&T Microelectronica de Espana, a joint venture with AT&T for the manufacture of microchips, for a 6-percent equity share in AT&T Network Systems International. (AT&T nows holds 59 percent of AT&T NSI, STET 20 percent, Philips 15 percent, and Telefonica 6 percent.)

''We are delighted to have Telefonica's participation and counsel,'' said Mr. Allen, ''which will enable us to broaden our European and global perspectives.''

Mr. Velazquez called the agreement an important step forward in Telefonica's internationalization effort. He said the agreement would ''enable our company to participate directly in a European-oriented telecommunications supplier, in which other European partners are already participating.''

AT&T-NSI is AT&T's management company for the development, manufacture and marketing of public telecommunications equipment in Europe, and selected markets outside of Europe. It has subsidiaries in six European countries and employs more than 5,000 persons. The company is majority owned by AT&T Network Systems, the world's largest telecommunications equipment manufacturer and supplier.

Together, Telefonica and AT&T will explore global needs for new services and service improvements, and cooperate in the area of network planning. Both companies will explore commercial opportunities in international markets of mutual interest.

In a related development, AT&T Network Systems Espana, a joint venture company of AT&T Network Systems International (51 percent) and Amper (49 percent), today inaugurated a new facility for development and manufacture of public telecommunications equipment in Tres Cantos.

BROOKLYN, N.Y. (SEPT. 14) BUSINESS WIRE - The Administrative Law Judge presiding over the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission's hearing, to view certain market and rate issues regarding the Iroquois natural gas pipeline, has issued 'Findings of Fact'' which emphatically state:

o The Iroquois pipeline is needed to meet the energy needs of the Northeast;

o No U.S. gas supplies would be displaced by the operation of Iroquois;

o The Iroquois growth rate projection and capital and rate structures are reasonable.

The FERC will rule on the merits of the Iroquois pipeline, after review of the Judges ''Findings of Fact'' and the parties briefs on market and rate issues. The FERC certificate order is expected no later than November 1990.

Robert B. Catell, president and chief operating officer of Brooklyn Union, said that ''the Findings of Fact reaffirms so many of the positive aspects of the Iroquois pipeline.''

He points out that the Iroquois pipeline would displace 30 million barrels of imported oil annually, reduce sulfur emissions by more than 75,000 tons a year and provide critically needed pipeline capacity to meet the growing clean-energy needs of the Northeast.

''When the gas from Iroquois begins flowing in the winter of 1991 - '92, our customers and environment will be the winners,'' Catell said.

Through is subsidiary, North East Transmission Co. Inc., Brooklyn Union has the largest distribution company ownership in the Iroquois project.

The methane recovery plant at Fresh Kills, Staten Island, the world's largest landfill, resumed production this month, after a six-month shutdown due to an operating review by New York City. Methane Development Corp., a company subsidiary, is a 50 percent owner of the plant, which began operating in 1982 and can produce up to 5 million cubic feet of gas daily, or enough energy to heat approximately 10,000 homes annually.

Under the more restrictive operating regulations set forth by the City, gas production from the landfill could be reduced, thereby affecting the profitability of plant operations. The company is concerned about this new, stringent regulations and will be examining its option pending an evaluation of production results in the near future.

SYDNEY, AUSTRALIA (SEPT. 14) BUSINESS WIRE - In view of the widespread media reporting about Channel 10, and speculation concerning the viability of Northern Star Holdings Ltd. and the possible impact upon the banking syndicate of Citibank, Commonwealth Bank, and Westpac, the managing director of Westpac Banking Corp. (NYSE: WBK), Stuart Fowler, on behalf of the three banks concerned, makes the following announcement to clarify the issues involved.

-- ''The Board of Northern Star, following a meeting this afternoon, has requested the appointment of a Receiver, and Westpac Banking Corp., acting on behalf of the three banks involved, has appointed Mr. Millar and Mr. Dunn of Ernst & Young as Receivers and Managers.

-- The syndicate banks believe there is a substantial value associated with the license to operate a TV station.

-- Subject to the Receivers' investigations and plans for recovery, the banking syndicate proposes to continue to provide financial support to the Receivers to effect the viable recovery of Channel 10.

''The syndicate banks are committed to two fundamental principles of policy which we have conveyed to the Receivers.

''Firstly, the Ten Network will continue to operate and continue to provide an adequate and comprehensive service.

''Secondly, there will be no question of the Proprietors of competing Networks having any interest in, or ongoing role with respect to, the Ten Network.'' reports sales for the quarter ended July 31, 1990 of 28,904,000, a decline of $244,000 or 1 percent from the $29,148,000 reported for the same quarter of 1989.

The decrease in net sales was the result of a 14 percent decrease in average sales prices combined with a 17 percent increase in volume sold. Sales of specialty products increased 15 percent over the same quarter last year.

Net income for the quarter was $317,000, or 7 cents per share as compared to $1,337,000 or 28 cents per share for the corresponding quarter in 1989. The weighted average number of shares outstanding for the 1990 third quarter was 4,767,486, compared to 4,724,756 for the same quarter in 1989.

Sales for the nine months ended July 31, 1990 totaled $83,171,000, a 7 percent decrease from the $89,620,000 reported in the 1989 period.

Net income for the current nine month period was $2,796,000, or 59 cents per share based on 4,759,064 average number of shares outstanding, compared to $3,542,000, or 77 cents per share based on 4,621,742 shares outstanding for the period in 1989, a 23 percent decrease.

AEP Industries Inc. manufactures, markets and distributes an extensive range of polyethylene film products nationally, which includes shrink bundle film, agricultural row covers, mulch films and stretch films.

The company also offers a complete line of converted products and film for the converting industry.

AEP operates four manufacturing plants located in Moonachie; Waxahachie, Texas; Matthews, N.C.; and Los Angeles.

PARAMUS, NJ (SEPT. 14) BUSINESS WIRE - Drivefone Inc. (NASDAQ:DFON) announced that the company has submitted applications with the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) requesting licensing to develop Personal Communications Networks in the cities of New York, Philadelphia and Boston.

Michael A. Pfeffer, president and chief executive officer of Drivefone, stated ''Industry experts expect that Personal Communications Networks (PCNs) will be the next wave in wireless communications, and Drivefone is among the first few companies in the country to apply for licensing of this exciting new technology.''

''PCNs offer solutions to many of the problems and limitations encountered with other forms of communication,'' Pfeffer continued. ''The smaller size of PCN handheld phones, and the smaller amount of power they need to operate, offer clear advantages over today's portable communications equipment.

''Handsets will be so small and lightweight that they can be carried in a shirt pocket and, through advance software programmed into a 'smart card,' they can incorporate variations and options not presently available in cellular equipment,'' he said.

Pfeffer explained that a ''smart card'' can be programmed with encrypted security codes and personal identification numbers. By inserting a ''smart card'' into any handset, the user will be able to access any PCN phone or terminal, whether at home or on the road.

''PCN technology will finally make it possible for a caller to communicate by virtue of his or her number, rather than being tied to a specific phone or location,'' stated Pfeffer. ''The PCN's handset screen may also access and display data and graphics, FAX messages, and large amounts of up-to-the-minute information such as stock prices,'' he said.

According to Pfeffer, PCNs will offer other advantages, as well. ''Our plan is to develop PCNs with higher transmitter density, providing for many times the number of users, simultaneous frequency usage, and the ability to jump from frequency to frequency in order to eliminate call interference.

''Yet projections are that the costs of PCN equipment and service will eventually be substantially less than current systems, and that the monthly usage cost could be about half that of cellular,'' he stated.

Drivefone is presently negotiating with suppliers of PCN equipment. Subsequent to FCC approval of the company's licenses, initial construction and testing of its PCNs is expected during 1991.

A pioneer in cellular phones since 1984, Drivefone Inc. has been ranked the nation's ninth largest cellular agent by Radio Communications Report. The company is a national distributor of cellular telephones, accessories and pagers.

Additionally, Drivefone Inc. is a national activator of cellular numbers, and manufactures and distributes the LuxCel line of transportable phones, antennas and accessories.

Headquartered in Paramus, N.J., Drivefone Inc. has branch offices in Norwalk, Conn. and Waltham, Mass.

SEYMOUR, CT (SEPT. 14) BUSINESS WIRE - Summagraphics Corp. (NASDAQ:SUGR) responded to Calcomp's recently announced price reductions Friday with channel incentives and promotional programs of equivalent cost.

The marketing step was taken in response to price cutting by Calcomp Inc., a Lockheed subsidiary. These amount to 16 percent for desktop digitizers and six percent for pen plotters.

William J. Lifka, chief executive officer, stated, ''It is still too early to predict the full impact of this price reduction on second quarter and full year performance.''

''While we believe Calcomp's actions are among the least advisable they could take, we foresee an excellent opportunity for Summagraphics to increase its already dominant market share in digitizers and to greatly increase its share of the large format plotter market,'' he said.

The company's fiscal quarter ended August 31 will not be affected in any way by the new pricing structure.

Summagraphics Corp. is a leading manufacturer of computer peripheral products used principally in computer graphics, computer-aided design and other advanced applications.

Summagaphics, founded in 1972, is the pre-eminent designer, developer, and marketer of digitizers through its Summagraphics Digitizer Division, which offers brand names including SummaSketch, Bit Pad, and Microgrid.

QUINCY, MA (SEPT. 14) BUSINESS WIRE - (OTC-XCEL) - Charles R. Simpson Jr., president and chief executive officer of Excel Bancorp Inc., announced Friday that the board of directors declared a cash dividend of 5 cents per share on the company's common stock.

The cash dividend of 5 cents per share will be payable on Oct. 19, 1990, to stockholders of record on Oct. 5, 1990. The payment of 5 cents per share is reduced from 17 cents per share for the previous quarter.

Simpson commented, ''The board of directors feel that the company's strong capital position warrants continuation of the dividend payment; however, a reduction in the dividend payment is prudent during these uncertain times and reflective of the company's earnings performance in recent periods precipitated by the depressed state of the Massachusetts economy.''

Further, in a related matter, the board elected to reinstate its fourth stock buy-back program that was suspended on April 27, 1990. As previously announced, this program contemplates the purchase of outstanding stock from time to time in the open market. Prior to the suspension, 129,000 shares were purchased. The stock buy-back program announced on Jan. 4, 1990, authorized the repurchase of 500,000 shares. To date, the company has repurchased 1,629,000 shares or 22.9 percent of the original 7,108,414 shares issued in September of 1986.

MELBOURNE, AUSTRALIA (SEPT. 14) BUSINESS WIRE - Sept. 14, Pacific Dunlop Limited (NASDAQ:PDLPY) Friday announced a record profit of A$300.5 million after tax attributable to shareholders and before abnormals for the year ended June 30, up 14 percent on the previous year.

Earnings per share increased by 6.2 percent to 42.6 Australian cents. This gives a compound growth in earnings per share of over 15.4 percent a year for the past five years.

Operating profit before tax of A$410.4 million was 8.7 percent higher on sales of A$5 billion, an increase of 12.4 percent.

Return on average shareholders' equity was 25.6 percent and exceeds 20 percent for the fourth successive year.

Directors have declared an increased final dividend of 10.5 Australian cents per share, fully franked, making a total of 20 Australian cents per share for the full year. The dividend last year was 17 Australian cents.

Total dividend payout for the year of A$142.4 million is 23 percent higher than last year. The dividend will be paid on November 8, to shareholders registered at the close of business on October 8.

Pacific Dunlop strengthened its balance sheet in 1989/90. The continued focus on cash generation enabled the company to achieve its previously stated intention of reducing gearing.

Funds generated exceeded A$630 million before tax, compared with A$517 million in the previous year. Cash was also generated through the sale of underperforming assets and the reduction of stocks and debtors.

Gearing (net interest-bearing borrowings to shareholders' funds) declined to 46.5 percent from 61.1 percent at balance date last year, and net borrowings were A$87 millon lower. This was achieved notwithstanding the expenditure of A$311 million on new business growth during the year. This comprised A$77 million on acquisitions and A$234 million in capital expenditure, including major new production facilities for Ansell in Sri Lanka and Olex Cables in Shenzhen, China. Interest cover (EBIT/net interest) was 8.6 times.

Performance Summary

The chairman, Sir Leslie Froggatt, said the results were commendable in view of the current difficulties in the Australian economy and the uncertainty of the world economy. The results illustrated how well Pacific Dunlop was positioned in its markets.

He said the prime focus during the year was on productivity improvement and consolidating the gains of recent years. In the case of some businesses this meant altering strategic direction to meet changing market circumstances or divesting those which did not fit the company's long term requirements. This has been achieved without compromising capital needs for the future.

Commenting on the business groups, Sir Leslie said Pacific Brands was the most affected by the downturn in Australian consumer markets. However, major rationalization and restructuring have since improved economies of scale in Australia and provided greater flexibility in product sourcing. Pacific Brands has emerged a much slimmer group, with fewer profit centers and higher productivity.

Ansell maintained its world market leadership in latex and synthetic glove products despite a period of market instability which led to product oversupply and severe price competition. The market stabilized in the second half, and Ansell's plants are now operating at full capacity again. Ansell is in the process of opening a new plant in Sri Lanka, its sixth in Asia. The integration of Edmont, the industrial glove maker, has been an outstanding success.

The distribution group made good progress, consolidating the electrical businesses and integrating the Repco Australia and New Zealand operations. Slowing economic activity, however, began to affect profit margins in the second half. The Shell Shop wholesaling business, acquired during the year, is being merged with Repco and the combination is expected to produce considerable benefits over the next two years.

GNB Batteries continued the major rationalization of its United States and Australian operations as part of a long term program to improve earnings. This has led to a more efficient manufacturing operation, but progress in the United States is being hampered by excess capacity in the automotive battery industry. Lead recycling in the United States became an increasingly important and profitable part of GNB's operations during the year. The ''dumping'' of automotive batteries in Australia adversely affected sales and profits and, if ongoing, may require dramatic rationalization of GNB's manufacturing facility in Elizabeth, South Australia.

The Industrial Foam and Fibre group achieved excellent results. Results include for the first time those of Tecbelt Pacific, a joint venture with Goodyear in steel cord conveyor belting and the Hunter Douglas plastic extrusion business in Brisbane. Foam and Fibre group results were outstanding particularly in polyurethane foam and bedding.

Olex Cables continued to improve productivity and generate strong cash flow. Olex has forged a successful partnership with Telecom Australia, winning a tender for a large telecommunications contract in Pakistan. It also won a significant underground high voltage cable contract from the State Electricity Commission of Victoria. The Olex 75 percent joint venture telecommunications cable plant in Guandong province, China, was recently commissioned and initial orders indicate production will be at a strong level.

The Medical group made a good contribution to results. Telectronics consolidated its position as a world leader in implantable heart pacemakers and defibrillators for regulating heart rhythm, and Cochlear received U.S. Food and Drug Administration approval to extend the use of its hearing implants to children aged 2-17.

South Pacific Tyres, the joint venture with Goodyear, took two significant steps towards higher productivity with the aim of achieving a world standard operation by 1992. These were the agreement with employees and unions for greatly increased utilization of productive capacity, and the commissioning of a new world standard steel truck radial tire plant at Somerton in Melbourne which will reach full capacity by late 1991.

Sir Leslie Froggatt said that although the Australian economy was going through a difficult period, Pacific Dunlop had finished the year an even leaner and more competitive company. The company's policy of maximizing offshore opportunities and focusing on international competitiveness within each business remains vital for the future.

The recent acquisition of Burton Cables and the Roberts flooring group, the offer for Vita Pacific and the commissioning of strategically located new production facilities in Asia and Australia are also part of this positioning. From this sound base, directors are confident of Pacific Dunlop's ability to perform creditably in the current difficult Australian economy and uncertain world environment.

Pacific Dunlop is a global company which manufactures and markets consumer and industrial products including batteries, footwear and apparel, tires and latex and medical products.

FAIRFIELD, NJ (SEPT. 14) BUSINESS WIRE - Prime Motor Inns Inc. (NYSE:PDQ) announced Friday that it met with its secured bank group yesterday to discuss Prime's liquidity problems.

Prime asked the bank group to restructure its outstanding indebtedness to provide an additional $25 million loan, to extend the maturity date of its existing loans and to allow Prime to retain a portion of the proceeds from the sale or refinancing of certain of its assets now pledged to the bank group. While the bank group indicated it would consider extending the maturity date of the existing loans from March 1991 to July 1991 and allowing Prime to retain a portion of the proceeds from certain asset sales and refinancings, the bank group expressed reluctance to extend any additional loans.

Morgan Guaranty Trust Company of New York, the agent for the banks, has, however, indicated that it would consider and ask the other banks to consider providing an additional loan of $25 million secured by certain designated assets upon further review of those assets by the banks. Prime stated that unless such loan and other relief was granted, it would seriously consider filing a petition for reorganization under Chapter 11 of the Federal Bankruptcy Code.

As part of its proposed restructuring, Prime announced it will suspend payment of its dividends on its Common Stock and expects that it will not make interest payments on its 7% Convertible Subordinated Debentures due 2013 and 6-5/8% Convertible Subordinated Debentures due 2011 while it negotiates a restructuring of that and other indebtedness.

NEW YORK (SEPT. 14) BUSINESS WIRE - Western Publishing Group Inc. (OTC:WPGI)

Friday reported sales and earnings for the second quarter and the six months ended Aug. 4, 1990.

Revenues for the second quarter and the first half of fiscal 1991 were $107.9 million and $212.1 million, respectively, compared with $102.9 million and $210.8 million for the same periods in fiscal 1990.

Net earnings for the second quarter of fiscal 1991 were $1.1 million, or 4 cents per share compared with $1.4 million, or 6 cents per share.

Net earnings for the first half of fiscal 1991 were $3.2 million or 13 cents per share compared with $5.1 million or 22 cents per share. The 4 cents per share and 13 cents per share for the current quarter and six months are after the one time charge of 3 cents per share for the costs incurred in acquiring Sight & Sound Inc. in July.

All per share figures are based upon approximately 21.1 million shares outstanding.

The acquisition of Sight & Sound Inc. is being accounted for on a pooling of interests basis and Western Publishing Group's previously reported sales and net earnings have been adjusted accordingly.

In the absence of the 3 cents per share one time charge for the costs incurred in the acquisition, earnings for the current quarter and six months would have been 7 cents and 16 cents per share.

Richard A. Bernstein, chairman and chief executive officer of Western Publishing Group Inc., said ''We are pleased with the sales increase in the quarter and six months which is due to sales increases in Western Publishing Company's core businesses as well as in its Sight & Sound Inc. subsidiary.

''The acquisition of Sight & Sound, a publisher of children's interactive electronic story books, toys and games that feature sound effects, music and voice, was accounted for as a pooling of interests. The one time costs associated with the acquisition, approximately $600,000, were expensed in this quarter and reduced earnings for the quarter and six months by $.03 a share.''

Bernstein added that''Our Penn Corporation subsidiary experienced sales increases as a result of the continued success of our Beach and Contempo paper table products.''

Bernstein said, ''Our business continues its long term trend of greater sales and profits in the second half of the year. The acquisition of Sight & Sound will continue that trend. We are, concerned,'' he said, ''about the recession which appears to be affecting the retail trade's inventory commitment for the fourth quarter holdiay period. In spite of this, however, we are confident that sales and profits for the second half will be ahead of last year.''

Through its Western Publishing Co. subsidiary, Western Publishing Group Inc. is the nation's largest creator, publisher, printer and marketer of story books and other activity books and products for children.

These products are sold principally under the GOLDEN and GOLDEN BOOK names. The company is a major producer and marketer of puzzles, games, children's video and special interest books for adults.

Western Publishing Co. also ranks among the largest commercial printers in the United States, offering a wide range of printing, graphic and creative services to customers in industry and government.

Western Publishing Group Inc., through the Beach Products and Advertising Specialty Divisions of its subsidiary, Penn Corp., is engaged in the manufacture and sale of disposable paper tableware and party goods, stationery and advertising specialties and promotional business products.

HOLLYWOOD, FL (SEPT. 14) BUSINESS WIRE - Suncoast Savings and Loan Association (NASDAQ:SCSL) reported Friday and unaudited net loss for its fiscal year ended June 30 of $3.3 million or $1.80 per share.

Included in the fiscal year 1990 net loss is an after-tax adjustment of $4.4 million, or $2.36 per share, stemming from unexpected prepayment experience related to mortgage loan servicing assets created from loans sold in several prior years.

Excluding the adjustment, the Association's net income for fiscal year 1990 was $1.03 million or 56 cents per share. For the 1989 fiscal year, Suncoast reported net income of $2.0 million or $1.05 per share.

The adjustment was recorded entirely in the fourth quarter, resulting in a reported loss of $4.2 million or $2.25 per share for the quarter ended June 30. For the like period last year Suncoast reported net income of $669,414 or 35 cents per share.

Albert J. Finch, chairman of the board of Suncoast said, ''It is important for our shareholders to note that this loss is the result of economic circumstances which are not expected to recur. This adjustment does not impair the safety and soundness of the Association and Suncoast continues to meet all of the current regulatory capital requirements.''

Albert J. Finch also said, ''The primary reason for the adjustment is a changed perception and treatment of mortgage banking related assets by thrift regulators and accountants.

''We have always been able to generate income from the creation or purchase and later sale of mortgage servicing rights, but FIRREA has effectively prevented that by creating a glut of servicing for sale and by taking thrifts out of the market as buyers.

''The effect of this has been a 25 percent reduction in the market price of servicing. The Association has previously recognized as income the estimated present value of excess servicing fees created when mortgages were sold.

''As a result of dropping interest rates during the past winter and spring, combined with appreciation in some housing markets, increased prepayments have shortened the estimated life of a portion of the Association's servicing assets.

''Our servicing has a tremendous economic value to the Association. We believe that this adjustment to the carrying value will result in increased future earnings for the Association by reducing the amount of amortization on the remaining premium.''

Assets at June 30 were $267.0 million, as compared to $293.9 million a year ago. Deposits were $243.4 million, compared to $253.5 million last June. Total mortgage loans serviced at June 30 amounted to $2.83 billion. Shareholder's equity of $11.6 million on 1.85 million shares is equivalent to $6.27 per share.

Suncoast Savings and Loan Association is one of the largest mortgage servicers in the southeastern United States. The company and its subsidiaries are engaged in purchasing and originating mortgage loans for resale into the secondary market.

Suncoast operates five full-service branches in Hollywood, Hallandale, Pembroke Pines, Deerfield Beach and Lauderdale-by-the-Sea, Fla. The Association also operates loan production offices in Hollywood, Boca Raton, Orlando and Tampa, Fla. and Laguna Hills and Walnut Creek, Calif.

Suncoast common stock trades on the NASDAQ National Market System under the symbol ''SCSL.''

NEW YORK (SEPT. 14) BUSINESS WIRE - The Global Government Plus Fund Inc. September 1990 Monthly Update:

Investment Adviser Commentary:

The board of directors of The Global Government Plus Fund Inc. declared on Sept. 12 a regular quarterly distribution of 20 cents per share. The distribution is payable on Oct. 12 to shareholders of record on Sept. 28. The Fund's portfolio return is generally comprised of interest income on securities and any gains or losses from currency or capital price movements. As a result of currency losses that have reduced the amount of investment income available for distribution a portion of the current distribution is being paid from the Fund's paid-in-capital. While the final determination of the tax status of the full year's distributions will not be made until after Dec. 31, cumulative currency losses have lessened recently due to the decline of the U.S. dollar. Based on current market levels, it is anticipated that approximately 25 cents per share of the year's, 80 cents per share of distributions will be derived from the Fund's paid-in-capital.

The board of directors of the Fund will review the Fund's dividend policy on a quarterly basis and will consider the appropriate level of the Fund's quarterly distribution at its next regularly scheduled meeting in December, based on the then current market conditions.

RICHMOND, VA. (SEPT. 14) BUSINESS WIRE - James River Corp. (NYSE: JR) announced Friday that the board of directors of its European affiliates, JA/MONT N.V. and JA/MONT-NOKIA N.V., approved an aggressive program for building new tissue production capacity in the highly competitive European market.

The board approved a $12 million project to completely rebuild the tissue machine at the Allo Mill of Sarrio Tisu S.A., its Spanish subsidiary. This project will increase the capacity by about 5,000 metric tons and equip the 5 meter machine with the latest technology for improving quality and reducing cost.

During 1991, construction is planned to begin on a new tissue machine in Iberia. The exact size and location are still being evaluated.

At the Gien Mill of Kaysersberg, the largest French subsidiary, a new 25,000 ton tissue machine is now in the process of starting up. This machine is the first to commercialize a new technology from James River Corp. aimed at the production of higher quality, lower cost tissue products.

In addition, work is planned to begin on a new 50,000 ton machine at Kaysersberg's Hondouville Mill in Normandy later this year or early next year.

In Turkey, the Ipek Kagit subsidiary is in the middle of constructing a new 25,000 ton machine at its Karamursel facility.

JA/MONT N.V. and JA/MONT-NOKIA N.V. are joint venture companies of James River Corp. of the U.S., Montedison (Gruppo Ferruzzi) of Italy, and Nokia Corporation of Finland.

The ventures have consolidated sales of approximately $1.7 billion of tissue and related hygienic products with operations in France, the United Kingdom, Ireland, Belgium, Netherlands, Spain, Italy, Greece, Turkey, and Finland.

ALBANY, N.Y. (SEPT. 14) BUSINESS WIRE - National Savings Bank of Albany (NASDAQ:NSBA) announced Friday that the bank's board of directors, at its regular meeting held on Sept. 11, 1990, amended Article I of the bank's by-laws to provide procedures to be followed in nominating persons for election as directors and presenting new business to be voted on by shareholders at annual meetings of shareholders.

The procedures, which are utilized by many publicly traded companies, are designed to ensure that all shareholders receive sufficient informaiton and have ample opportunity to consider matters to be placed before the shareholders for action.

As amended, the by-laws provide generally that a shareholder wishing to nominate an individual (or individuals) for election to the board at an annual meeting of sharehodlers must provide certain information regarding himself and his nominee(s) to the SEcretary of the bank not less than 90 nor more than 120 days prior to the anniversary date of the bank's proxy statement release to shareholders in connection with the previous year's annual meeting of shareholders. A shareholder wishing to present new business to be voted on by shareholders at an annual meeting of shareholders must provide certain information regarding himself and his proposal to the Secretary of the bank not less than 90 days prior to the anniversary date of the bank's proxy statement release to shareholders in connection with the previous year's annual meeting of shareholders. Under this amendment, shareholder nominations and proposals to be considered at the bank's 1991 annual meeting of shareholders must be received by the secretary of the bank no later than Oct. 15, 1990.

HARRISON, AR (SEPT. 14) BUSINESS WIRE - Arkansas Freightways Corp. (NASDAQ/NMS:AFWY) Friday announced that it has been named a ''1990 Quality Carrier'' by Distribution magazine for the fifth consecutive year.

The magazine conducted a nationwide poll of shippers and asked them to rate carriers they use regularly according to four key measurements of quality: service, convenience, price and sales effectiveness.

Distribution's Quest For Quality program recognized those transportation companies that:

-- Identify shipper needs and develop innovative services to meet them.

-- Perform those services reliably and consistently.

-- Offer those services at reasonable prices.

-- Make doing business with them convenient.

-- Sell their service only after learning about the shipper's business.

President and Chief Executive Officer of Arkansas Freightways, Sheridan Garrison, commented, ''What makes the award so gratifying is that it is from the view of our customers.''

Arkansas Freightways Corp. is a scheduled, for hire, common and contract motor carrier transporting primarily less-than-truckload shipments of general commodities, serving all points in Arkansas, Kansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, Oklahoma, Texas, western Tennessee, and the Chicago metropolitan area.

Arkansas Freightways Corp. operates a fleet of more than 4,000 pieces of revenue equipment from 100 terminals.

LOUISVILLE, KY (SEPT. 14) BUSINESS WIRE - Kentucky Medical Insurance Co. (NASDAQ/NMS:KYMDA) said Friday it knows of no undisclosed developments within the company relating to the recent activity in the company's stock.

Carl L. Wedekind Jr., president and chief executive officer, said: ''There are no unreported developments within the company which would account for the significant drop in our stock's price over the past few days. During the third quarter, Kentucky Medical continues to make progress consistent with our reported results for the first six months.''

Wedekind also said Kentucky Medical has received a number of reports that a large holder of its stock, who is not related to KMIC or any of its principals is being forced to sell in order to meet margin requirements. ''This action appears to be placing a great deal of downward pressure on our stock at this time,'' Wedekind said.

TERRE HAUTE, IND. (SEPT. 14) BUSINESS WIRE - Valley Federal Savings Bank (NASDAQ:VAFB), headquartered in Terre Haute, released its earnings for the year ended June 30, 1990.

Edward L. ''Jack'' Goebel, chairman of the board, president and chief executive officer of the bank, announced net income of $714,416 for the year ended June 30, 1990. These results compare very favorably with the $80,324 net income reported for the year ended June 30, 1989. Similarly, net income per share increased to 68 cents from 8 cents per share in the previous year.

Net income for the fourth quarter of FY '90 was reported at $203,344 compared with a loss of $520,247 for the corresponding period of 1989. Net income per share in the fourth quarter was 19 cents compared to a negative 49 cents per share for the fourth quarter in 1989.

''Management is quite pleased with the results of certain strategies formulated and set in place in April, 1989. These programs continue to yield positive results as demonstrated by the growth in earnings this fiscal year,'' said Goebel.

''Earnings over the past twelve months are particularly satisfying when one considers that there has been a significant reduction in the dividends paid the bank on stock held in the Federal Home Loan Bank in Indianapolis and there has simultaneously been a substantial increase in the assessments to the bank by the Office of Thrift Supervision.

''Despite these constraints, and coupled with the negative publicity that pervades the industry, Valley Federal has managed to improve earnings by approximately nine times over the previos year. In addition, we are pleased to report that positive operating results have been achieved while measurably decreasing the sensitivity of the bank's net interest margin to changes in interest rates.

HACKENSACK, NJ (SEPT. 14) BUSINESS WIRE - The Alpine Group, Inc. (ASE:AGI) Friday reported financial results for the first quarter ended July 31, 1990.

For the quarter ended July 31, 1990, the Company reported a net loss of $1,212,000, or $.21 per share, compared with a net loss of $126,000, or $.04 per share for the same period in the prior fiscal year.

The current quarter included a loss from continuing operations of $928,000, or $.16 per share, compared to a loss of $1,232,000, or $.29 per share, for the prior comparable quarter. The prior comparable period loss of $126,000 included income from discontinued operations of $700,000, or $.16 per share and an extraordinary gain on extinguishment of debt of $406,000, or $.09 per share.

The average number of shares of common stock outstanding during the quarter ended July 31, 1990 was 5,844,596, compared to 4,294,911 for the quarter ended July 31, 1989, such increase being due principally to shares issued in the October 1989 Exchange Offer.

Steven S. Elbaum, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of Alpine, stated that ''The determination to sell General Plasma has resulted in that unit being characterized as a discontinued operation. As a result, continuing operations reflect a much diminished operating base and a disproportionately high corporate and other expense structure.

''We believe that this will be temporary as the Company transitions itself from a highly leveraged diversified business with a strong research and development commitment in its PolyVision flat panel display technology program to a focused information display business predicated upon building growth in information display operations and commercialization of our PolyVision technology.''

General Plasma achieved record revenues and operating profits for the first quarter. The Company has received numerous expressions of interest from potential purchasers and expects to conclude a transaction in the near future.

Elbaum further stated that pending a sale of General Plasma and retirement of a significant amount of its outstanding indebtedness with the proceeds of such sale, future results would continue to be impacted by relatively high interest expense, including $1.5 million annually of non-cash accretion and deferred financing charges.

The Company's financial emphasis will be on operating and cash flow improvements, while at the same time progressing its PolyVision flat panel display technology through research, development and commercialization.

The Alpine Group, Inc. is a holding company with continuing operations in information display related businesses. Alpine is developing PolyVision, a proprietary flat panel display technology, for commercial applications in a wide variety of markets.

Flat panel display technologies are utilized for the electronic display of information and graphics on screens and other display media including video displays, outdoor and indoor signage, point of purchase displays, public information, instrumentation and other media.

Alpine's information display activities also include the manufacture and sale of menuboard display systems and components to fast food, convenience store and restaurant markets through its Posterloid Corporation subsidiary and programmable controllers and other specialized products used in multi-image audio visual presentations through its Audio Visual Laboratories, Inc. subsidiary.

LA BELLE, FL (SEPT. 14) BUSINESS WIRE - Mr. Ben Hill Griffin III, president and chairman of the board of Alico Inc. (NASDAQ:ALCO) announced Friday that Alico and Properties & Lands of Florida Inc. have terminated their discussions concerning the possible renegotiation of the contract for the prospective sale of Alico's 11,000 acres in Lee County, Fla.

Properties & Lands' previous contract with Alico required either a closing of the contract for $110 million cash on Aug. 31, or the payment of a $500,000 non-refundable deposit for the privilege of extending the contract an additional 90 days. Neither of these events occurred on Aug. 31.

On Aug. 31, Alico had temporarily extended the original contract to permit discussions regarding a possible renegotiation of the contract. Griffin stated that, ''After a thorough review of alternative proposals, the company decided not to accept a revised contract.'' This action allows the original contract to terminate.

Marketing of the property, which is located in the rapidly expanding area between Fort Myers and Naples, Fla., will continue with Florida Real Estate Consultants Inc. of Naples.

RICHMOND, Va. (SEPT. 14) BUSINESS WIRE - James River Corp. (NYSE: JR) Friday announed that its European affiliate, JA/MONT N.V. and JA/MONT-NOKIA N.V., has unified its management and appointed Ronald L. Singer as chief executive officer of both companies.

Singer is senior vice president and group executive of James River's International Hygenics Products and, prior to that, was senior vice president/group executive U.S. Towel and Tissue Business. Singer will be based in Brussels.

JA/MONT N.V. and JA/MONT-NOKIA N.V. are joint venture companies of James River Corp. of the U.S., Montedison (Gruppo Ferruzzi) of Italy, and Nokia Corp. of Finland. The ventures have consolidated sales of about approximately $1.7 billion in tissue and related hygienic products with operations in France, the United Kingdom, Ireland, Belgium, Netherlands, Spain, Italy, Greece, Turkey and Finland.

The two ventures previously had operated with different management leadership because shareholder ownership and control was different for the two companies. The shareholders jointly decided that unified management under a single leader would best build and strengthen the companies' businesses for the future.

In addition, Jean-Pierre Quere has been appointed president, directeur general of JA/MONT'S key subsidiary, Kaysersburg.

Jean-Pierre Quere formerly was secretary general of Beghin-Say, a large French sugar company. He will be based in Paris.

MITCHEL FIELD, N.Y. (SEPT. 14) BUSINESS WIRE - Net sales for the quarter ended July 31, 1990 were $13,029,000, compared to $13,885,000 for the prior year, representing a decrease of 6 percent.

Net loss for the period was $528,000 compared to a net profit of $575,000 for the same period last year. The loss resulted from higher than anticipated design costs on commercial satellite programs.

In spite of severe DOD cutbacks and stretch-outs, Frequency expects to be profitable for fiscal year ended April 30, 1991.

TINTON FALLS, NJ (SEPT. 14) BUSINESS WIRE - Concurrent Computer Corporation announced today that it will not make an interest payment of approximately $4.7 million, due September 15, 1990, to holders of its Senior Subordinated Notes due 1998.

Concurrent stated that its bank group has exercised its right to block payments on the subordinated notes because the company, based on its recently reported financial results, is unable to satisfy certain financial covenants of the bankd credit agreement.

Concurrent has $55 million in senior bank debt and approximately $110 million in subordinated debt outstanding. A principal payment of $15 million and an interest payment of approximately $1.7 million on the bank debt is due on September 28, 1990.

The company stated that it has been in discussion with its bank group and, as previously announced, has retained Goldman, Sachs & Co. to assist in restructuring its capital. In that regard, Concurent will hold discussions with its bank group concerning obtaining adjustments or waivers of the financial covenants and payments of principal and interest, and intends to enter into discussions with its noteholders as soon as possible.

Earlier this week, Concurrent announced that Denis R. Brown had been appointed as the company's new chief executive officer. Mr. Brown said, ''I took this position to turn the company around; and I plan to be here for the long haul. Concurrent is a proven leader in the real-time computing market. Our current financial difficulties are largely a result of our over-leveraged capital structure which limits our ability to realize the company's full potential. I was completely aware of the need for capital restructuring at the company and it is my number one priority.''

Brown emphasized, ''I intend to make whatever operational changes are necessary to ensure that the company's commitments to its customers and suppliers are met as expected and to return Concurrent to profitability and growth. I am confident that we can accomplish this goal.''

Concurrent Computer Corporation is the leading supplier of high-performance, real-time computer systems worldwide. The company's products, marketed through the Commercial Markets, Simulation/Training and Real-Time Technical Systems groups, provide real-time solutions to the financial, communications, public sector, technical, aerospace and simulation markets. Its common stock (CCUR) is traded on the NASDAQ National Market System.

WASHINGTON (SEPT. 15) BUSINESS WIRE - COMSAT Corp. (NYSE:CQ) announced Friday that the United States District Court, Southern District of New York has issued an opinion and order dismissing in its entirety an antitrust lawsuit brought against COMSAT by Pan American Satellite (PanAmSat).

At the time the lawsuit was filed COMSAT expressed confidence that it had no merit and was groundless. COMSAT pointed out that the suit was particularly ironic because it was COMSAT itself that worked successfully on PanAmSat's behalf in the INTELSAT (International Telecommunications Satellite Organization) consultative process to facilitate the coordination necessary for PanAmSat to begin operations.

COMSAT Chairman and CEO Irving Goldstein, commenting on the dismissal said, ''We are absolutely delighted that the court found no basis for allowing this suit to continue. COMSAT competes fairly, legally and effectively. We now look forward to putting this matter behind us and getting on with our business.''

COMSAT is a publicly traded corporation which provides international, domestic and maritime communications and information services and conducts research on advanced communications techniques.

COMSAT represents the U.S. in the International Telecommunications Satellite Organization (INTELSAT) and the International Maritime Satellite Organization (INMARSAT).

SEOUL (SEPT. 14) - South Korea's GoldStar Co. Ltd is to set up a joint venture with Indonesia's Astra Group in the suburbs of Jakarta to produce color televisions and refrigerators, a GoldStar spokesman said Friday.

Under an agreement signed in Jakarta on Thursday, GoldStar and Astra will invest a total of 14 million dollars on a 50-50 basis.

The plant will have an annual production capacity of 150,000 TV sets and 70,000 refrigerators. Production will start in mid-1991, he said.

GoldStar plans to develop the joint venture into a comprehensive electronics operation exporting to Southeast Asian countries.

The plant, GoldStar's ninth overseas joint venture, will spare GoldStar high tariff rates for exports of major parts into Indonesia and will allow it to sell more under its own brand name.

WELLINGTON (SEPT. 14) - The Soviet Union still owes New Zealand 25 million New Zealand dollars (15 million U.S.) for wool exports, a marketing official said here Friday.

Executive manager for the New Zealand Council of Wool Exporters Bill Carter said the outstanding wool debt was of major concern.

He said the Soviets had just said they were sorry, but they could not pay.

Moscow had not made a wool payment to New Zealand since June, though Mr. Carter understood it had used a European credit line to make a recent South American payment.

"The Soviet Union is not bankrupt. It is not a Mexico, Argentina or Brazil, but its political and economic structure is falling to pieces, its economic structure is paralysed," he said.

The Soviet Union has been New Zealand's second biggest single customer for wool behind China in the past, taking 15 to 17 per cent of the clip, worth up to 300 NZ million dollars (186 million U.S.) a season.

Moscow also owes money for New Zealand butter exports which Dairy Board spokesman Neville Martin said ran to "several millions". It was board policy not to specify the amount, he said.

The Soviets had continued to make butter payments -- the most recent was last week -- but they were way behind, Mr. Martin said.

"It's been understood for some time that it (getting paid) would be a struggle. We have had to chip, chip, and chip, but we have faith that we will be paid."

The head of the Soviet trade mission in New Zealand, Alexandr Kovalev, said there was nothing positive he could say at this stage.

The Soviet Union was undergoing enormous change and the transition to a market-led economy was painful, he said.

SEOUL (SEPT. 14) - South Korea's trade deficit will balloon above initial expectations to five billion dollars this year, due to the Gulf crisis, floods and other factors, the Ministry of Trade and Industry (MTI) said Friday.

The director general of MTI's trade bureau, Hwang Doo-Yun, said the government had changed its trade balance forecast for the third time this year due to unforeseen events, raising the expected deficit.

Forecasts at the beginning of the year that the deficit would be two billion dollars were revised in June to four billion dollars.

The expected trade deficit in 1990 will be the first since 1985. Last year South Korea posted a 4.5 billion dollar trade surplus.

"Our exports will be sluggish for many reasons," Mr. Hwang said in an interview. Imports will be higher than 70 billion dollars, against exports of at most 65 billion dollars, he said.

Iraq's August 2 invasion of Kuwait and its subsequent annexation have substantially increased the international price of oil. South Korea imports all its oil and depends on it for 54 per cent of its energy needs.

"Our oil bill has gone up," Mr. Hwang said. "The Gulf crisis has not only affected Iraq and Kuwait, but other neighboring countries as well."

South Korea's main trade partners, Japan, the United States and the European Economic Community, have also been holding back on imports, adding to South Korea's woes, Mr. Hwang said.

"If you look at U.S. imports for the first half of the year, they were very slow," he said. "Japan and the EC have visible and invisible trade barriers... footwear and home appliances are under restriction."

In addition, floods caused by torrential rains this week are expected to further affect exports, the ministry said. Raw materials and industrial plants in Seoul's surrounding region, where most of the rain fell from late Saturday to late Tuesday, were submerged by the floods.

MELBOURNE, AUSTRALIA (SEPT. 14) - The National Australia Bank (NAB) announced Friday a 0.25 percent cut in its prime interest rate to 16.75 per cent from September 24.

The NAB said in a statement that lower interest rates were possible because the cost of funds had fallen since the Reserve (central) Bank eased monetary policy in August.

But the bank's charges are higher than those of the government-run Commonwealth Bank, which earlier this week cut its prime rate 0.5 percentage points to 16.5 percent.

Treasurer Paul Keating recently accused the banks of failing to follow the Reserve Bank's lead in cutting interest rates.

The NAB also said it would cut its floating home loan rate from 16.25 per cent to 16 percent from October 1.

WELLINGTON (SEPT. 14) - New Zealand's terms of trade, a measure of the purchasing power of the country's exports, were at their highest level since June 1974, Finance Minister David Caygill said Friday.

"As a trading nation that means we are in a stronger position than for any other time in the last 16 years," he said in a statement.

He was reacting to Friday's release by Government Statistician Steve Kuzmicich figures showing that the index for the year ended June 1990 increased by 3.2 per cent to 1175, the highest annual level since the trade year ending June 1974 when the index stood at 1447.

But the index fell 1.8 per cent in the June quarter from the March quarter. Mr. Caygill said this fall and an expected further decline in the next quarter was due to increased oil prices.

"It is important to keep in mind that any fall in our terms of trade due to the oil shock will be from a relatively high level. There is also some evidence to suggest that any decline may not be as significant as first thought," he said.

He said Iraq's August 2 invasion of Kuwait had reduced world oil refining capacity, causing the price of refined petroleum to increase by more than the price of crude oil.

"As New Zealand exports synthetic fuel and imports crude oil the price, but not volume, indices will move in our favour", he said.

TOKYO (SEPT. 14) - Japan's overall wholesale prices rose 0.3 percent in August from July and 1.1 percent from a year earlier, the Bank of Japan said Friday.

The central bank said that it was the first monthly rise in four months.

Bank officials attributed the rise to the increased cost of crude oil and other imported products.

Domestic wholesale prices went up 0.2 per from July and 0.6 percent from the same month of 1989.

Import wholesale prices were up 1.3 percent from a month earlier and 3.6 percent from a year ago.

Export wholesale prices declined 0.1 percent from July but rose 2.5 per cent from a year before, the bank said.

COLOMBO (SEPT. 14) - Fierce hand-to-hand fighting raged Friday between government troops and Tamil rebels as the death toll rose to 175 in the battle for the Jaffna fort army camp in northern Sri Lanka, officials said.

A military spokesman here said that troops killed more than 150 guerrillas of the Liberation Tigers of Tamil Eelam (LTTE) in their offensive to break a rebel siege of the fort from early Thursday but admitted heavy casualties on the government side.

He said that the surprise assault on rebel targets in the fort area cost an air force pilot and 24 soldiers including five officers killed and 130 wounded.

Fierce hand-to-hand fighting was continuing in the area, the spokesman said, adding that the close quarter battle erupted after troops engaged in intense house-to-house combat near the old colonial fort.

Colombo claimed that it broke the three-month siege of the fort Thursday after landing some 400 troops by powered rubber dinghies from the nearby military-controlled Mandativu island on the Jaffna peninsula.

But a spokesman from the LTTE's Paris office told Agence France-Presse by telephone that the fort was still under siege and "heavy fighting was going on" in the area.

Officials said that most of the army units were moved into the Dutch-built fort to relieve the siege which "rescued and saved from death" more than 200 soldiers and policemen holed up inside the camp since June 11.

The large-scale military operation was the first such assault in the vicinity of the imposing 17th century fort which is surrounded by many fortified bunkers from where rebels have been firing mortar rounds and rockets into the camp.

The air force pilot was killed when his bomber crashed into the Jaffna lagoon during the three-pronged onslaught involving ground, air and sea units, officials said.

SYDNEY (SEPT. 14) - Saudi Arabia Friday accepted its first shipment of Australian live sheep following continued rejections since April, livestock officials said.

David Coombes, spokesman for the Australian Meat and Livestock Corp. (AMLC), said the 63,000 sheep were the first accepted since recent guidelines were set up to allow the trade to resume.

But Mr. Coombes said that following the recent hiccups the trade would probably not reach its peak of three million animals a year achieved in 1988.

"No figure is being talked about but we expect substantially less than that," he said.

Live sheep exports to Saudi Arabia recently ceased after Riyadh banned four shipments totalling 172,000 sheep, claiming the animals were either too old or sick.

Mr. Coombes said that no sheep over three years old would be exported and tougher screening for scabby mouth and foot rot would be carried out before the sheep left Australia.

Australia stopped selling live sheep to Saudi Arabia for four months last year following the Saudis' rejection in 1989 of six boatloads of sheep totalling 395,000 animals.

The usual reason given is scabby mouth disease which Canberra has claimed "is not a serious disease."

BANGKOK (SEPT. 14) - Thai Airways International (THAI) airline has signed a contract to buy five new BAE 146-300 aircraft worth 128 million U.S. dollars from British Aerospace, a THAI spokeswoman said here Friday.

The spokeswoman said the contract was signed Wednesday in Hong Kong by THAI's President Air Chief Marshal Weera Kitchathorn and Dewi Rowlands, executive vice president of marketing and sales at British Aerospace Commercial Aircraft Airlines Division.

The first of the new aircraft is to be delivered next May, she said.

THAI's new BAE 146-300s will be equipped with a number of advanced features including an Electronic Flight Instrument System which displays information to the flight crew using CRTs (television screens) as opposed to electro-mechanical instruments.

Currently, the airline has five BAE 146s, four Series 300s and one Series 100, which were acquired on lease in 1989 and have been used to introduce jet services to some of Thailand's principal regional centers, the spokeswoman said.

SYDNEY (SEPT. 14) - Australia's rubber manufacturer Pacific Dunlop reported a 14 percent rise in its annual profit result on Friday to 300.5 million Australian dollars (248 million U.S.) for the year to June 30.

The company reported that gross operating profit rose 8.7 percent to 410.4 million dollars (339 million U.S.).

The rise in the net result, which compared to 263 million dollars (217 million U.S.) previously, was achieved despite a downturn in the Australian economy, chairman Leslie Froggatt said, adding he was confident the company was well placed for the future.

"Whilst the Australian economy was going through a difficult period, Pacific Dunlop had finished the year an even leaner and more competitive company.

"Directors are confident of Pacific Dunlop's ability to perform creditably in the current difficult Australian economy and uncertain world environment."

"Major rationalisation and restructuring has since improved economies of scale in Australia and provided greater flexibility in product sourcing," he said of the Australian operations Pacific Brands.

"Ansell maintained its world market leadership in latex and synthetic glove products despite a period of market instability which lead to product oversupply and severe price competition.

"Ansell is in the process of opening a new plant in Sri Lanka, its sixth in Asia," he said.

The group's sales jumped 12 percent to five billion dollars (4.1 billion U.S.).

SEOUL (SEPT. 14) - South Korea's car exports will increase by an average of 11.5 per cent annually over the next decade, topping one million units by the year 2000, a report obtained Thursday said.

The report by the state-backed Korea Institute for Economics and Technology (KIET), an influential think tank, said that South Korea's automobile exports would reach 450,000 units next year.

The report was based on a survey of South Korea's five car makers, commissioned by the local car manufacturers' association.

It also said that South Korea's annual car production capacity would reach 2.2 million units by 1995 if expansion plans by the country's five automakers are carried out as scheduled.

This would cause a market glut with an oversupply of 600,000 cars in 1995, the report said.

Due to efforts by local auto manufacturers to diversify markets, the United States and Canada will absorb by the year 2000 only 67 percent of South Korea's car exports, down from 79 percent in 1989.

However, South Korean cars would achieve a 6.3 percent market share in the United States in the year 2000, almost double the 3.4 percent in 1989.

In Western Europe, the market share is expected to reach 1.1 percent in 2000, up from 0.2 percent in 1989.

The domestic automobile market will expand by 10 percent, with domestic demand reaching two million units in 1995 and 3.2 million in 2000, the report said.

An official of the Ministry of Trade and Industry said however that "this report draws too rosy a picture."

During the first eight months to August this year, South Korea exported 181,502 automobiles, including 177,652 passenger cars, 16.2 percent down from the same period last year, the official said.

Though car exports were on the increase in the beginning of 1990's second half this year's industry target of 370,000 units will not be easy to achieve, he said.

Industrial sources said that South Korean cars, which once enjoyed booming sales in the United States, have lost much of their competitive edge.

The price gap between South Korean-made compact cars and their Japanese counterparts has been reduced from 1,000 dollars for each to less than 500 dollars, the official said.

GENEVA (SEPT. 14) - Some 41,000 people displaced by the Gulf crisis are still stranded in Jordan, while another 16,900 others have already been evacuated in 61 flights, according to United Nations figures released Friday.

The office of the U.N. Disaster Relief Coordinator (UNDRO) said the Jordanian government has asked for urgent cash contributions to cover the costs of water food and transportation for the refugees.

It said 34,000 people should be repatriated "in two to three weeks".

More than 85 million dollars so far have been contributed to help the refugees fleeing Iraq and occupied Kuwait, including 42.5 million used to pay repatriation costs and 42.6 million for relief aid, UNDRO said.

These figures, however, did not cover the cost of additional services and goods volunteered in helping the refugees.

UNDRO said overall there had been a "generous" response to the different appeals, but said an additional 12 million dollars must still be found because of the "rapidly changing situation".

This new sum would go primarily towards providing temporary shelters, medical equipment, water and urgently needed sanitary facilities to avoid the spread of disease, UNDRO said.

LISBON (SEPT. 14) - Inflation in Portugal is likely to total 13 per cent in 1990, Finance Minister Miguel Beleza has forecast here. In 1989 the rate was 12.7 percent.

Mr. Beleza said on Thursday that the government would reduce its investment in non-financial state-owned companies by 15 percent in 1991 in order to make resources available for the private sector.

But state companies would receive 20 percent of money raised through past privatisation programmes.

This money, estimated to total 36 billion escudos (257 million dollars), was likely to be attributed mainly to the transport sector including railways, urban transport and underground railways.

SYDNEY (SEPT. 14) - John Elliott's Harlin Holdings Friday announced plans to sell a 19.99 percent stake in brewing and agricultural giant Elders IXL to Japan's Asahi Breweries for 960 million Australian dollars (792 million U.S.).

Harlin said in a statement it would sell 446.6 million shares of the world's fourth largest brewer at 2.15 dollars each.

Elders shares closed Friday at 1.56 dollars before the Harlin release.

Analysts said the deal would reduce debt-laden Harlin's stake in Elders to 35 percent, or 46 percent on a diluted basis.

"It's a major breakthrough," Viktor Shvets of Baring Securities said. "It will give a greater degree of stability to Elders."

The move is subject to goverment approval in Japan and Australia, said Harlin, the company used last year as a management takeover vehicle by Elders chairman Mr. Elliott and other Elders executives.

Concern about Harlin debt, estimated at 2.85 billion dollars (2.35 billion U.S.), has undermined Elders shares which in August sagged to a three year low of 1.35 dollars.

Elders, anxious to avoid debt problems, had earlier this year announced that it would sell its resources and finance arms, float its agricultural business and keep its brewing assets under the name of its main beer Fosters'.

Analysts have tipped that the June sale of its resources arm and abnormal losses incurred by its agricultural division could result in Elders losing one billion dollars (830 million U.S.) for the year to June 30.

Mr. Shvets said that the sale would give Elders more time to proceed with its assets sales but that "Harlin was not yet out of the woods.

"Harlin will still be funding deficient but the level of this deficiency will be greatly reduced," he said.

BEIJING (SEPT. 14) - China's chemical industry production fell by two per cent in August compared to July, following a 15.9 per cent drop over the previous monthly period, the China Daily said Friday.

However, the sector's output reached 1.3 billion dollars in August, up by 2.7 per cent over the same month last year, the official English-language newspaper added, quoting China's Ministry of Chemical Industry.

From January to August this year, the chemical industry's output came to 11 billion dollars, up by 5.4 per cent on the corresponding period in 1989, the newspaper said.

Ministry officials blamed the output fall in August, against July, on weak domestic demand, and on a shortage of capital and electricity, the newspaper said.

But customs statistics showed chemical exports rose to 1.6 billion dollars in the first six months of 1990, up by 14 per cent on the same period last year, the daily said.

Chemical imports fell by 24.8 per cent to 2.98 billion dollars over the same period, it added.

Moscow (SEPT. 14) - An explosion and fire at a Soviet plant for nuclear fuels spewed toxic substances into the air and sent clouds of black smoke over the city of Ust-Kamenogorsk near the Chinese border, according to reports here Friday.

Many of the 500,000 residents fled the city in panic, and pedestrians and motorists were seen wearing gas masks following the explosion in the Kazakhstan republic. The plant processes highly poisonous beryllium, said a report in Izvestia.

Initial reports said several people were injured but no one died in what was believed to have been an explosion of hydrogen gas. Several government commissions had been set to work to establish just how big the accident had been.

Elsewhere in Kazakhstan, an explosion at a coal-fired power plant killed three people and critically injuring four others, according to Pravda Friday. The blast and subsequent fire occurred Wednesday at the Ekibatos plant.

Leaking hydrogen produced an explosion so powerful that one turbine was blown apart, the paper said.

BELGRADE (SEPT. 14) - Two ethnic Albanians were killed and a policeman seriously injured overnight when police tried to make an identity check on a car in Kosovo province, Tanjug news agency said.

The incident occurred one day after two other people died in a shootout between police and residents in a Kosovo village deeply hostile to Serbia, which controls the province.

Thursday night's clash was on the road from Klina to Pristina. Tanjug said the police tried to stop the car to make an identity check, when its occupants opened fire, injuring the policeman.

A second policeman then fired back, killing the two Albanians, according to the agency.

The earlier shooting had occurred in the village of Palatna near the northern city of Podujevo, when police arrived at dawn to search for illegal arms, Radio Belgrade reported. Twenty-five people suspected of taking part in the shoot-out were being questioned.

Twenty-three people were arrested and an unspecified quantity of arms seized in a similar search Monday night in the nearby village of Trnava.

Kosovo's majority ethnic Albanians object to the province's control by the Republic of Serbia. Tension has risen following Serbia's decision to dissolve the Kosovo parliament on July 5 after it proclaimed Kosovo's independence from Serbia and asked to be considered a full republic.

NEW YORK (SEPT. 14) - Philip Morris and R.J. Reynolds have announced a deal to supply billions of cigarettes to the Soviet Union, whose smokers are enduring a severe cigarette shortage.

Philip Morris said Thursday it had signed an agreement with the Russian republic to provide 20 billion cigarettes, including Marlboros and other well-known brands, by the end of next year. The shipments will begin at the end of this month.

The company, which described the order as the biggest in its history, said it would be paid in hard currency and in counter trade items, which it did not specify.

"The Soviet Union is the third-largest cigarette market in the world, and we are pleased to help satisfy Russian consumers' pent-up demand," said Aleardo Buzzi, president and chief executive of Philip Morris International.

R.J. Reynolds Tobacco International Inc., a subsidiary of RJR Nabisco Inc., said it signed a separate agreement to supply the Soviet Union with 14 billion cigarettes, including Winston and other brands, over the next year.

Neither company disclosed disclosed the value of their respective deals.

ANGELES, PHILIPPINES (SEPT. 14) - A retired American airman was found murdered here Friday after a fire gutted his home in this northern city, police and fire department officials said.

Investigators suspect that retired Air Force Master Sergeant John Floyd, 47, was killed by his 20-year-old Filipino brother-in-law, Roberto Villaester, who burned down the house before fleeing.

Mr. Floyd's Filipina wife, Aida, said her brother and her husband had been fighting at their house late Thursday and that she had gone to summon district officials to help pacify them.

But when they returned to the house, they found it aflame, she said.

Mr. Floyd's body was found in the ruins the next day. An autopsy showed he had suffered a stab wound in the chest and a fractured skull from a blow.

Lawmen are searching for Mr. Villaester in the nearby province of Bulacan.

LONDON (SEPT. 14) - Mine production of lead was up nearly four percent during the first seven months of 1990 compared with the same period of last year, but zinc mine output was only slightly higher.

The latest statistics released by the International Lead and Zinc Study Group (ILZSG) showed that lead mine production increased by 3.8 percent to 1.352 million tons in January-July 1990, as output in Australia continued to expand.

Mine output of zinc was only 0.5 percent higher at 2.967 million tons, with decreases in Europe and Canada balanced by rises in Australia and the United States.

Production of refined lead fell by nearly 3 percent to 2.491 million tonnes, while consumption remained slightly above the 1989 level at 2.565 million tons.

Production of refined zinc showed a small increase to 3.011 million tons, but consumption weakened by nearly 2 percent to 2.976 million tons.

Stocks of refined lead held by producers totalled 165,000 tons at the end of July, a monthly fall of 14,000 tons. But producer-held stocks of zinc increased by 8,000 tons during July to 311,000 tons, halting the continuous fall seen since the beginning of the year.

JOHANNESBURG (SEPT. 14) - South Africa's Finance Minister Barend du Plessis will leave for Europe Saturday on his way to the International Monetary Fund (IMF) meeting in Washington later this month, his office said Friday.

In Europe, he will meet bankers and business leaders in Germany, France and the United Kingdom and will address an international business conference in London on September 20, a statement said.

The IMF-World Bank meeting in Washington begins on September 25. Mr. Du Plessis will attend in his capacity as a governor of the IMF and governor of the South African Reserve Bank, Dr. Chris Stals will attend as a governor of the World Bank, the statement said.

Other members of the South African delegation include Dr. Jan Lombard, senior deputy governor of the Reserve Bank, James Cross, head of the gold and foreign exchange division of the Reserve Bank, Dr. Piet Koornhof, the South African ambassador to Washington, Gerhard Croeser, director-general of Finance, and Dr. Frans le Roux, South Africa's permanent representative at the IMF.

Mr. Du Plessis is expected to return to South Africa on October 3.

LAGOS (SEPT. 14) - The West African troops sent to Liberia to end the nine-month civil war ''have been given new orders to fight back advancing rebels'', the Nigerian government paper Daily Times reported Friday.

The five-nation monitoring group raised by the Economic Community of West African States (ECOWAS) was originally instructed to be strictly neutral, but has been under attack by the main rebel force led by Charles Taylor. In addition, the rival rebel faction of Prince Johnson has taken some soldiers hostage.

Quoting military sources, the paper said the 4,000-strong force would now ''resist Charles Taylor's rebels''. It added that the troops were now considered a ''peace-enforcing force'' and no longer a ''peacekeeping force''.

Gambia is currently ECOWAS chairman. The minister was accompanied by its executive secretary Abass Bundu.

SRINAGAR, INDIA (SEPT. 14) - Kashmiri militants opened fire on a Central Reserve Police Force (CPRF) post in the border town of Barramullah late Thursday, killing one Indian trooper and wounding 10, police sources said Friday.

The sources said the attackers used light rockets and machine guns in the half-hour engagement, which left the post heavily damaged, but there was no immediate official confirmation of the report.

The sources said the wounded had been brought to Srinagar, summer capital of Jammu and Kashmir and urban hub of the violent secessionist movement in India's only Moslem majority state.

In Srinagar city and the surrounding valley, transporters struck for the third straight day demanding a thorough enquiry into the shootout between troops and militants Tuesday in which explosives blew up a bus killing some 29 of the 54 passengers aboard, four of them militants.

TOKYO (SEPT. 14) - Japan will send an advance medical team to Saudi Arabia to evaluate the need for medical personnel in the region, the Japanese Foreign Ministry said Friday.

The 17-member team, scheduled to leave Tokyo Tuesday, is part of a larger group of 100 doctors and nurses that Japan pledged to send to the Gulf as part of its aid programme announced by Prime Minister Toshiki Kaifu on August 29.

Japan was making a "positive contribution in personnel" to the multinational force deployed in the Gulf to enforce the embargo on Iraq, foreign affairs spokesman Taizo Watanabe said.

Part of the advance team would remain in the Gulf, while the others would report back to the Japanese authorities on the situation in the region, Mr. Watanabe said.

TOKYO (SEPT. 14) - Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze may again visit Japan before Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev makes his first trip to the country in April next year, Soviet diplomatic sources said Friday.

"The Soviet Union has not ruled out the possibility of Mr. Shevardnadze visiting Japan in February or March," one of the sources said.

Mr. Shevardnadze announced the date of Mr. Gorbachev's visit while he was in Japan last week. The historic tour is expected to pave the way towards a bilateral peace treaty formally ending World War II hostilities.

Japan's Foreign Minister Taro Nakayama is expected to visit the Soviet Union in December or January.

ISLAMABAD (SEPT. 14) - Gas stations in Pakistan were closed Friday as part of a government drive to conserve energy amid a fuel shortage caused by the ongoing Gulf crisis, witnesses said.

The closure, the first in the country's history, follows a government decision this week that fuel stations would observe a weekly holiday on Fridays to conserve energy and make up for the oil shortfall resulting from Iraq's annexation of Kuwait.

Gas stations in all cities and towns will remain closed for 24 hours from 7:00 a.m. Friday to 7:00 a.m. Saturday. Officials however said facilities at highways have been exempted from the ban for long haulage vehicles.

The closure came into effect with little publicity, causing problems for consumers.

Officials said Pakistan was feeling a serious pinch from the Gulf crisis after its Kuwaiti source, catering to 40 per cent of the country's oil needs at concessional rates, was depleted.

Pakistan has not responded to President Saddam Hussain's offer of free oil to Third World countries, having already committed 5,000 troops for the defence of Iraq's adversary, Saudi Arabia.

It has recently contacted friendly countries and officials of the World Bank, the Asian Development Bank, the European Economic Community and the United Nations Development Programme to explain severe strains on its economy.

Pakistan envisages a balance of payment loss of 1.1 billion dollars, the paper said, citing initial estimates.

STRASBOURG, FRANCE (SEPT. 14) - The European Parliament here Friday adopted a resolution calling for standardizing speed limits for all vehicles throughout the European Community.

Speed limits for all vehicles would be set at 50 kilometres per hour (30 miles per hour) in towns and cities, 80 kph (50 mph) on country roads, 100 kph (60 mph) on expressways and 120 kph (75 mph) on major highways.

Asked to give their opinions on a committee report on limiting speed limits for commercial transport, the deputies went further and asked that the limits be extended to all vehicles for safety, economic and environmental reasons.

The committee was proposing standardizing speed limits for buses, trucks and vehicles pulling trailers to 80 to 100 kph on highways and 50 kph on town and city roads.

The European Parliament resolution, passed by a 91-67 majority with four abstentions, will be transmitted to the EEC Commission, which is not however compelled to support the opinion of the parliament in formulating a directive on the matter.

HANOI (SEPT. 14) - Vietnamese Deputy Premier Vo Nguyen Giap will visit China this weekend, the foreign ministry said here Friday.

"General Giap will go to China on Saturday or Sunday at the invitation of the Asian Games organizing committee," a ministry spokesman said.

It was unclear how long the visit would last, but the Asian Games will open in Beijing on September 22 and go through October 7.

(Beijing made no official announcement of the visit Friday.)

The deputy premier will be the highest-ranking Vietnamese official to visit China since relations were strained in 1979, and a well-informed Chinese source close to Beijing's embassy here said the invitation was made on Hanoi's request.

Relations between the two countries chilled after China provoked a brief but bloody border war in early 1979 to protest Vietnam's invasion of Cambodia and the ouster of the Beijing-backed Khmer Rouge regime there.

The two sides also disagree over their land border and sovereignty over the South China Sea island chains of the Paracels and the Spratleys.

Lower-ranking officials have exchanged visits in the past two years as the factions in the Cambodian civil war moved closer to a settlement.

Vietnamese Deputy Foreign Minister Dinh Nho Liem has visited Beijing three times in the past two years, the last time in May, while a senior Chinese Foreign Ministry official, Xu Duxin, came here in June.

Since then, the two countries have continued talks on normalizing relations through their embassies.

China has made a comprehensive settlement of the Cambodian conflict and the withdrawal of Vietnamese forces from Cambodia the main conditions for better ties, and Hanoi announced a total troop pullout in September last year.

Beijing has kept its support behind the Khmer Rouge, which after its fall from power became the strongest faction in the resistance against against the Vietnam-installed government in Phnom Penh.

On Thursday, China said it was willing to open a dialogue with Phnom Penh and reaffirmed its willingness to normalize relations with Vietnam.

The announcement came after the warring Cambodian parties achieved a breakthrough in peace talks on Monday, agreeing to enter into an interim authority known as the Supreme National Council (SNC) before U.N.-organized elections are held.

The United Nations will also supervise a cease-fire and the disarming of the factions in the 11-12-year war.

Gen. Giap was one of the chief architects behind North Vietnam's victory over the U.S.-backed South in 1975 and led the Vietnamese victory over French forces at Dien Bien Phu in 1954.

BANGKOK (SEPT. 14) - Thailand is to evacuate about 1,800 workers from Iraq, a Thai Foreign Ministry official here said Friday.

The decision was taken after some of the workers warned the ministry that a possible confrontation between Iraq and countries implementing the U.N. embargo on the Gulf was becoming more likely.

The Foreign Ministry and the Labour Department were working together to organise the evacuation of the workers, stranded since Iraq's August 2 invasion of Kuwait, the official said.

The ministry has instructed its embassy personnel in Baghdad to negotiate with the Iraqi government for an easing of visa regulations to facilitate a swift evacuation.

Nearly 6,000 Thais have already returned home from Kuwait via Jordan and Saudi Arabia during a massive air-lift operation run by the Thai government from August 14 to September 8.

Between 1,800 and 2,000 workers remain in Iraq, while some 20 to 30 workers have opted to remain in Iraqi-occupied Kuwait.

BANGKOK (SEPT. 14) - Cambodia's interim ruling authority, the Supreme National Council (SNC), is to hold its first meeting here Monday, Cambodian sources said Friday.

Thai officials have informed factions involved in the Cambodian conflict that the meeting is to take place at the former Cambodian Embassy here, the sources said.

The meeting is to discuss such issues as sending a delegation to the United Nations, instituting a cease-fire and the SNC chairmanship, they added.

The SNC was formed in Jakarta last Monday as the first step of an agreement between the resistance coalition and the Phnom Penh government to try to end the 12-year civil war. It is to serve as a transitional authority.

The decision to go ahead with the meeting was taken as key players in the war continued intensive negotiations here Friday on the role of resistance leader Prince Norodom Sihanouk in the SNC.

The 68-year-old former monarch, one of two non-communist faction leaders allied with the marxist Khmer Rouge against Phnom Penh, on Friday urged Cambodian Prime Minister Hun Sen to accept him as chairman of the SNC.

The council is to take over Cambodia's seat at the United Nations, now held by the resistance.

It was not immediately clear whether the prince would attend Monday's meeting, which comes one day before a meeting of the U.N. General Assembly opens in New York.

The resistance is dominated by the Chinese-backed Khmer Rouge, which was driven from power in Phnom Penh by Vietnam's invading forces in January 1979.

The formation of the 12-member SNC, split equally between representives of Phnom Penh and the resistance, was agreed upon last Monday when the warring factions agreed in Jakarta to back a U.N.-brokered peace plan.

Mr. Hun Sen was expected to attend Monday's meeting as one of Phnom Penh's six SNC representatives.

In keeping with the peace plan drawn up by the five U.N. Security Council permanent members, the SNC is to embody Cambodia's sovereignty until elections are held.

But the plan delegates sweeping executive powers to a U.N. Transitional Authority in Cambodia (UNTAC) to administer the war-torn country of some seven million people.

BANGKOK (SEPT. 14) - More than 100 Thai soldiers have been working around the clock to repair years of neglect that turned the once-splendid Cambodian embassy building here into a jungle-covered, desolate building.

The house has lain hidden behind thick undergrowth and scores of wild banana trees which had turned the once-manicured garden into a jungle.

But now with the first meeting of Cambodia's newly formed interim ruling authority set here for Monday, a transformation is in progress.

The renovation, which will cost "several million" baht, is expected to be finished by Saturday and will be ready for the meeting of the Supreme National Council (SNC), a senior government official said.

The work at the embassy includes landscaping to replace undergrowth and the banana trees with grass and flowers, floor and toilet repairs and the installation of electric and communication facilities.

"It's a tremendous job given we have only three days to finish all the work. That's why we have to ask the army for help," the official said.

The embassy, located on a prime plot of Bangkok land worth up to 500 million baht (20 million dollars), was closed after the Khmer Rouge, condemned for its human rights record, came to power in Cambodia in 1975.

GENEVA (SEPT. 14) - The World Health Organization on Friday reported that tests on Kemron, a drug used to treat AIDS which has been touted as a "miracle" find in some parts of Africa, were inconclusive.

Kemron, made with weak doses of interferon alfa and administered orally, won some fame after experiments conducted by the Kenya Medical Research Institute on 200 people with AIDS over a 10-week period.

The institute concluded that most of the patients were much recovered at the end of the trial and capable of resisting secondary infection. The HIV virus which leads to AIDS destroys the body's immune system.

"We might reasonably have expected that these first (Kenyan) results would be confirmed in a series of trials in other African countries," the WHO said in its report. "The results obtained up until now are not conclusive."

WHO experts noted, nevertheless, that treatment with Kemron could increase the number of white blood corpuscles, which would increase resistance to secondary infection.

Interferon alfa is already used to help people with AIDS, but it is generally administered by injection in much higher doses, in a burdensome treatment process.

Kemron has been commercially marketed in East Africa after it was launched on July 27 by Kenyan President Daniel arap Moi, who said it "may not be the all-out cure" but that "we would be doing humanity a disservice" if it were not made available.

Davy Koech, who headed the Kenyan research team, dismissed scepticism about Kemron expressed by some scientists who have argued that further tests were needed to evaluate its usefulness.

Lobe Monekosso, WHO regional director for Africa, speaking at the launching ceremony in July, said "this is a claim which must be taken seriously."

He said WHO was ready to help in the "further refining" of the drug, which he described as a "new weapon" against AIDS, and was already organising trials of Kemron and AZT under way in several African countries.

Unlike AZT, another interferon-based drug, Kemron is reported to have minimal side-effects.

COLOMBO (SEPT. 14) - Air Lanka will launch a "mercy mission" Saturday to evacuate thousands of Sri Lankans stranded in the Middle East after President Ranasinghe Premadasa set up a special team headed by him to expedite the repatriation process.

An Air Lanka spokesman said Friday that the national carrier would operate approximately 15 flights per week to Amman during the "mercy mission" to bring back more than 4,500 Sri Lankan refugees stranded at a Jordanian camp.

The Sri Lankans fled to Jordan from Kuwait, where they were employed, in the aftermath of the August 2 invasion of the tiny emirate by Iraqi troops.

The current evacuation of thousands of refugees, mostly Asians, from Amman has not emptied the camps which continue to be congested with an increasing number of Asians fleeing Kuwait every day.

According to the Air Lanka spokesman, the airline has appointed a special task force "to organise and coordinate the transport of refugees" from the Middle East.

The spokesman said there would probably be two flights a day with each flight bringing back a full load of some 230 refugees from Amman.

Colombo has also asked Baghad's permission to evacuate more than 80,000 Sri Lankans direct from Kuwait. Iraqi officials have said they would consider the request.

JAKARTA (SEPT. 14) - Indonesian Mines and Energy Minister Ginanjar Kartasasmita is confident OPEC will survive despite disputes among its member states triggered by the Gulf crisis, the Suara Pembaruan daily said Friday.

"Even though there are often differences of opinion and various problems among its members, I am confident OPEC will continue to survive," Mr. Ginanjar told the daily in an interview.

Speaking on the eve of the 30th anniversary of the Organisation of Oil Exporting Countries, Mr. Ginanjar said his conviction was based on the fact that OPEC had survived several wars, including some between member countries.

"All OPEC members, including Indonesia, have a large interest in OPEC ... I am confident that those with differing opinions within OPEC will remain committed to the existence of the organisation," Mr. Ginanjar said.

OPEC, founded in Baghdad in 1960, groups Algeria, Ecuador, Gabon, Indonesia, Iraq, Iran, Kuwait, Libya, Nigeria, Qatar, Saudi Arabia, the United Arab Emirates and Venezuela.

HARARE (SEPT. 14) - A few anonymous bouquets of flowers at the foot of a flagpole were the only public reminder in Zimbabwe's capital of the day white colonists first raised the British flag here 100 years ago this week.

The black-majority government, whose leaders waged a bitter and bloody war to overthrow the descendants of those settlers just over a decade ago, ignored the centenary.

Any celebrations among the remaining white community of some 100,000 were discreet -- an extra pink gin on the verandah at sundowner time, perhaps.

But a ceremony was planned for this weekend just across the Limpopo River in South Africa, where many whites fled when the country the colonists called Rhodesia became independent Zimbabwe in 1980.

A gathering in the border town of Messina has been organised by the Rhodesia Association of South Africa to commemorate the flag-raising on September 13 1890 on the spot the pioneers called Fort Salisbury -- now Harare.

One man travelling south to attend will be former prime minister Ian Smith, who led Rhodesia into a unilateral declaration of independence from Britain in 1965 rather than accept majority rule.

"It is a very important occasion," he told Agence France-Presse in a telephone interview from the Harare home he uses when not on his farm in Shurugwi, some 300 km south-west of the capital.

"When one looks back through history it makes me realise, and I think it makes all decent people realise, what a fantastic thing it was -- this bringing of Western democratic civilisation to the dark continent."

Mr. Smith, 71, who once predicted that the country's blacks would not rule "in a thousand years", said no ceremony was being held inside Zimbabwe because attempts in recent years to commemorate other events in colonial history had been "broken up by absolute barbarous methods".

The head of the history department at the University of Zimbabwe, Professor Ngwabi Bhebe, said of the arrival of the white settlers: "We want to forget it as much as possible -- just like one of those statues we are throwing away."

MANILA (SEPT. 14) - Foreign investment in the Philippines totalled 258 million dollars in the first half of 1990, the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) said here Friday.

SEC officials would not give comparative figures for the same period last year but noted the total for all of 1989 was 935.7 million dollars.

Direct foreign equity investments in new and existing firms totalled 2.731 billion pesos (117.2 million dollars) in the first half of 1990 compared with 4.7 billion pesos (213.6 million dollars) posted for the whole of 1989.

The Japanese topped the list of foreign investors, pouring in 896.5 million pesos (38.5 million dollars), while Taiwan ranked second with 347.5 million pesos (14.9 million dollars) in the first half of this year.

While foreign investment in the Philippines has risen steadily since 1986, growth has been sluggish due to restrictive regulations, political uncertainty and a poor infrastructure.

DURBAN, SOUTH AFRICA (SEPT. 14) - The South African state on Friday withdrew all charges against a guerilla of the African National Congress (ANC) at whose home police found a large arms cache in July.

Bhekumuza Jabulani Ximba, who sought refuge in the United States consulate here on July 23 during a crackdown on activists, left the Durban Regional Court a free man with a fist clenched in a black power salute.

Mr. Ximba surrendered himself to police after two days at the consulate and was released on bail after appearing in court for the first time two months ago. The state gave no reason for dropping the charges.

A large arms cache, including hand grenades and limpet mines, were uncovered at his home in the Umlazi township, which borders this eastern port city.

Mr. Ximba is a sub-lieutenant in the ANC's military wing, Umkhonto we Sizwe (Spear of the Nation).

SINGAPORE (SEPT. 14) - Papua New Guinea is likely to be an oil exporter by 1992, but development efforts will have to deal with the thorny issue of compensation for local residents, an oil company official said here.

Bradley Ledu, land and government relations manager for Chevron Niugini Pty. Ltd., said that talks were proceeding on social aspects of the South Pacific state's first oil development project.

"Sensitivity to the need for local involvement cannot be overemphasised and must be addressed by every developer," he said in a paper to an oil seminar held here Thursday.

Papua New Guinea is still suffering from a drive by local landowners for compensation from an Australian-run copper mine on the island of Bougainville. Their claims mushroomed into a bloody guerrilla war for secession.

Chevron is a member of a group holding a prospecting licence for exploration in the Southern Highlands province where potentially lucrative oil fields were discovered in 1985 near the remote Lake Kutubu.

Mr. Ledu said if licenses were issued this year, construction could begin immediately and production of crude could start up in two years. "In all likelihood Papua New Guinea will become an oil exporting nation by the end of 1992," he said.

"It is our hope and the stated desire of the government that the Kutubu project will provide encouragement for other upstream petroleum companies to invest and find new fields for development," he added.

Mr. Ledu said the project would involve development of three oil fields in the region about 550 kilometres (330 miles) northwest of the Papua New Guinea capital of Port Moresby.

"Recoverable resources are currently estimated to be 170 million barrels and we foresee a field life of 10-12 years," he said.

DHAKA (SEPT. 14) - Some 1,500 Bangladeshis were dead or missing following the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait, according to a refugee who returned home Friday.

Tajul Islam, president of the Bangladesh Association in Kuwait, told Agence France-Presse that at "every moment people, including Bangladeshis, were being killed (by Iraqi soldiers) or dying due to lack of food."

"The situation in the invaded emirate (Kuwait) is terrible," he said.

Mr. Islam, a naval architect, was among 400 Bangladeshis who returned to Dhaka on Friday from Jordan on a special Air France flight, the third such flight sponsored by the French government.

He said as head of the association he monitored fellow expatriate Bangladeshis in Kuwait, but after Iraq's August 2 invasion of the emirate he found many of them missing.

They were also absent in Jordanian refugee camps, where he ended up after a gruelling desert journey, he added.

Mr. Islam said he estimated 1,500 Bangladeshis were dead or missing, basing the figure on accounts of indiscriminate firing by Iraqi troops on foreigners, including Bangladeshis, and reports of many deaths in Kuwait and the camps due to lack of food.

Foreign Office sources had said earlier that death reports could not be confirmed as there was no direct communication with Kuwait. Bangladesh has suspended the operation of its embassy in the emirate.

There were 75,000 Bangladeshis employed in Kuwait at the time of invasion.

MANAMA (SEPT. 14) - The chairman of the U.S. joint chiefs-of-staff, General Colin Powell, on Friday warned Iraq against attacking Saudi Arabia, the Gulf News Agency (GNA) reported.

Speaking to U.S. forces deployed in the Gulf, Gen. Powell said if Iraq decided to attack Saudi Arabia, it would put itself in a state of war.

Gen. Powell, who met here Friday with the emir of Bahrain for talks on the Gulf crisis on the second leg of a tour to inspect U.S. forces in the Gulf, said the deployment was meant to prevent any Iraqi attack against countries in the region.

On Thursday, Gen. Powell met top Saudi officers and inspected U.S. troops deployed in Saudi Arabia.

The Washington Post, citing official sources, reported Thursday that more than 50,000 U.S. troops would be dispatched to the Gulf in the coming weeks to complement 143,000 already present.

The United States, joined by Western and Arab allies, has engaged in a massive military build-up in the Gulf since Iraq invaded Kuwait on August 2.

Gen. Powell said Tuesday in Washington that a meeting would be held in Bahrain grouping commanders of the various fleets massed in the Gulf to determine their respective zones of responsibility and coordinate their communications procedures.

The armada has been implementing a United Nations-approved embargo against Iraq.

TOKYO (SEPT. 14) - Saudi Arabia's Prince Faisal Fahd Abdul Aziz has reaffirmed his country's opposition to Iraq's participation in the Asian Games which start in Beijing on September 22.

"We cannot condone what Iraq has been doing. I can't imagine the Iraqis will ever set foot in Beijing," he said after arriving in Tokyo on Friday to attend the annual International Olympic Committee (IOC) meeting.

On Thursday, the IOC executive board expressed support for Kuwait's athletes and national Olympic committee despite its invasion and annexation by Iraq.

But it took no stand on a move by the Olympic Council of Asia (OCA) to bar Iraq from the Asian Games, which is patronized by the IOC but governed by the OCA.

An OCA general assembly meeting in Beijing on September 20 will decide on a recommendation to bar Iraq from the regional games and OCA membership.

The Saudi prince held talks at a Tokyo hotel with Kuwait's Sheikh Ahmad al-Sabah, the eldest son of IOC member and OCA president Sheikh Fahad al-Ahmad al-Sabah, who was killed when Iraqi troops attacked Kuwait August 2.

The son is now president of the Kuwait national Olympic committe in exile.

MOSCOW (SEPT. 14) - British Foreign Secretary Douglas Hurd said Friday that the Soviet Union and Britain have agreed to increase pressure on Iraq in a bid to force it out of Kuwait.

He said after a meeting with Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev that the talks did not touch on Western or Soviet military action in the Gulf, where British, French, U.S. and other forces have been deployed to prevent a possible Iraqi attack against Saudi Arabia.

Hurd welcomed Japan's recent pledge to raise its financial support for the Western military involvement in the Gulf.

On developments in Europe, Hurd indicated that neither British Premier Margaret Thatcher nor Queen Elizabeth Ii would attend ceremonies marking German unification in Berlin on October 2. These celebrations must remain an internal issue, he said.

Hurd arrived in Moscow Wednesday for the signing ceremony of an international treaty opening the way for German unification.

BRUSSELS (SEPT. 14) - The European Commission on Friday said it wants to increase emergency food aid for the tens of thousands of refugees in Jordan who have fled the Iraqi annexation of Kuwait.

A spokesman for the European Economic Community's executive said the proposed aid would be bigger than the 3.51-million-dollar tranche allocated in early August, which was estimated to be enough to feed 300,000 people over two months.

The EEC and its member states have already contributed more than 32 million dollars of the estimated 150 million dollars in international commitments towards the refugees.

This money has helped provide shelter and transport home for thousands of Egyptians and Asians. EEC foreign ministers on Monday are to discuss the Commission's proposals to increase the aid by another 39 million dollars.

JAKARTA (SEPT. 14) - The Indonesian attorney general's office ordered the detention on Friday of a former Bank Duta top executive for questioning over possible improprieties in the bank's dealings, a newspaper reported.

The Suara Pembaruan daily cited sources at the attorney general's office as saying that an order of detention was issued late Thursday for former Bank Duta vice president, Dicky Iskandar Di Nata, 39.

Officials at the attorney general's office declined to comment on the report.

Mr. Di Nata was summoned to the attorney general's office for questioning Thursday morning and his detention took effect Friday, the sources said.

Summons had also been issued to former directors of the bank and top officials of the Central Bank responsible for bank supervision to help with the investigation, the sources added.

Bank Duta, one of Indonesia's top private banks with assets of more than one billion dollars at the start of 1990, was put under tight supervision last week by the Central Bank after it was found to have incurred large foreign exchange losses.

The bank is controlled by three charity foundations chaired by Indonesian President Suharto.

The prime shareholder in the same week dismissed Bank Duta's management board, headed by chief commissioner Bustanil Arifin, who is cooperative minister and related by marriage to Mr. Suharto's wife, Hartinah.

Mr. Arifin said last week that Bank Duta had suffered heavy losses because sizable funds deposited with the National Bank of Kuwait were frozen in the wake of the Gulf crisis.

State Secretary Murdiono denied Mr. Arifin's statement on Thursday.

Central Bank Governor Adrianus Mooy has said there was a possibility of "off balance sheet" transactions behind the losses.

The prime shareholders have injected new funds to bail the bank out, and Duta is back in operation under a new board of management.

HANOI (SEPT. 14) - Petrol is being rationed in Vietnam's economic capital of Ho Chi Minh City, where supplies have been interrupted for several days, the daily Saigon Giai Phong said in a report seen here Friday.

The petrol shortage has caused prices to soar on the free market in Ho Chi Minh City, with the cost of a litre doubling to 3,000 dong (45 U.S. cents) from a few days earlier, the newspaper said in its Tuesday edition.

The interruption to petrol supplies is mainly due to a cut in shipments from the Soviet Union, which has provided almost 80 per cent of the country's needs up to now, Western experts said.

They said Vietnam was buying petrol from Singapore and Japan to meet demand.

Vietnamese authorities are limiting petrol sales to three litres for mopeds and 20 litres for cars, buses and trucks while the sale of petrol in cans has been forbidden, the newspaper said.

Hanoi had also been affected. A litre of petrol now costs 1,750 dong (27 cents) on the free market, up from 1,100 dong (18 cents) earlier.

Vietnamese sources said the reduction in purchases from the Soviet Union was likely because Hanoi now has to pay for some imports in hard currency and also because Moscow might have cut shipments in the wake of the Gulf crisis.

MANILA (SEPT. 14) - The two houses of the Philippine congress passed a bill Friday changing the tax on oil products from value-added to specific taxes, a move which paves the way for an increase in oil prices.

The change from value-added to specific taxation will cushion the effect of any retail price hike since, under the new system, the tax on oil products will not rise with any hike in its price.

The executive department has been waiting for passage of the bill before allowing oil prices to rise, but the presidential palace has not said when President Corazon Aquino will sign it into law.

TOKYO (SEPT. 14) - Indonesia has informed the Japanese oil industry of its decision to raise crude oil prices by an average 8.84 dollars a barrel from the level in August, industry sources said Friday.

The markup will boost the price of Minas, a benchmark Indonesian crude, to 28.03 dollars a barrel for September shipments to Japan compared with 19.19 dollars for August shipments, the sources said.

VIENNA (SEPT. 14) - The Soviet Union, acting as if the Warsaw Pact no longer existed, is asking to keep 40 per cent of the conventional weapons at stake in talks here, incurring the opposition of all the other countries involved, diplomats said Friday.

Moscow is asking to keep, for example, 16,000 tanks out of the 20,000 that could be allotted to the seven nations of the Warsaw Pact out of a total of 40,000 for both the Pact nations and the 16 nations of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO).

"The Soviets are reasoning as if the Warsaw Pact no longer existed," a diplomat said. "Moscow is completely isolated within its own alliance on this question."

As a result, Hungary and Czechoslovakia have proposed that no country be allowed to keep more than 30 per cent of the total figure of conventional weapons, which include artillery, armor, troops and aircraft.

The Warsaw Pact nations are to meet in Bratislava, Czechoslovakia, before the end of the month to try to reach an agreement on how to share their half of the weapons.

A first meeting in early September failed because of Moscow's intransigence.

The French delegate to the talks, Francois Plaisant, said, "no solution can be achieved that would enshrine such imbalances."

The hardening of the Soviet position came two months before a summit meeting of the 35 nations of the Conference on Security and Cooperation in Europe (CSCE), which includes all European nations minus Albania plus the United States and Canada.

Speaking on Wednesday in Moscow, U.S. Secretary of State James Baker said the negotiations on two major problem areas -- the share of weapons question and the number of warplanes -- could be postponed to a new round of talks on conventional weapons that would start here in January.

PARIS (SEPT. 14) - A senior French official on Friday said the outlook was good that an international conference to end the Cambodian civil war would take place this year, probably early November, and would be successful.

Edwige Avice, the deputy foreign minister, spoke at her return from a meeting on Cambodia in Jakarta that was co-chaired by France and Indonesia.

"There is a very strong determination on the part of the Five to end the crisis," she said.

She was referring to the five permanent members of the security council (the Soviet Union, the United States, France, Britain and China), of which three are deeply involved in the conflict.

The United States gives non-military aid to the two non-communist forces fighting the Vietnamese-installed Phnom Penh regime; China supports the Khmer Rouge and Moscow is the principal ally of Phnom Penh and Hanoi.

China, Mrs. Avige said, is displaying "a reasonable and constructive attitude."

"The four (Cambodian) factions have lost the unconditional support of their backers, who want to lance the abcess," she said.

China is anxious to end the ostracism it incurred because of its repression of dissent. Vietnam want to renew ties with China and, to a lesser extent, with the United States.

The Gulf crisis also helped, she said. It gave Beijing an opportunity to join the mainstream of nations and it also burnished the image of the United Nations, of which Phnom Penh and Hanoi were deeply suspicious because it chose the resistance to represent Cambodia at the world body.

The Paris conference is to bring together the four Cambodian factions, the five superpowers and the six non-communist countries of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations as well as Vietnam, Laos, Japan and Australia.

Meanwhile, in Strasbourg, eastern France, Son Sann, the leader of one of the two non-communist guerrilla groups, said at the European parliament that he expected U.N.-supervised elections could take place "in a year."

The modalities could be defined at the Paris conference, he said.

WASHINGTON (SEPT. 14) - The United States is prepared to consider joint use of two key U.S. military bases in the Philippines, whose future will be negotiated in Manila next week, administration officials indicate.

At stake in the formal negotiations is whether the United States will be allowed continued access to Clark Air Base, Subic Naval Base and four smaller installations after September 16 1991, when the 1947 Military Bases Agreement (MBA) expires.

The first round is scheduled for September 17 and 21. For security reasons, the State Department will not say when U.S. chief negotiator Richard Armitage and his team will leave for Manila. U.S. officials say they fear attacks by communist rebels.

Clark Air base and Subic Naval Base, the oldest and largest U.S. military facilities on foreign soil, are the cornerstone of the U.S. security network in Asia and U.S. officials insist that their importance cannot be overstated.

"If we are not wanted, we'll leave and we have alternatives... But clearly, we'd like to stay...Our military presence is a stabilizing factor in the region," said one administration official, who asked not to be named.

"We are quite flexible. We want a new relationship and a new treaty which will emphasize equality and Philippine sovereignty. Concepts like joint use, commercialization of existing facilities are things which we will consider very seriously. it's their (Philippine) call," the official added Thursday.

On a report that Manila was likely to propose U.S. forces vacate Clark by September next year and stay at Subic for three more years, the official said: "This is a cute theory...Our position is that we would like to remain (at Clark as well) ."

"You could have the Philippine Air Force there, commercialization to develop industries in the Central Luzon area and use Clark as an air freight terminal " he added.

"Ultimately, the Filipinos are interested in turning Clark into an international airport that would be financed by selling off valuable real estate now being used by the military in the southern end of Manila. We are sympathetic to that," the official said.

Subic, the main ship repair and maintenance facility of the Japan-based U.S. 7th fleet is seen as more important than Clark, home to the 13th air force which includes two tactical squadrons of F-4 phantom fighters, military transports and other aircraft.

"Making the bases increasingly open to the Philippine Air Force and Navy represents an option that I feel the United States would welcome," said Richard Fisher, a policy analyst at the Heritage Foundation, a local think tank.

U.S. officials however stress that the ball is in the Philippine court and that the real bargaining has yet to start.

They note that most opinion polls in the former U.S. colony indicate that most Filipinos favor retention of the U.S. bases as do the Philippines's neighbors.

Some officials however voice concern about strong anti-base sentiment in the 23-member Philippine Senate, which will have to ratify any new treaty.

"One detects among some Philippine senators anti-U.S. feelings and as a result an unrealistic set of expectations designed to lead to failed negotiations," said Mr. Fisher.

U.S. officials say that a precipitous U.S. withdrawal would have a catastrophic impact on the Philippines.

It would mean not only the loss of more than 500 million dollars a year and unemployment for 79,000 people, but more importantly a devastating loss of confidence in President Corazon Aquino's government and Philippine democracy.

For the U.S. military, which has been in the Philippines since 1898 when the United States captured the country during the Spanish-American War, less attractive alternatives to Clark and Subic would involve scattering facilities in the Pacific territories of Guam, Tinian, Saipan and Palau.

U.S. officials stress that an agreement in principle reached earlier this year to deploy U.S. warplanes and military personnel on Singaporean soil was a supplement not a substitute for the bases in the Philippines.

Manila and Washington held a preliminary round of bases talks last May.

TEHERAN (SEPT. 14) - Iran is abiding by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries' (OPEC) pre-Gulf crisis production quota and price rises have boosted revenues by up to 800 million dollars a month, Oil Minister Gholamreza Aqazadeh said.

"Under the present circumstances, we are exporting oil according to our OPEC-decreed quota and Iranian crude is in large demand," he was quoted by the official IRNA news agency as saying.

He said Iran was selling its crude oil for 28 dollars per barrel on international markets.

He made his comments during a visit Thursday to the industrial Semnan region east of Teheran, IRNA said.

Persistent rumors in oil circles say Iran may have concluded a secret deal with longtime foe Iraq to export Iraqi crude oil via Iranian refineries.

If confirmed, Iran would be violating sweeping sanctions imposed by the United Nations Security Council on August 6, four days after Iraq invaded neighboring Kuwait.

But the English-language daily Teheran Times, considered close to President Ali Akbar Hashemi Rafsanjani, on Thursday blasted the reports saying they were unfounded.

"An informed source strongly denied that the Iranian government has made a deal with Iraq to sell that country's oil, or to buy cheap oil from Iraq," the paper said.

The source was reacting to reports by foreign media that Iran had reached an agreement with Iraq to exchange food and medicines for Iraqi oil and cash, the paper said, adding that the source "scoffed at the report and said it was totally baseless."

He said a decision had not yet been reached on whether to ship food amd medical supplies to Iraq, although Iranian officials did not see such shipments as a violation of the embargo.

The Iranian government "keeps its options open on that," the official said, noting that a decision to send Iraq the needed supplies would only be made "out of humanitarian considerations."

TEHERAN (SEPT. 14) - Iran on Friday called up Revolutionary Guards militiamen for exercises to confront what it called Western "provocation," an apparent reference to the U.S.-led military buildup in the Gulf.

Members of several land units as well as reservists were ordered in a communique read out at the end of Moslem prayers at Teheran University to gather by Wednesday at a large barracks in the capital.

The call-up was "to prepare to confront the provocative actions of oppression " a term Iran normally uses to refer to the United States and the West.

The communique said the exercises would last four days, but it gave no details on the number of troops involved. The order apparently applied only to land forces of the Revolutionary Guards based in Teheran.

Iran's spiritual guide, Ayatollah Ali Khamenei, said Wednesday that Moslem resistance in the U.S. deployment in the Gulf would constitute holy war and said those who died in the struggle would be martyrs.

The ayatollah thus aligned himself with opponents of President Ali Akbar Hashemi Rafsanjani's more moderate position toward the West, who view the U.S. buildup as a threat to Iran.

Leaders of the Revolutionary Guards are among the anti-Western hardliners.

Iran's former chief justice, Ayatollah Abdol-Karim Ardebili, said at Friday prayers that "the struggle against American soldiers in Saudi Arabia, where they are given alcohol, is a religious duty."

Washington is the only party that stands to gain from the Gulf crisis because it is "selling arms, making its allies pay, has seized oil reserves and now has a military presence" in the Gulf region, he said.

The crowd interrupted with cries of "Death to America," as the ayatollah added that Iran "condemns the Iraqi aggression against Kuwait but also condemns the presence of foreign troops in Islam's holy places."

The United States has deployed more than 100,000 troops in the Gulf region, mainly in Saudi Arabia, to deter further Iraqi aggression after the August 2 invasion of Kuwait.

NEW DELHI (SEPT. 14) - Sri Lanka has agreed to set up three refugee camps for its Tamil poulation in a bid to prevent them from streaming into southern of India, it was announced here Friday.

A foreign Office spokesman said Indian Prime Minister Vishwanath Pratap Singh was told of the plan by India's High Commissioner in Colombo, N.N. Jha, who is currently in New Delhi for consulations.

The official said the camps would be set up at Vavunia, Mannar island and Madu Church area in northwestern Sri Lanka.

Since the withdrawal of the Indian Peace Keeping Force from Sri Lanka in March more than 10,000 Tamil refugees have crossed into Tamil Nadu state in southern India in the wake of bitter fighting between Sri Lankan troops and Tamil separatists.

The Indian official said the camps at Vavunia and Mannar island would be organised by the International Committee of Red Cross and the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees. The Madhu Church one would be jointly set up by the Indian and Sri Lanka governments.

COPENHAGEN (SEPT. 14) - The World Health Organisation (WHO) needs 30 to 45 million dollars in the next 18 months to fight deteriorating health conditions in eastern and central Europe, a WHO official said here Friday.

Dr. Joe Eirik Asvall, director of WHO's regional European bureau, said after the 40th European session of the bureau that the health situation in central and east European countries was deteriorating by the month.

The 32 European member WHO member states had drawn up a five-year health plan for the region, accompanied by a fund-raising and publicity campaign aimed at governments and individuals in Europe, the United States and Japan, he said.

In an interview with Agence France-Presse, Dr. Asvall said Romania, Poland and the Soviet Union were among the countries worst hit by AIDS and other infectious diseases, infant mortality, abortion, suicides and accidents.

Vaccines and modern hospital equipment are badly needed, he said, adding that the former Iron Curtain countries were forced by serious economic problems to give a low priority to health issues.

Dr. Asvall said WHO's European bureau planned to devote three million dollars by 1993 to health aid for Eastern Europe.

But this was a drop in the ocean compared to the region's need for up to 45 million dollars -- nearly as much as WHO's 47 million dollars annual budget for the whole of Europe.

"Our aim is to reduce the gap between health facilities in eastern and western Europe as much as possible," he said. The organisation hoped to wipe out the difference by the turn of the century.

Dr. Asvall also cautioned that developing countries were worried about what they perceived as a concentration of resources from the world's rich countries into eastern Europe.

VIENNA (SEPT. 14) - Safety at nuclear power plants, possible sanctions against Israel and South Africa, and finance will be on the agenda when the International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA) conference opens Monday in Vienna.

Reflecting recent sweeping political changes in Europe, for the first time safety at east European nuclear power plants will be a leading issue for delegates to the 34th annual IAEA conference, IAEA sources said Friday.

IAEA experts will be making trips to plants at Bohunice in Czechoslovakia, Kosloduj in Bulgaria and Novoronej and Kola in the Soviet Union in the coming months to study safety measures and procedures at nuclear power plants.

An agreement on the establishment of an international scientific research center in the radiation-blighted Chernobyl region of the Ukraine, proposed last year by the Soviet Union, will also be signed at the five-day conference.

The interim report of a study by 100 international experts evaluating the effects on health and the environment of the 1986 nuclear catastrophe at Chernobyl is expected to be presented at the conference, IAEA sources said.

The Gulf crisis is not expected to have any major impact on the conference, an IAEA source said.

The IAEA has ended technical assistance to Iraq in compliance with U.N. Security Council resolutions, but both Iraqi and Kuwaiti delegations are expected to take part in the conference.

The question of sanctions against Israel and South Africa is also expected to be discussed during the conference. Israel has refused to renounce holding nuclear weapons or to allow IAEA inspections of its nuclear facilities.

South Africa has avoided exclusion from the IAEA at earlier conferences by expressing an interest in rejoining the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty, but has so far avoided actually signing the treaty.

IAEA funding is a matter of grave concern, with the United Sates and Japan, the largest contributors to IAEA coffers, still in arrears for their 1990 payments, while the Soviet Union has made only half of its 1990 payment.

As a result, the IAEA is short of 74 million dollars, or almost half of its 156 million dollars annual budget, a reliable IAEA source said.

With the Mediterranean region expected to be short about of 10 million cubic meters of fresh water a day by the year 2000, the conference will also discuss a report on the economic and technical possibilities of desalinating water.

On the sidelines of the conference, as in other years, the IAEA will hold a special seminar on Nuclear Power Plant Upgrading and Life Extension.

The IAEA conference begins Monday with the election of a conference chairman, expected to be the deputy chairman of the Hungarian nuclear energy commission Gyorgy Vajda, and a declaration by IAEA director-general Hans Blix.

NEW DELHI (SEPT. 14) - An Indian ship with 6,000 tons of food for thousands of Indian nationals stranded in the Gulf is due to leave for Iraq Saturday, a foreign ministry spokesman said.

The Vishwa Siddhi will leave the southern Indian port of Cochin with rice, lentils, wheat flour and other emergency supplies following a United Nations decision to allow the ship through the naval blockade of Iraq, the spokesman said Friday.

The ship is expected to reach the Iraqi port of Umm Qasr, near Basra, in five to six days, he said.

It will be the first consignment of food to sail to Iraq since the U.N. blockade was enforced following Iraq's August 2 invasion of Kuwait.

Earlier reports from southern India had said the Vishwa Siddhi would leave by early Sunday with about 10,000 tonnes of food supplies to the Jordanian port of Aqaba.

The U.N. sanctions committee Friday authorised India to send a shipload of food for its nationals in Iraq and Kuwait and distribute it through U.N. or other international or humanitarian organisations.

The spokesman said an Indian Red Cross team will accompany the ship, which is also expected to evacuate Indian nationals to Bombay or Dubai, in the United Arab Emirates.

He said food would also be distributed to needy nationals of other foreign countries.

Asked if the government feared Iraqi authorities might confiscate the ship's contents, the spokesman said: "They are not short of food. It is the aliens who are short of food."

India had some 172,000 nationals in Kuwait and 10,000 in Iraq at the time of the invasion and annexation, which has resulted in a massive exodus of refugees to Jordan.

Thousands of Indians are now in Jordanian refugee camps which a minister here described as "hell holes", and thousands more are reportedly still in Iraq and Kuwait.

India has been at the forefront of Asian countries with nationals trapped in the Gulf urging a "food-window" in the blockade.

LIBREVILLE (SEPT. 14) - All international telecommunications links with the Congo were cut from midday on Friday.

The interruption of services could be due to a general strike called by the Congolese trade unions in a conflict between the labour confederation and the government, an informed source here in Gabon said.

President Denis Sassou-Nguesso halted a congress of the confederation Wednesday and replaced its permanent secretariat with a coordinating committee after the union body pressed for independence from the sole and ruling Congolese Labour Party (PCT).

Just before communications links went down, a central committee member of the PCT, Simon Pierre Guounimba Nczari, was appointed head of the coordinating committee, according to an official Congolese source.

TOKYO (SEPT. 14) - Japan announced Friday it would provide an additional three billion dollars in financial aid to the U.S.-led multinational forces in the Gulf and the countries hardest hit by the Gulf crisis.

One billion dollars will go to the multinational forces, while two billion dollars in economic assistance will go to Egypt, Jordan and Turkey, officials said.

Japanese opposition parties strongly criticised the decision and called for its retraction. They said the move violated Japan's post-war constitution which prohibits the country from dispatching troops overseas for settling disputes.

The additional three billion dollars brought to 4.22 billion dollars the aid pledged by Japan to offset the impact of the Gulf crisis sparked by Iraq's August 2 invasion and subsequent annexation of Kuwait.

U.S. President George Bush, informed of the decision by Prime Minister Toshiki Kaifu by telephone, called it "very good news," according to Japanese officials.

It is a "very welcome decision," Mr. Bush was quoted as saying from Washington where Japan has been accused of failing adequately to support U.S. Gulf efforts despite its interests in the region.

Mr. Kaifu said the additional Middle East aid was in line with the interests of Japan, which is completely dependent on imported oil.

The main opposition Socialist Party said that "the government should retract the decision."

The Communist Party also criticised the move, while Komeito, the number two opposition party, said the financial aid should be used only for non-military purposes.

Of the two billion dollars aid to so-called "frontline" nations hit especially hard by the United Nations embargo against Iraq, 600 million dollars will be in low-interest loans repayable over 30 years, the officials said.

The 600 million dollars emergency aid would be supplied as soon as possible, they said. Details would be decided before Mr. Kaifu's visit to the Middle East in early October.

The remaining 1.4 billion dollars will be medium-term economic aid, including grants, the officials said.

BULAWAYO (SEPT. 14) - The Zimbabwe Congress of Trade Unions (ZCTU) is opposed to government plans to create a one-party state, the organisation's acting president, Gibson Sibanda, said Friday.

The semi-official Ziana news agency quoted him as telling the opening session of the ZCTU's third congress that the winds of change which had swept through Eastern Europe could not be resisted.

"We witness today an unprecedented demand for political pluralism as the one-party autocratic regimes have been rejected one after another," he said.

The official policy of Zimbabwe's ruling ZANU-PF (Zimbabwe African National Union - Patriotic Front) party, led by President Robert Mugabe, is to turn one of the African continent's few multi-party democracies into a one-party state.

Mr. Sibanda told some 200 delegates to the congress in Bulawayo, Zimbabwe's second largest city, that the ZCTU's general council had resolved "that political pluralism be maintained in Zimbabwe."

RIYADH (SEPT. 14) - Iraqi opposition groups are to meet next week in Damascus to prepare President Saddam Hussein's overthrow and the establishment of democracy in Baghdad, a Kurdish guerrilla chief announced Friday.

Jellal Talibani, leader of the Patriotic Union of (Iraqi) Kurdistan, said in an interview from the Syrian capital that contacts were underway to form a wide-ranging coalition against the Iraqi president.

He told the Kuwaiti newspaper Al-Qabas, edited in Saudi Arabia since the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait on August 2, that a new leadership would use dialogue "to settle differences between brothers" in Iraq and Kuwait.

In the Iranian capital, an Iraqi Shiite opposition leader, Mohammad Baqer al-Hakim, told Agence France-Presse that "the bell tolls for the regime of dictator Saddam Hussein."

BRUSSELS (SEPT. 14) - The European Community sharply condemned Friday the unauthorised entry of Iraqi troops into various Western embassies in Kuwait.

In a joint resolution, the E.C. said break-ins at the French and Dutch embassies and the seizure of E.C. citizens and diplomats was a serious violation of the Geneva Convention of 1961, to which Iraq also is a signatory.

''The Community and its member states demand the immediate release of all kidnapped foreign nationals and urge Iraqi authorities to respect international law,'' the declaration read.

The E.C. said the Iraqi actions were unacceptable and appropriate diplomatic steps would be taken.

COLOMBO (SEPT. 14) - Army soldiers were engaged in fierce hand-to-hand fighting with Tamil rebels Friday as the death toll rose to 175 in the battle for the Jaffna fort army camp in northern Sri Lanka, officials said.

More than 150 guerrillas of the Liberation Tigers of Tamil Eelam (LTTE) have so far died during the army offensive that was launched on Thursday to break the blockade on the Jaffna fort, a military spokesman here said.

Government casualties were high, the spokesman admitted.

At least 25 troops including an air force pilot and five army officers were killed in the three-pronged surprise attack by ground, air and sea units against rebels entrenched in well-fortified bunkers near the fort.

Military officials said that ground troops were facing massive rebel resistance in the vicinity of the army garrison which had been under siege since June 11 after violence erupted in the predominantly Tamil northeast.

"But our men are giving them (the Tigers) the works," a senior army officer here said, referring to the hundreds of troops said to be swarming all over the fort area.

An official communique Friday quoted military officials as saying that the navy had intercepted several high-powered boats "carrying fleeing terrorists" and destroyed them off the northern coast.

LTTE rebels laid siege to most army outposts in the densely-populated northern province after fighting flared up between government troops and the guerrillas in June.

The government said that the siege on the fort was broken Thursday, but the LTTE denied this and said "heavy fighting was still going on."

Officials said army reinforcements were moved into the Dutch colonial-built fort where some 200 soldiers and policemen had been trapped for the past three months.

LAGOS (SEPT. 14) - Twenty-seven more coup plotters were executed by firing squad for their complicity in an abortive coup on April 22, a spokesman for the Nigerian military government said Friday.

The spokesman told reporters that 27 were executed Thursday.

He said they were military personnel, and that they were among 31 suspects whose retrial was ordered by the Armed Forces Ruling Council (Afrc) after they had earlier been tried along with other suspects by a special military tribunal.

The total figure brings to 69, the number of military personnel executed in connection with the coup attempt. Forty-two were executed last month after the Afrc had sanctioned their death sentences.

LINTHICUM, MD (SEPT. 14) - Just when he thought he was safely home after a desert trek out of Iraqi-occupied Kuwait, 64-year-old William Longthorne had to face and armed robber who stole his 200-dollar wristwatch.

"It didn't faze me until after it was over," said the mechanical engineer, adding that he felt no fear of the mugger's gun after seeing "all those Iraqi guns" back in Kuwait.

He said the mugging took place last Tuesday in a hotel parking lot here.

Mr. Longthorne, who three weeks ago drove cross-desert out of Kuwait with two other men, said the robber told him he was hungry and took his wristwatch after learning he had no money.

KAMPALA (SEPT. 14) - At least 200 people have died of meningitis in western Uganda's Mbarara district, Acting District Administrator Henry Rwigyemera said Friday.

He said virtually all parts of the district had reported cases of meningitis which broke out in Birere sub-county three months ago.

On Friday, Isingiro County member of parliament John Kigyagi said in a statement broadcast over radio Uganda that atleast 20 people had died in an epidemic in Oruchinga valley refugee settlement.

The settlement has an estimated 30,000 people all of them Rwandese and is located near Kagera river on the Uganda-Tanzania border. Mr. Kigyagi said all schools in the settlement had been closed following the outbreak.

The acting district administrator said Friday that the epidemic could not be contained because of vaccine shortages. He however said medical authorities in the country expected drugs to be delivered in the area next week.

Mr. Rwigyemera said the district with a population of over 800,000 people had only received vaccines enough for 90,000 people and that his office was receiving reports of more deaths in Yabushozi, Ibanda and Ntungamo areas.

Nineteen people were reported to have died in Ntungamo last week of the epidemic prevalent in the district's 30 sub-counties.

BANGUI (SEPT. 14) - Police on Friday broke up demonstrations by the families of 20 opposition figures arrested in the capital of the Central African Republic on Thursday for holding an unauthorized political meeting.

The French ambassador here, Antoine Frasseto, meanwhile confirmed by telephone from Libreville that Simon Narcisse Bozanga, a former prime minister, had taken refuge in the embassy.

Informed sources said that Mr. Bozanga had fled to the embassy after police raided the meeting in a private house of people seeking a multi-party system.

The police on Friday used teargas to disperse groups of a few people who gathered outside a gendarmerie post close to the presidential palace where the dissidents were being held.

Women at the demonstration wore red headbands and carried a banner reading: "In the name of democracy, free our husbands". Police broke up a similar protest on Thursday.

In a raid on the home of Aristide Sokambi in the early hours of Thursday, police arrested 22 members of a coordinating committee seeking a national conference with a view to introducing multi-party politics.

All were signatories to an open letter to President Andre Kolingba in May calling for the conference. Of those detained after police smashed in the door of Mr. Sokambi's home, 20 were still detained Friday, informed sources said.

They included Mr. Sokambi, together with Abel Goumba, leader of the opposition Oubanguian Patriotic Front (FPO), Henri Maidou, the last prime minister under Emperor Bokassa and vice-president under David Dacko, who succeeded the monarch in a 1979 coup, and Francois Pehoua, an ex-member of the Dacko government.

Mr. Frasseto told Agence France-Presse that negotiations concerning Mr. Bozanga's presence in the embassy in Bangui were "on the point of a result", but declined to say more.)

Initially, Mr. Bozanga, who was prime minister in the Dacko government, was said to have been among those arrested.

There have been no details of the two people freed.

Public Security Minister Thomas Mapouka on Thursday confirmed the arrests in a radio announcement, adding that legal proceedings had begun against the detainees.

The current head of state General Kolingba toppled Mr. Dacko in a military coup in September 1981.

In an earlier development, the Central African government asked the country's Appeal Court to disqualify prominent lawyer Nicolas Tiangaye for making "seditious statements" in court on July 2 while defending two senior army officers charged with breaching state security.

Mr. Tiangaye had been due to appear before the court's disciplinary chamber on Tuesday, but officials in Cameroon of the African Jurists' Association (AJA) on Thursday told Agence France-Presse that the lawyer was not in detention.

Informed sources in Gabon have said the Appeal Court hearing has been postponed until next Tuesday, but there was no comment on the matter from the the CentraAfrican government.

Mr. Tiangaye, 34, was one of the 253 signatories to an open letter sent on May 15 to General Kolingba calling for a national conference on multi-party democracy.

He is also defence lawyer for opposition figure General Francois Bozize, who has been jailed since July last year after being extradited from Benin in circumstances that remain unclear.

There has been no indication that Gen. Kolingba envisages a multi-party system though like other African leaders his government has faced unrest this year, including strikes by teachers, students, schoolchildren and hospital staff.

JOHANNESBURG (SEPT. 14) - Fifteen black commuters were injured Friday when they were pushed off a moving train by a rampaging gang, or jumped fearing a repeat of the massacre that left 26 people dead the night before, police said.

Police spokesman Colonel Frans Malherbe said shots were fired in Friday's attack between Jeppe and Ellis Park stations but that nobody was hit.

Ambulance spokesman Efraim Kraner said none of the casualties was seriously injured, and nobody had died. The gang struck as city workers were returning to outlying townships for the weekend.

A large contingent of troops descended on the station shortly after the incident.

"Jeppe station is crawling with troops, police and railway security armed with shotguns", eyewitnesses said. All the injured were taken to the city's Hillbrow Hospital.

Thursday's massacre also started at Jeppe station, where gunmen had shot dead six black commuters in a random killing spree the previous Thursday.

LAGOS (SEPT. 14) - Iraqi President Saddam Hussein Friday assured President Ibrahim Babangida and the international community that Iraq would not turn the Gulf crisis into an all-out war.

In a message delivered by special envoy Omid Medhat, the Iraqi leader restated his government's commitment to a peaceful resolution of the crisis.

He said Iraq was well aware of the painful consequences of war and would still welcome a negotiated settlement of the issues involved, within an arab framework.

President Hussein warned, however, that although Iraq was in dire need of peace, it would not accept pre-conditions for the resolution of the crisis, and would be forced to defend itself if attacked.

President Babangida told the envoy that Nigeria would support any initiative that would facilitate the peaceful resolution of the crisis triggered by Iraq's August 2 invasion of Kuwait.

NEW DELHI (SEPT. 14) - Government offices and banks reopened Friday in the northern Indian state of Himachal Pradesh after authorities invoked two tough laws in an attempt to end a strike by thousands of employees protesting caste-based job quotas.

The state government invoked the Essential Services Maintenance Act (ESMA) and the National Security Act (NSA) late Thursday, on the 10th day of the strike, news reports said.

But the employees continued their protest Friday to demand the scrapping of a federal order reserving 49.5 per cent of jobs in the government and public sector throughout the country for lower castes.

The Press Trust of India (PTI) said armed policemen were posted outside banks and government offices in the hill state, particularly its capital Shimla, to prevent strikers from picketing the buildings.

Striking employees can be dismissed from service and jailed for between six months and two years under the NSA and EMSA. But strike leader Rameshwar Gripta announced that the protest would continue regardless.

The August 7 job reservation concession by New Delhi has sparked nationwide student protests, in which at least 25 people have died and several hundred have been wounded.

In Himachal Pradesh, ruled by the right-wing Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP), thousands of government employees joined the student protests, crippling the administration.

The BJP is an ally of Prime Minister Vishwanath Pratap Singh's National Front government, which has refused to dilute the job quota policy that it says will benefit millions of underprivileged.

LONDON (SEPT. 14) - Natural rubber prices were dull due to a lack of demand over the past week on the London physical market, but losses were prevented by uncertainties regarding the situation in the Gulf, traders said Friday.

The price for Ribbed Smoked Sheet No. 1 (RSS 1) for September delivery closed at 527.5 pounds per tonne against 525 pounds the previous Friday.

Current lack of interest and the prospect of a further fall in tyre industry offtake due to a slowdown in the automobile industry were responsible for underlying weakness, traders said. An expected pickup in demand in September failed to materialise.

However, slight support was provided by uncertainty over the situation in the Gulf, because extensive commodity purchases are likely to be made in the event of war, they added.

LONDON (SEPT. 14) - Demand for large tankers loading in the Middle-East Gulf continued unabated over the past week, despite high oil prices, London brokers E.A. Gibson said Friday in their latest report.

This activity reflected consumers' desire to replenish inventories, in fear of future disruption to supplies, they added.

Reported fixtures of large vessels in the Gulf amounted to 23 units of nearly 6.5 millions tonnes, and as a result rates improved. But demand for smaller vessels was very low.

The trend was hesitant out of West Africa, where rates drifted lower after a steady start, but made a recovery ahead of the week-end.

Conditions showed little change for crude carriers loading in the Mediterranean, but rates improved for clean carriers due to lack of tonnage.

An incrase in enquiry enabled shipowners in the Caribbean to obtain improved rates, but very little change occurred in the slow North Sea market.

East Berlin (SEPT. 14) - East German Prime Minister Lothar de Maziere Friday stripped Interior Minister Peter-Michael Diestel of responsibility for disbanding of the former Stasi secret police.

De Maziere replaced Diestel, under fire for alleged failure in the task, with interior ministry under-secretary, Eberhard Stief, a government spokesman said.

The move followed reports this week that several ministers of the present East German government had in the past worked for the former Communist regime's secret police.

One of them was alleged Thursday to be Environment Minister Karl-Hermann Steinberg.

Chairman of the East German parliamentary committee responsible for examining the Stasi past of politicians, Peter Hildebrand, said several of the present ministers were known to have had links with the secret police.

Hildebrand gave no names. Informed sources said a total of four ministers were involved.

After a meeting with de Maiziere, Steinberg agreed to contact the parliamentary investigating committee and to an eventual public statement by it. Similar investigations are to be made into accusations against other ministers.

Meanwhile, Diestel announced that more than 60 former Stasi officers till lately employed in East German ministries and other authorities have since been dismissed or suspended from their jobs.

Three-months metal was quoted at 2,088 dollars per ton in after-hours kerb trading, against 2,090 on the ring and 2,034 on Thursday.

But copper turned lower on weekend profit-taking, with the pound's firmer trend on foreign exchange markets adding to downward pressure in the sterling-quoted metal.

BUENOS AIRES (SEPT 14) - The World Bank will loan Argentina four billion dollars over four years to help finance the government's economic reform program, World Bank Vice President Moen Qureshi said here Friday.

The first tranche of the loan will be made available next month, Mr. Qureshi said.

The international banker said the government of President Carlos Menem had taken "very brave and decisive steps" to control inflation and described the government's economic reform efforts as "functioning well."

Thursday Mr. Qureshi met with Economic Minister Antonio Erman Gonzalez and several economists and business leaders.

ROME (SEPT. 14) - U.S. Secretary of State James Baker Friday arrived here for talks during which he is expected to ask for a stronger European Community and Italian envolvement in the Gulf region.

Baker, who is to confer Saturday with Italian Premier Giulio Andreotti, was welcomed at the airport by his Italian counterpart Gianni de Michelis. Italy currently holds the E.C. presidency.

Earlier, the government in Rome said it would send more warships and eight Tornado fighter jets to the Gulf to defend Italian ships already there and strenghten the economic boycott of Iraq.

Andreotti has repeatedly said Italy supported a peaceful solution of the Gulf crisis, which began when Iraq invaded Kuwait on August 2, thus prompting the U.S. and other nations to deploy troops in the region to prevent a possible Iraqi attack against Saudi Arabia.

Baker is to continue Saturday to Bonn, where he is due to discuss the Gulf crisis with West German offcials.

BELGRADE (SEPT. 14) - A civil war is looming in the Yugoslav region of Kosovo observers said here Friday following armed clashes between Albanians and police that left four dead and three injured.

Some 90 per cent of the population of Kosovo, a province of the eastern Yugoslav republic of Serbia, is Albanian. Kosovo is resisting Serbian authority and demanding independence.

In the latest violence early Friday, two ethnic Albanians were killed and a policeman badly injured when police tried to stop a car for an identity check and its occupants opened fire, the news agency Tanjug said.

The two were killed when police returned fire. The incident occurred on the road from Klina to Pristina, capital of Kosovo.

Two more ethnic Albanians were killed and two policemen injured early Thursday in a gun battle lasting nearly six hours in the village of Palatna, near Podujevo in northern Kosovo, a bastion of Albanian nationalism.

A police communique said 25 people suspected of opening fire on security forces were questioned. Police seized large quantities of arms and ammunition, radio gear and other "military equipment" during a search of the village.

The clash occurred as police were combing ethnic Albanian villages in Kosovo in search of illegal weapons possessed by Albanian nationalists.

On Monday, about 20 people were questioned and a large amount of weapons seized when a special police unit searched the nearby village of Trnava, near Podujevo, the newspaper Vecernje Novosti reported.

It said this followed the arrests in Slovenia of two ethnic Albanian arms traffickers from Trnava.

Ethnic tensions between Albanian nationalists and the Serbian authorities took a turn for the worse on July 2 when the Kosovo parliament proclaimed Kosovo's independence from Serbia and asked to be considered a full republic.

Three days later Serbia dissolved the parliament. But on September 7 it met in secret to adopt a "constitution for the Republic of Kosovo".

Serbian authorities consider Kosovo an integral part of Serbia, despite its overwhelmingly ethnic Albanian population. But the Albanian nationalists make no secret of their wish to be reunited with Albania, just across the border.

"We have lost all hope of finding a solution to the problems of Kosovo in the context of Yugoslavia," the writer Jussuf Buxhovi, secretary of the Democratic Union of Kosovo, told Agence France-Presse.

The union claims 700,000 members -- not much less than half the total 1.7 million population of ethnic Albanians in Kosovo.

Mr. Buxhovi maintained that the separation of Kosovo from Albania was "artificial", and that its reunification with the "mother country" was all the more likely since the Yugoslav federation "hardly exists any more".

The process of reform and democratisation in Albania would help this process, Mr. Buxhovi said.

The support of Kosovo's population for the Albanian nationalist cause was illustrated by a general strike in Kosovo on September 3 and a demonstration of several thousand people against the Serbian authorities on August 29.

The Serbian authorities of former communist party members are facing a general revival of nationalist and anti-communist sentiment.

Earlier this week, Serbian opposition leaders drew frantic applause at a mass rally in the Yugoslav capital when they threatened to boycott an election due to be held by the year-end unless they were given a share in organising it.

In more strains in Yugoslavia's fractious republics this week, police arrested 52 people in the central republic of Bosnia and Herzogovina to stop clashes between Serbs and Moslems.

LONDON (SEPT 14) - A week of International Cocoa Organisation (ICCO) talks were due to finish here Friday evening without taking any decision on a proposal to finance research and promotion of the product by sale of some of the organisation's stock cocoa.

Speaking ahead of the final council session here Friday, Peter Baron, the council's chairman, who proposed the scheme, said that the sale of ICCO stocks would not be on the agenda.

Earlier a spokesman for producer members of the ICCO had rejected the method of finance put forward in the proposal.

"We feel that the base for such finance (for the scheme) should take direct contributions from member governments", said Kuame N'Guessan, Ivory Coast delegate and producer spokesman.

Earlier this week, Mr. Baron proposed that 1,000 or 2,000 tonnes of the ICCO's stocks should be sold to finance cocoa promotion and genetic research.

His proposal is part of the ICCO's search for a new role since its market support operations collapsed in February 1988.

The ICCO is short of funds, and its 246,000-ton buffer stock is its only real asset.

Meanwhile the world cocoa market remains extremely depressed. The latest ICCO forecasts indicate that the amount supplied will exceed the amount demanded for the sixth year running this year, and that world cocoa stocks will reach 1.1 million tonnes by the end of 1990, equivalent to more than six months' consumption.

MOSCOW (SEPT. 14) - In what was seen as a diplomatic breakthrough, Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev received two Israeli ministers here Friday.

It was the first time a Kremlin leader has received top Israelis since Moscow broke diplomatic relations in 1967 in protest over the six-day war.

Finance Minister Izchak Moda'i and Energy Minister Juval Ne'eman are in Moscow at the invitation of the Soviet Chamber of Trade, for talks with the Finance Ministry and Academy of Sciences, Foreign Ministry spokesman Gennady Gerasimov said.

Sources in Jerusalem said the two are expected to discuss a plan by U.S. Jewish millionaire businessman Armand Hammer to develop a Soviet-Israeli civil airliner with U.S.-made engines.

Gerasimov, announcing the visit by the two ministers, also said that Moscow was taking up ''contacts of a new kind with Saudi Arabia''. He did not elaborate.

DAMASCUS (SEPT 14) - Foreign Minister Farouk al-Shara said Friday at the end of a visit by U.S. Secretary of State James Baker that Syria would investigate the Lockerbie bombing.

"We have agreed to follow the Lockerbie incident and we made it clear that if there was hard evidence against Jibril or any other Palestinian group staying in Syria, those responsible would be brought to trial," he said.

Mr. Baker said at a joint press conference before his departure that Syria and the United States differed on the "sufficiency of the evidence" after the explosion of the Pan Am jet over Lockerbie, Scotland, in December 1988.

Washington suspects the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine-General

Command, led by Ahmad Jibril and based in Damascus, was responsible for the mid-air explosion that killed 270 people.

Mr. Baker, who held more than four hours of talks with President Hafez al-Assad, said the United States had a "real problem" with Syria on the issue of terrorism.

"Our policy cannot and will never be immoral. We have close relations only with countries which share our values," Mr. Baker said. Syria is on a U.S. State Department list of countries said to support terrorism.

The Syrian foreign minister said: "We hope that our relations will improve to serve the interests of the two countries, and the peace and stability of the region."

Mr. Baker said that apart from terrorism, his talks with President Assad focussed on cooperation in the Gulf crisis.

"We talked at length about the Gulf crisis and about ways in which we can cooperate in order to implement the U.N. resolutions for an unconditional withdrawal of Iraqi troops from Kuwait," he said.

"We have a common goal and a common interest in this case."

Syria has deployed 3,000 troops in Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates as part of the U.S.-led military build-up in the Gulf to counter the Iraqi takeover of Kuwait, and will dispatch another 15,000, a Western diplomat said.

MANILA (SEPT 14) - The Philippines could lose 63.08 million dollars in overseas workers remittances this year alone due to the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait, Press Secretary Tomas Gomez said here Friday.

The statement also noted there were some 60,000 Filipino contract workers in Kuwait during the August 2 invasion and that their return to this country may increase the unemployment rate, presently 10.7 percent.

Mr. Gomez noted that in 1989, the Philippines officially received 973 million dollars in remittances from overseas workers. About twice the official amount is believed remitted through unofficial sources, such as couriers.

Mr. Gomez said despite the Iraqi invasion, the government was still hoping that about 1.041 billion dollars would be remitted home this year.

He said that some 7,500 Filipinos had already been evacuated from the Gulf adding that the Philippines was eyeing Taiwan, Hong Kong, Japan and Saudi Arabia to absorb at least 80,000 Filipino workers displaced by the Gulf crisis.

With this in mind, the government has launched a "job exchange program for displaced overseas workers," which will pinpoint alternative jobs for the workers.

MOSCOW, (SEPT 14) - Israeli Finance Minister Yitzhak Modai and Energy Minister Yuvai Neeman held talks here Friday with Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev, Soviet television reported.

It was the first meeting at such a level between the two countries in 23 years. Observers said it was a gesture on the part of the Soviet president linked to the Gulf crisis.

Moscow broke off diplomatic relations with Israel in 1967 following the Six-Day War, and has made their restoration conditional on Israeli acceptance of an international conference on the Middle East.

But contacts between Israel and the Soviet Union have been growing in recent years and an Israeli consular delegation has been working in Moscow for more than a year.

The Israeli ministers, who arrived here from Vienna Friday, are visiting the Soviet Union at the invitation of the Soviet Chamber of Commerce and Industry.

Soviet television, in a brief report with no pictures, said the two sides discussed "questions of mutual interest".

Also on Friday, a delegation of four Israeli foreign ministry officials held talks at the Soviet foreign ministry.

Those talks were considered preparatory to a forthcoming meeting between Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze and his Israeli counterpart, David Levy, at the United Nations in New York at the end of September.

An informed Israeli source said Friday's meetings had been set up by a Soviet Jew who emigrated to Israel, identified as M. I. Zentsov.

The source said the intermediary interviewed Mr. Gorbachev for a book he was writing. The Soviet news agency Tass identified Mr. Zentsov as an adviser to the Israeli ministry of energy.

Earlier this month, Mr. Shevardnadze called for an international conference on the Middle East that would first focus on Iraq's invasion of Kuwait but subsequently deal with the Israeli-Arab conflict.

He then expressed a wish to hold talks with the Israeli government up to ministerial level.

Israel reacted quickly with an official refusal to take part in any international conference dealing with Israeli affairs. The United States also rejected any link between the Gulf crisis and the Palestinian issue.

The Soviet Union has recognised the proclamation of a Palestinian state, and given official recognition to the Palestinian Liberation Organisation at embassy level.

AMMAN (SEP 14) - Nayef Hawatmeh, Secretary General of the Democratic Front for the Liberation of Palestine (Dflp), warned Friday that the coming phase in the Gulf crisis could result in ''the changing of the geo-political map'' in the region, and warned of Israeli involvement in a possible confrontation.

Hawatmeh, who arrived earlier in the day on an official visit to Amman for the first time in 20 years, called for convening an international peace conference that would link the Gulf crisis with the Palestine problem.

''We need a broad-based international conference that would group the Gulf problem with the Palestinian problem, to solve these conflicts within the international law and resolutions,'' Hawatmeh told a press conference.

He warned that U.S. and Nato forces deployed in the Gulf ''did not come for a picnic...they are here on a predetermined plan to spread their hegemony on the region and its resources''.

He said Israel ''has massed troops'' near the Um Qais area in the northern part of Jordan ''in preparation for a possible attack on Iraq from Jordanian territory''.

Hawatmeh said this Israeli deployment of forces ''is in preparation for an Israeli involvement in the second phase of confrontation in the Gulf.''

He explained that the first step would be ''an American air strike against Iraq accompanied by an assault of ground forces to invade Kuwait and then to open bridgeheads within Iraqi territory.

Hawatmeh did not reveal the source of his information, but said the Palestinian resistance ''would fight alongside the Jordanian and Iraqi armies and peoples to repel such an Israeli assault''.

PARIS (SEPT. 13) - Kuwait's representative to the United Nations conference on the Least Developed Countries (LDCs) called Friday for the expulsion of Iraq from international organizations and denounced the "violation" by Iraqi troops of Western embassies in Kuwait City.

Ambassador Tareq Razzouqi told a plenary session of the parley that President Saddam Hussein's regime "does not represent the Iraqi people."

Delegates of Qatar, Saudi Arabia, Bahrain and the United Arab Emirates (UAE) also denounced the latest Iraqi action, in particular the invasion of the French ambassador's residence in Kuwait City.

They were speaking in a debate on a report by the conference's credentials committee which rejected an Iraqi bid to have the Kuwaiti government-in-exile and Israel ousted from their seats.

The U.S. delegate, Laurance Bond, said there was "no basis" for questioning the "legitimate right" of either of these states to take part in the conference.

MOSCOW (SEPT 14) - A plenary session of the Soviet Communist Party central committee will be held early next month to focus on the transition to a market economy, the official Soviet news agency Tass reported Friday.

It said the meeting had been decided by the party's political bureau during an "animated" discussion Thursday on economic reform.

Tass said the meeting would help the party establish its position amid "intense" research on how to embark on radical reform of the Soviet economy, and it would also discuss ways to protect workers during this reform.

WASHINGTON (SEPT. 14) - U.S., British and French ships with nuclear capabilities participating in the multinational naval deployment in the Gulf region are carrying about 450 nuclear weapons, according to the ecological-pacifist organization Greenpeace.

In a statement released Friday, Greenpeace said three U.S. aircraft carriers -- the USS Saratoga, Independence and Kennedy -- patrolling respectively the Red Sea, the Sea of Oman and the Mediterranean Sea, are each carrying 100 nuclear bombs or nuclear anti-submarine charges.

The group said the French aircraft carrier Clemenceau was transporting between eight to 18 nuclear bombs and medium-range ground-to-air missiles.

Two British vessels, the destroyer Gloucester and the frigate Battleaxe, were each equipped with two to four nuclear anti-submarine missiles, the group said.

The U.S. battleship Wisconsin and several U.S. cruisers and destroyers are also equipped with a total of about 50 Tomahawk cruise missiles with nuclear capability, the statement said.

In addition, according to Jane's Fighting Ships, the Soviet cruiser Udaloy is fitted with eight 533-millimeter torpedoes with nuclear capability and eight SS-N-14 missile launchers that could also be equipped with a nuclear warhead.

RIYADH (SEPT. 14) - King Fahd of Saudi Arabia and Pakistani Prime Minister Ghulam Mustafa Jatoi discussed the Gulf crisis in the western city of Jeddah on Friday, Saudi officials said.

The Saudi foreign minister, Prince Saudi al-Faisal, and his Pakistani counterpart Sahabzada Yaqub Khan also took part in the talks.

Mr. Jatoi, who attended Friday prayers in the Moslem holy city of Medina, was also expected to visit Bahrain and the United Arab Emirates on his first trip abroad since last month's change of government in Pakistan.

Pakistan has condemned the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait, demanded restoration of Kuwait's independence and backed United Nations resolutions on sanctions against Baghdad.

Islamabad has also decided to send more than 5,000 troops for the defence of Saudi Arabia.

JOHANNESBURG (SEPT 14) - Black nationalist leader Nelson Mandela told a 2,000-strong congregation at a synagogue here Friday he hoped Jews would play a meaningful role in building a new South Africa as a home for all.

Invited to the Temple Shalom to dispel the perception that the ANC's support for the Palestine Liberation Organisation (PLO) amounts to anti-Semitism, Mr. Mandela compared the Nazi execution of six million Jews to the forced removal of four million black South Africans under apartheid.

The African National Congress (ANC), of which Mr. Mandela is deputy president, "condemns all forms of racism including any manifestation of anti-Semitism," he said, pointing out that many Arab countries had withheld support for the ANC because it accepted Jews as members.

"The rich history and traditions of the South African Jewish community has much to contribute to the process of transformation now underway," he said.

Asking his audience to listen attentively, he said: "If Zionism means the right of Israel to seize territories and deny the Palestinian people their right to self-determination, and suppress by brute force their right to self-expression, then we condemn Zionism in the strongest terms.

"But if Zionism means the right of the Jewish people to live in secure boundaries ... to live in a land that affords them the right to fully express their culture, religion and tradition, then we consider that a healthy movement. This is indeed what we understand Zionism to be."

He went on: "The people of Palestine also have the right to nationhood in the land of their birth.

"Our shared experience with the PLO of racial intolerance, forced removals, demolition of homes, detention, torture and repeated massacres of course results in firm bonds of friendship."

Calling for bridge-building both in the Middle East and South Africa, he said: "We hope that the Jewish community looks to South Africa as their home, their future, a country to which they belong as a right.

"We believe that South Africa belongs to all who live in it, black and white, irrespective of race, colour or creed."

To warm applause he said: "We have every confidence that individually and as a community you will play a very meaningful role in building a democratic South Africa."

Rabbi Adi Assabi warned his congregation to think very hard before branding anyone an anti-Semite, and urged the Israeli government to invite Mr. Mandela to Israel.

JOHANNESBURG (SEPT 14) - South Africa faces "a full scale civil war" if the country's worst-ever wave of violence continues unabated, African National Congress (ANC) deputy president Nelson Mandela warned here Friday.

At the end of a day during which he had crisis talks in Pretoria with President Frederik de Klerk on the killings which have left well over 700 dead around Johannesburg in the past month, Mr. Mandela told a 2,000-strong congregation at a synagogue here: "We are on the very threshhold of freedom.

"This moment holds great possibilities but also very great dangers. On the eve of real negotiations forces determined to wreck the peace process have implemented a strategy of destabilisation which has resulted in the very real and terrifying prospect of a full-scale civil war breaking out," he said.

"There is no doubt in my mind that the police and sectors of the government are working with a variety of vigilante forces including Inkatha," Zulu leader Chief Mangosuthu Buthelezi's party.

Inkatha supporters, mainly Zulu migrant workers, have been accused of using the single-sex hostels in the townships as springboards for attacks on the locals.

He recalled the ANC's decision in its historic second round of preliminary talks with the government on August 6 to suspend its 29-year-old campaign of violence, but warned: "We have not forfeited our right to self-defence."

"If the strongest measures are not taken against the perpetrators of this violence, including elements of the South African Police, we will be forced to reconsider our present policies," Mr. Mandela said.

He had earlier told a media conference at ANC headquarters here that Mr. De Klerk would unveil a "comprehensive plan" Monday aimed at bringing troublemakers to book.

"One of the significant statements he made was that the government is convinced that this is no longer a clash between black and black, it is no longer a clash between Inkatha and the ANC or between Zulus and Xhosas. There is some hidden hand here, which the government intends to track down."

OTTAWA (SEPT. 14) - The Canadian government announced Friday it is sending a squadron of Cf-18 aircraft to the Gulf to support two destroyers and a supply vessel already sent there.

Prime Minister Brian Mulroney said it would mean between 400 and 500 more personnel joining the 900 crew aboard the naval vessels, which were crossing the Mediterranean and would enter ''active service'' Saturday.

Opposition Liberal Party spokesman Lloyd Axworthy hit out at the decision to commit more Canadian forces, saying the ''decision to escalate'' had come not from the United Nations but from Washington.

Canada should instead concentrate on a political settlement of the Gulf crisis he said, warning that Iraqi President Saddam Husein ''is not going to disappear in a puff of smoke''.

WASHINGTON (SEPT. 14) - President George Bush sent to Congress Friday a bill that would forgive some seven billion dollars -- more than half the amount owed -- of Latin American and Caribbean debt to the U.S. Government.

Mr. Bush was also preparing a measure that would lower trade barriers with Mexico. That measure could be submitted Monday when administration trade officials testify before the House-Senate Joint Economic Committee.

The bill to forgive much of the Latin American and Caribbean debt totalling 12 billion dollars also provides for creating a special fund to step up Western investment in that region.

The bill would earmark 100 million dollars over the next five years to the Inter-American Development Bank to provide services to help western companies to invest in Latin America and the Caribbean.

The measure would be the first concrete step of Mr. Bush's "Americas Initiative Act" announced in June. It was aimed at developing free enterprise in Latin America and trade between the Americas.

"We believe these measures together will boost trade, investment and growth in our hemisphere, Mr. Bush said.

"This legislation is good for our neighbors, it's good for our hemisphere and It believe it is very good for the United States," he added.

Mr. Bush was also pushing for approval of his bill to lower trade barriers with Mexico in time for his November visit with Mexican President Carlos Salinas in Mexico City, said officials who asked not to be identified.

Mexico, with the world's eighth largest oil reserves, could step up its production to offset the shortfall caused by the Gulf crisis with a free-trade pact with the United States.

WASHINGTON (SEPT 14) - The United States Friday called for an immediate end to the bloody violence in South Africa and urged all parties to stop blaming each other.

"We see the violence of the past few days in South Africa, particularly the incident on a commuter train (near Johhanesburg Thursday) in which at least 26 people, were killed as a horrible tragedy which the parties should bring to a halt immediately," said State Department Richard Boucher.

"It is absolutely imperative, in our view, that all parties put political considerations aside and work together to develop a strategy for ending the violence," he told a press briefing.

The violence in South Africa's black townships is pitting migrant workers who support conservative Chief Mangosuthu Buthelezi's Zulu Inkatha Movement against followers of Nelson Mandela's African National Congress.

The ANC and townships residents have charged that the violence is being instigated by white extremists collaborating with Zulu migrant workers.

Asked for comment, Mr. Boucher said the cause of the violence was deep-rooted and called on all parties to stop blaming each other and to resolve their differences through negotiations.

KARLSRUHE, West Germany (SEPT. 14) - West German police have discovered in Hanover what they believe is a safe house used by members of an Irish Republican Army (IRA) team which shot dead two Australians in the Netherlands last May, prosecutors here said Friday.

According to the prosecutors, the apartment was used as a hideout by the IRA gunmen who killed the two Australian tourists in the belief that they were off-duty British soldiers.

The IRA acknowledged after the shooting that it had been a case of mistaken identity and expressed its regrets.

The underground organization launched a campaign against British servicemen stationed in West Germany in 1987.

ROME (SEPT. 14) - Hungarian Prime Minister Jozsef Antall, who is on an official visit to Italy, on Friday confirmed that his country intended to leave the Warsaw Pact military alliance "before the end of 1991."

"Before next June the Russians will leave Hungary and our sovereignty will be total; we are ready to renew our historic links with the centre of Europe," Mr. Antall was quoted as telling Italian Prime Minister Guilio Andreotti.

A spokesman for Mr. Andreotti also said the two sides had signed a 10-year industrial and technological cooperation agreement, under which Hungary is to gain "preferential" access to Italy, notably in the fields of investment and patent protection and the creation of joint ventures.

The spokesman added that Mr. Antall had reaffirmed Hungary's desire to become an associate member of the European Economic Community before the end of next year, with a view to starting talks on full membership, if possible by January 1993.

Italy currently holds the revolving presidency of EEC institutions.

WASHINGTON (SEPT. 14) - The United States Friday called on the Salvadoran rebels to agree to an immediate ceasefire as proposed by the San Salvador Government in on-going U.N.-mediated talks in San Jose.

State Department spokesman Richard Boucher said U.N.-mediated talks that resumed Thursday "offer the best chances in years to end the war and we're confident they can succeed if both sides ... are flexible and serious."

Mr. Boucher also accused rebels of the leftist Farabundo Marti Liberation Front (FMLN) of preparing a new offensive in their decade-long war against the U.S.-backed government.

"We urge the FMLN to respond positively to the (Salvadoran) government call for an immediate ceasefire and to permit the U.N. mediator to put forth compromise proposals as both sides agreed in their initial session," he added.

Showing little hope of any breakthrough in this latest round of talks, Colonel Mauricio Vargas, who represents the army at the negociations, warned that "lack of progress ... could lead to increased warfare."

The negotiations began a year ago, then were halted in November by a major guerrilla offensive that left thousands dead and injured. Talks were reconvened in April.

The guerrillas have refused to lay down their weapons until the Salvadoran army and police forces are phased out and replaced by civilian-controlled police, something the government of rightist President Alfredo Cristiani has refused.

Lima (SEPT. 14) EFE - Peruvian President Alberto Fujimori has said his country would resume payments on its dlrs 600 million World Bank debt on October 1, in a move aimed at making peace with its disgruntled international creditors.

Fujimori made the announcement late Thursday following a meeting with the World Bank's vice president for Latin America and the Caribbean, Shahid Husain.

The president said his talks with Husain were positive and would +lead to normal relations between Peru and the World Bank+.

Fujimori did not give details of the payment plan.

Five years ago, former president Alan Garcia enraged the international financial community by declaring that payments on Peru's foreign debt would be restricted to just 10 per cent of export earnings.

As a result, relations with the Inter-American Development Bank and the World bank deteriorated and the International Monetary Fund declared Peru ineligible for financial aid.

Peru's total foreign debt currently stands at some dlrs 19 billion.

Fujimori Thursday also said he did not rule out new negotiations with the United States over a dlrs 36 million aid package to help Peru fight the drug trade if Washington allowed Peru to use some of the funds to combat leftist rebels.

On Wednesday Fujimori had said his nearly two-month-old government would not sign the anti-drug accord which he dubbed +inconvenient+ because it did not take into account the role of leftist rebel groups in the drug trade.

Peru is the world's largest producer of coca leaf, the raw material for the manufacture of cocaine, and Maoist +Shining Path+ guerrillas are suspected of helping traffickers battle government forces.

"Everyone in the region knows that the problem is not only one of drug trafficking but also terrorism," Fujimori said Thursday.

He said U.S. Ambassador to Peru Anthony Quainton informed him that the deadline for signing the accord was last Friday, but added that he hoped negotiations of such a nature would be given more flexibility.

Seoul (SEPT. 14) EFE - At least 106 people were killed and another 40 went missing in the torrential rains and floods that swept through South Korea earlier this week, officials said Friday.

The South Korean Disaster Relief Center said Friday that an estimated 160,000 people were made homeless during the flooding in the South Korean capital of Seoul and nearby towns.

The damage to homes, public buildings and highways has been estimated at dlrs 240 million.

Parts of Seoul were still without electricity and running water Friday, two days after the rainstorm ended.

South Korean authorities have mobilized more than 300,000 people, mainly soldiers and civil servants, to clean up the city, restore order and repair the damage caused by the three-day rainstorm.

Santiago de Compostela, Spain (SEPT. 14) EFE - The northwestern region of Galicia was cut off by road from the rest of Spain Friday for the second day running as thousands of farmers blocked major highways with tractors to protest low milk prices.

Traffic was scarce in most Galician cities and no food supplies reached local markets.

At least four people were reported injured in clashes Friday between angry motorists and the farmers, who are demanding a near 30 per cent raise in the price of milk and government subsidies to the sector.

Seven people were injured late Thursday when a car collided with tractors blocking a road near Santiago de Compostela.

The only major Galician highway open to traffic Friday was the one linking the southern province of Pontevedra with Portugal, while access to the region's airports was also made difficult by the blockade.

MOSCOW (SEPT 14) EFE - The parliament of the Soviet republic of Latvia has called for the expulsion of Iraqi military officials training in the republic under a Soviet-Iraqi cooperation agreement, the daily Komsomolskaya Pravda reported Friday.

Referring to Iraq's August 2 invasion of Kuwait, the parliament passed a motion late Thursday strongly "protesting the presence in (Latvian) territory of soldiers from the Iraqi Army which is an aggressor."

Komsomolskaya Pravda cited Soviet military officials in the Latvian capital of Riga as saying the Iraqis, along with other foreign military officials, were receiving training on the maintenance of warship defensive equipment.

Some 140 Soviet military advisers are still in Iraq under the cooperation agreement between Baghdad and Moscow.

The French government summoned the Iraqi ambassador in Paris to demand an explanation of the incident which a ministry spokesman termed "an intolerable attack on the Vienna Convention."

MALAGA, SPAIN (SEPT 14) EFE - Spanish veterinarians are investigating 18 recent mystery horse deaths in the south of the country to determine if they are linked to the deadly African equine fever which has threatened equestrian events at the Barcelona Olympic Games in 1992, police said Friday.

Among the dead horses were five which died suddenly in the province of Malaga on Thursday night and Friday morning.

The majority of the dead horses were colts which had not been vaccinated against equine fever although vaccinated full-grown horses appeared among the dead, the Andalucian Commission for Agriculture and Fishing said Friday.

The first of the recent deaths was reported at the beginning of this month.

As the cause of deaths is still unclear, local officials have intensified their efforts to vaccinate colts against the fever and have sent the bodies of the dead horses to Madrid for further analysis.

Meanwhile, the Olympic Organizing Committee is to present a report Monday to the International Olympic Committee saying that equine fever is under control and that there is no threat of a new outbreak.

The conditional ban on Olympic horse events at the Barcelona games expected to be lifted after Monday's meeting.

In July, Spanish authorities presented the members of the International Equine Federation with a report on their attempts to eradicate the disease, which seemed to show complete success.

However, previous attempts to eradicate the fever after some 200 horses died in 1987 failed as more cases of the disease appeared in 1988 and last year.

The fever is transmitted by mosquitoes and is believed to have crossed into Spain from North Africa.

Sugar, olive oil, flour, meat and other basic foods have already been rationed to offset shortages resulting from the U.N. sanctions.

Brasilia (SEPT. 14) EFE - The Brazilian government is seeking to increase from 16 to 30 the number of financial institutions that will take part in debt rescheduling talks next month.

Finance Minister Zelia Cardoso de Mello made the announcement Thursday, after signing a letter of intent with the International Monetary Fund (IMF) to secure a dlrs two billion loan.

The letter said Brazil would open an escrow account and begin setting aside interest owed to commercial banks, although it made no promise that the government would resume interest payments on its dlrs 114 billion foreign debt.

Brazil suspended interest payments in June 1989 and will not begin servicing its debt again until it reaches a new rescheduling agreement, the economy minister said.

Rescheduling talks are set to begin in October with Brazil's bank creditor committee, which includes representatives of the 16 largest creditors, but the government will try to include 14 additional financial institutions with smaller stakes in Brazil's debt.

Observers said the move is aimed at making the talks easier, since the smaller lenders have proved more flexible in previous negotiations.

Of Brazil's dlrs 114.7 billion foreign debt, drls 72.1 billion is owed to private banks, dlrs 6.5 billion is held by foreign branches of Brazilian banks and the rest is owed to international financial organizations like the World Bank and the countries that make up the Paris Club.

Brazil's largest private creditor is the U.S.-based Citicorp (dlrs 3.4 billion), followed by Chase Manhattan (dlrs 2.3 billion) and Bank of America (dlrs 1.8 billion).

As of July 31, Brazil owed dlrs eight billion in back interest to private banks and dlrs two billion to the Paris Club.

The debt rescheduling talks in October will take place simultaneously with private banks, the IMF and the Paris Club.

Since taking office in June, President Fernando Collor de Mello has imposed severe austerity measures aimed at slashing inflation and getting the debt-laden economy back in the good graces of the international financial community.

Madrid (SEPT. 14) EFE - The Spanish government is to send an Airbus jet to Jordan next week to evacuate Filipinos, Egyptians and Pakistanis who have fled to the country following the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait last month, diplomatic sources said Friday.

The Filipinos will make their way home from Karachi by other means, the sources said.

The Airbus is expected to leave Monday, the sources said.

Tens of thousand of refugees, mostly migrant workers who held jobs in oil-rich Iraq and Kuwait before the August 2 invasion, are living in squalid conditions in makeshift camps in Jordan.

LISBON (SEPT. 14) EFE - Portuguese intelligence services have evidence that terrorist groups backed by Iraqi President Saddam Hussein are plotting attacks on U.S. interests in Spain and Portugal, Portuguese press reported Friday.

The daily Publico reported that Portuguese authorities were investigating five people travelling on Moroccan passports who entered Portugal during the last two weeks of August.

The magazine O Jornal said that five followers of Abu Nidal, head of what is considered by Western intelligence services as one of the most dangerous Palestinians groups, were currently in the southern Algarve region, in southern Portugal, to carry out attacks on U.S. interests in Portugal and Spain.

O Jornal also reported that the five were carrying Moroccan passports and were identified in the northern coastal city of Oporto after stealing a car.

The Portuguese police are keeping tabs on a dozen people from the Iraqi embassy in Lisbon and the around 150 Iraqis residing in Portugal, Publico said.

An Interior Ministry spokesman said the police had been on alert since the Gulf crisis erupted six weeks ago and that "all of the necessary measures have been taken" to prevent terrorist activity.

ISLAMABAD (SEPT. 14) XINHUA - PAKISTAN HAS DECIDED TO SUSPEND OIL SUPPLY EVERY FRIDAY FROM TODAY IN ORDER TO SAVE ENERGY, AN OFFICIAL SOURCE HERE SAID.

THE DECISION WAS MADE AT A MEETING AT THE OFFICE OF THE OIL COMPANIES ADVISORY COMMITTEE IN KARACHI THURSDAY. IT REQUESTED THE CUSTOMERS TO COOPERATE WITH THE GOVERNMENT.

UNDER THE DECISION, ALL PETROL PUMPS SITUATED WITHIN THE MUNICIPAL AND CANTONMENT LIMITS WILL REMAIN CLOSED ON FRIDAYS FROM SEPTEMBER 14.

OIL PRICES WERE AVERAGELY FIXED AT ABOUT 7.5 RUPEES (ABOUT 0.3 U.S. DOLLAR) PER LITER IN PAKISTAN. THE GOVERNMENT HAS SO FAR NOT RAISED THE PRICE BUT APPEALED TO ALL INDUSTRIAL AND COMMERCIAL UNITS AND CONSUMERS TO USE THE ENERGY AS ECONOMICALLY AS POSSIBLE TO COPE WITH THE INTERNATIONAL OIL CRISIS CAUSED BY THE GULF TENSION.

EARLIER REPORTS SAID PAKISTAN HAS TO INCREASE IMPORTS TO 60,000 BARRELS OF OIL A DAY FROM SAUDI ARABIA TO MEET THE SHORTAGE RESULTING FROM THE STOPPAGE OF OIL SUPPLY FROM KUWAIT. IT IS EXPECTED TO SUFFER A LOSS OF 1 BILLION U.S. DOLLARS TO BALANCE THE PAYMENTS BECAUSE OF THE GULF CRISIS.

PAKISTAN'S DAILY OIL REQUIREMENTS ARE ABOUT 200,000 BARRELS, OF WHICH, 60,000 BARRELS ARE PRODUCED BY PAKISTAN ITSELF.

BEFORE KUWAIT'S FALL ON AUGUST 2, 60,000 BARRELS WERE IMPORTED FROM KUWAIT, 40,000 BARRELS FROM SAUDI ARABIA, 10,000 BARRELS FROM IRAN, 10,000 BARRELS FROM UNITED ARAB EMIRATES (UAE) AND 20,000 BARRELS FROM OTHER COUNTRIES.

BAGHDAD (SEPT. 14) XINHUA - IRAQ WILL BEGIN BREAD RATIONING FROM SATURDAY THE RULING BAATH PARTY NEWSPAPER "AL-THAWRA" REPORTED TODAY.

THE MINISTRY OF TRADE HAS ISSUED AN ORDER ASKING ALL BAKERIES AND BREAD SHOPS TO OBSERVE THE RATIONING SYSTEM, UNDER WHICH EACH IRAQI IS ENTITLED TO SIX KILOGRAMS OF WHEAT FLOUR EACH MONTH, IN THE FORM OF FLOUR OR BREAD.

IRAQIS MUST PRESENT THEIR BREAD COUPONS TO DESIGNATED BREAD SHOPS TO RECEIVE THEIR ALLOCATIONS, THE PAPER SAID.

IRAQ HAS ALSO ORDERED A RATIONING SYSTEM FOR OTHER BASIC FOOD ITEMS SUCH AS RICE, SUGAR, TEA AND OIL.

RATIONING COUPONS ISSUED IN IRAQ WOULD ENABLE EACH PERSON TO HAVE A MONTHLY ALLOCATION OF 1.5 KILOGRAMS OF RICE, 1 KILOGRAM OF SUGAR, 100 GRAMS OF TEA AND ONE-HALF KILOGRAM OF OIL.

THE NEW SYSTEM FOLLOWED THE U.N.-IMPOSED ECONOMIC AND TRADE EMBARGO AGAINST IRAQ FOR ITS INVASION OF KUWAIT EARLY LAST MONTH. THE EMBARGO BARS THE IMPORT OF GOODS FOR IRAQ AS WELL AS ITS EXPORT OF OIL, ITS CHIEF SOURCE OF REVENUE.

THE IRAQI GOVERNMENT ISSUED A DECREE LAST WEEK, STIPULATING THAT ANYONE WITHHOLDING FOOD COMMODITIES FROM MARKETPLACE OR CHARGING HIGHER THAN NORMAL PRICES FOR SCARCE FOOD WILL FACE JAIL TERMS OF UP TO 15 YEARS.

NEW DELHI (SEPT. 14) XINHUA - OPPORTUNE RAINS IN INDIA HAS BRIGHTENED THE PROSPECTS OF A BUMPER CROP, AND A RECORD PRODUCTION OF FOODGRAINS IS EXPECTED THIS YEAR, ACCORDING TO OFFICIAL SOURCES.

THE PRODUCTION IS EXPECTED TO BE HIGHER THAN IN 1989-90, WHICH WITNESSED A RECORD PRODUCTION OF 172.50 MILLION TONNES, THE SOURCES SAID.

THE FOODGRAINS PRODUCTION TARGET FOR 1990-91 HAS BEEN FIXED AT 176.50 MILLION TONNES. THE YEAR IS ALSO LIKELY TO WITNESS A RECORD PRODUCTION OF SUGARCANE AND COTTON AND A GOOD CROP OF PULSES AND COARSE CEREALS LIKE MAIZE AND JOWAR (ALSO CALLED INDIAN MILLET), THE SOURCES SAID.

RICE PRODUCTION IN THE CURRENT KHARIF (SUMMER) SEASON IS EXPECTED TO BE 65 MILLION TONNES, TWO MILLION TONNES MORE THAN THE EARLIER RECORD, MAINLY BECAUSE OF VERY GOOD RAINFALL IN ALL RICE GROWING AREAS.

THE PROSPECTS FOR PULSES ARE ALSO VERY GOOD DUE TO ADEQUATE RAINS IN THE PULSES GROWING AREAS INCLUDING THOSE OF MADHYA PRADESH, MAHARASHTRA AND UTTAR PRADESH.

IT COULD BE A REPEAT PERFORMANCE OF 1989-90 IN COTTON WHEN THE COUNTRY HAD A RECORD PRODUCTION OF 11.5 MILLION BALES. THE AREA UNDER THE CROP WAS REPORTED TO BE 6.7 MILLION HECTARES AND THERE HAS BEEN NO REPORT SO FAR ABOUT ANY INCIDENCE OF PESTS AND DISEASES.

NEW DELHI (SEPT. 14) XINHUA - THE WORLD BANK IS CONSIDERING EMERGENCY ASSISTANCE FOR INDIA AND SOME OTHER COUNTRIES TO ENABLE THEM TO MEET THE CHALLENGE THAT HAS ARISEN TO THEIR ECONOMIES IN THE WAKE OF THE GULF CRISIS.

THE BANK SOURCES WERE QUOTED BY LOCAL PRESS REPORTS TODAY AS SAYING THAT ITS STAFF IS CURRENTLY ASSESSING THE IMPACT OF THE DEVELOPMENTS ON A COUNTRY-BY-COUNTRY BASIS AND ITS REPORT WILL BE PRESENTED TO THE BANK'S ANNUAL MEETING LATER THIS MONTH.

LOCAL PRESS REPORTS CLAIMED INDIA'S ANNUAL OIL IMPORT BILL WOULD GO UP BY 2.4 BILLION U.S. DOLLARS AS A RESULT OF THE CRISIS IN THE GULF.

BESIDES, THE SANCTIONS WOULD ADVERSELY AFFECT INDIA'S EXPORTS. PROJECTED EXPORTS FROM INDIA TO IRAQ WERE OF THE ORDER OF THREE BILLION DOLLARS IN THE PAST DECADE. THE CURRENT YEAR'S LOSS ON THIS COUNT IS EXPECTED TO BE AROUND 400 BILLION DOLLARS.

INDIA WILL ALSO SUFFER A LOSS OF REMITTANCES FROM ITS NATIONALS IN THE GULF TO THE EXTENT OF 400 MILLION DOLLARS PER YEAR.

IN ADDITION, INDIA HAS TO BEAR THE EXPENSES OF BRINGING THEIR NATIONALS BACK HOME AND HELP IN THEIR REHABILITATION.

IT WAS REPORTED THAT THERE WERE 200,000 INDIAN NATIONALS IN KUWAIT BEFORE THE IRAQ AGGRESSION.

COLOMBO (SEPT. 14) XINHUA - SRI LANKAN PRESIDENT RANASINGHE PREMADASA TODAY APPEALED TO HEADS OF FOREIGN MISSIONS HERE TO PROVIDE MATERIAL AND FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE IN WHATEVER WAY THEY COULD TO THE CHALLENGE SRI LANKA IS FACING AS A RESULT OF THE GULF CRISIS.

ADDRESSING THE HEADS OF DIPLOMATIC MISSIONS IN COLOMBO, PREMADASA, WHO IS NOW PERSONALLY LOOKING INTO THE IMMEDIATE REPATRIATION OF SRI LANKANS STRANDED IN THE MIDDLE EAST AFTER THE IRAQI INVASION OF KUWAIT, SOUGHT THE ASSISTANCE OF ALL COUNTRIES TO HELP BRING BACK THOSE SRI LANKANS.

HE POINTED OUT THAT MORE EFFORTS AND RESOURCES WOULD BE NEEDED AT THIS STAGE OF REHABILITATION.

THE PRESIDENT SAID THAT SRI LANKA'S PROBLEMS CAUSED BY THE GULF SITUATION IN FINANCIAL AND MATERIAL TERMS WERE CRITICAL.

HE NOTED THAT THERE WERE 100,000 SRI LANKANS IN KUWAIT WHEN IT WAS OCCUPIED BY IRAQ ON AUGUST 2, MOST OF THEM WERE HOUSEMAIDS.

SO FAR NEARLY 4,500 LANKANS WHO HAD BEEN WORKING IN KUWAIT HAVE BEEN BROUGHT BACK. THOUSANDS OF SRI LANKANS STRANDED IN THE MIDDLE EAST HAVE YET TO BE FLOWN BACK.

INFORMED SOURCES SAID THAT PRESIDENT PREMADASA THURSDAY TOOK UPON HIMSELF PERSONALLY THE TASK OF HELPING THE STRANDED SRI LANKANS IN KUWAIT.

HE HAS APPOINTED A TOP LEVEL COMMITTEE OF REPATRIATION COMPRISING SENIOR GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS. THE TASK OF THE COMMITTEE WOULD BE TO WORK OUT THE SOLUTIONS TO THE PROBLEMS OF THE STRANDED SRI LANKANS AND REPORT BACK AS SOON AS POSSIBLE TO THE CABINET COMMITTEE HEADED BY PRIME MINISTER D.B. SINGAPORE (SEPT. 14) XINHUA - INDONESIA'S NON-OIL EXPORTS IN THE FIRST FIVE MONTHS OF THIS YEAR INCREASED BY 10 PERCENT FROM THOSE IN THE CORRESPONDING PERIOD LAST YEAR, SAID INDONESIAN NATIONAL PLANNING MINISTER SALEH AFIFF.

ACCORDING TO A REPORT BY THE JAKARTA POST TODAY, SPEAKING IN A HEARING AT THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES' BUDGETARY COMMISSION IN JAKARTA THURSDAY, AFIFF SAID THAT THE PROSPECTS OF INDONESIA'S NON-OIL EXPORTS THIS YEAR WILL NOT BE AS BRIGHT AS THOSE LAST YEAR, DUE MAINLY TO THE FALLING PRICES OF AGRICULTURAL AND MINING COMMODITIES ON THE INTERNATIONAL MARKET.

BY COMPARISON, HE SAID, THE TOTAL NON-OIL EXPORTS IN THE FIRST FIVE MONTHS OF LAST YEAR ROSE BY 22.5 PERCENT FROM THOSE IN THE SAME PERIOD IN 1988.

HE SAID, HOWEVER, THE GROWTH OF INDUSTRIAL PRODUCT EXPORTS BETWEEN JANUARY AND MAY THIS YEAR REMAINED HIGH, REACHING 44 PERCENT AS COMPARED WITH THE FIGURE OF THE CORRESPONDING PERIOD LAST YEAR.

DESPITE THE DIMMER PROSPECTS FOR THE NON-OIL EXPORTS, THE COUNTRY WILL STILL BE ABLE TO MAINTAIN HIGH ECONOMIC GROWTH, HE SAID.

ATHENS (SEPT. 14) XINHUA - THE ATHENS APPEALS COURT COUNCIL HAS DECIDED TO FREE ALLEGED ITALIAN TERRORIST MAURIZIO FOLINI, ACCORDING TO LOCAL REPORTS HERE TODAY.

THE ATHENS APPEALS COURT COUNCIL HAS REJECTED AN ITALIAN REQUEST FOR THE EXTRADITION OF FOLINI AS UNACCEPTABLE.

THE 37-YEAR-OLD ITALIAN WAS ARRESTED AUGUST 2 FOLLOWING A TIPOFF FROM INTERPOL AND REMANDED IN CUSTODY AUGUST 3 FOR 30 DAYS DURING WHICH ITALY HAD TO SEND THE RELEVANT EXTRADITION PAPERS.

THE COURT COUNCIL SAID THAT CHARGE AGAINST FOLINI WAS NOT SUPPORTED BY THE DOCUMENTS AND WARRANTS SENT BY THE ITALIAN AUTHORITIES.

FOLINI WAS ALSO ARRESTED ON JUNE 22, 1987 IN ATHENS ON CHARGE S OF ENTERING GREECE ON A FALSE PASSPORT. IN SEPTEMBER OF THE SAME YEAR, THE GREEK SUPREME COURT RULED IN FAVOR OF HIS EXTRADITION TO ITALY BUT THE RULING WAS NEVER CARRIED OUT AND HE WAS RELEASED IN FEBRUARY 1988 BY THE THEN SOCIALIST PASOK GOVERNMENT AND GIVEN ASYLUM IN GREECE.

FOLINI TOLD THE APPEALS COURT COUNCIL THAT HE INTENDED TO REMAIN PERMANENTLY IN GREECE.

DAMASCUS (SEPT. 14) XINHUA - PRESIDENT HAFEZ AL-ASSAD TODAY HELD TALKS WITH U.S. SECRETARY OF STATE JAMES BAKER, WHO ARRIVED HERE LAST NIGHT ON THE FIRST TRIP BY A U.S. SECRETARY OF STATE TO DAMASCUS IN TWO YEARS.

THE TALKS DEALT WITH THE LATEST DEVELOPMENTS IN THE MIDDLE EAST REGION, ESPECIALLY THE GULF CRISIS CAUSED BY THE IRAQI INVASION OF KUWAIT, AS WELL AS ISSUES OF MUTUAL INTEREST AND BILATERAL RELATIONS.

WESTERN DIPLOMATIC SOURCES IN DAMASCUS SAID THE TALKS ALSO FOCUSED ON THE PROSPECTS OF TAKING MORE ACTIONS TO TIGHTEN THE U.N.-IMPOSED ECONOMIC BLOCKADE ON IRAQ.

THEY SAID DURING THE TALKS BAKER STRESSED THE NEED TO OBTAIN SYRIAN SUPPORT FOR A U.S. PROPOSAL CALLING FOR SETTING UP AN ARAB-U.S. FORCE TO STAND UP TO IRAQI THREATS AGAINST THE GULF STATES.

BAKER ALSO DISCUSSED WITH SYRIAN OFFICIALS THE PROSPECTS OF ESTABLISHING AN ARAB-U.S. ALLIANCE, WHICH INVOLVES SAUDI ARABIA, EGYPT AND SYRIA, AND HOW SYRIA COULD CONTRIBUTE TO SUCH AN ALLIANCE.

THE TWO SIDES ALSO DISCUSSED THE ISSUE OF SENDING MORE SYRIAN TROOPS TO THE GULF AND TAKING FURTHER JOINT ACTIONS IN THE REGION FOR THE IMPLEMENTATION OF THE UNITED NATIONS SECURITY COUNCIL RESOLUTIONS CALLING FOR THE WITHDRAWAL OF THE IRAQI TROOPS FROM KUWAIT.

ON WEDNESDAY, AL-ASSAD SAID SYRIA OBJECTS TO THE U.S. AND WESTERN MILITARY PRESENCE IN THE GULF. BUT HE SAID THAT SUCH A PRESENCE HAS BEEN THE OUTCOME OF THE IRAQI INVASION OF KUWAIT AND AN IRAQI WITHDRAWAL FROM KUWAIT WOULD MAKE SUCH A PRESENCE UNJUSTIFIED.

WINDHOEK (SEPT. 14) XINHUA - CUBA HAS COMPLIED WITH THE TIME -- TABLE FOR ITS TROOP WITHDRAWAL FROM ANGOLA, SAID A PRESS RELEASE ISSUED HERE THURSDAY AT THE END OF THE ONE-DAY MEETING OF THE JOINT COMMISSION OF ANGOLA, CUBA, NAMIBIA AND SOUTH AFRICA.

THE CUBAN DELEGATION INFORMED THE COMMISSION OF THE PROGRESS OF ITS TROOP WITHDRAWAL FROM ANGOLA AS STIPULATED IN THE NEW YORK AGREEMENT SIGNED BY CUBA AND ANGOLA ON DECEMBER 22, 1988.

CONFERENCE SOURCES SAID THAT CUBA HAD WITHDRAWN 37,000 TROOPS BY THE END OF AUGUST THIS YEAR AND WOULD PULL ITS REMAINING 15,000 FORCES OUT OF ANGOLA BY THE MIDDLE OF 1991.

PARTICIPANTS OF THE MEETING COMMENDED CUBA FOR COMPLYING WITH THE TIME-TABLE FOR ITS TROOP WITHDRAWAL.

ANALYSTS REGARDED CUBAN'S DECISION OF CONTINUING THE WITHDRAWAL OF ITS TROOPS AS A SIGNIFICANT ACHIEVEMENT OF THE MEETING, BECAUSE SO MANY RUMOURS HAD BEEN CIRCULATED BEFORE ON THE POSSIBLE DELAY OF THE PULLOUT.

THE RUMOURS CAME AS A RESULT OF THE FAILURE ON THE RECENT PEACE TALKS IN LISBON BETWEEN THE ANGOLAN GOVERNMENT AND THE ANTI-GOVERNMENT NATIONAL UNION FOR THE TATOL INDEPENDENCE OF ANGOLA (UNITA).

DURING THE PEACE TALKS THE UNITA INSISTED THAT THE GOVERNMENT SHOULD RECOGNIZE IT AS A LEGAL OPPOSITION PARTY BEFORE A CEASE- FIRE COULD BE REALIZED. BUT THE GOVERNMENT REFUSED THE UNITA DEMANDS, SAYING THAT ANGOLA IS A ONE-PARTY NATION STIPULATED BY THE CONSTITUTION.

ANGOLA ALSO ACCUSED EXTERNAL FORCES OF HELPING THE UNITA ATTACK GOVERNMENT FORCES AND ACCUSED SOUTH AFRICA OF SENDING MUNITIONS TO THE UNITA WITH THREE SHIPS GOING THROUGH ANGOLA'S TERRITORIAL WATERS. UNDER SUCH CIRCUMSTANCES, ANGOLA SAID, IT MIGHT BE IMPOSSIBLE FOR CUBA TO WITHDRAW ITS TROOPS AS SCHEDULED.

DURING THE TALKS BETWEEN ANGOLA AND SOUTH AFRICA, SOUTH AFRICAN DIRECTOR-GENERAL OF FOREIGN AFFAIRS MR. VAN HEERDEN SAID THAT HIS COUNTRY HAD SENT THREE SHIPS TO ZAIRE BY TRANSITING ANGOLAN COAST. BUT IT WAS NOT AN ACTION TO SEND MUNITIONS FOR UNITA.

VAN HEERDEN ALSO SAID THAT SOUTH AFRICA HAD MANY MENAS TO SUPPORT UNITA IF IT WANTED TO. BUT NOW SOUTH AFRICA SINCERELY WISHED THAT ANGOLA WOULD HAVE AN INTERNAL PEACE AND IT WAS COMMITTED TO ITS PROMISE IN THE AGREEMENT.

AT THURSDAY'S MEETING PARTICIPANTS TRIED TO FIND A COMPROMISE TO RESOLVE OBSTACLES TO PEACE IN ANGOLA. THEY SUGGESTED THAT THE ANGOLAN GOVERNMENT RECOGNISE UNITA AS A LEGAL MOVEMENT NOT A PARTY. BUT LUANDA HAS NOT MADE ANY RESPONSE TO THE PROPOSAL YET.

TOKYO (SEPT. 14) KYODO - THE JAPANESE AUTO INDUSTRY INTENDS TO ASK CHINA TO RELAX REGULATIONS ON AUTO AND MOTORCYCLE IMPORTS IMPOSED THIS PAST MAY, SOURCES AT THE JAPAN AUTOMOBILE MANUFACTURERS ASSOCIATION SAID FRIDAY.

THE REQUEST WILL BE CONVEYED BY A POWERFUL BUSINESS MISSION ORGANIZED BY THE JAPAN-CHINA ASSOCIATION OF ECONOMY AND TRADE, WHICH WILL LEAVE FOR BEIJING SUNDAY IN A BID TO BREAK AN IMPASSE IN ECONOMIC TIES BETWEEN THE TWO COUNTRIES WHICH HAS EXISTED SINCE THE TIANANMEN SQUARE INCIDENT IN JUNE LAST YEAR, THE SOURCES SAID.

IN MAY, CHINA SLAPPED TIGHTER QUALITY INSPECTIONS ON IMPORTS OF NINE PRODUCTS, INCLUDING AUTOS AND MOTORCYCLES, WHICH WOULD EFFECTIVELY SHUT JAPANESE AUTOS OUT OF THE CHINESE MARKET.

THE SOURCES SAID JAPANESE AUTOMAKERS WANT BEIJING TO IMPLEMENT SUCH INSPECTIONS ''FLEXIBLY,'' TO ALLOW IMPORTS OF JAPANESE AUTOS.

''IT'S DIFFICULT TO MAKE CARS MEETING ALL THE CHINESE STANDARDS. IT'S NOT A REALISTIC SYSTEM,'' ONE SOURCE SAID.

THE 60-MEMBER BUSINESS MISSION, WHICH WILL INCLUDE EISHIRO SAITO, CHAIRMAN OF THE FEDERATION OF ECONOMIC ORGANIZATIONS (KEIDANREN), WILL MEET COMMUNIST PARTY SECRETARY GENERAL JIANG ZEMIN, PREMIER LI PENG AND OTHER CHINESE LEADERS.

TRADE BETWEEN JAPAN AND CHINA HAS BEEN ON THE WANE IN THE WAKE OF ECONOMIC SANCTIONS IMPOSED AGAINST BEIJING FOR ITS MILITARY CRACKDOWN ON PRO-DEMOCRACY MOVEMENTS IN JUNE LAST YEAR.

TWO-WAY TRADE BETWEEN THE TWO COUNTRIES IN THE FIRST HALF OF THIS YEAR WAS DOWN 21 PERCENT FROM A YEAR EARLIER TO SOME 7.8 BILLION DOLLARS, ACCORDING TO TRADE STATISTICS COMPLIED BY THE FINANCE MINISTRY.

IN PARTICULAR, EXPORTS TO CHINA DWINDLED 41 PERCENT TO ABOUT 2.7 BILLION DOLLARS IN THE SIX-MONTH PERIOD, THE STATISTICS SHOW.

NAGOYA (SEPT. 14) KYODO - TOYOTA MOTOR CORP. SAID FRIDAY IT WILL PICK UP A SITE FOR A SECOND AUTO ASSEMBLY PLANT IN THE UNITED STATES AFTER THE U.S. OFF-YEAR ELECTIONS IN NOVEMBER.

A TOP TOYOTA EXECUTIVE INDICATED THAT THERE ARE A FEW SITES UNDER CONSIDERATION, INCLUDING LAND ADJACENT TO THE PRESENT FACTORY IN GEORGETOWN, KENTUCKY.

THE EXECUTIVE, WHO WISHED TO BE UNNAMED, SAID THE COMPANY IS CLOSELY WATCHING THE U.S. POLITICAL AND ECONOMIC SITUATION AND TRENDS IN U.S. CAR DEMAND.

TOYOTA HAS SET A U.S. SALES TARGET FOR 1994 OF 1.5 MILLION CARS, HALF OF WHICH WILL BE ASSEMBLED IN THE U.S.

TOYOTA'S CURRENT U.S. PRODUCTION CAPACITY IS 400,000 CARS PER YEAR. TO MEET THE 1994 GOAL, ANOTHER PLANT WILL HAVE TO BE BUILT, THE TOP JAPANESE AUTOMAKER SAYS.

TOYOTA HOPES TO BRING THE NEW FACTORY INTO OPERATION IN 1993, WITH AN INITIAL CAPACITY OF 200,000 CARS PER YEAR.

CANBERRA (SEPT. 14) KYODO - AUSTRALIAN PRIME MINISTER BOB HAWKE SAID FRIDAY HE WOULD WELCOME A POSSIBLE JAPANESE MILITARY ROLE IN THE PERSIAN GULF CRISIS.

HAWKE, SPEAKING TO JAPANESE REPORTERS HERE IN ADVANCE OF HIS VISIT TO JAPAN SEPTEMBER 16-20, SAID HE HAS TOLD PRIME MINISTER TOSHIKI KAIFU THAT THE AUSTRALIAN GOVERNMENT WOULD WELCOME A JAPANESE DECISION TO SEND MINESWEEPERS OR GET INVOLVED MILITARILY IN OTHER WAYS.

HAWKE ALSO SAID HE TOLD KAIFU OF HIS APPRECIATION OF JAPAN'S FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE TO THE MULTINATIONAL FORCES DEPLOYED IN THE GULF REGION TO CONFRONT IRAQ FOLLOWING ITS INVASION OF KUWAIT ON AUGUST 2.

NOTING THAT HE IS WELL AWARE OF JAPAN'S CONCERNS THAT ANY MILITARY ACTIVITY ON ITS PART WOULD CAUSE SUSPICION AMONG ASIAN NATIONS, HAWKE SAID HE TOLD KAIFU THAT HE NEED NOT WORRY ABOUT AUSTRALIA IF JAPAN DECIDES ON SOME MILITARY COMMITMENT IN THE GULF CRISIS.

JAPAN HAS THUS FAR REFRAINED FROM TAKING ANY MILITARY ACTION IN THE GULF CRISIS, CITING ITS CONSTITUTIONAL BAN ON THE USE OF FORCE TO SOLVE INTERNATIONAL DISPUTES.

AUSTRALIA WAS AMONG THE FIRST NATIONS TO SEND WARSHIPS TO THE GULF REGION AT THE OUTBREAK OF THE IRAQI AGGRESSION.

TURNING TO AGRICULTURAL ISSUES, HAWKE URGED JAPAN TO SETTLE PENDING ISSUES IN THE CURRENT URUGUAY ROUND MULTINATIONAL TRADE TALKS.

ALL NEGOTIATING NATIONS MUST SUBMIT BY OCTOBER 15 A LIST OF AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTS THEY WILL LIBERALIZE. JAPAN HAS BEEN HARSHLY CRITICIZED FOR ITS INSISTENCE ON CONTINUING TO BAN RICE IMPORTS.

ON THE SELECTION OF THE SITE FOR THE 1996 SUMMER OLYMPICS, REPORTEDLY THE TOP PRIORITY FOR HIS VISIT, HAWKE WAS ENTHUSIASTIC ABOUT HOSTING THE GAMES IN MELBOURNE. HE WILL ATTEND THE INTERNATIONAL OLYMPIC COMMITTEE GENERAL ASSEMBLY SCHEDULED IN TOKYO SEPTEMBER 17-21 TO URGE MEMBERS TO SELECT THE AUSTRALIAN CITY.

HAWKE LAST VISITED JAPAN IN DECEMBER 1987.

TOKYO (SEPT. 14) KYODO - JAPAN WOULD BE PREPARED TO MEDIATE BETWEEN IRAQ AND THE UNITED STATES IF IRAQ PULLED OUT OF KUWAIT AND RELEASED ALL FOREIGN HOSTAGES, FOREIGN MINISTER TARO NAKAYAMA SAID FRIDAY.

NAKAYAMA MADE THE REMARKS IN A NATIONALLY-BROADCAST TELEVISION INTERVIEW.

''IF IRAQ REQUESTS JAPAN TO ACT AS A MEDIATOR WITH THE U.S., WE WOULD BE PREPARED TO DO SO AS LONG AS IT WITHDRAWS IT FORCES FROM KUWAIT AND RELEASES ALL FOREIGNERS,'' NAKAYAMA SAID.

NAKAYAMA CALLED ON THE JAPANESE PUBLIC TO UNDERSTAND THAT IT IS IN THE NATIONAL INTEREST FOR JAPAN TO CONTRIBUTE TO THE MULTINATIONAL MILITARY EFFORTS IN THE PERSIAN GULF AIMED AT COUNTERING IRAQI AGGRESSION.

HE DENIED THAT JAPAN'S PLEDGE OF 2 BILLION DOLLARS FOR THE MULTINATIONAL FORCES INFRINGES ON THE CONSTITUTIONAL RENUNCIATION OF THE USE OF FORCE TO RESOLVE INTERNATIONAL CONFLICTS.

NAKAYAMA STRESSED REPEATEDLY THAT JAPAN WAS NOT ''PRESSURED'' BY WASHINGTON INTO EXTENDING FUNDS TO THE MILITARY EFFORTS.

AS AN ALLY OF THE U.S., HE SAID, JAPAN CANNOT JUST STAND IDLY BY WHILE AN TENS OF THOUSANDS OF U.S. YOUTHS LIE READY IN THE SUFFERING HEAT OF SAUDI ARABIA TO DEFEND INTERESTS SHARED BY THE JAPANESE PEOPLE.

FALLS CHURCH, VA (SEPT. 14) MCS -- A SAMPLING OF TODAY'S COMMENTARY COMPILED BY MARKET CONSENSUS SURVEYS, INC. IN TWO SECTIONS (1) STOCKS (2) MONEY & ECONOMY.

IN THE NEWS:

The LABOR DEPARTMENT reports this morning that the PRODUCER PRICE INDEX rose 1.3% in August. Excluding food and energy, wholesale prices were up 0.3%. The consensus expectation had been for a 1.4% increase, according to the Dow Jones Capital Markets Report. ... The COMMERCE DEPARTMENT says retail sales fell 0.6% in August. Excluding automobiles, sales were up 0.4%.

The Nikkei drops 178 points to close at 24,897. ... In London, the FTSE is down 18 points in the early afternoon. ... After yesterday's drop, the dollar is at 136.66 yen in London trading. ... Long bond prices continue to slip, yield is at 8.97%. ... Auto sales increased 6.7% in early September over the same period last year, but light truck sales fell 4.4% -- translating to an overall rise for both of 2.5%. ... SCANDINAVIAN AIRLINES SYSTEMS completes a $50 million deal that makes it the largest shareholder of CONTINENTAL AIRLINES HOLDINGS.

WHAT'S AHEAD:

The FEDERAL RESERVE issues industrial production and capacity utilization figures later this morning. ... WALT DISNEY CO. and Japanese-backed INTERSCOPE COMMUNICATIONS are forming a joint venture worth up to $200 million to produce and distribute films.

FROM THE BULLS:

"My feeling is the stock market has seen the worst," MICHAEL METZ of OPPENHEIMER & CO. "I think the Dow is only a few percentage points from a bottom. I don't see a big crack in the market, but instead a tedious base-building process. I think the market is telling us the urgent sellers are gone." He continues, "So, I expect very little liquidation pressure. Most investors have raised cash. If the market does stabilize, I expect to see an upward bias. Also, if there is a credible budget agreement, the Federal Reserve will inject funds into the system, and that will help stocks." ("Investor's Daily", 9/14)

This is the time to begin looking to buy, says long-time bear JAMES DINES of the "Dines Letter." He says his research shows an ever- deepening oversold condition that often precedes important rallies. Dines is betting on a peaceful resolution of the Gulf crisis and the return of an oil glut. "[That] could send the DJI skyward in a startling rally, also triggering a short covering panic." (CNBC "World Business", 9/14)

"All of the timid investors have now sold out," says CARLTON LUTZ in the "Cabot Market Letter" where he describes the drop in stock prices as "a sharp correction ... but only a correction." Lutz says a higher market usually follows a crisis. "We are in a major bottom area that is thoroughly sold out. ... The next major advance could begin at any time." (CNBC "World Business", 9/14)

FROM THE BEARS:

"I think we have to worry a lot more than we've ever had to in our investment lifetime," says CLAUDE ROSENBERG, head of RCM CAPITAL MANAGEMENT. "We think you'll be able to buy at lower prices this year, maybe around 2300 in the Dow " says MICHAEL KEILHOLZ of ADIG INVESTMENT, the German mutual fund. ("USA Today", 9/14)

"I think the market's negative tone [comes from] what we're hearing about interest rates, the banking system, the economy in general [and] oil prices, but the extended downturn -- 40-plus points -- is the exacerbated impact of program trading," says JOSEPH BATTIPAGLIA, associate director of research at GRUNTAL & CO. He remains bearish, thinking the market is fully priced at 2600 on the Dow and "due for a correction. What we were hoping for was a very shallow recession that would be offset by lower inflation and lower interest rates. Unfortunately, a prolonged problem in the Middle East will exacerbate the downturn." (CNBC "Market Wrap-Up", 9/13)

STOCK MARKET:

"I think there are some opportunities coming forth here now, but it's a little bit early for the conservative to get into this market since we haven't established an absolute, decisive bottom," says EUGENE PERONI JR., director of technical research at JANNEY MONTGOMERY SCOTT. "It's more for the risk-oriented client right now." (CNBC "Market Wrap-Up", 9/13)

"From a longer-term point of view I think the market is bottoming out barring any actual military confrontation or military fighting in Iraq," says JAMES KALIL of COMPUVAL. He says that now is the time to step up and take a position in this market on some issues. "This will not last forever. The crisis will be over sometime, and looking ahead to next year I think that a lot of the stories that seemed to hit us with the force of a hammer will be a long forgotten memory." (FNN "Marketwrap", 9/13)

"There have been stories about terrorism and wild rumors about an imminent invasion of Israel, but what really matters is that people continue [to be] cautious and afraid to make commitments," says block trader LAWRENCE GREENWALD of SANFORD C. BERNSTEIN. "There is still no volume and that's the key here. There's very little feature and we've seen weakness pretty much across the board. When you've got political instability at home -- there is yet no sign of a federal budget accord -- and there are serious problems overseas, you can't expect to 'call' the markets." ("The Washington Post", 9/14)

"There's just very, very little to do and it's obviously frustrating," says THOMAS WALSH, head of equity trading at NIKKO SECURITIES INTERNATIONAL. "Most people were enthusiastic that they would have that [budget agreement] settled by the end of this week. That doesn't seem to be the case any more." (WSJ, 9/14)

"All together it was too much," says trader NED COLLINS of DAIWA SECURITIES, suggesting that Mideast uncertainty, unresolved budget talks and anticipation of today's economic reports combined to kill stock market volume yesterday. ("USA Today", 9/14)

"It doesn't mean anything," says INTERSTATE JOHNSON LANE's NELSON GOLD of yesterday's falling market. "People are just doing the minimum they have to do" because of concern about budget talks and events in the Middle East. (WSJ 9/14)

"The Wall Street Journal" reports this morning that a year-long investigation by three major exchanges into alleged program-trading abuses has found no evidence of large-scale illicit activity. (WSJ, 9/14)

STOCK TIPS:

"USA Today" reports this morning that Wall Street "is starting to get a fix on which [defense] companies will see better action" and finds that LORAL and E-SYSTEMS are two popular picks. Analyst MICHAEL LaTRONICO of LABE, SIMPSON & CO. has a buy recommendation on both and says both could rise about 20% within a year. ("USA Today", 9/14)

ELAN CORP., a drug company, is the "Stock of the Week" in "Investor's Daily." "The important thing is that [Elan] has made a decided effort to become a direct marketer and developer of its own products," says JEFFREY BERG of Dallas-based WILLIAM K. WOODRUFF & CO. According to the article, this strategy met with skepticism in the marketplace at first but strong earnings growth in 1990 has vindicated that strategy, and many investors are now getting back on board for what analysts say should be an uphill ride. ("Investor's Daily", 9/14)

Bank stocks in California have "wildly over-reacted," says GOLDMAN SACHS banking analyst ROBERT ALBERTSON. There he likes WELLS FARGO. "I think Texas is truly unique as a banking opportunity," says Albertson, recommending BANC ONE and NCB. Albertson is tantalized by money center banks and thinks they are cheaper than they should be. He would take CITICORP with it's 10% yield and has no fear that the dividend will be cut. "I'll be paid to wait." (CNN "Business Morning", 9/14)

"I think there are a lot of bargains," says JAMES KALIL of COMPUVAL. "One way to hedge is with the oil stocks." His favorite pick among the oil stocks is UNOCAL. Mr. Kalil also likes some foreign stocks such as TELEFONICA de ESPANA and SEAGRAM'S. (FNN "Marketwrap", 9/13)

"AMGEN, in my opinion, is the number one biotech company in the country, and that's been my opinion for about five years," says JEFFREY CASDIN, an analyst with OPPENHEIMER & CO., who repeated his buy recommendation for the company. ("Investor's Daily", 9/14)

FALLS CHURCH, VA (SEPT 14) MCS -- A SAMPLING OF TODAY'S COMMENTARY COMPILED BY MARKET CONSENSUS SURVEYS, INC. IN TWO SECTIONS (1) STOCKS (2) MONEY & ECONOMY.

MONEY & CREDIT:

"The dollar came under intense pressure," says JOHN McCARTHY, chief currency dealer at AMSTERDAM ROTTERDAM BANK's office in New York. "We say a pretty substantial sell-off. Volume was very, very heavy. I would characterize it as brisk with a capital B." ("Investor's Daily", 9/14)

"If there is a meaningful budget agreement -- and that means a good $50 billion being knocked off [the budget deficit] -- the Fed will have to lower the funds rate by 50 if not 75 basis points," says TOM BENFER of the BANK OF MONTREAL. Benfer says budget cuts will contribute to the slowdown in the U.S. economy, thus stimulating Fed easing. Looking at the dollar, Benfer says 135 yen will be a crucial test. "If Japanese rates continue to move higher ... we could even break that 135 barrier," says Benfer who has heard talk that Japanese institutions are repatriating cash. (FNN "World Business Update", 9/14)

"Despite the weak economic data of late, bond yields haven't declined and the yield curve has steepened considerably," says PAUL BOLTZ, chief economist at T. ROWE PRICE ASSOCIATES INC. "With short rates lower and bond yields steady to higher, the yield curve has steepened, whereas flat or inverted curves preceded previous economic slowdowns since World War II. The Fed will be inclined toward further [policy] ease in the coming weeks and months. Avoiding a recession will be its principle objective." He continues, "However, easing while inflation is held up by sharply higher oil prices will require a deft touch. The Fed will have to move gingerly lest bond yields go even higher and make more difficult the task of avoiding a recession." ("Investor's Daily", 9/14)

"We've been seeing investors who have moved out of [bank issued] commercial paper and [certificates of deposit] and into Treasury bills" for months, says WILLIAM BRACHFELD, manager of trading at DAIWA SECURITIES AMERICA INC. (WSJ, 9/14)

THE ECONOMY:

"Higher capital requirements and prompt corrective action will not eliminate bank failures," says FED CHAIRMAN ALAN GREENSPAN. "An insurance fund will still be needed, but we believe that with a fund of reasonable size, the risk to taxpayers should be reduced substantially." (CNBC "Market Wrap-Up", 9/13)

Auto industry analyst MICHAEL LUCKEY, of THE LUCKEY CONSULTING GROUP in East Tappan, N.J., says he was surprised to see vehicle sales up 2.5% in early September "because consumer confidence fell off a cliff in August and the economy's growth has been slow," says ("Investor's Daily", 9/14)

"With the uncertainty in the Middle East and the rise in gasoline prices, a lot of people would have expected to see [auto buying] consumers move to the sidelines, yet you are not seeing that," says WILLIAM SULLIVAN JR., a senior vice president at DEAN WITTER REYNOLDS. (NYT, 9/14)

"We view the current [oil] market as relatively stable, but uncertain about future supply," says ENERGY SECRETARY JAMES WATKINS. "Should the situation warrant it, we are prepared to implement a coordinated drawndown of the more than 1 billion barrels in strategic [oil] stocks" held by the United States and other members of the INTERNATIONAL ENERGY AGENCY. (NYT, 9/14)

"As time goes on, it seems more and more people think the only solution is some type of military action" in the Mideast, says CRAIG WHITLEY, futures analyst at BOONER & MOORE in Houston. He says a crude oil price of $32 or $33 a barrel "is not out of the question." (NYT, 9/14)

"The weakness in New England real estate is moving south," says PAUL GETMAN, economist at REGIONAL FINANCIAL ASSOCIATES in Philadelphia. "It's enveloping whole regions very quickly." ("USA Today", 9/14)

IN WASHINGTON:

STAN COLLANDER, director of federal budget policy at PRICE WATERHOUSE, says the $25 billion being talked about in new taxes in a deficit reduction agreement is "a fairly substantial reduction in the deficit for one year and when you match that with about $24 billion or $25 billion in spending cuts, I don't know how much more Wall Street can really expect under the circumstances." (CNBC "Market Wrap-Up", 9/13)

The ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY says pending legislation to strengthen the Clean Air Act would substantially reduce the nation's dependence on foreign oil by providing incentives to switch from oil to cleaner burning fuels. (NYT 9/14)

NORCROSS, GA (SEPT. 14) /PRNEWSWIRE/ -- Immucor Inc. (NASDAQ: BLUD), maker of blood bank reagent systems and related products, announced today it has signed a definitive purchase agreement to acquire 100 percent of its German distributor.

The distributor, with current annual revenues in excess of $7 million, will continue to be run by its president and founder Josef Wilms. Wilms will also be named to Immucor's board of directors.

The purchase price is approximately $4.4 million plus warrants to purchase 250,000 shares of Immucor's common stock at a fixed price of $11.62 and exercisable 25 percent per year beginning September 1991. Closing is expected on or before Sept. 28, 1990.

Founded in 1984, the German company markets blood collection bags, HLA products, and Immucor's blood bank reagents and Capture(R) products. Approximately 40 percent of the company's revenues are Immucor products.

Commenting on the acquisition, Edward L. Gallup, president, said: "A reunified Germany and the potential for economic growth in Eastern Europe offer Immucor a unique opportunity to become more internationally focused. We will enter this growing, European market on a direct basis at a time when political developments are extremely attractive, and Immucor will be properly positioned when the European Economic Community comes together in 1992."

Founded in 1982, Immucor manufactures and sells a complete line of reagents and systems used primarily by hospitals and blood banks in a number of tests performed to detect and identify certain properties of the cell and serum components of human blood prior to blood transfusion.

BAKERSFIELD, CA (SEPT. 14) PR NEWSWIRE - Nahama & Weagant Energy Co. (NASDAQ: NAWE) recorded sharply higher revenues and improving profits in the second quarter ended July 31, 1990.

Second quarter revenues advanced to $614,000, up from $342,000 a year ago. Net income amounted to $59,000, equal to 1 cent per share, compared with the prior year's net loss of $3,000 or 0 cents per share.

For the first six months of the fiscal year, revenues climbed to $1,138,000 from $628,000 in the first half of fiscal 1990. Net income for the period totaled $96,000 equal to 2 cents per share, as against a net loss of $129,000 or 3 cents per share one year earlier.

Rodney Nahama, president and chief executive officer, said: "We are pleased by the company's continuing progress. First half profits showed a positive swing of $225,000 from last year's loss. Gains reflected higher sales of oil and natural gas for both the second quarter and first six months of the fiscal year, primarily due to our three new field discoveries. We expect that production for the second half will continue to increase as additional wells from these new discoveries are placed on production. In addition, we are benefiting from the sharp rise in oil prices as a result of the Middle East situation.

"Nahama & Weagant is one of the most active exploration companies in California, and we are hopeful that the 15-20 exploratory wells to be drilled in the second half will again produce favorable results and increased reserves. At the same time, we are continuing our efforts to acquire reserves from others."

Based in Bakersfield, Nahama & Weagant Energy Company (NASDAQ: NAWE) is an independent engaging in oil and gas exploration and production primarily in California and Oregon.

PICHLER NAMED CHAIRMAN OF KROGER CO.; BERE PRESIDENT & C.O.O.

CINCINNATI (SEPT. 14) PR NEWSWIRE - The Kroger Co. (NYSE: KR) announced today a series of executive promotions:

-- Joseph A. Pichler, currently Chief Executive Officer, has been elected to the additional position of Chairman of the Board;

-- Richard L. Bere, currently a Senior Vice President, has been elected President and Chief Operating Officer, as well as a member of the Board of Directors;

-- Patrick J. Kenney, currently President of the Texas Operating Group of Kroger Food Stores, was elected a Senior Vice President, succeeding Bere;

-- William J. Sinkula and David B. Dillon were elected Executive Vice Presidents. Sinkula will remain Kroger's Chief Financial Officer, and Dillon will continue as President and Chief Executive Officer of Dillon Companies, Inc.

With the additional duties of Chairman of the Board, Pichler is assuming the dual role of Chairman and Chief Executive Officer that has been held by Lyle Everingham for the past 11 years. Everingham, 64, announced his retirement at Kroger's annual shareowners' meeting in May, and Pichler became CEO on June 17.

Everingham will remain a member of the Board of Directors, and was elected Chairman of the Executive Committee. He will serve in that position until he retires in January, 1991.

Bere, a 33-year Kroger veteran, was elected a Senior Vice President of the Company in May, 1989. He holds a Doctorate in agricultural economics from Ohio State University, and has held a variety of company positions at both the corporate and division level. Prior to his election as Senior Vice President, Bere was Vice President of Kroger's retail divisions in Atlanta and Nashville, Tennessee.

Kenney, who is succeeding Bere, joined Kroger in 1955 and has supervised the Company's retail operations in Texas since 1985. Previous to that assignment, Kenney was Vice President of Kroger's retail stores in northeast Ohio. In his new position, Kenney will be responsible for about half of the Company's Kroger Food Stores retail operations.

LOS ANGELES (SEPT. 14) PR NEWSWIRE - Investor's Daily announced today it will open its sixth printing facility in six years on Sept. 18, 1990, in Melbourne, Florida and will now offer same-day delivery to most Florida business people and investors.

William J. O'Neil, chairman and founder, said the Florida location was selected because of the state's high percentage of wealthy investors and business executives.

"Investor's Daily fills an important void that other publications don't address by providing proprietary data such as, performance rankings of all stocks," O'Neil said.

"There is a high demand for this type of data among executives and investors. Because we provide data that none of our competitors has, not even The Wall Street Journal, the Florida area will be an excellent market for us."
Same-day delivery should stimulate circulation in Florida, O'Neil believes. National circulation now stands at 105,000.

In support of its Florida expansion, Investor's Daily will offer, beginning in October, free 90-minute seminars throughout the state. Topics will include the outlook for the economy, how investors should handle today's difficult market conditions, and the effect on stocks of events such as the Persian Gulf crisis.

Also speaking besides O'Neil will be David Ryan, a three-time winner of the U.S. Investing Championships, a national stock competition, who achieved a 3,317 percent compounded gain in his personal trading account in five years.

O'Neil said, "We're here to help investors safeguard their investments. The information we publish will enable individual investors to compete with large investment institutions and portfolio managers, giving them a new edge in the market."

Investor's Daily, a national business and investment newspaper that competes with The Wall Street Journal, began publication in April 1984. In six years, the company has opened printing facilities in Somerset, New Jersey; Chicago; Columbus, Ohio; Dallas; and now, Melbourne, Florida.

VEVEY, SWITZERLAND (SEPT. 14) PR NEWSWIRE - Nestle S.A. today announced the following:

In its 1990 six-months profit and loss account, Nestle S.A. reports consolidated sales of SFr. 22,694 billion during the first half of the year. In spite of the negative currency evolution -- the dollar and the pound lost 10 percent and 11 percent, respectively, of their value relative to the Swiss Franc during that time, the yen lost 21 percent -- the sales figure remains virtually unchanged as compared to the figure of the corresponding period of 1989, recalculated according to International Accounting Standards.

The Group notes with satisfaction that in spite of these unfavorable currency factors the trading profit is up 9.8 percent, while the cash flow increased by 7.9 percent. Nevertheless, the net profit for the first six months amounts to SFr. 975 million, down 4.7 percent from the previous year (SFr. 1,023 million). This divergence is mainly due to the fact that profit development was particularly favorable in countries with high fiscal charges. As the share capital remained unchanged from the previous year, profit per share, at SFr. 265 versus SFr. 278 in 1989, moved in parallel to the net results.

The present political and economic situation makes it impossible to forecast currency developments during the second semester and therefore sales and profit figures for the whole year with any degree of reliability. The Group nevertheless expects the growth in quantitative sales to be stronger during the second half of the year; it also expects the effective progress of the Group business, expressed in local currencies, to continue at the same satisfactory level as during the first half of the year.

DEERFIELD, ILL. (SEPT. 14) PR NEWSWIRE - Premark International, Inc. (NYSE: PMI), today announced it has settled its disputes with Weldotron Corporation (AMEX: WLD) concerning food-wrapping machine patents. The settlement will result in an $11.9 million payment from Premark to Weldotron in exchange for Weldotron's dismissal of lawsuits and agreement not to attempt to enforce the patents against Hobart, a Premark susidiary that produces a broad line of food equipment including food-wrapping machines.

Weldotron sought total damages in excess of $200 million in two lawsuits filed in the U.S. District Court of New Jersey alleging patent infringement by Hobart. Hobart denies any improper activity or infringement on its part, and had counterclaimed that the patents were invalid and unenforceable. Premark says it decided to settle the suits to avoid the uncertainty and additional costs of further litigation.

Premark International is a $2.6 billion multinational company that markets premium products under leading brands such as Tupperware, West Bend, Wilsonart Hobart, Vulcan, Precor, Florida Tile and Hartco. The company's stock is listed on the New York, Pacific and London Stock Exchanges.

LIVONIA, MICH. (SEPT. 14) PR NEWSWIRE - Fretter, Inc. (NASDAQ: FTTR) today reported a net loss of $658,000 (5 cents per share) for the three-month period ended July 31, 1990. This compares to net earnings of $714,000 (5 cents per share) for the three-month period ended July 31, 1989. The company reported a net loss for the six-month period ended July 31, 1990, of $1.9 million. This compares to net earnings of $864,000 for the six-month period ended July 31, 1989.

The company reported a 9.1-percent decline in net sales to $48.0 million for the three-month period ended July 31, 1990. This compares to net sales of $52.8 million at July 31, 1989. This decrease reflects a decline in comparable store sales of $6.0 million (12.3 percent) for the three-month period ended July 31, 1990. For the six-month period ended July 31, 1990, the company reported a decline in net sales of 10.7 percent to $90.4 million at July 31, 1990. This compares to net sales of $101.3 million at July 31, 1989. This decline reflects a decline in comparable store sales of $12.7 million (13.7 percent) for the six-month period ended July 31, 1990. A comparable store for a given fiscal period is a store that was open for all of that period as well as all of the prior fiscal period of which a comparison is being made.

The company attributes the decline in net sales and the decline in net earnings primarily to a weak speciality retail environment in general, coupled with highly competitive marketing areas.

WEST ORANGE, N.J. (SEPT. 14) PR NEWSWIRE - Micro Healthsystems, Inc. (NASDAQ: MCHS), today announced it signed a contract with the Hackensack (N.J.) Medical Center to install Bedside Nursing Patient Care Systems for 48 of its 510 beds. This initial order, valued at $197,000, marks the first time that an IBM Clinical Workstation utilizing Micro Healthsystem's MedTake(TM) software has been installed in a hospital.

As a result of its new Business Partner agreement with IBM, Micro Healthsystems is the first company in the country to supply a fully functional software package for the newly introduced IBM Clinical Workstation by transporting its MedTake Bedside Nursing Patient Care System to this hardware.

"By offering MedTake software on the IBM Clinical Workstation we intend to fulfill the desire of hospitals that want automation at the bedside and that wish to maintain primarily IBM 'shops,'" according to S. M. Caravetta, chairman of Micro Healthsystems.

Micro Healthsystems already markets its MedTake Bedside Nursing System on its economical proprietary computer hardware. With more than 4,000 beds installed or contracted for, it is clearly established as the dominant factor in this new technology.

New Jersey has put into effect a statewide effort calling for a total of $20 million in one- and two-year grants to be awarded to hospitals for innovative systems that aid patient care and help alleviate the nursing shortage by allowing hospitals to make better use of the nurses they have. Under this program the Hackensack Medical Center was awarded a grant to install IBM Clinical Workstations with MedTake Bedside Nursing Patient Care System software.

The bedside computerized units enhance nurses' productivity, providing time savings of up to 1 and 1-1/2 hours per nurse per shift. They also provide valuable documentation for malpractice coverage. The units record all vital signs, diet, hygiene, safety, drugs administered, nurses' care plans and other patient information, according to Caravetta.

KALAMAZOO, MICH. (SEPT. 14) PR NEWSWIRE - The Upjohn Dermatology Division has signed an agreement with Owen/Galderma Laboratories, Inc., to co-promote Upjohn's dermatology products.

Under terms of the agreement, which was signed on Sept. 7, Upjohn and Owen/Galderma will co-promote Rogaine Topical Solution and the Cleocin T product line in the United States. The agreement takes effect on Jan. 1, 1991.

"This represents another commitment to the future of our dermatological products, Rogaine and Cleocin T," said Ley S. Smith, corporate executive vice president.

Rogaine is the only medication scientifically proved effective in the treatment of male pattern baldness. It was cleared for marketing by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration in August 1988. The Cleocin T product line for acne includes Cleocin T Topical Solution, Cleocin T Topical Gel and Cleocin T Topical Lotion.

Owen/Galderma was chosen by Upjohn to co-promote these brands because of its proven performance and expertise in the dermatological area.

"We feel this focus on dermatologists will help with the continued growth of Cleocin T and Rogaine," Smith said.

The Upjohn Dermatology Division was created on Aug. 1 to maximize Rogaine and Cleocin T opportunities and to actively pursue licensing opportunities, acquisitions or joint ventures in the field of dermatology.

DALLAS (SEPT. 14) PR NEWSWIRE - Energy Service Company, Inc. (ENSCO) (AMEX: ESV) and R.D. Smith and Company, Inc. announced today an agreement to sell 33 land drilling rigs from Penrod Drilling Corporation's fleet of 79 land and offshore rigs. The land rigs, which are located throughout seven states, will be sold by Penrod to Diamond M Holding Corporation for $14.9 million. The sale is expected to close on or before Sept. 21.

As previously announced, agreements have been reached to sell five of Penrod's semi-submersible rigs and six jack-up drilling rigs. An option has also been granted for the sale of three more of Penrod's semi-submersible rigs. These previously announced sales are subject to various regulatory approvals and completion of the acquisition of the remaining 31.3 percent of Penrod's senior debt and equity securities that are not already owned by ENSCO and its affiliated group of investors, and by affiliates of R.D. Smith. Certain other asset sales are under discussion in connection with the recapitalization of Penrod.

The ENSCO group and affiliates of R.D. Smith expect to complete the acquisition of the remaining Penrod interests on or before Oct. 31. Following the acquisition of the remaining Penrod interests and completion of the Penrod rig sales, it is expected that the Penrod fleet will consist of approximately 18 jack-up drilling rigs built since 1976, eight to 10 land rigs and two large anchor handling supply vessels. After the acquisition of the remaining Penrod interests, it is contemplated that Penrod will continue to operate as a separate entity for the foreseeable future and that ENSCO, at the direction of its affiliate group of investors and R.D. Smith, will oversee the day-to-day operations of Penrod.

The ENSCO group of investors, which will own interests in 58.6 percent of Penrod's senior debt and equity after completion of the purchase of the remaining Penrod interests, consists of ENSCO; Natural Gas Partners, L.P.; Rainwater, Inc.; PMJ Investment Corp.; The Goldman Sachs Group, L.P.; and a subsidiary of Bankers Trust New York Corporation. A group led by R.D. Smith, a New York-based investment firm, will own interests in the remaining 41.4 percent of the senior debt and equity.

BOSTON (SEPT. 14) PR NEWSWIRE - The Boston Globe has awarded a total of $1,292,495 in college tuitions for 1990 through its "Paper Route to College" program for newscarriers. The grants are helping 320 students attend schools and colleges throughout the United States.

The 1990 payments bring the total of tuition awards made by the Globe to $2,899,189 since the start of the Paper Route to College program, with 730 youngsters being helped by the program.

Begun by the Globe in 1986, the Paper Route to College program offers one-year's tuition up to $5,000 for carriers who satisfactorily deliver the Globe for three years in a home-delivery route. The first awards in the program were made July 1, 1988, when the first group of carriers became eligible.

The Globe awarded $624,719 in 1988 and another $981,975 in 1989. The average grant per recipient now exceeds $4,000, with the payment sent directly to the school.

The program was established to provide an incentive for youngsters to become and remain newscarriers for an extended period, the tuition award is in addition to the regular compensation that carriers receive for delivering the Globe.

The Globe's Paper Route to College program for newscarriers is unique among newspapers nationwide in that every carrier with a home delivery route can become eligible for the award.

The Paper Route to College is the largest of several tuition assistance programs the Globe sponsors every year. Some are awards as part of the Globe's Public Affairs programs, such as the Boston Globe Scholastic Arts Awards and the Mass. State Science Fair.

Others include the Boston Globe Scholar-Athlete program, Co-operative Education Scholarships, and the John I. Taylor and William Davis Taylor Outstanding Scholars Program, a joint program providing full scholarships to selected students of the Boston Public Schools to the University of Massachusetts at Boston.

DEARBORN, MICH. (SEPT. 14) PR NEWSWIRE - Ford Motor Company's investment of $177 million for research and engineering facilities will produce long-range benefits of great value to Ford customers, to the environment, and to the automotive industry, Ford Chairman Harold A. Poling said today.

Speaking at a ceremony here marking the expansion and renovation of the company's Scientific Research Laboratories and the groundbreaking for a new Advanced Engineering Center, Poling said that "the combined significance of these two projects cannot be overstated."

Keynote speaker Dr. Allan Bromley, assistant to President Bush for Science and Technology, said that research and development are essential to the long-term health of industry and the country.

"I don't think any country is better positioned to succeed in the new world economic order than is the United States," he stated.

The Scientific Research Laboratories are being expanded and modernized to accommodate the sweeping change in the focus of Ford's research and engineering efforts over the past three decades. A 125,000-square-foot addition will provide space for research in response to environmental needs, consolidation of engineering activities from other buildings, and a joint project between Ford's Electronics Division and the integrated circuit laboratory.

The 236,000-square-foot Advanced Engineering Center -- to be built on Ford's Dearborn research campus -- will provide a central facility where Ford engineers will carry out intensified research and engineering development to reduce noise, vibration, and harshness in vehicles in an effort to enhance the overall customer driving experience.

"In the next couple of decades, we'll be facing worldwide challenges of enormous magnitude," Poling said. "And the actions we're launching today ... will play a constructive role in helping us to meet these challenges head on."

According to Poling, one of the biggest competitive concerns, excess worldwide automotive capacity, will make some manufacturers more vulnerable than others. The work carried out in these two facilities "will be a crucial element" in Ford's quest to be included in the select group of manufacturers who are global winners, he said.

OAKBROOK TERRACE, ILL. (SEPT. 14) PR NEWSWIRE - Telesphere Communications Inc. (AMEX: TSP) and Kennedy Space Center SPACEPORT USA today announce the availability of a new 900 number for NASA Space Shuttle launch information. The service was contracted by TW Recreational Services Inc., operating company of SPACEPORT USA, the visitor center at Kennedy Space Center in Florida.

The new number (900-321-LIFT-OFF) (75 cents per call) is available in the continental United States and will be promoted to visitors on central Florida billboards and in all printed promotional material distributed by SPACEPORT USA. The hotline is designed to enhance public interest in America's space program and promote visitor attendance at SPACEPORT USA. Information provided during the one-minute message includes date and time of the next scheduled launch, an overview of the mission and crew and a brief description of SPACEPORT USA activities.

"We feel the traveling public will appreciate being able to learn in advance about upcoming Space Shuttle launches that may occur during their central Florida vacation," says H.B. Chambers, division vice president and general manager. Dennis Houlihan, senior vice president of Telesphere's Information Services/900 Business Unit, observes the new hotline as an example of a creative 900 number application. "Innovative organizations, such as TW Recreational Services, are finding new ways to use 900 service to reach consumers. The Space Shuttle information line will serve as an extremely effective marketing vehicle for SPACEPORT USA, as well as provide an important visitor service."

Available activities at SPACEPORT USA include two-hour bus tours of Kennedy Space Center and presentations of the spectacular IMAX movie "The Dream is Alive." Parking and admission to the complex are free; a nominal fee is charged for the bus tour and IMAX movie. In hosting over three million visitors during 1989, SPACEPORT USA ranks as the fourth most popular visitor destination in Florida.

Telesphere Communications Inc. operates a nationwide, state-of-the- art digital fiber optic network over which it provides long distance, operator, interactive 900 and other enhanced telecommunications services.

WEST CHESTER, PA (SEPT. 14) PR NEWSWIRE - Roy F. Weston Inc. (NASDAQ: WSTNA) (WESTON) announced today that it expects to report a profit for the third quarter 1990, however earnings will be less than anticipated.

"WESTON's consulting business remains stable in general but segments have been affected by increasing anticipation of an economic slowdown, particularly in the Northeast," said William J. Marrazzo, president and chief operating officer.

"The company has also experienced delays in the start-up of several large multi-disciplinary commercial projects, as well as two large federal projects which have since gotten underway. Additionally, laboratory revenues, while steady, have not grown as expected."

In the remediation sector, due to process modifications to its Transportable Incineration System, the company's wholly owned subsidiary, Weston Services, Inc., has achieved production improvements at its Paxton Avenue (Illinois EPA) project. However, the difficulties experienced to date on the project and the potential of yet unforeseen circumstances have prevented WESTON from recognizing any improvement in profitability.

"Overall we are encouraged by continued growth in the environmental management industry, nontheless, national economic factors could affect our future growth " said Marrazzo.

"We have shown a strong recovery during 1990. The factors that are currently detracting from higher earnings appear to be external rather than operational. While these economic trends may continue, we expect to remain profitable during the fourth quarter."

"Supporting these expectations are recent significant contract awards including U.S. EPA Emergency Response Service (TAT) for $116.5 million, a Corps of Engineers $15 million contract for on-site incineration of explosive-contaminated soils at the Savanna Army Depot and the exercise of an additional option year on the Department of Defense Office of Civilian Radioactive Waste Management (OCRWM) contract valued at $16.4 million. During 1990 new contract bookings are up 18 percent compared to the same period in 1989."

WESTON is headquartered in West Chester, and operates a network of four analytical laboratories and 44 offices, including Los Angeles, Houston, Chicago, Atlanta, Boston, New York and Washington, D.C.

ARLINGTON, VA. (SEPT. 14) PR NEWSWIRE - USAir today announced plans to increase fares in domestic markets by 4.2 percent effective Oct. 1.

The airline said the fare action is necessary to recover increases in the cost of jet fuel, which have been exacerbated by recent events in the Persian Gulf.

Cost of jet fuel continues to fluctuate and in recent weeks has periodically risen more than 30 cents per gallon above the average price of 58.5 cents per gallon reported by USAir for the second quarter of 1990.

Each 1 cent increase equates to an annual cost of $13 million to USAir, which purchases about 1.3 billion gallons of jet fuel annually.

LOS ANGELES (SEPT. 14) PR NEWSWIRE - Ed Wilson has been named to the newly-created position of senior vice president, syndication, Columbia Pictures Television, it was announced today by Barry Thurston, president, syndication, to whom he will report.

Prior to joining Columbia, Wilson served six-and-a-half years at Paramount Domestic Television, the last three based in New York as vice president, Eastern regional manager.

In his new post, Wilson will oversee Columbia's syndication and basic cable sales efforts for its extensive library of off-network television series and feature film packages.

The newly-created position effectively restructures the reporting lines for Columbia's sales force, which previously was overseen directly by Thurston. Under the new structure, the company's regional sales offices will report to Wilson, allowing Thurston to concentrate on strategic planning and management oversight of the entire syndication division.

"Ed brings to Columbia more than a decade of hands-on syndication sales and management experience, in addition to background as a station executive," noted Thurston. "He has relationships with stations across the country, an intuitive understanding of the marketplace and a track record of obtaining competitive prices and time slots."

While at Paramount, Wilson spearheaded major market, East Coast sales for such highly-successful first-run launches as "Star Trek: The Next Generation," "Arsenio Hall," "Geraldo," "Joan Rivers" and "Hard Copy" and obtained critical renewals and upgrades for "Entertainment Tonight."

Wilson joined Paramount in 1985 as Southwestern division manager based in Dallas. He was promoted to vice president, Southern regional manager in 1986. During his stint in Dallas, he headed the regional sales efforts for the off-network launches of "Cheers," "Family Ties" and "Webster." Prior to joining Paramount, Wilson was sales manager for KATV, the ABC affiliate in Little Rock, Ark. In 1982, Wilson was named divisional manager, Midwest division for Viacom, where he previously served as account executive and sales trainee in the Southwest division.

He holds a bachelor of science degree in finance from the University of Arkansas.

Wilson will be based in the company's Burbank, Calif., office. Columbia Pictures Television is a Columbia Pictures Entertainment Company.

ONTARIO, CALIF. (SEPT. 14) PR NEWSWIRE - United Parcel Service broke ground today for its new $53 million Ontario Hub.

The Ontario facility will combine an air express package sorting center serving the West Coast and a local ground delivery operation on 160 acres of land located adjacent to the Ontario airport. UPS will relocate its aircraft to a 50-acre concrete ramp for loading and unloading.

A 500,000-square-foot, one-story building for processing air packages and housing UPS delivery vehicles will also be constructed. Plans call for the new facility to begin operating in late 1992.

More than 1,400 people will be employed at the Ontario facility with an annual payroll in excess of $29 million.

According to Al Barnes, UPS Southeast California district manager, "This new facility will accommodate approximately 22 flights daily and process 40,000 packages per hour."

UPS's main air facility is located in Louisville, Ky. Besides Ontario, UPS operates other domestic air hubs in Dallas and Philadelphia.

Hong Kong serves as UPS's Pacific Rim hum while Cologne, West Germany handles European air sorting operations.

UPS, based in Greenwich, Conn., is a worldwide company serving all 50 states and more than 180 countries and territories. With a volume of 2.8 billion packages and documents in 1989, and revenue of more than $12 billion, UPS is the world's largest package delivery company.

WASHINGTON (SEPT. 14) PR NEWSWIRE - Michael H. Blumenthal, a prominent expert in the field of scrap tire recycling and solid waste management, has been named executive director of the Rubber Manufacturers Association's new Scrap Tire Management Council, it was announced today.

Blumenthal will relocate to Washington from New York, where he formerly was a solid waste planner and project administrator with Malcolm Pirnie Inc., a prestigious environmental engineering firm. He will assume his new post Oct. 1.

"We are fortunate to have someone of Mike Blumenthal's training and considerable experience for this important new position," said John R. Serumgard, vice president, RMA's Tire Division, in making the announcement. "His background will prove to be of great benefit in directing the Council's technical and marketing programs aimed at scrap tire disposition."

RMA is the national trade association of the tire and rubber industry, headquartered in Washington. It has 200 member and affiliate member companies that manufacture over 40,000 products.

Last June, the RMA board of directors established the Scrap Tire Management Council to launch a broad-based program to develop and promote the use of scrap tires as a valuable resources in an environmentally and economically sound manner.

In carrying out its five-year business plan, the Council plans to work with tire dealers, retreaders, recyclers, waste haulers and others on a range of scrap tire initiatives to foster greater recycling, reuse and recovery projects.

As a solid waste planner for Malcolm Pirnie Inc., Blumenthal prepared waste tire disposal plans for several cities nationwide, including a regional plan for the state of Ohio.

Prior to that, Blumenthal was associated with Oxford Energy Co., which operates the nation's only whole tire energy recovery facility, based in Westley, Calif. He assisted in preparing solid waste management permit applications for Oxford's original facility and its new waste tire-to-energy facility planned in Sterling, Conn.

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (SEPT. 14) PR NEWSWIRE - The board of directors of Genencor International today appointed Robert E. Leach president and chief executive officer, effective Oct. 1.

Leach previously served as vice president and general manager of technology and industrial enzymes at the company, one of the world's leading industrial biotechnology firms.

The company was formed in September 1989, as a joint venture between the bio-products divisions of Eastman Kodak Company and Cultor, Ltd., of Finland.

In March of this year the venture acquired Genencor, Inc., where Leach had served as president since its inception in 1982. The venture took the name Genencor International to capitalize on Genencor's world-renowned biotechnology research.

Leach succeeds Jose J. Coronas, who has been named vice president and general manager of Kodak's Clinical Products Division. In addition, Coronas will maintain a relationship with Genencor International as a member of its board of directors.

"Genencor International has already established itself as the industrial biotechnology company of the future," said Leach. "As a totally integrated company with international capabilities, we have tremendous opportunities before us. We will continue to move ahead aggressively in the areas we've targeted for growth."

Genencor International has focused its efforts on a broad spectrum of industrial enzymes and specialty chemicals. The company also is a major player in the field of diagnostic reagents, and has achieved global recognition with its Snomax snow inducer.

Leach began his career with Corning, Inc., and filled a series of marketing and general management positions, with an emphasis in new business management and strategic planning. There, he sponsored the original concept of an industrial biotechnology venture between Corning and Genentech, Inc., which was named Genencor, Inc.

Headquartered in Rochester, N.Y., Genencor International also has facilities in South San Francisco, Calif., and Schaumburg, Ill. In addition, the company has three manufacturing plants in Finland, as well as processing facilities at various sites in the United States. A new large-scale production facility, now under construction in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, is expected to be on-line in 1991.

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (SEPT. 14) PR NEWSWIRE - Texaco Inc. (NYSE: TX), on behalf of a subsidiary, Texaco Petroleum Maatschappij, Nederland, B.V., operating in China with Agip Overseas Ltd., Chevron Overseas Petroleum Limited and the Nanhai East Oil Corporation, announce that oil production commenced Sept. 13 in the Huizhou 21-1 offshore field.

This oil field, 160 kilometers (100 miles) southeast of Hong Kong, is the first commercial oil field in the Pearl River Mouth Basin of the South China Sea, and is operated by ACT Operators Group staffed by Texaco, Chevron and Agip. The field was jointly developed by Nanhai East Oil Corporation of the China National Offshore Oil Corporation; Texaco Petroleum Maatschappij, Nederland, B.V.; Agip Overseas Ltd.; and Chevron Overseas Petroleum, Ltd.. Texaco, Agip and Chevron each hold an equity interest in the field of 16.3 percent, with the China National Offshore Oil Corporation having a 51 percent interest.

Huizhou 21-1 field is expected to reach a peak production rate of about 30,000 barrels of oil per day (4,000 tonnes per day) in early 1991.

The field production facilities include a four-leg production and work-over drilling platform, pipelines between the platform and a single-point mooring system (SPM) with a 250,000 dead-weight-ton storage and processing tanker. The storage tanker can be disconnected through a buoyant turret mooring (BTM) system in case of an approaching typhoon. The oil is transferred from the storage tanker to shuttle tankers for transportation to terminal locations.

A second oil field, Huizhou 26-1, 24 kilometers (15 miles) southwest of the Huizhou 21-1 oil field, jointly being developed by Texaco, Agip, Chevron and the Nanhai East Oil Corporation, will begin production in September 1991, sharing the production facilities at the single-point mooring system and storage tanker with Huizhou 21-1 oil field.

Peak production from the combined oil fields is expected to occur in early 1992 at about 80,000 barrels of oil per day (10,700 tonnes per day).

KANSAS CITY, MO. (SEPT. 14) PR NEWSWIRE - Drue Jennings, president and chief executive officer of Kansas City Power & Light Company (KCPL) (NYSE: KLT), today sent the following letter to Wilson K. Cadman, chairman of the board and president of Kansas Gas and Electric Company (NYSE: KGE):

"I am writing to ask your help in expediting the timely receipt by KCPL of the non-public information you offered to make available in your letter of September 11, 1990. Our advisers contacted yours early on September 12 to obtain the confidentiality agreement you referred to and as of this morning we have not yet received a draft.

"Since your board has authorized the furnishing of this information to us, we frankly cannot understand the delay. We are prepared to enter into a reasonable confidentiality agreement immediately provided that it does not inhibit our ability to pursue our current offer. I have instructed our legal advisers to deliver to your advisers this afternoon a form of confidentiality agreement we are prepared to execute today.

"Frankly, Wilson, your board's position as to the inadequacy of our $27 offer presents practical difficulties for KCPL. We view your board's willingness to provide non-public information as a desirable first step. We need to explore with your people our analysis of the synergies which we expect to achieve in a number of areas, including reductions we can achieve together in the costs of generating electricity in a combined system, savings we can achieve in planning system expansions to meet future demand and other savings in joint costs which can be achieved consistent with our undertaking to honor existing labor and employment agreements and maintain existing levels of compensation and benefits. As we have repeatedly stated, we believe that no layoffs will result from the combination of our two companies.

"We need to know more about the values which your board sees that led to their conclusion as to the inadequacy of our offer. If additional values that we have not taken into account can be demonstrated and can benefit our shareholders, we are prepared to explore ways to reflect those additional values in a negotiated transaction. This process which we are anxious to begin can only benefit your shareholders and customers and it is a surprise and somewhat disquieting to us at KCPL that there has been such a delay in starting this process.

The tender offer is scheduled to expire today at 7 p.m., New York City time.

SAN FRANCISCO (SEPT. 14) PR NEWSWIRE - Today is a "lost Friday" for millions of employees and their employers in California and the United States. If you're planning a story about this phenomenon -- in which nearly everyone in the country gets their paycheck on the same day -- you may want to know that Wells Fargo is in the midst of a campaign to promote direct deposit services to its branch customers. We can provide spokespeople to you, who can give you facts and figures on how this affects both employees and employers.

"Lost Fridays occur with some regularity. On those days, financial institutions everywhere are packed with people, who are taking extra time out of their workday to deposit their pay," says Sea Houston, executive vice president of Wells Fargo's checking account division. "Those people are losing time and their employers are losing productivity dollars worth an estimated $5 billion dollars a year."

The bank's campaign is aimed at encouraging its customers to ask their employers to use direct deposit of paychecks. "Direct deposit saves time for employees and employers, provides convenience -- which is a strong employee benefit, and gives employees immediate access to their money," says Houston. "We think it makes good business sense."

Currently, only 15 percent of American employees use direct deposit, compared to a 90 percent participation rate in Europe, according to the Calwestern Automated Clearing House Association (CACHA).

CALGARY (SEPT. 14) PR NEWSWIRE - The Olympic Victor Enterprises Inc. (OV) today announces that it has agreed to acquire all of the outstanding shares of PRIME LASERTECH INC. (PRIME) a private California company, from Intelligence Integrators Inc. in exchange for 5,500,000 of OV's common shares. These shares will be performance escrowed, and earned at the rate of one share per $ 0.10 of audited after tax cash flow. OV intends to raise working capital to finance the growth of PRIME LASERTECH INC. through a private placement of 750,000 units at $0.10 per unit, each unit consisting of one OV common share, and a warrant to acquire an additional OV common share at $ 0.15 until March 1 1992.

It is the intention of OV to sell all of its bingo related assets to Victor Vaseleniuk after the purchase of PRIME LASERTECH INC., and to continue only in Prime's business in the future.

PRIME LASERTECH INC. has developed a line of equipment based on laser diode microtechnology. This technology has multi-market applications and to date acceptance. PRIME's systems are sold to law enforcement surveillance users, to audio-visual markets, and to recreational gun owners through firearm stores.

In the surveillance market, the company's potential clients 3/8include police departments, SWAT teams in major U.S. metropolitan centres, the Drug Enforcement Agency, FBI, U.S. Marshals Office, RCMP, Canada and U.S. Customs. PRIME has also received product enquiries from law enforcement agencies in Europe. The law enforcement products include "Viper" an infra-red video periscope that contains a transmitter with a camera that is mounted on an extendable stalk for seeing around corners or into attics and basements in conditions of no light (zero lux). The video signal from the Viper is capable of being broadcast up to 1.5 miles from the investigation scene to a control centre or for recording to be used as evidence. To date the Viper is in use by the LAPD SWAT team, and several U.S. police departments. Viper has generated significant interest since it was introduced at recent law enforcement equipment shows.

Law enforcement buyers have also been excited by PRIME's "LaserCam," a zero lux video camera which, using invisible laser light illuminates a subject in total darkness to photograph the target as if the images were taken in broad daylight. The LaserCam camera, which itself is only 4" long by 1.5" square, can be fitted with a telephoto lens to extend its useful range. This camera is now in use by the DEA and other agencies.

OWENSBORO, KY. (SEPT. 14) PR NEWSWIRE - Western Kentucky Gas Co. (WKG) announced today that the Kentucky Public Service Commission (KPSC) has granted an annual rate increase of $1.018 million or 1 percent overall in its natural gas rates, effective immediately.

The company had applied for an annual increase of $8.9 million, or an overall increase of 8 percent, on Feb. 13, 1990. The increase was the first sought by WKG since 1986. The rate filing was made because of the need to restructure rates, recover increased operating and maintenance expenses and earn a reasonable return on plant additions.

"The company is currently evaluating the commission's order. I am encouraged by the KPSC's recognition of the need to restructure our rates. However, the company disagrees with the overall amount granted and the treatment given some of the major items in the case. We are exploring our options, including filing a motion for rehearing," said WKG President Earl Fischer.

The company has 20 days to file a motion for a rehearing. The commission's independent management audit of the company completed earlier this year cited WKG as one of the best managed and lowest cost providers of natural gas service in Kentucky. WKG was also cited as having the lowest number of customer inquiries of any utility in the Commonwealth. However, Fischer said the company is concerned about the impact of the order on the company's ability to continue to provide high quality service to its customers.

WKG serves approximately 150,000 customers in the western two-thirds of the Commonwealth of Kentucky. WKG is a division of Atmos Energy Corporation (NYSE: ATO) of Dallas.

KANSAS CITY, MO (SEPT. 14) PR NEWSWIRE - Torotel, Inc. (AMEX: TTL), the manufacturer of magnetic electronic components, today announced the company experienced increases in all key performance measures for the three months ended July 31, 1990.

Net Sales Up 22 Percent; Net Earnings Increase Nearly 22 Times Net sales for the first quarter rose 22 percent to $2.6 million from $2.2 million for the same period last year. Operating earnings jumped to $248,000, a 151 percent increase from the $99,000 shown in last year's first quarter. Net earnings for the latest quarter were $175,000 or 6 cents per share, a more than 2,000 percent increase from $8,000, equal to zero cents per share, for the prior year.

Financial Condition Continued to Improve Measures of Torotel's financial condition also showed improvement. The company's current ratio was 3.0 at the close of the quarter, compared with 2.7 a year ago. Torotel's debt-to-equity ratio was 2.2:1 at July 31, 1990, compared with 2.7:1 for the same date in 1989. Stockholders' equity increased 8 percent in the latest quarter of $1,895,000. The company cut its short-term debt nearly 40 percent to $151,000 and decreased its interest expense by 11 percent due to a lower aggregate debt level.

Higher Shippable Backlog Brought Operational Advances Commenting on the quarter, Alfred F. Marsh, Torotel's president, said, "Our sales increase came from a higher backlog at the beginning of the quarter: $6.7 million compared with $4.9 million at the beginning of last year. Torotel's backlog was higher because of the competitive pricing strategies we developed in the latter part of fiscal 1989, which have helped us increase our market share. Backlog continued to grow throughout the quarter, reaching $7.2 million at July 31, 1990, an 8 percent increase since the beginning of this fiscal year and a 22 percent rise from the $5.9 million we had at July 31, 1989.

"Although the first quarter's mix yielded lower profit margins, this was largely offset by higher sales volume," Marsh added. "We expect gross margins will improve during the course of fiscal 1991."

Fiscal 1991 Results Should Exceed Fiscal 1990's "The 6 cents per share we earned in the first quarter is nearly half of the 13 cents we saw for the whole of last fiscal year," Marsh explained. "We expect our performance this year will easily overshadow fiscal 1990 for a number of reasons. First, because of the situation in the Middle East, we are receiving requests from many Department of Defense contractors to step up production. We also are building more customer-financed prototypes for new, advanced missile programs, with production requirements imminent. As a result, our backlog will remain strong. Second, we are seeing a pattern of larger orders. One example is the $2.3 million contract we received from Rockwell International after the close of the first quarter. This represents the first installment on a four-year contract. Shipments already have begun on this project, which represents 25 percent of our total revenues for fiscal 1990. Third, the product line we acquired last year has generated a lot of interest among and orders from existing and new customers. This line will make a significant contribution to revenues and earnings in fiscal 1991.

"All of these factors reinforce the two points we have maintained all along: that cuts in defense spending will not have a major impact on Torotel and that defense electronics will gain a larger share of the remaining defense budget, offering plenty of opportunities for Torotel to grow," Marsh concluded.

Torotel, Inc. specializes in the design and high-volume manufacture of a broad line of precision magnetic components used in military and industrial electronic systems. These components, which include transformers, chokes and toroidal coils, are sold to original equipment manufacturers for use in such programs as avionic equipment, marine communication and navigation, telecommunications and weapons fire control systems. The company has a customer base of more than 400 companies and over 85 percent of its sales are for defense applications.

ANAHEIM, CA (SEPT. 14) PR NEWSWIRE - Distributed Logic Corporation (NASDAQ: DLOG) today announced quarterly financial results for the third quarter of its fiscal year.

Consolidated revenues for the three months ended July 31, 1990, totaled $10,955,513, a 14.3 percent decrease from the $12,780,664 reported for the third quarter of the previous year. The company reported a loss for the current period of $482,749, versus a profit of $7,229 in the prior year's comparable quarter. On a per share basis, this amounted to a $.19 loss per share for 1990, as compared to a $.01 profit per share in 1989.

Consolidated revenues for the nine months ended July 31, 1990, totaled $33,415,430, a 12 percent decrease from the $37,923,381 reported for the comparable period of the prior year. The company reported a loss of $2,163,447 or $.86 per share for the current period, versus a profit of $34,315 or $.03 per share for the nine months ended July 31, 1989.

"Our bottom line third quarter results were disappointing due to a soft order rate encountered in the late spring, which has subsequently improved," commented Glenn C. Salley, DILOG chairman and chief executive officer. "These numbers reflect continued competitive pressures on our sales volume and a shortage of working capital," he added. "Reduced gross margins were offset by a $400,000 reduction in overall operating expenses over the prior period, due to cost cuts made in prior quarters.

"Our continued high level of interest-bearing debt significantly impacted the quarter, as interest expense increased from $282,918 in fiscal 1989 to $515,238 in the current fiscal quarter," he said. "Foreign currency gains of $351,042 for the current quarter of 1990 compare favorably with a loss of $73,122 for the third quarter of 1989.

"During the quarter we signed two significant technology acquisition agreements and entered into a joint development effort with a major university " Salley added. "We expect these agreements to provide the basis for product range and market breadth increases over the coming quarters.

"As indicated previously, management is diligently pursuing solutions on several fronts that will increase the company's working capital and reduce its interest-bearing debt," he concluded. "These efforts, if successful, will improve gross margins in the future, as our product mix improves, and allow us to take advantage of higher volume discounts in our OEM purchases."

BROADVIEW, IL. (SEPT. 14) PR NEWSWIRE - The Bosch Group, through Robert Bosch Corporation, has acquired the operations of Airflow Research and Manufacturing Corporation of Watertown, Mass., and the related Airflow Products Division of Molmec, Inc. in Belleville, Mich.

Airflow designs, manufactures and distributes air movement systems for automobile engine cooling. Its products include automobile radiator cooling fan assemblies, alternator fans, air conditiong fans and computer cooling fans. Airflow employs 200 people in its engineering facility in Watertown and the production facility in Belleville. 1989 sales were approximately $40 million.

This acquisition complements the Bosch Group's activities in the field of motor vehicle blowers. Engine cooling and heater blowers are produced by the Bosch Group's Automotive Equipment Division responsible for bodywork electric and electronic products. This division and BG Automotive Motors, Inc., Hendersonville, Tenn., a joint venture with General Electric Company, build motors used in connection with these systems.

Robert Bosch Corporation, the U.S. subsidiary of Robert Bosch GmbH, employs more than 5,000 people at subsidiaries and affiliates in 23 cities and 15 states. In 1989, Bosch sales in the United States exceeded $1 billion.

LA JOLLA, CA. (SEPT. 14) PR NEWSWIRE - Marrow-Tech Inc. (NASDAQ: MAROA) reported, as expected, a net loss of $1.4 million for the second quarter ending July 31, 1990. Total net loss for the first half of the fiscal year ending July 31, 1990 was $2.5 million. Arthur J. Benvenuto, chairman, president and chief executive officer of the company noted that "the results for the second quarter and the first half of year were anticipated. They reflect further development of our manufacturing processes and facilities in preparation for commercialization of the company's first product this year." In corresponding periods of the last fiscal year, the company reported a net loss of $1 million and $1.8 million respectively.

The new loss per share was 9 cents and 11 cents for the three months ended July 31, 1990 and 1989, respectively, and 17 cents and 19 cents for the six months ended July 31, 1990 and 1989, respectively. The lower loss per share in the current fiscal year reflects additional shares outstanding in 1990 from the exercise of the company's Class A Warrants in late 1989.

As previously reported, Marrow-Tech is actively pursuing applications of its core technology and anticipates introducing its first product, a toxicology screening kit in the current fiscal year. The kit will contain cultured human skin tissue, and will be used to test the toxicities of various cosmetic, pharmaceutical and chemical compounds. In August, the company filed in Investigational Device Exemption with the Food and Drug Administration for the company's dermal replacement product. Approval of the application will allow the company to begin clinical trials of the dermal replacement product with burn patients.

Marrow-Tech is engaged in the growth of human tissue outside the body. The company believes that its proprietary tissue culture system has a number of potential therapeutic and laboratory applications. To date, the company has successfully grown skin, bone marrow and liver tissue.

WASHINGTON (SEPT. 14) PR NEWSWIRE - United Press International, responding to the industry's desire for new and different reports at ever-lower costs, said today it is creating new editorial services by shifting resources to areas of greatest interest to clients, increasing staff in some editorial units while reducing others and expanding alliances with other media.

UPI Executive Vice President-Editorial Operations Pieter VanBennekom said: "Extensive editorial changes are now possible, thanks to UPI's Aug. 29 switchover to our new worldwide computer system in Virginia, replacing the Dallas system after a two-and-a-half year, multimillion- dollar development effort. The new system gives us vastly more flexibility and speed in communicating with an increased number of news sources, and breaks a long-standing communications logjam that hampered efforts to provide reports tailored to individual clients' needs."

"These changes enhance UPI editors' ability to direct more than 3,000 current staff members and stringer-correspondents they command in the United States, alone," he continued. "We are now free to concentrate UPI's most talented staffers and editors on producing news reports that bring sharply into focus the significance of the events we report."

"Our accelerated operational and organizational changes are a direct result of feedback from UPI clients and other media," VanBennekom said. UPI provides news and information to more than 3,100 news media outlets worldwide.

"A primary goal of this initiative is to position us to expand our editorial services for each of the 50 states," VanBennekom said, "Editorial enterprise is the cornerstone of this plan. The other key element calls for UPI to be a major value-added editorial supplier of specialized news and information reports developed by UPI allies," he explained.

VanBennekom emphasized UPI's unfolding editorial plan calls for staff increases in UPI sports and business-finance units. Within the core editorial unit, meanwhile, some staff members not chosen for priority assignments are being dismissed.

"These strategic chances are essential to the growth of UPI in the 1990s as we respond to wrenching changes in the news media marketplace," he added.

Under the plan, UPI is increasing coverage through editorial joint ventures and use of subcontractors. UPI is emphasizing interpretative reporting of breaking news and trends, and producing more stories and background information on such focal points as defense, economics, lifestyles and demographics, healthcare and the environment.

UPI is owned by Infotechnology, Inc. (NASDAQ-NMS: ITCH), the New York City-based information and communications company that also owns 47 percent of Financial News Network Inc. (NASDAQ-NMS: FNNI).

BUTTE, MONT. (SEPT. 14) PR NEWSWIRE - Montana Power Co. (MPC) (NYSE: MTP) today was granted a $6.3 million annual increase in natural gas revenues on an interim basis by the Montana Public Service Commission (PSC), the company announced. MPC filed June 27 for a total increase of $9.6 million in natural gas revenues, and requested a $5.6 million interim increase. The interim order exceeds the company's request principally because the Commission allowed recovery of tax settlement amounts which were not requested in the interim filing.

On Aug. 29, the PSC authorized a $30.5 million interim revenue increase for MPC's electric utility. The company had asked for $30.6 million of its total $60.7 million electric request on an interim basis.

Both increases were effective immediately. PSC rules require that interim rate increase requests be calculated in accordance with the Commission's most recent final order and that the rate impact of controversial issues be removed. The interim increases were granted pending a final determination in the company's general rate increase request, subject to refund with interest should the final increases allowed be less than the interim increase. A final order is expected in June 1991.

RICHMOND, VA. (SEPT. 14) PR NEWSWIRE - The Virginia Retirement System (VRS) and CSX Corp. (NYSE: CSX) announced today that they had proposed to RF&P Corp. (RF&P) (NASDAQ: RFPCK) a transaction initiated by the VRS in which CSX would acquire RF&P's railroad operations in exchange for a portion of its RF&P shares and the VRS would acquire CSX's remaining shares, in both cases for $35 per share.

In addition and subject to favorable government rulings, the proposal includes a self-tender by RF&P for a portion of its shares not held by CSX or VRS at $35 per share in cash.

RF&P is a Virginia-based holding company which owns RF&P Railroad Co. and RF&P Properties Inc. RF&P has approximately 17.6 million shares outstanding. CSX Corp. controls, through an affiliate, 62.7 percent of RF&P's voting shares and 38 percent of RF&P's total shares, including dividend obligations. VRS is the second largest independent shareholder of RF&P owning approximately 28 percent of the combined voting and non- voting shares.

This transaction as initiated by VRS is subject to the approval of RF&P's board of directors and the board of directors of CSX and trustees of VRS. It is also subject to the execution of definitive agreements among all parties and customary due diligence. The transaction will also require certain governmental rulings and approvals and an appropriate shareholder vote, but would not require approval by the Virginia legislature.

Over the past several months, VRS has sought to enhance its investment in RF&P. To achieve this goal, VRS recently proposed a transaction to CSX which involved the following parts:

1. VRS would support an exchange of the stock of a newly formed RF&P subsidiary which will hold the railroad operating assets of the Richmond, Fredericksburg & Potomac Railroad, exclusive of property not needed for railroad purposes, to CSX for $135 million, which would be paid by exchange of approximately 3.9 million shares of RF&P dividend obligations valued at $35 per share.

2. VRS would buy CSX's remaining RF&P shares for $35 per share in cash. 3. Subject to favorable government rulings, RF&P would make a self- tender for a portion of its shares not owned by VRS and CSX at $35 per share in cash.

After CSX indicated that the basic framework of VRS's proposal was acceptable to it, they jointly presented the plan to RF&P.

As contemplated, the proposed transaction would result in RF&P retaining all of its real estate and transferring to CSX only its railroad operations in a tax-free transaction. RF&P directors affiliated with CSX would resign and the VRS would become the largest RF&P shareholder.

WESTBORO, MASS. (SEPT. 14) PR NEWSWIRE - Data General Corporation (NYSE: DGN) announced today that it has settled, subject to court approval, both the Malanka vs. Data General class action suit and the derivative Lewis vs. de Castro suit. Both were filed in 1985.

In both cases, the company and certain of its officers and directors had been named as defendants.

The company said that the conclusion of the suits will have no adverse effect on its business or have any significant impact on its financial condition. Neither the company nor any of the individual defendants admitted any liability.

The overall settlement of both cases will involve payments of an aggregate of $6 million, a portion of which will be covered by insurance.

"We are pleased to be able to bring this longstanding litigation to a close on reasonable terms" said Data General President Ronald L. Skates.

In an unrelated matter, Data General confirmed that a class action suit has been brought against the company and its board of directors by a plaintiff, purportedly representing the company's shareholders.

The suit was filed in the U.S. District Court in Boston and alleges that Data General made misleading statements about the state of its business earlier this year. The company said that the suit is without merit and believes it will not have any material effect on its business or financial condition.

DETROIT (SEPT. 14) PR NEWSWIRE - Detroit Edison today announced record monthly electricity sales to the industrial sector of 1.7 billion kilowatthours (kWh) in August, up 6 percent from a year ago.

The all-time monthly sales record was set through the addition of 76 new industrial customers during the past year, combined with a longer billing period in August, to offset declining sales to automotive and steel producers.

Total August sales of 3.7 billion kWh were down slightly, 0.6 percent, from a year ago.

Residential sales of 1 million kWh were down 7 percent from last August, despite an additional 21,500 customers. Cooler temperatures, which resulted in reduced air conditioning usage, contributed to the decrease.

August sales to commercial customers of 772 million kWh were the second highest for any August in the company's history, up 0.2 percent from a year ago. An increase of 3,300 commercial customers in Detroit Edison's southeastern Michigan service area contributed to the continued growth in commercial sales.

NORTH ANDOVER, MASS. (SEPT. 14) PR NEWSWIRE - Software Services of America, Inc. (NASDAQ: SSOA), today announced year-end results for the fiscal year ended May 31, 1990.

The net loss for fiscal 1990 was $1,900,750 or 85 cents per share on revenues of $1,808,724 vs. net income of $231,610 or 11 cents per share on revenues of $6,067,638 reported in fiscal 1989.

The substantial net loss in fiscal 1990 was due to the decline in sales and increase in expenses experienced during the transition in the company's product and marketing direction. In the past, the company has focused on the sale of its proprietary software sold separately and as part of a complete system with IBM's 4700 financial communication systems equipment. Over the past year and a half the company has been developing a new Branch Automation System for IBM's personal computer-based Consumer Transaction System.

Accordingly, the company considers the fiscal 1990 loss a reflection of its significant investment in its future product and marketing direction and not indicative of any adverse trend. The company has projected that first quarter 1991 results should be at or near break even or profitable.

Software Services of America, Inc. is a developer of electronic banking software, supporting branch automation and retail funds transfer systems, utilizing mainframe computers, financial terminal systems and personal computers.

LANHAM, MD (SEPT. 14) PR NEWSWIRE - Schwartz Brothers, Inc. (NASDAQ: SWAR A), one of the nation's leading independent distributors of audio and video home entertainment software, reported net income for the second quarter ended July 31, 1990, of $52,538 or $.03 per share on revenues of $26,283,029 compared to $164,885 or $.09 per share on revenues of $21,549,578 in the same period last year.

For the first half, net income was $182,449 or $.10 per share on revenues of $56,172,088 compared to $271,907 or $.15 per share on revenues of $45,232,640 in the first six months of the previous year.

Results for the second quarter reflect an increased provision for doubtful accounts related to certain retail customers, higher interest expenses and increased overhead costs. Schwartz Brothers officials said they are pleased with the continuing increase in revenues, particularly in light of this year's economic climate. Based on results to date, the company is optimistic about revenues gains for the year ending Jan. 31, 1991.

In a major step to improve profitability, the company announced that Patrick A. Labriola, former treasurer of Woodward & Lothrop, a leading department store chain, has become senior vice president of operations and chief financial officer of Schwartz Brothers, Inc. Labriola is responsible for finance, operations, information services and human resources. "We believe that Pat Labriola's experience and knowledge will help provide the financial and administrative controls which are so essential to make our operations more efficient and enable us to continue our expansion," according to Stuart and James Schwartz, chairman and president, respectively.

Schwartz Brothers, Inc., headquartered in Lanham, Md., in the Washington, D.C. area, has offices in Atlanta, serving the southeast; Cleveland serving the midwest; Cherry Hill and West Caldwell, N.J., serving the northeast and the Middle Atlantic states. Its common stock is traded over-the-counter (NASDAQ symbol SWAR A).

CHANTILLY, VA. (SEPT. 14) PR NEWSWIRE - Fairchild Industries Inc. today reported sales of $124 million and $442 million for the fourth quarter and fiscal year 1990 periods ended June 30, 1990.

Net earnings from continuing operations are $6.2 million for the quarter and $14.6 million for the 12-month periods ended June 30, 1990. All three business segments made strong contributions to sales and earnings in the fourth quarter as well as for the year. In addition, sales and earnings benefitted from the inclusion of the Specialty Fasteners Division in the fiscal year 1990 periods subsequent to the merger with Banner Industries (NYSE: BNR) in August 1989. (The Specialty Fasteners Division was contributed to the company by Banner Industries as part of the merger.)

Fairchild changed its fiscal year-end as of June 30, 1989, as a result of the merger, therefore the prior year fiscal period is a six-month period. Sales were $81 million and $158 million for the quarter and six-month periods ended

June 30, 1989. Net losses were reported in the prior year fourth quarter of $12.8 million and $11.1 million for the six month period principally due to the restructuring and acquisition costs incurred during these periods.

The following table presents financial information for the quarters and the 12-month and six-month periods ended June 30, 1990, and June 30, 1989, respectively.

Fairchild will file its annual report on Form 10-K with the Securities & Exchange Commission by the close of business on Sept. 28, 1990. Copies of Form 10-K will be available upon written request to the Corporate Secretary, Fairchild Industries Inc., P.O. Box 10803, Chantilly, Va., 22021.

Fairchild is a subsidiary of Banner Industries Inc. with interests in aerospace fasteners, tooling for plastics and communications services. The company's Series A Convertible Preferred Stock is listed on the New York Stock Exchange (FEN PrA).

MALVERN, PA. (SEPT. 14) PR NEWSWIRE - Systems & Computer Technology Corp. (NASDAQ: SCTC) (SCT), a computing management and applications software company today announced that it will increase its reserves for doubtful accounts by approximately $700,000, the majority of which is to cover a delinquent account in its Puerto Rican operations.

The company said it is no longer providing computing and administrative services to a former client in Puerto Rico that has not paid for certain services previously rendered by the company.

"We regret having controversies with any of our clients," said Eric Haskell, senior vice president-finance and administration, and chief financial officer. "However, we are determined to protect the company's financial interests, and we intend to take vigorous action to collect this money. While we cannot predict the outcome of these situations, SCT's balance sheet continues to be strong, even with the addition of these reserves."

SCT also said that it is continuing to consider repurchases of its common stock, depending on market conditions and price. The company has recently repurchased a total of 95,000 shares of stock. The purchases will be funded from available cash.

SCT is a leading provider of computing management services and applications software for educational institutions and government jurisdictions nationwide. The company is headquartered at 4 Country View Road, Malvern, Pa., 19355.

PHILADELPHIA (SEPT. 14) PR NEWSWIRE - Geriatric & Medical Centers, Inc. (NASDAQ: GEMC) has today reported certain recent events related to Medicaid audit adjustments and business use and occupancy tax assessments previously disclosed. Pending the company's right to seek administrative resolution with the commonwealth of Pennsylvania or resolution through judicial process, the commonwealth is seeking audit adjustments to cost reports for fiscal years ending 1986 and 1987 which, if extended on the same basis to periods commencing after fiscal 1987, could result in a charge to income of up to $10,000,000. The impact of business use and occupancy tax assessments could result in a charge to income of up to $2,130,000.

The company is presently unable to obtain audited financial statements for its year ended May 31, 1990, due to its inability to develop acceptable accounting estimates for the matters described above. However, the company has prepared and filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission a draft Form 10-K, including unaudited financial statements, subject to the determination of applicable reserves for Medicaid audit and business use and occupancy tax assessments.

These events have caused the company not to be in compliance with certain financial covenants in its loan agreements with its primary lenders. If the non-compliance is not cured by obtaining an unqualified report from its independent certified public accountants by Sept. 28, 1990, its lenders may declare the loans in default, cease funding and call all indebtedness under their various loan agreements immediately due and payable.

While there is no assurance as to the ultimate result, and resolution may not occur by Sept. 28, 1990, the company will continue its efforts to reach satisfactory settlements with the applicable administrative agencies and to cure, if necessary, any non-compliance in its loan agreements.

PHILADELPHIA (SEPT. 14) PR NEWSWIRE - First Executive Bank announced today that the bank had determined to increase its loan loss reserve to 3 percent of the loans outstanding.

This represents an addition of approximately $935,000 to existing reserve of $467,000 bringing it to a total of approximately $1.4 million. The increase resulted primarily from a review of certain loans to individuals whose assets and businesses are concentrated in real estate and real estate development and the impact of general economic and banking regulatory conditions. It is expected that the increase in loan loss reserves will eliminate the bank's profitability for 1990. The bank will be continually reviewing its loan portfolio and will adjust its loan loss reserves accordingly. This interim adjustment is unaudited.

First Executive Bank opened for business in November 1988. Located at 1513 Walnut St. in Center City Philadelphia, it is a state-chartered bank and a member of the Federal Reserve System. Its deposits are insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. (FDIC). First Executive Bank is a wholly

NEW YORK (SEPT. 14) PR NEWSWIRE - For the third consecutive year, Entrepreneur has bucked the industry trend in newsstand sales, racking up a 7.8 percent increase in single copy sales for the first six months of 1990.

The fastest growing business magazine in America, Entrepreneur outsold all other business monthlies, averaging over 104,000 copies per issue on the nation's newsstands according to the latest Audit Bureau of Circulation (ABC) report. The magazine also posted a 7.9 percent total circulation gain over the same period in 1989, averaging 332,170 in overall circulation.

"In a year when many magazines are experiencing a circulation downturn, Entrepreneur's newsstand performance indicates strong consumer interest in the magazine, adding to its value for advertisers. It's no coincidence that Entrepreneur is number one in newsstand sales as well as number one in ad pages among business monthlies," said James L. Fitzpatrick, publisher, adding that the magazine's circulation rise is a reflection of the explosive growth of the small business market.

Effective with the January 1991 issue, Entrepreneur will raise its guaranteed circulation rate base from 325,000 to 340,000. In addition, full page advertising rates will increase to $18,160 for 4-color and $13,625 for black and white. "Based on Entrepreneur's overall performance, we feel fully confident raising the circulation rate base for the magazine in 1991," said Fitzpatrick.

Entrepreneur is the flagship publication of the Entrepreneur Group, the nation's leading small business authority. The Irvine, Calif.-based company also publishes "Entrepreneurial Woman," "Homebased Business," and "New Business Opportunities" and the "Be Your own Boss" series of reference guides.

DENVER (SEPT. 14) PR NEWSWIRE - First Interstate Bank of Denver today announced it will launch a major advertising campaign Sunday, Sept. 16 that will allow families to save up to $600 on round-trip tickets through Continental Airlines.

Under the new campaign, "Call First Interstate Bank and Fly Continental For Less," consumers can simply call the bank to open a new account by phone.

With a qualifying deposit, consumers can receive discount certificates worth up to $100 each on round-trip tickets to anywhere Continental flies in the continental U.S. and Hawaii. To receive two certificates, consumers can deposit $500 into a new checking account; deposit $1,000 into a new or existing savings account; or make a $2,500 deposit into a new or existing market interest account. To receive four certificates, consumers can open or renew a six-month Certificate of Deposit with $5,000. There is a limit of six certificates per household.

Certificates are good anytime from now through Sept. 21, 1991 including holidays.

"The beauty of this offer is that our customers can save a substantial amount of money on airline tickets at a time when airfares are soaring," explains Frances Draper, First Interstate's senior vice president of Retail Banking.

"Plus, there are no restrictions on the use of these certificates during holidays," Draper said. Discount tickets may be used on any published fare, and any class of travel from first class to economy. A Saturday night stay and a minimum seven-day advance purchase are required.

Discounts are based on the price of the round-trip tickets and only one certificate may be applied to each round-trip ticket. Customers can save $25 on tickets between $150 and $200; $50 on tickets costing $201 to $350; and $100 on tickets priced at $351 or more.

LOS ANGELES (SEPT. 14) PR NEWSWIRE - The board of directors of Angeles Corp. (AMEX: ANG) has approved an offering which would give Angeles unitholders of record on Sept. 15, 1990, the opportunity to exchange a portion of their units (AMEX: ANG.E) for Angeles common stock. The exchange, entirely voluntary on the part of the unitholders, will be available through Oct. 15, 1990.

Angeles will accept up to 20 percent of units held by each beneficial holder and exchange the debt portion of these units for Angeles common stock. Each unit, which includes one-half share of common stock, would be exchanged for a minimum of three shares of common stock. The rate is subject to adjustment so that the exchange will provide a premium of at least 25 percent to tendering unitholders based on the trading prices of the common stock and the unit during the 10 business days immediately preceding the offering expiration date. In no event, however, will the exchange rate exceed 3.5 shares of common stock per unit.

Unitholders may tender more than 20 percent of their units, but acceptance of the excess units for exchange cannot be determined until the end of the offering. Since the exchange offer is for 20 percent of all outstanding units, excess units tendered by individuals will be accepted for exchange on a pro rata basis until the overall 20 percent is reached. In no event will Angeles accept more than 30 percent of the total outstanding units.

An exception is made for unitholders with less than 100 units who, in order to participate, must tender all of their units, all of which will be accepted for exchange.

Each Angeles unit consists of one-half share of Angeles common stock, and subordinated indebtedness in the form of one fiftieth of a $1,000 12 1/2 percent subordinated debenture maturing in 2005 and the cash payment of a total of $1.00 of principal to be paid over the four-year lifetime of the units. Friday's closing market price of units was $10.25. Angeles common stock closed at $4.50.

Participation in the exchange offer does not affect the previously announced distribution of $1.375 per unit to be paid Oct. 15, 1990, to all unitholders of record on Sept. 15, 1990.

Angeles believes the exchange will be beneficial to the company because a portion of its long-term debt will be converted to equity, it will report a gain on the debt converted and its annual interest expense will be reduced.

Angeles Corp. is a diversified investment management company whose subsidiaries manage in excess of $4 billion of securities, real estate, mutual fund and leased equipment assets for corporations, institutions and 130,000 individual investors.

PORTLAND, ORE. (SEPT. 14) PR NEWSWIRE - NERCO Inc. (NYSE: NER) announced that subsidiaries of its coal unit, NERCO Coal Corp., today filed suit for declaratory judgement against Wisconsin Public Service Corp. (WPSC), Green Bay Wisc., in Federal District Court in Indianapolis.

The parties had executed a 20-year contract in 1985, with coal deliveries beginning in 1986. The coal supply agreement provides for shipments of between 375,000 to 800,000 tons of coal annually for the first 10 years of the contract.

Over the course of the past 14 months, the parties have been negotiating over the impact of obligations under the agreement given Wisconsin acid rain legislation that is slated to become effective in 1993.

According to NERCO, settlement negotiations reached an impasse this week when the WPSC board of directors declined to approve a tentative agreement between the parties.

NERCO Coal Corp. President C.C. Adams noted, "We are hopeful that we will be able to resolve these matters through negotiations between the parties."

NERCO Coal Corp. is a wholly owned subsidiary of NERCO Inc., a major North American producer of coal, gas, oil, gold and silver. Approximately 82 percent of NERCO's common stock is indirectly owned by PacifiCorp (NYSE: PPW), a diversified electric utility also based in Portland.

MIAMI (SEPT. 14) PR NEWSWIRE - The Deltona Corporation (NYSE: DLT) today announced that the temporary waiver granted by its lenders expired on Aug. 31, 1990. The temporary waiver included deferral of approximately $566,000, representing interest due Aug. 1, 1990 and a portion of the interest that had been due July 1, 1990.

The company has requested an extension of the temporary waiver to Sept. 30, 1990. Such request includes a request for waiver of compliance with certain coverage and ratio tests under the company's loan agreement, as well as for the deferral of approximately $1 million of interest for the two and a half month period.

The lenders are considering the company's request. It is likely that the company will be required to seek additional temporary waivers throughout the remainder of 1990. It is also necessary that the company resume negotiations for more liberal terms of its loan agreement. There can be no assurance that the request for the extension of the temporary waiver or any similar future requests will be granted or that the negotiations will be successful.

Deltona also announced that it received a proposal today from Empire of Carolina, Inc. (AMEX: EMP), which holds approximately 39 percent of Deltona's common stock, regarding Empire's April 1990 arrangement with Deltona's board to loan the company the sum of $350,000 and, in addition and subject to Empire's sole discretion, Deltona negotiating more liberal terms of its loan agreement and Deltona achieving appropriate overhead reductions, to loan Deltona up to an additional $4,650,000 over the next 20 months. Empire has, since May 1990, loaned Deltona the aggregate sum of $750,000 under that arrangement. The loan was to have been secured by a mortgage receivable on certain of Deltona's property but, to date, is unsecured.

Deltona further noted that other states are also tightening their regulation of real estate developers. The company reported that it has taken steps to modify its marketing programs and registration applications in the face of such increased regulation, but has incurred additional costs and delays in the process. Deltona also expressed concern that the current national and international economic and political situation was not aiding its efforts to increase retail land sales already depressed because of adverse publicity concerning the indictment and bankruptcy of another major Florida real estate developer. The company is hopeful that its new deed and mortgage sales program will help bolster retail land sales by restoring purchaser confidence.

SAN ANTONIO (SEPT. 14) PR NEWSWIRE - Datapoint Corporation (NYSE: DPT) today reported a net loss of $82.8 million on revenue of $267.3 million for its fiscal year ended July 28, 1990. This compares with a net loss of $29.2 million on revenue of $312.5 million for fiscal year 1989. During 1990, the company incurred $67.5 million in charges associated with the restructuring of its worldwide operations. These restructuring charges consisted of $33.3 million in write-downs of investments in the company's international operations, $10.3 million of employee severance accruals, $10.1 million in write-downs of capitalized software, $6.8 million in write-downs of fixed assets, $5.0 million of office closing accruals and $2.0 million in other charges.

The restructuring charges in 1990 consisted of $62 million in operating charges and $5.5 million in non-operating charges. Excluding restructuring charges, the company had operating income of $4.9 million during 1990. During 1989, the company had $11.1 million in restructuring charges, all of which impacted operating income. Excluding these restructuring charges, the company had an operating loss of $8.9 million in 1989.

The net loss for the fourth quarter of fiscal 1990 was $52 million, on revenue of $72.6 million, compared with a net loss of $8.9 million, on revenue of $79.0 million, for the fourth quarter of fiscal 1989. During the fourth quarter of 1990, the company recorded $55.2 million in restructuring charges. Excluding these charges, the company had net income of $3.2 million for the fourth quarter. Also, during the fourth quarter of 1990, the company's investment portfolio recorded a gain of $2.0 million. In addition, the company's cash and investments also increased $6.1 million over the third quarter of 1990. There were no restructuring charges during the fourth quarter of 1989.

"Restructuring measures taken during the fourth quarter, when coupled with the other actions taken over the past 18 months, will significantly reduce the company's future costs," said Michael M. Michigami, Datapoint president and chief executive officer. "Also during 1990, the company reduced its debt by $26.6 million and generated $12.6 million of positive cash flow from operations."

Datapoint Corporation develops, manufactures, and markets computer and communication products for integrated network systems worldwide.

PARKERSBURG, WV (SEPT. 14) PR NEWSWIRE - Manville Corp. (NYSE: MVL) announced today that 235 jobs at its Parkersburg plant could be lost as early as next week unless a new contract is ratified this weekend by its union which walked off the job Aug. 17.

Manville said that Ford Motor Company's lack of confidence in Manville's Parkersburg plant's ability to maintain satisfactory production rates as a result of the prolonged strike has prompted it to begin removing tooling for Explorer truck topliners from the plant.

Ford also has said that it will now have the product manufactured by a Manville competitor. Twenty-eight jobs were lost immediately Friday. In addition, Ford said that they will be forced to remove all remaining tooling next week in order to keep their assembly lines running, unless the strike is resolved. If this occurs, 235 jobs at Parkersburg will be eliminated next week.

Ford indicated that their reasons for this action were:

-- That it believes that it is unlikely that the strike will be resolved in the near future given the breakdown in negotiations.

-- Ford's concern over Parkersburg's ability to maintain satisfactory production rates under current conditions.

-- Ford's concern that the strike conditions will worsen; and -- The potential shutdown of Ford's Louisville assembly plant should the situation at Parkersburg not be resolved.

The Ford Explorer truck is one of Ford's best-selling vehicles. Manville's Parkersburg plant has produced 70 percent of the topliner shells for this vehicle.

"The imminent loss of our customers poses dire consequences to the future of Manville's ability to continue as a major employer in Parkersburg," said Bob Mason, manager of the Parkersburg plant. "We believe that it is imperative that the union membership have a clear understanding of the potential serious consequences if the strike continues and that the union members be offered an opportunity to immediately vote on the company's final offer as presented to the union bargaining committee on Aug. 30."

"Manville has negotiated in good faith with the union," Mason added. "We believe that we have presented a fair and mutually beneficial solution to the issue of employee health care benefits and rising medical costs."

VANCOUVER, BRITISH COLUMBIA (SEPT. 14) PR NEWSWIRE - The strong Canadian dollar, increased low-cost competition from the United States and the lack of an economic log supply are forcing Fletcher Challenge Canada to seek a buyer for its Delta Plywood division.

The company announced today it is beginning a consultative process involving employees, the IWA and municipal and provincial governments to exit from the coastal plywood industry by selling Delta Plywood and by closing a smaller production facility at Fraser Mills on Nov. 30.

Des Gelz, group vice president of the company's Coast Wood Products, said the two plywood facilities were consolidated in April 1989 and the company invested $1.5 million in new equipment to modernize the operations.

''Despite our very best efforts, the benefits we hoped to achieve through consolidation have been largely erased by external factors beyond our control '' Gelz said.

''These factors include the stronger Canadian dollar, entry of lower cost producers into traditional markets and an increasingly scarce economic log supply on the B.C. Coast.

''Future tariff reductions as a result of the Canada-U.S. free trade agreement will only make this picture worse for us.''

However, Gelz said the company is optimistic it can find a buyer for Delta Plywood, the newer of the two operations, because it is a stand alone facility. The Fraser Mills panel operation shares a common site with a company sawmill. The 94 employees displaced there will be offered early retirement, severance pay or job opportunities elsewhere in the company, he said.

The company has prepared a prospectus to help attract potential buyers for the Delta operation. Gelz said the company will specify as a condition of sale that the new owner be required to employ as many existing workers as possible to meet its new manpower requirements.

Today, 155 of a total workforce of 259 employees are on the job while the balance remain on layoff.

Gelz said the company has already talked with one potential buyer. It would also consider an offer of purchase from employees and will provide an independent financial consulting service if sufficient interest is indicated.

Fletcher Challenge Canada is a leading producer of sheathing plywood grades and will continue to manufacture these products at its B.C. Interior operations at Kelowna and Armstrong, Gelz said.

CHICAGO (SEPT. 14) PR NEWSWIRE - The Ferruzzi Group today said it was disappointed to be denied a restraining order, but noted that the petition was simply the first step in seeking judicial redress of the Chicago Board of Trade's unfair treatment of Ferruzzi.

The Ferruzzi Group stated: "We are, of course, disappointed by the decision. But we appreciate the judge's careful and thorough review."

On Wednesday, Ferruzzi filed its suit seeking a preliminary injunction against a CBOT disciplinary hearing planned for next Monday. Ferruzzi had argued that the CBOT had prejudged Ferruzzi, had a financial stake in the outcome of the hearing, and was incapable of providing an impartial hearing.

U.S. District Court Judge James B. Zagel denied that request earlier today on the grounds that Ferruzzi had not yet exhausted its administrative remedies. He said that before they could be considered by a federal court, Ferruzzi's charges of bias against the CBOT should first be heard before the Commodity Futures Trading Commission, the federal agency responsible for overseeing the exchanges.

Judge Zagel also said that, in his view, disciplinary hearings such as that scheduled to begin Monday at the CBOT would appear to be subject to due process requirements.

Also on Wednesday, Ferruzzi filed a damages suit charging the CBOT with manipulating the market and conspiring to drive market prices downward when it issued its liquidation order in the July 1989 soybean futures contract.

"We look forward to having a court address the issues in Ferruzzi's damages suit, which will provide a full public review of the CBOT's July 11, 1989 so-called emergency order," Ferruzzi said.

CHICAGO, (SEPT. 14) PR NEWSWIRE - Robert Follett, chairman of Follett Corp., and Edward J. Brennan Jr., chairman and founder of Brennan College Service Inc., today announced an agreement for the purchase of BCS by Follett Corp.

Brennan College Service operates 57 college bookstores and is headquartered in Springfield, Mass. Follett Corporation, headquartered in Chicago, operates about 300 college bookstores in the United States and provides a range of distribution and software services to educational institutions.

It is anticipated that the acquisition will be completed in 60 days. The terms and price were not disclosed. Follett began as a single bookstore in 1873. The company continues to be privately held by descendants of Charles W. Follett and employees.

Brennan College Service was founded by Edward Brennan in 1967. Following the sale to Follett, Brennan will continue to operate from its current facilities while both companies develop plans for the future. Combined sales of Brennan and Follett will exceed $475 million.

Edward Brennan plans to retire as chairman of Brennan College Service following completion of the purchase. Lyman Wood, president and chief executive officer of Brennan, has agreed to continue in that position following the acquisition.

Robert Follett praised the accomplishments of the Brennan organization. ''I have known and respected Ed Brennan for many years,'' Follett said, ''and I am delighted that he chose to combine his organization with Follett. We expect the combination of these two strong companies to result in even better service to our college and university customers.''

SEATTLE, (SEPT. 14) PR NEWSWIRE - Washington Mutual (NASDAQ: WAMU), a Federal Savings Bank today announced that it has acquired from the Resolution Trust Corp. (RTC) certain assets and liabilities of the Washington operations of Williamsburg Federal Savings and Loan Association of Salt Lake City.

Washington Mutual, a Federal Savings Bank is a wholly owned subsidiary of Washington Mutual Savings Bank.

Under the terms of the agreement, Washington Mutual assumed, as of 6 p.m. today, Williamsburg's Washington deposit liabilities which total approximately $45.8 million. The assets acquired by Washington Mutual include an exclusive option on Williamsburg's Washington branch facilities. Washington Mutual paid a purchase premium of $1.25 million.

"This acquisition is in keeping with our strategy of making in-market acquisitions," said Kerry Killinger, president and chief executive officer of Washington Mutual Savings Bank. "This addition brings more than $43.7 million in core retail deposits to our deposit base, increases our customer base by more than 7,900 accounts, and should add to our profitability."

The RTC had managed Williamsburg since it went into receivership on Jan. 26, 1990. The acquisition was approved by the Office of Thrift Supervision, the primary federal regulator of Williamsburg and Washington Mutual, a Federal Savings Bank.

Williamsburg operated three branches in Washington, all in the strong Puget Sound market. One is in Seattle's Wallingford area, another in Des Moines (south of Seattle) and the third in North Bend (east of Seattle). All of the branches will reopen as Washington Mutual financial centers on Sept. 17.

"The Williamsburg branches are in the active Puget Sound region, which is our most significant market," Killinger said. "We are pleased to offer our current customers, and our new ones, the added convenience of even more locations where they can meet their financial needs."

Washington Mutual Savings Bank and its subsidiary Washington Mutual, a Federal Savings Bank operate 71 financial centers in Washington and an additional 17 home loan centers in the Pacific Northwest.

With assets of approximately $7.3 billion, Washington Mutual is the largest independent financial institution in Washington.

VANCOUVER, BRITISH COLUMIA (SEPT. 14) PR NEWSWIRE - Quadra Logic Technologies Inc. (QLT) (Toronto, Vancouver: QLT) announced today that there are no fundamental changes in the company or in its ongoing clinical programs designed to demonstrate the safety and efficacy of Photodynamic Therapy using PHOTOFRIN. The company knows of no reason to account for the recent change in the stock price.

In fact, QLT is encouraged by the progress being made in the clinical development of Photodynamic Technology as evidenced by the results of data presented at two recent international conferences on PDT. In one study by a group from the Tokyo Medical College, the clinical efficacy of Photodynamic Therapy using PHOTOFRIN in early stage lung cancer was evaluated on 26 patients. All patients initially showed complete remission and 16 patients have been apparently disease-free from 21 to 112 months. Recurrence was recognized in only three cases.

In another study, part of which was originally published in Chest, a U.S. medical journal, an article entitled ''Detection of Early Lung Cancer Using Low Dose PHOTOFRIN" demonstrated the sensitivity and specificity of Photodynamic Imaging for the diagnosis and detection of disease. Twelve of the 18 patients enrolled in this study had tumors that were invisible and undetected by current diagnostic methods. By using Photodynamic Imaging, 100 percent sensitivity (finds all known cancer) and 92.5 per cent specificity (finds only cancer or pre-cancerous cells, as opposed to infection) was achieved.

Human clinical trials evaluating the safety and efficacy of PHOTOFRIN are continuing in 42 centers in North America, 21 centers in Europe and nine centers in Japan. Pre-clinical studies in venereal warts, bone marrow purging and viral inactivation of blood as well as Phase II studies in Photodynamic Imaging are progressing in accordance with the Company's expectations.

Quadra Logic Technologies is a biopharmaceutical company principally engaged in the development and commercialization of photosensitive drugs that are activated by light. The focus of the company is in Photodynamic Technology (PDT), using light-activated drugs for the diagnosis and treatment of disease. The company has emphasized its product development in the areas of cancer, imaging, sexually transmitted diseases, viral inactivation in blood and atherosclerosis. The company's long term strategy is to establish the capabilities to manufacture and distribute drugs developed and commercialized by the company.

SALT LAKE CITY, (SEPT. 14) PR NEWSWIRE - First Security Corp. (NASDAQ: FSCO) has acquired from the Resolution Trust Corp. $57.6 million in deposits from the Utah operations of Williamsburg Savings and Loan Association, Salt Lake City. The acquisition was a $725,000 cash transaction. The deposits represent more than 12,000 customer accounts, which were transferred to First Security Bank of Utah at the close of business on Friday, Sept. 14, 1990.

Scott Nelson, chairman and chief executive officer of First Security Bank of Utah, said, "Williamsburg customers can continue to bank as usual. The former Williamsburg Savings offices in Utah will be open for business during their regular banking hours through Sept. 28. Williamsburg customer accounts remain fully insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. up to a maximum of $100,000.

"Beginning Monday, Oct. 1, Williamsburg customers will be able to do all their banking at any First Security Bank of Utah office. We have 94 branches conveniently located in 53 communities statewide. The former Williamsburg office in Kanab will open for business on Sept. 17 as a new brach of First Security Bank of Utah.

"Williamsburg customers will find a wider range of banking and financially related products and services to meet their individual and business needs at First Security. Our HandiBank automated teller machines enable customers to transact most the their banking any time of the day or night seven days a week."

Spencer F. Eccles, chairman and chief executive officer of the parent First Security, said, "First Security Bank of Utah is locally managed and can draw on the more than $6 billion in resources represented by the First Security family of banks. We are delighted to welcome Williamsburg's Utah customers to the First Security organization. They will find First Security employees totally committed to 'giving 110 percent.' 'Currently giving 110' is more than our current advertising theme. It's an attitude and a way of life found at every First Security office.

"This acquisition extends our coverage of six strategic markets in Utah. We have completed four acquisitions in the last year to strengthen our coverage of growing markets in Utah, Idaho and Wyoming and to enter profitable new markets in Oregon. Two other acquistions are pending, awaiting required approvals."

First Security is the largest financial services organization headquartered in the Intermountain West. It is the oldest continuously operating multi-state bank holding company in the United States. First Security operates 183 full-service banking offices in Utah, Idaho, Oregon and Wyoming. Other subsidiaries include a leasing company, two insurance companies, an investment management firm and a discount brokerage.

MOSCOW (SEPT 14) TASS -- SOVIET PRESIDENT MIKHAIL GORBACHEV PRAISED THE INTERNATIONAL SIGNIFICANCE OF SOVIET-BRITISH DIALOGUE DURING HIS MEETING IN THE KREMLIN TODAY WITH BRITISH FOREIGN SECRETARY DOUGLAS HURD.

THERE IS EVERY REASON AND STIMULUS TO STEP UP ITS INTENSITY AT THIS MOMENT, HE SAID.

GORBACHEV PROPOSED THINKING TOGETHER ABOUT WHETHER THE TIME WAS RIPE TO PUT ON RECORD THE HEADWAY MADE IN SOVIET-BRITISH RELATIONS, WHICH HAVE REACHED A CERTAIN MARK, ON THE INTERNATIONAL LEGAL PLANE.

THE EUROPEAN PROCESS, THE SOVIET PRESIDENT SAID, ESPECIALLY IN CONNECTION WITH THE EMERGENCE OF A UNITED GERMANY, IS ACQUIRING NEW ASPECTS. THE TASK OF PROTECTING THIS PROCESS FROM DISRUPTIONS AND DISTORTIONS, OF INCREASING ITS POSITIVE CONTENT, CALLS FOR VIGOROUS INTERACTION OF ALL ITS PARTICIPANTS, INCLUDING, NATURALLY, THE UNITED STATES.

IN THIS RESPECT, THE INTERACTION BETWEEN THE SOVIET UNION AND GREAT BRITAIN IS OF PARAMOUNT IMPORTANCE, HE SAID.

THE PRESIDENT STRESSED THAT JUDGING BY SOME ALARMING EVENTS, CERTAIN FORCES IN SOME EAST EUROPEAN COUNTRIES WANT TO MINIMISE THE SIGNIFICANCE OF THE TRANSFORMATIONS NOW UNDER WAY THERE AND TREAT THEM AS NO MORE THAN AN IDEOLOGICAL REVENGE.

THIS IMPERILS NOT ONLY THE DEMOCRATIC NATURE OF THESE TRANSFORMATIONS BUT ALSO THE MOVEMENT OF STATES AND PEOPLES TOWARDS A NEW EUROPE, THE SOVIET PRESIDENT EMPHASIZED.

MIKHAIL GORBACHEV BRIEFED THE BRITISH FOREIGN SECRETARY ON THE DIALOGUE WITH THE U.S.PRESIDENT AND FAMILIARISED HIM WITH THE IDEAS AND ARGUMENTS THE HELSINKI SUMMIT HIGHLIGHTED.

MIKHAIL GORBACHEV AND DOUGLAS HURD EXCHANGED VIEWS ON POSSIBLE OPTIONS FOR THE DEVELOPMENT OF THE PERSIAN GULF SITUATION AND THE WAYS TO ACT IN THIS SITUATION THE TWO SIDES VIEWED MOST ADVISABLE.

(SEPT. 14) UPI - A soon-to-be released book about Israel's spy agency says the Mossad believes that the official U-S account of the assassination of President Kennedy is ''pure, unadulterated hokum.'' The book... whose distribution was temporarily barred in New York state and Canada... says the Mossad's theory was that the killers- Mafioso hit men- were after Texas Governor John Connally, so the mob could muscle into the oil business. The spy agency says Lee Harvey Oswald was a dupe. Connally was in Kennedy's car in the Dallas motorcade and was wounded.

British Prime Minister Thatcher says her most criticized characteristics would be praised if she were a man. But in an interview in Friday's edition of Woman's Journal, she says being a woman has some advantages in international politics. LUBBOCK, TX (SEPT. 14) UPI - David Klingler threw five touchdown passes, the first coming 63 seconds into the game Thursday, sending the Houston Cougars to a 51-35 Southwest Conference victory over the Texas Tech Red Raiders.

Klingler passed for 435 yards and Chuck Weatherspoon rushed for 120 yards in Houston's potent offense - known as the run-and-shoot - directed last year by Heisman Trophy winner Andre Ware.

Klingler ran his touchdown total to 10 after two games despite not having favorite receiver Manny Hazard available for the game. Hazard, who set an NCAA record with 22 touchdown receptions last year, was out with a dislocated shoulder.

Houston improved to 2-0, while Texas Tech dropped to 0-2.

Klingler threw 54 yards to Verlund Brown for a touchdown on the fifth play of the game. He threw a 40-yard TD pass to Sherman Smith late in the first quarter and a 15-yard scoring pass to Craig Alexander in the second period to boost Houston to a 28-11 halftime lead.

Patrick Cooper caught a 31-yard touchdown pass from Klingler's in the third period. Klingler's fifth TD pass came with only 42 seconds remaining, when the Cougars could have killed the clock. Instead Klingler threw 16 yards to Brown for the final points.

Houston's other points came on a 6-yard run by Weatherspoon with 21 seconds to go in the first half and field goals of 26, 40 and 33 yards by Roman Anderson.

Texas Tech managed field goals of 47 and 52 yards by Lin Elliott, scoring runs of 2 and 7 yards by Anthony Lynn and touchdown throws of 6 yards from Jamie Gill to Rodney Blackshear and 16 yards from Robert Hall to Chris Naughton.

Lynn's first touchdown, followed by a two-point conversion, got Texas Tech within 14-11 with 8:56 to play in the first half. But the Cougars ran off 24 straight points.

Houston drove 80 yards in 10 plays for the score that started the rout. During the drive, Klingler hit Good with a 34-yard throw and Brown with a 14-yarder that set up the scoring pass to Alexander.

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (SEPT. 14) UPI - Exxon has declared its 18-month cleanup of the nation's worst oil spill a success, but Gov. Steve Cowper said the oil giant must return next year because 60 miles of beach remain contaminated.

Exxon has pulled its crews off Alaska shores for the winter and is packing up to leave, but Cowper told a news conference Thursday the company cannot consider its job finished while so much oil remains in the environment, much of it buried beneath the surface.

''There are areas that are heavily oiled,'' Cowper said. ''Those areas have to be treated. If you leave them alone, they will continue to leach toxic substances for a long, long time. If we treat them, then the period of recovery will be considerably less.''

More than 60 miles of coastline remain oiled after two summers of extensive cleanup, according to state Department of Environmental Conservation surveys. The department said 11.5 miles of shoreline have medium or heavy concentrations of oil.

About 1,200 miles of shoreline were fouled by crude oil in March 1989 when the Exxon Valdez smashed into Bligh Reef in Prince William Sound and broke open, spewing 11 million gallons of crude into the pristine wilderness.

''I think there's been a big improvement in Prince William Sound due to the people's efforts who worked there this summer,'' Cowper said. ''At the same time, it is clear ... that there's more work to do next summer.''

Exxon and Coast Guard spill coordinators have said that spring shoreline surveys will determine what, if anything, the oil company must do next year. But Cowper said he planned to give Exxon work orders.

''We're going to make a list of specific areas that we want Exxon to clean up and specify the methodology, how they clean it up,'' Cowper said.

But Cowper acknowledged that Alaska lost some key cleanup battles over the summer when the Coast Guard overruled state objections about treatment of certain beaches.

In the most glaring example of such a disagreement earlier this month, the Coast Guard ordered Exxon to dig up the shores of Ushagat Island in the Gulf of Alaska to let waves wash away buried oil. Cowper cabinet members angrily accused the Coast Guard and Exxon of releasing several thousand gallons of crude into the water in what amounted to a new spill that no one cleaned up. The state had urged that the oil be picked up and taken away.

Cowper criticized the Coast Guard and showed a videotape backing up state claims that the cleanup-caused spill put more oil in the water and killed sea birds. The video showed the governor reaching down into a ''cleaned'' beach last week and pulling out his hand - covered with oil.

Cowper also rejected Exxon claims that a record 1990 salmon season in Prince William Sound could be used show that damage from the spill has ended. The governor said fish caught this summer were spawned in 1988 and that it will take years before scientists know whether oil has had a lasting effect on fishing.

Oil's impact on native subsistence food gathering continues for Aleut villagers who live in the spill impact zone, Cowper said.

''Sure the subsistence harvest has been affected,'' he said. ''Some of the smaller villages, Tatitlek, Chenega Bay, utilize the islands and beaches that were directly hit by the oil. They have noticed a decline in certain animals that they use'' such as otters and deer.

If Exxon had put more effort into its second season of cleanup, the beaches would be in better shape, Cowper said. ''Perhaps there should have been more people and more equipment.''

Exxon staged its own spill wrap-up show Tuesday night, presenting videos, making speeches and declaring its $2 billion cleanup a success. Thursday, Exxon repeated its position that the cleanup has been successful, dismissing state concerns while heralding a successful fishing season, claiming that wildlife was abundant in the spill zone and asserting that remaining oil was virtually harmless.

With no more dead animals appearing on national TV screens, and Exxon and the Coast Guard trumpeting a successful operation while showing increasing signs of restlessness and impatience at continuing state demands, Cowper said, ''We are the people who have gotten the role of trying to push the cleanup along.''

''I don't know if we've lost our audience or not,'' Cowper said. ''We haven't lost our oil on the beach and that's what we have to treat next summer. We're in for the long run whether we like it or not and so it's up to us to apply whatever pressures and whatever authority we have to make sure that the oil is cleaned up as best we can do it. We have to keep pushing.''

The Exxon Valdez sailed out of Long Beach, Calif., Harbor Wednesday, renamed the Exxon Mediterranean and headed for its new assignment in the Mideast following a year-long, $30 million repair job.

SAN FRANCISCO (SEPT. 14) UPI - The government must take into account the ''biological diversity'' of the Pacific Northwest's ancient forests when considering the effects of logging - not just the effect on threatened animals a court said in a landmark environmental ruling.

The 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals expanded national environmental law Thursday to require the U.S. Forest Service to consider the effects of logging on all plant and animal life in the woods, not simply a single species such as the endangered spotted owl.

''The courts have repeatedly ruled in our favor in cases involving ancient forests and the spotted owl,'' said Nathaniel Lawrence, attorney for the Natural Resources Defense Council. ''But endangered species are just the tip of the iceberg. We've been losing the battle to protect biological diversity and thus have been impoverishing the landscape.''

The court said the Forest Service violated the National Environmental Policy

Act by failing to study the impacts of logging on the entirety of life in an area.

Lawrence hailed the ruling as a ''landmark victory in the fight to stop the destruction of our native forests.''

''It is the first decision to force the government to take heed of the biological diversity of the ancient forests of the Pacific Northwest,'' he said.

The decision blocks a proposed 3,000-acre timber salvage and cutting plan on an area burned during a fire that swept through 15,000 acres of the Klamath National Forest in 1987, and requires the Forest Service to study the impact the plan will have on a biological corridor linking two wilderness areas.

The environmental groups said the biological corridor between the Marble Mountain and Red Butte wilderness areas allows animals and plants to migrate from one forested area to another.

The Forest Service plan called for only a half-mile-wide strip of forested land to act as a biological corrider, and the court ruled that decision was reached without adequate study.

Judge Alfred Goodwin wrote in the 3-0 decision that the Forest Service failed to take a ''hard look'' at the biological corridor issue, and ordered the agency to further study the issue, as well as the impact on biological diversity.

Goodwin is a former justice on the Oregon Supreme Court and now chief judge of the 9th Circuit.

Wesley Higbie, attorney for the timber companies named in the lawsuit, said, ''I think the circumstances really do not permit a seemingly endless analysis of environmental impacts.''

Higbie said the proposed biological corridors around Marble Mountain could take in virtually all stands of old-growth timber that have not been harvested. He said there is no proof species would use the corridors to migrate from one area to another.

Activists say the connecting corridors could allow creatures such as wolves, bears, mountain lions and spotted owls to move over a large enough area to sustain gene-pool diversity.

The northern spotted owl has become a focal point in the battle over the future of old-growth forests in the Pacific Northwest. The Fish and Wildlife Service listed the bird as a threatened species this summer, forcing the government to draft a plan on how to manage the forests to preserve the owl.

The Bush administration appointed a special inter-agency task force with the goal of saving the owl while mininizing the number of job losses in the logging industry.

UNITED NATIONS (SEPT. 14) UPI - The U.N. Security Council Thursday night authorized distribution of food to refugees stranded in Iraq and Kuwait, provided the efforts are supervised by the Red Cross or international relief agencies.

But the council also said it would scrutinize individual relief operations to make sure they are being conducted strictly under ''humanitarian circumstances.''

Just before midnight, the 15-nation council voted 13-2 to adopt the measure in response to urgent requests by India, the Philippines and Sri Lanka that they be allowed to send food to tens of thousands of their nationals trapped in Kuwait, which has been occupied by Iraqi troops since Aug. 2.

Under provisions of the U.N. trade and arms embargo imposed to punish Iraq for annexing Kuwait, it would be a violation of the ban to send food to the gulf countries unless it were for ''humanitarian circumstances.''

Cuba and Yemen voted against the measure. They fought unsuccessfully for two days against the decision, which is contained in a resolution worked out by the United States, the Soviet Union, China, France and Britain - the five permanent members of the council.

Following adoption of the resolution, the Security Council's sanctions committee was to call for an international operations to help ''hundreds of thousands'' of Asians and other foreigners stranded in Kuwait and Iraq.

The committee, chaired by Marjatta Rasi of Finland, said the international operations should help evacuate the foreigners and asked Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar to find ways so the United Nations can contribute toward the operations.

''The committee asked particularly that an international food and rescue operation be launched immediately to help Indians, Philipinos and Sri Lankans and other foreigners who are in difficulty while waiting for their evacuation '' the committee said in a prepared statement.

The committee said it authorized the sending of an Indian ship carrying food for Indian migrant workers in Kuwait and Iraq. It said the distribution of food should be done in strict conformity to the U.N. resolution adopted Thursday.

There are an estimated 140,000 Indian migrant workers in Kuwait, suffering from a severe food shortage and unable to leave that country.

The five permanent members had urged non-aligned countries to support the decision to put food distribution under the supervision of international aid agencies so that the Iraqi government would not try to divert it to its army or people.

Cuba and Yemen said access to foodstuffs is a fundamental human rights that the 15-nation council cannot breach. They rejected all supervision either by the United Nations or international agencies in the food distribution.

Cuba circulated a document warning that the council cannot take any action that would ''hinder access of the civilian population and foreign nationals in Iraq and Kuwait to basic foodstuffs, medical supplies and medical assistance.''

The Cuban document was rejected by the council. Surprisingly China supported the Cuban position, but its U.N. ambassador Li Daoyu said it was out of humanitarian concern and did not change Chinese support for the U.N. embargo.

U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations, Thomas Pickering, told the council that the resolution was a ''fair procedure'' that would allow the distribution of food and medicine in Kuwait and Iraq.

Pickering said the resolution guarantees the integrity of the work by humanitarian agencies.

Some council members have accused Iraq of using food as a weapon by denying it to foreigners in retaliation for the U.N. embargo.

(SEPT. 14) UPI - New York Mets General Manager Frank Cashen said that Darryl Strawberry isn't a $5-million-a-year player and, the way Strawberry is playing right now, Cashen may be right.

It could be closer to $6 million.

Strawberry belted a three-run homer in the fourth inning after throwing out a runner at the plate in the top of the inning Thursday night to lead the Mets to a 6-3 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates, pulling the Mets to within 1 1-2 games of first place in the NL East.

Strawberry, who has hinted that he will leave the Mets and become a free agent after the season if he can't reach a contract agreement, insists that his late-season tear has nothing to do with money.

''It's not a salary drive,'' said Strawberry. ''You don't play at this point for salary. You play for pride.''

Dwight Gooden, 17-6, won his sixth consecutive decision and 14th in 15 to help the Mets tie a franchise record with their 11th straight home victory. John Franco hurled 1 1-3 innings to set a club record with his 32nd save.

Doug Drabek, 19-6, lost for only the second time since the All-Star break. He left after four innings, his shortest start this season. He also fell to 11-3 in games following a Pittsburgh loss.

''They're still a game and a half up and we're still trying to catch them,'' Gooden said.

The Pirates took a 2-0 lead with two out and none on in the first. Andy Van Slyke doubled and Bobby Bonilla tripled. Barry Bonds dumped a double down the left-field line, scoring Bonilla.

Strawberry prevented the Pirates from making it 3-0 in the fourth. Bonds singled and stole second. One out later, Mike LaValliere singled to right. Strawberry charged, fielded the ball and gunned out Bonds at the plate.

Strawberry continued the momentum he created with the throw in the bottom of the inning.

Tom Herr singled to second baseman Jose Lind. Dave Magadan walked, and Strawberry drove a 2-0 pitch into the seats in right. His 34th homer of the year tied him with Ryne Sandberg and Kevin Mitchell for the NL lead. He has 100 RBI.

''It was an important home run, but charging the ball hard and making the throw was important,'' Strawberry said.

Bonds, who along with Strawberry is an NL MVP candidate, went 4 for 4 with two RBI, two steals and a defensive gem, but was thrown out twice on the basepaths.

''I hope Darryl gets everything he deserves,'' he said. ''I hope he gets the money he deserves. He's a dominating player, probably the most dominating player in the National League.''

The victory improved the Mets' record at Shea Stadium to 50-22, tops in the majors. The clubs are scheduled to close the season with three games at Three Rivers Stadium, Oct. 1-3.

''At the All-Star break, Darryl and I talked and he said it would go down to the wire,'' Pittsburgh Manager Jim Leyland said. ''He was right.''

Elsewhere in the National League, Chicago nipped Philadelphia 6-5, Cincinnati topped Houston 7-5 and St. Louis downed Montreal 4-2.

In the American League it was: New York 7, Detroit 3; Baltimore 5, Toronto 3; Chicago 9, Boston 6; California 7, Seattle 1 and Minnesota 3, Oakland 1 in 10 innings.

-- AROUND THE NL --

Cubs 6, Phillies 5

At Chicago, Mark Grace went 4 for 4 with two RBI doubles to lead the Cubs. Joe Girardi scored the go-ahead run in the eighth inning after the Cubs blew a 5-1 lead. Paul Assenmacher improved to 5-2 and Les Lancaster picked up his sixth save. Roger McDowell, 6-7, was the loser. Lenny Dykstra went 1 for 5 and fell out of the NL batting lead for the first time since May 13.

Reds 7, Astros 5

At Cincinnati, Barry Larkin, who twice failed to put down a sacrifice, belted a two-run homer in the ninth inning to give the Reds the victory. Former Astro Bill Doran opened the ninth with his fourth single. Larkin, who failed on two straight pitches to get down a bunt, ripped Brian Meyer's third pitch over the left-field wall. Rob Dibble, 7-3, was the winner while Meyer, 0-3, took the loss.

Cardinals 4, Expos 2

At Montreal, Ray Lankford hit his first major league homer and Todd Zeile doubled in a run and scored another to lift the Cardinals. Lankford, homered in the first off Mark Gardner, 7-9. Felix Jose hit his first homer in the National League in the third for St. Louis. Tim Raines singled in the first to become the Expos' all-time hits leader with 1,576. Ken Dayley, 4-2, earned the victory.

NEW YORK (SEPT. 14) UPI - A former agent of the Mossad has gone into hiding as an appeals court lifted a lower court's ban on his memoirs, saying the Israeli government failed to prove its agents would be endangered by the book.

The ruling Thursday by the Appellate Division of state Supreme Court means St. Martin's Press may resume publication and distribution of ''By Way of Deception: The Making and Unmaking of a Mossad Officer,'' by ex- agent Victor Ostrovsky and a Canadian journalist Claire Hoy.

Ostrovsky's publisher said his client, who lives in Canada with his wife and two children, has gone into hiding after receiving a threatening visit from Israeli agents. Ostrovsky said he was offered money to stop publication of his book and now fears the spy agency may try to kill him.

The appeals court stayed a temporary restraining order issued Wednesday by state Supreme Court Justice Michael Dontzin, who responded to claims by the Israeli government that revelations in the 300-page tome would jeopardize its top secret agents.

However, the appeals court found the Israelis failed to support their claims that a book ban would prevent ''irreparable injury,'' particularly since the book was already sent to 1,500 wholesalers and book reviewers.

''Its claim that the safety of Israeli intelligence agents is endangered by defendants' further acts of publication and dissemination of the book 'By Way of Deception' has not been sufficiently supported,'' the appeals court ruled.

A lawyers for St. Martin's Press cheered the decision.

''It's an excellent decision from the point of view of the First Amendment,'' said Wayne Outten, a lawyer for the publisher.

''There has never been a holding like this before, where a foreign government has actually restrained American publication,'' Outten said.

Lawyers for the Israeli government were not available to comment on whether they will appeal to a higher court.

Judge Dotzin's ruling on the book by Ostrovsky, a Canadian native who moved to Israel at age 2 and who was a Mossad agent from 1984 to 1986, came just one week after the Israeli government won a similar injunction from a court in Ontario, Canada.

The book says the Mossad knew in advance of the Oct. 23, 1983, terrorist bombing of U.S. Marine barracks in Beirut, Lebanon, but did not warn Washington because it hoped the attack would ruin U.S.-Arab relations. The Beirut explosion killed 241 servicemen. Israeli government sources have denied the story.

The book also details a June 1981 Israeli air raid against an Iraqi nuclear research facility in Baghdad. Israel was said to believe the facility was to be the base of an Iraqi effort to develop nuclear weapons.

TOKYO (SEPT. 14) UPI - Share prices on the Tokyo stock market eased for a second day in a row Friday on technical selling.

The key Nikkei average of 225 selected stocks, which lost 141.06 points Thursday, dropped another 177.62 points to close at 24,897.46.

The broader Tokyo Stock Price Index closed at 1,895.68 points, down 17.00 points. TOPIX had slipped by a marginal 1.04 points Thursday.

Volume was estimated at 530 million shares, down slightly from 565.85 million shares traded the day before.

A wave of selling orders related to a quarterly closing date for arbitrage positions pushed the market down, brokers said.

Some of the selling pressure was offset by continued bargain-hunting of smaller, high-growth stocks, they said.

The day started with a backlog of selling orders by arbitrageurs eager to depress the Nikkei in order to get the best possible so-called special quotation for futures, said Mitsuru Maekawa, director of equity sales at Jardine Fleming (Securities).

The quotation rate was to be set according to the level of the Nikkei Friday.

Wall Street's overnight loss added to the selling pressure, other brokers said.

Selective buying was encouraged by the yen's continued appreciation against the U.S. dollar, they said.

But declines outnumbered advances by more than 2:1, they said.

Pharmaceuticals, automakers and electrical issues were among the hard-hit sectors.

(SEPT. 14) UPI - This is not the time for the Toronto Blue Jays to slow down. Afterall, they are trying to catch the first-place Boston Red Sox.

David Segui and Steve Finley each drove in two runs during a five-run sixth inning and rookie Jose Mesa scattered six hits over 6 2-3 innings Thursday night to pace the Baltimore Orioles to a 5-3 victory over Toronto, which trails the Red Sox by four games in the American League East.

Toronto Manager Cito Gaston canceled batting practice before the game because the Blue Jays arrived back in Toronto at 4 a.m. EDT following a three-game series in Kansas City.

''It may not have been the best time to have the day off (from batting practice),'' third baseman Kelly Gruber said. ''But we didn't play that badly on the road (they won two of three).

''The worst part of this game is always the travel. It really exhausts you and yeah, we're tired.''

The Blue Jays and Red Sox each have 18 games remaining.

''I slept all day,'' Toronto catcher Pat Borders said. ''We started slow and just coudn't catch up. We were tired and didn't work.''

But Mesa and the rest of the Orioles did.

''I was impressed with his composure,'' Rance Mullinicks of Toronto said. ''He kept the hitter off balance and really mixed his pitches up well.''

Mesa, 1-2, picked up his first victory and Grgg Olson pitched 1 1-3 innings for his 31st save. Toronto's ace, Dave Stieb, went 5 2-3 innings, allowing five runs and 10 hits. Stieb, who recently pitched a no-hitter against Cleveland, dropped to 18-6.

''I didn't think that Dave had his best stuff tonight,'' Gaston said. ''He wasn't sharp with his breaking ball and had trouble with his slider. He just wasn't getting it over.''

Orioles Manager Frank Robinson said of Stieb: ''The law of averages just caught up to him. I thought he was still pretty good, but we were fortunate to get some runs (off him).''

After Cal Ripken Jr. led off with a ground-rule double and Sam Horn walked, Mickey Tettleton singled home Ripken. Craig Wothington walked to load the bases.

After Mike Devereaux flied out, Segui doubled home Horn and Tettleton that gave the Orioles a 3-0 edge. Bill Ripken struck out swinging before Finley singled home Worthington and Segui.

In other American League action, New York caged Detroit 7-3, Chicago downed Boston 9-6, Minnesota tripped Oakland 3-1 in 10 innings and California sunk Seattle 7-1.

In the National League, it was: Chicago 6, Philadelphia 5; New York 6, Pittsburgh 3; Montreal 6, St. Louis 4 and Cincinnati 7, Houston 5.

Yankees 7, Tigers 3

At Detroit, Kevin Mass' two-run first inning homer backed Mitt Witt's five-hitter to lead New York. Witt, 4-8, recorded his second complete game. Walt Terrell, 4-4, took the loss, allowing Mass' 18th home run of the season. Witt had retired 11 straight batters until Cecil Fielder led off the ninth inning with his major league leading 46th homer.

White Sox 9, Red Sox 6

At Chicago, Ivan Calderon smacked a three-run homer and Matt Stark added a two-run double to lift Chicago. Rookie Alex Fernandez, 3-3, won his first game since Aug. 23, despite giving up nine hits and walking three in the first five innings. Ken Patterson recorded one out for his second save. Tom Bolton, 9-3, allowed Calderon's 13th homer of the season.

Twins 3, Athletics 1, 10 innings

At Oakland, Calif., pinch-hitter Paul Sorrento smacked a two-run homer in the 10th inning to help Minnesota snap its four-game losing streak. Juan Berenguer 8-3, pitched two scoreless innings for the triumph. Gene Nelson, 3-3, the fourth Oakland pitcher, took the loss.

Angels 7, Mariners 1

At Anaheim, Calif., rookie Lee Stevens and Dick Schofield each singled home two runs during a seven-run seventh inning to power California to its fourth straight victory. Chuck Finley, 18-6, pitched his sixth complete game. Reliever Keith Comstock, 7-4, took the loss.

#90257u0311 09/14/1990 ~United Press International

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (SEPT. 14) UPI - The Sandinista Front urged citizens to use ''whatever means available'' to protest unpopular policies, blaming the government for what it called the country's worst crisis in recent years.

Luis Carrion, a leader of the nine-member Sandinista directorate, read a party statement at a news briefing Thursday, denouncing President Violeta Chamorro's economic policies and accusing her of failing to begin the reconciliation process she has promised.

''The country and the Nicaraguan people are in the most profound social and economic crisis of recent years,'' Carrion said. ''Unemployment in the countryside and the city has left thousands of families in hunger and desperation. Nicaragua, in a few short months, has become one of the most expensive countries in the world.''

''The Sandinista Front calls on the workers and all the people to keep up belligerent actions and to struggle for their legitimate rights by whatever means possible,'' Carrion said.

''There has been a popular struggle that obliged the government to initiate its reconciliation program, and there will be a popular struggle to see that it is carried out to a successful culmination,'' he added.

The Chamorro government said after a violent, nationwide strike in July that there would be a national dialogue on reconciliation, to include all social sectors including the Sandinista workforce.

Government officials said the dialogue would begin in September, but nothing has been scheduled so far.

Diplomats in Managua had said they expected the Sandinistas to call for some sort of social upheaval before Chamorro's scheduled trip to New York Sept. 26 to address the U.N. General Assembly.

The government has blamed more than 10 years of Sandinista rule for the economic crisis, saying the country was in ruins when Chamorro took office and accusing the Sandinistas of blocking the reforms it deems necessary for recovery.

Carrion said the Sandinistas favor ''an authentic national reconciliation,'' which he described as ''a direct negotiation between the government, the workers, the small producers in the countryside and the cities, and the businessmen to bring about equal distribution of costs and sacrifices necessary to achieve maximum economic stability.''

He repeated Sandinista criticisms of Chamorro's plans to privatize state-run industries and return confiscated land to its former owners. He also blamed the government for uncontrolled inflation.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (SEPT. 14) UPI - A gang of five men fatally shot three taxi drivers and firebombed their vehicles at a taxi stand in the nation's largest black township of Soweto Friday, escalating the factional violence raging across townships, police said.

The gang gunned down the three drivers at pointblank range and wounded three passengers before setting fire to the minibuses, police spokesman Capt. Joseph Ngobeni said.

The attack took place near Soweto's major Baragwanath Hospital and followed a similar attack late Wednesday, when four gunmen sprayed a downtown taxi stand with automatic gunfire, killing three people and wounding five.

The incident Friday came amid a building wave of township clashes and two savage, back-to-back internecine killing sprees, which pushed the death toll to more than 720 since the fighting flared around Johannesburg Aug. 12.

Two gangs Thursday rampaged through a train and with guns, knives, and machetes slaughtered at least 26 people and injured more than 100.

The train attack prompted President Frederik de Klerk to say in an urgent late-night statement the ''new South Africa'' envisaged in his 7- month-old program of racial reform ''is being threatened'' by the spreading internecine conflict.

He gave notice the government will be taking further steps to quell the violence next week, tacitly conceding emergency rule and effective martial law he imposed to quash the tribal-style battles Aug. 26 had failed.

Hysteria peaked in the hard-hit townships east of Johannesburg Thursday when thousands of refugees poured out of war-torn black townships seeking safety from renewed clashes which razed hundreds of houses and shacks.

Women, children and infants crowded into the halls and stairwells of clinics and a hospital, collapsing with exhaustion and seeking refuge from the fierce battles between Zulu migrant workers - followers of the Inkatha movement - and residents who are predominantly Xhosa supporters of the African National Congress. The women and children also sought refuge from power outages by authorities trying to stop a utility payment boycott.

Police have been deployed in the townships trying to curb the clashes, but the ANC has accused them of siding with Inkatha - popular among whites for its political flexibility.

ANC leader Nelson Mandela warned Tuesday the government was not doing all it could to restore peace, and noted if it did not act, the violence would threaten talks between his movement and Pretoria on ending 42 years of white minority rule.

Mandela did not specify steps to be taken, but has branded the three- month renewable emergency measures imposed in the 27 hardest-hit townships around Johannesburg ''totally useless.''

He noted a 51-month-old state of emergency in strife-torn Natal province has failed to stem battles between the ANC and Inkatha which since 1987 have killed up to 4,000 people.

But Mandela has refused to meet directly with Inkatha President Mangosuthu Buthelezi, charging the Zulu chief is fomenting the conflict to undermine the ANC's preeminent position among black movements before formal power-sharing talks with the the government.

(SEPT. 14) UPI - A cold front moved through the Midwest bringing high winds and heavy rain to most of the region Friday and prompting tornado warnings in Wisconsin, while the West was hot and the South cool.

The front moved across Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, Missouri and Michigan, and brought relief from warm temperatures.

A tornado watch remained in effect for south central and southeast Minnesota and west central and northern Wisconsin through Friday morning as thunderstorms with heavy rain and high wind passed through the area.

No tornadoes were reported, but gusty winds and frequent lightning were reported in several storms.

Strong northwest winds followed the front in Iowa and Sioux City, Fort Dodge and Spencer were hit with occasional gusts to 45 mph. Forecasters warned boaters and drivers of high-profile vehicles such as tractor trailers, campers and van to prepare for the gusts.

Patchy dense fog covered the northern mountains and northern foothills of North Carolina and the Lehigh Valley in Pennsylvania, where visibility at Allentown-Bethlehem-Easton Airport in Allentown was near zero.

Muggy and humid weather prevailed Friday throughout much of the Northeast, with some morning fog expected in upstate New York. But the hot and hazy skies were expected to give way to sunny skies throughout most of the day throughout New York, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts.

Hot weather covered the West, as Las Vegas suffered under 106 degree temperatures, 10 degrees above normal for the date.

The South saw some changes. Overcast skies and scattered thunderstorms lowered temperatures in most of the region to the 80s after a stretch of 90-to-100-degree weather. Some parts of Mississippi got between 1 and 2 inches of rain.

LONDON (SEPT. 14) UPI - The fear of lower U.S. interest rates pushed the dollar lower against the major European currencies Friday, after the U.S. Federal Reserve Board Chairman, Alan Greenspan suggested that the U.S. central bank might ease monetary policy if a credible budget deficit reduction deal could be reached, analysts said.

The dollar opened lower in Frankfurt at 1.5673 German marks from 1.5750 at Thursday's close, and was also down in Zurich at 1.3055 Swiss francs from 1.3195.

In London, the pound particularly benefitted from the dollar's decline, and recovered over a cent to open at $1.8865 vs. $1.8750.

The dollar was lower in Paris, Brussels and Milan, at 5.2480 French francs vs. 5.3315, 32.25 Belgian francs vs. 32.74, and 1,167.50 Italian lire vs. 1,186.45.

Earlier in Tokyo, the U.S. dollar plummeted against the Japanese yen for the third straight session, following its overnight decline in New York.

The dollar closed at 136.55 yen, down 1.10 yen from Thursday's close of 137.65 yen, the Bank of Japan said.

Institutional investors continued to sell the dollar after it plunged in New York overnight on Greenspan's remark.

Elsewhere in Asian markets, the dollar closed lower in Singapore at 1.7730 Singapore dollars from 1.7780, and followed the lower trend in Hong Kong to close at 7.7650 Hong Kong dollars from 7.7690.

Hong Kong gold closed higher at $384.85 an ounce from Thursday's closing rate of $382.35.

Gold opened higher in Zurich at $383.50 an ounce vs. $382.50, and also was up in London at $384.75 an ounce from $383.75.

Silver opened unchanged in Zurich at $4.80 an ounce, and also was unchanged in London at $4.82 an ounce.

(SEPT. 14) UPI - Stock prices on the Tokyo Stock Exchange eased in light trading Friday for the second consecutive session of technical selling.

The key Nikkei Average of 225 selected stocks, which lost 141.06 points Thursday, dropped another 177.62 points to 24,897.46.

The broader-based Tokyo Stock Exchange Price Index, which slipped 1.04 points Thursday, fell 17.00 points to 1,895.68.

Volume was estimated at around 530 million shares, down slightly from the 566 million shares changing hands Thursday.

Declines outnumbered advances by more than a 2-to-1 margin.

Analysts said a small wave of sell orders related to a quarterly closing date for arbitrage positions pushed the market lower.

Some of the selling pressure was offset by continued bargain-hunting of smaller, high-growth stocks, market watchers added.

The day started with a backlog of selling orders by arbitrageurs eager to depress the Nikkei in order to get the best possible so-called special quotation for futures, said Mitsuru Maekawa, director of equity sales at Jardine Fleming Securities.

The quotation rate was to be set according to the level of the Nikkei Friday.

Wall Street's 43.07 points loss on Thursday also added to the selling pressure analysts said.

Selective buying was encouraged by the Japanese yen's continued appreciation against the U.S. dollar.

On the Tokyo Foreign Exchange the U.S. dollar plummeted against the Japanese yen for the third straight session closing at 136.55 yen, down 1.10 yen from Thursday's close of 137.65 yen, the Bank of Japan reported.

On the trading floor, pharmaceuticals, automakers and electrical issues were among the hard-hit sectors.

Elsewhere in Asia, stocks closed sharply lower in light trading on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange with the Middle East crisis keeping investors on the sidelines.

The Hang Seng Index, which lost 11.07 points Thursday, tumbled 31.93 points to 3,062.04.

Among the narrower indexes, financials dropped 21.36 points, utilities lost 20.52, industrials shed 35.34 and properties plunged 60.09 points.

Volume remained extremely light as an estimated 520 million shares changed hands, compared with 657 million shares Thursday.

''A lot of people don't want to hold their stocks over the weekend with all the uncertainty about the Gulf,'' said David Harman of Morgan Grenfell.

''If nothing terrible happens in the Middle East in the next two days, people will probably buy again on Monday.''

Stocks began sinking from the opening bell, losing more than 30 points before a mild rally around midmorning.

After opening afternoon trading slightly higher, stocks began a slide that lasted for the remainder of the session.

In Bangkok, stock prices slumped by more than 4 percent on the Thailand Stock Exchange, reflecting concerns about the economic effects of higher petroleum prices.

The Stock Exchange of Thailand Index tumbled 33.11 points or 4.2 percent to 759.98. An estimated 1.7 billion shares changed hands.

''The market was more depressed today than any other day this week,'' said Worakit Disayabuth, a stock exchange spokesman.

Disayabuth said the depressed market seemed to be reacting in part to increases of up to 5 percent in domestic fuel prices put into effect Thursday and fears of the effects high oil prices would have on the economy.

''Investors fear world stock markets have not yet found their low points,'' Disayabuth said.

The Thailand stock market has lost more than 33 percent of its value since the Aug. 2 Iraqi invasion of Kuwait.

In Singapore, stock prices closed lower in light, featureless trading on the Singapore Stock Exchange in line with the falls in Tokyo and Wall Street sparked by fears of an escalation of the Middle East conflict.

The Straits Times Industrial Index, which lost 6.94 points Thursday, fell another 14.97 points to 1,226.83. The broader-based All Singapore Index fell 3.66 points to 346.76.

An estimated 43.8 million shares changed hands, compared with 51.6 million shares Thursday.

Analysts said trading was once again mainly by small investors, who concentrated on Malaysian speculatives traded on the over-the-counter market.

Frustrations with the drawn-out negotiations on a U.S. deficit- reduction package also discouraged investors, analysts said.

On the trading floor, Palmo Holdings paced the advancing issues followed by Spore Land, Rothmans (M), Roxy Electric and, British American Tobacco.

DBS foreign shares led the declining issues followed by Keppel Corp., SIA Co., Jurong Shipyard and OCBC foreign shares.

In Australia, stock prices closed sharply lower on the Sydney Sharemarket in a backlash from Wall Street's 43-point fall on Thursday.

The All Industrials Index, which fell 17.8 points Thursday, dropped 14.8 points to 1,480.1.

An estimated 74 million shares chnaged hands, compared with 59.8 million shares Thursday.

Declines outpaced advances 192 to 104, while 205 stocks remained unchanged.

Analysts said confidence was also eroded by an announcement that troubled Northern Star Holdings, licensee of the national Channel Ten Television Network, was about to be liquidated by creditor Westpac Bank.

Northern Star fell 3 cents to just 1 cent a share.

Elsewhere, CRA Mining fell 10 cents to $11.25, BHP lost 15 cents to $11.10, News Corp. lost 45 cents to $10.80, Brambles fell 30 cents to $13.35 and Adsteam tumbled 19 cents to $3.06.

WASHINGTON (SEPT. 14) UPI - Higher oil prices from the Middle East crisis sent inflation at the wholesale level up a sharp 1.3 percent in August, the Labor Department said Friday.

The department's index of crude goods, including crude petroleum products, rose 9.3 percent, the sharpest rise in 17 years.

Economists had expected the department's Producer Price Index to jump by as much as 1.4 percent.

Excluding the often volatile energy and food index, wholesale prices rose 0.3 percent, the department said.

During the past 12 months, prices for finished goods jumped 5.1 percent while costs for crude goods soared 9 percent. Prices for finished energy goods rose 17 percent during the same period, while crude energy prices rose 18.5 percent.

Food prices posted a modest gain during the past 12 months, with prices for consumer food products up 5.3 percent. Prices for products other than food and energy rose 3.4 percent in the past 12 months.

After declining 0.5 percent in July, the department's index for finished energy goods climbed 9.5 percent in August. The crisis in the Middle East pushed gasoline prices up 16.9 percent in August after falling 5.3 percent the month before.

Home heating oil prices skyrokected 38.8 percent in August, the largest monthly advance since January's boost of 25.3 percent. Natural gas prices, however, slipped 9.4 percent in August after rising 6.6 percent in July.

The index for finished consumer food goods inched up 0.8 percent after posting no change in July. Prices were up for eggs, beef and veal, milk, fresh and dried vegetables, processed fruits and vegetables and cooking oils.

Fresh fruits, processed chickens, cheese and butter cost less during the month.

Prices also rose for women's apparel, publications, prescription drugs, photographic supplies and gold jewelry.

Capital equipment costs rose 0.3 percent, boosted by increased prices for civilian aircraft, agricultural machinery, oilfield equipment and machine tools.

But the greatest advances came among energy-related products, largely stemming from Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait. The department index for energy goods posted in greatest increase ever at 9.6 percent after falling for the previous six months.

Prices for diesel fuel, kerosene and liquified petroleum gas each rose sharply by more than 30 percent. Gasoline, jet fuel, residential fuel and electric power rates also posted substantial gains.

The department crude goods index surged 9.3 percent for the greatest monthly gain since August 1973. The index for crude energy goods soared 25.5 percent in August after slipping 0.1 percent in July. The crude petroleum index shot up a staggering 62.5 percent, the largest gain ever.

Petroleum refining costs jumped 17.3 percent in August and have gained 23.7 percent in the past 12 months.

Crude foodstuffs and feedstuffs dropped 0.9 percent in August after rising 1 percent the month before. Within this category, though, cattle, soybean and fish prices accelerated substantially.

WASHINGTON (SEPT. 14) UPI - U.S. retail sales skidded by 0.6 percent in August on weak auto sales but were buoyed by the biggest jump in gasoline prices since the 1979 Iranian revolution, the Commerce Department said Friday.

Not counting the sale of cars, vans and trucks, retail sales would have increased 0.4 percent on a 6.4 percent gain at service stations, reflecting higher petroleum prices following Iraq's lightning invasion of Kuwait.

The gasoline increase was the largest since an 8.3 percent surge in August 1979, and not counting petroleum products, retail sales would have plunged by 1.1 percent last month, a Commerce Department spokesman said.

Analysts had expected an overall 0.1 percent drop in U.S. retail sales in August, and a 0.2 percent increase not counting the automotive sector.

In July, retail sales were up 0.4 percent.

The department's Census Bureau said retail sales totaled $149.2 billion in August, $150 billion in July and $149.4 billion in June. In August 1989, retail sales totaled $146.8 billion.

The data was adjusted for seasonal factors, such as holidays.

August's 4.3 percent plunge in auto sales was the largest in that category since a 5.6 percent drop in January, the Commerce Department spokesman reported.

Total sales of durable goods, which include autos and other expensive products made to last three or more years, dropped 2.6 percent in August after edging up 0.7 percent in July.

Non-durable goods, meanwhile, advanced 0.6 percent in August after gaining 0.3 percent in July.

By industry, August sales were also off at hardware stores, department stores, supermarkets, drug stores, clothing stores, restaurants and taverns, but increased at furniture stores.

WASHINGTON (SEPT. 14) UPI - Industrial production edged down 0.2 percent in August on small declines in most industries, the Federal Reserve said Friday.

Use of America's industrial muscle, meanwhile, slipped 0.4 percentage point last month to 83.1 percent of capacity.

''Small declines were evident among many market and industry groups in August '' the Fed report said. ''Industries posting gains included steel and utilities.''

Private analysts had expected no change in the production figures and predicted a capacity utilization of 83.2 percent for the month.

In July, total industrial production was unchanged after increasing by a revised 0.5 percent in both May and June. Capacity utilization in July stood at 83.5 percent in July, 83.6 percent in June and 83.4 percent in May.

The Fed report also noted that ''during the past year, total industrial production has risen 1.5 percent to 109.8 percent of its 1987 annual average.''

In August, factory production fell 0.1 percent, on a 0.2 percent decline in duarble goods and no change in non-durable goods. In July, manufacturing was unchanged on a 0.3 percent drop in durables and a 0.5 percent gain in non-durables.

''Overall, output of consumer goods was little changed in August,'' the Fed report said.

''Gains in output of non-durables, particularly food and electricity for residential use, were about balanced by declines in the production of durables such as light trucks and goods for the home,'' the report said.

In July, auto production was off sharply.

Production at U.S. mines tumbled 2.3 percent in August after gaining 0.6 percent in July, while production at utilities increased 1.2 percent in August after dipping 0.4 percent in July, the report said.

WASHINGTON (SEPT. 14) UPI - The government reported the use of America's industrial muscle, slipped 0.4 percentage point last month to 83.1 percent of capacity.

''Small declines were evident among many market and industry groups in August '' the Fed report said. ''Industries posting gains included steel and utilities.''

Private analysts had predicted a capacity utilization of 83.2 percent for the month.

(SEPT. 14) UPI - Things apparently are heating up again in Iraqi-occupied Kuwait. The French Foreign Ministry in Paris says Iraqi troops entered the French ambassador's residence in Kuwait City today and seized the French military attache and three French civilians who were seeking refuge.

The Foreign Ministry urgently summoned the Iraqi Ambassador to Paris and demanded the immediate release of the four. In Washington, the State Department's Kuwait desk said it could NOT confirm the report, and had NO immediate comment. .

Japan is increasing the amount of money it's committing to support the multi-national force blocking Iraqi aggression in the Persian Gulf. Japan today pledged an additional three-BILLION dollars, on top of an earlier one-BILLION. Officials also say a fact-finding team of 17 Japanese medical personnel will leave soon for Saudi Arabia. .

Prime Minister Toshiki Kaifu's chief spokesman says- ''Japan has done the best it can in this situation.'' The U-S ambassador to Japan termed the commitment generous, and said it ''clearly demonstrates Japan is a full partner in the ongoing efforts.''

Day Two of David Souter's confirmation hearings begins this morning in the Senate Judiciary Committee. The Supreme Court nominee faced four hours of grilling yesterday, but refused to reveal his views on abortion. He did say Americans have rights beyond those expressed in the Constitution.

South Africa's President Frederik de Klerk met with black leader Nelson Mandela today to discuss the wave of violence in black townships. It's the second time they've met on the matter this week. Today's session came hours after a gang fatally shot three taxi drivers in Soweto township. .

de Klerk and Mandela have said the wave of clashes threaten racial reform and could stall progress toward ending white minority rule in South Africa. The violence has killed at least 720 people in six weeks.

(SEPT. 14) UPI - A book that Israel tried UNsuccessfully to ban in the United States says up to 27 Israeli intelligence agents operate in the United States. The book about the Mossad, Israel's spy agency, says the agents are in this country chiefly to gather data about the Arab world. But it says U- S companies and citizens have been targeted for information. .

The book, titled ''By Way of Deception,'' also says the Mossad believes the official U-S version of President John Kennedy's assassination in November 1963- quote- ''was pure UNadulterated hokum.''

The United States accepted 107-thousand refugees in 1989, the most since 1981, with the largest group coming from the Soviet Union. The figures are included in the Refugee Resettlement Program's annual report to Congress. The program reimburses states and private sector groups for the cost of providing aid to refugees.

The federal deposit insurance system reportedly is facing a risk of depletion if the economy worsens, but Federal Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan is urging caution. Greenspan told the House Banking Committee yesterday they should be cautious in their efforts to reform the system. Said Greenspan- ''Reform is required. So is caution.''

The nation's economy is moving toward a full-blown recession that will last for the next six months. That's the prediction of the U-C-L-A Business Forecasting Project. The forecasters say they expect a two- quarter decline in real Gross National Product beginning in the fourth quarter.

MOSCOW (SEPT. 14) UPI - The Soviet Communist Party is facing a cash crunch because of declining revenue from membership dues and may have to dip into a $8.3 billion reserve fund, the party's deputy business manager said Friday.

Nikolai Kapanets, deputy business manager of the party's Central Committee, said that revenue from dues this year will total $1.62 billion compared with $2.7 billion in 1989.

Kapanets told Pravda, the party's official newspaper, that the drop in revenue was caused by the decision at the 28th Party Congress in July to reduce membership dues as a way of slowing the exodus from the party.

The weakened financial situation of the Soviet Union's ruling party reflects its lessened authority following a Central Committee decision in February to abandon the party's seven-decade monopoly rule and compete for power in the country's emerging political pluralism.

Kapanets also attributed the party's money problems to declining revenues from its publishing empire, which until recently had a monoply on publishing, and an increase in expenses as a result of higher prices and taxes.

The Communist Party still says it has about 19 million members, but about 250,000 people have turned in their red membership card, a former key to power and prestige that has lost much of its value in President Mikhail Gorbachev's democratization drive.

The exodus has been led by Russian Federation leader Boris Yeltsin, who quit the party two months ago in a dramatic announcement at the party Congress, Moscow Mayor Gavriil Popov, Leningrad Mayor Anatoly Sobchak and other prominent politicians.

More than 2,500 Communists have quit the party this year in Kharkov alone, the second-largest city in the Ukraine republic with 1.6 million people, the independent Interfax news service said.

In the Ukrainian capital of Kiev, several thousand demonstrators supporting Soviet state founder Vladimir Lenin faced off against several hundred Ukrainian nationalists at a rally Thursday who carried signs that read ''Lenin was a tyrant'' and ''Communists, be damned,'' the news service said.

In Lvov, the regional capital of the western Ukraine, about two groups totaling 20,000 people also confronted each other at a public debate over whether to tear down the city's monument to Lenin. The anti- Lenin forces hurled paint on the statue and it is now being guarded by police, Interfax said.

Protesters in the Ukrainian cities of Lutsk and Rovno picketed the local party headquarters over demands to place them under the control of the municipal governments, the news service said.

The business manager Kapanets said the Communist Party also has declining revenues from its publishing empire, which until recently printed every book and newspaper distributed legally in the Soviet Union.

With the circulation levels of party publications plummeting and many newspapers deciding to stake out on their own, the party's publishing revenues will fall to $385 million in 1990 from about $1.7 billion annually in recent years, Kapanets said.

At the same time, he said, the party's expenses is expected to increase by $850 million this year because of higher prices and increased taxes as the country begins to move toward a market economy.

''The budget deficit might reach 1.5 billion rubles ($2.55 billion) a year if measures are not taken to cut expenses,'' Pravda quoted Kapanets as saying.

He said the party will likely be forced to use some of its $8.33 billion in ''savings that have accumulated for a number of years'' to finance its normal activities.

But the business manager said that ''a considerable reduction in party staff'' will not realize sufficient cuts in expenses, and he suggested that local party organizations ''participate in business activities'' to raise additional funds.

PEORIA, IL (SEPT. 14) UPI - Caterpillar Inc. plans to replace about 200 of its janitorial and lawn care employees with workers from a private company.

Executives of the Peoria-based agricultural machinery and heavy equipment producer said the move was not a layoff, and Caterpillar promised to give the displaced workers a chance to fill other jobs in the company.

Caterpillar spokesman Keith Butterfield said he thinks only a handful of employees would probably lose jobs with the company.

The company made the announcement Thursday at the end of a joint meeting between the company and about 90 United Auto Workers union officials. Caterpillar executives said it could save $4 million in salary and benefits paid at plants in Peoria, Aurora, Decatur and York if the move is made.

The union attacked the plan, since it said many of the janitorial and lawn care employees have disabilities and medical restrictions that will keep them from filling other jobs.

Butterfield said it was costing the company an average of $60,000 yearly to pay each janitorial employee's salary and benefits and it would only cost half that to hire private firms for the service.

WASHINGTON (SEPT. 14) UPI - The United States has warned Iraq privately that it will hold Baghdad responsible for any terrorist attacks carried out against U.S. or allied targets by groups supported by President Saddam Hussein.

''We've tracked increasing links between Iraq and various terrorist organizations, which give us cause for grave concern,'' the State Department said Thursday night.

The State Department gave no details about the links or movements by terrorist groups or their leaders supported by Iraq, some of them headed by Palestinians that have staged attacks against U.S. and Israeli targets.

More than 100,000 U.S. forces are in the Persian Gulf area, including troops who are deployed in Saudi Arabia opposite Iraqi forces. One concern is the possibility of a terrorist attack against U.S. forces similar to the one that blew up the Marine barracks at Beirut airport in October 1983, killing 241 American servicemen.

The Bush administration communicated its warning to Iraq through the U.S. charge in Baghdad, Joseph Wilson, to the Iraqi Foreign Ministry Wednesday night, the State Department said.

Wilson told the Iraqi government that the United States ''would hold Iraq accountable for actions carried out by those it supports or who act on its behalf,'' a State Department statement said. ''The Iraqis responded in diplomatic channels on Thursday.''

The United States previously expressed public concerns about the possibility of terrorist strikes against the United States or its allies who are in the Persian Gulf enforcing U.N.-authorized economic sanctions against Iraq as punishment for its Aug. 2 invasion of neighboring Kuwait.

''In view of the current circumstances in the gulf, it was a prudent move to contact the Iraqi government and raise our concerns,'' the State Department said of the reason it sent Wilson to the Iraqi Foreign Ministry.

(SEPT. 14) UPI - The Commerce Department says U-S retail sales dropped by six-tenths of one percent in August. Weak auto sales contributed to the decline, which was buoyed by the biggest jump in gasoline prices since the 1979 Iranian revolution. Excluding auto sales, retail sales would have increased four-tenths of one percent because of a six-point-four percent gain in pump prices at service stations.

TALLAHASSEE, FL (SEPT. 14) UPI - Florida State is on the verge of becoming the ninth member of the Atlantic Coast Conference.

The ACC extended an invitation to Florida State late Thursday after Commissioner Gene Corrigan found enough votes among the divided eight members to invite the Seminoles.

Florida State was expected to receive the approval of the state Board of Regents, meeting Friday in Jacksonville, Fla., and of the school's athletic board.

''I think it's a terriffic opportunity for us in terms of every aspect of athletics, in terms of how they view athletics and how we view athletics,'' Florida State President Bernard Sliger said. ''This is the fast lane and we would hope we can keep up.''

Athletic Director Bob Goin also expressed his delight at the invitation.

''Obviously, we're flattered,'' Goin said. ''We have said all along that the ACC is perhaps the most highly respected academic and athletic conference in the United States.''

Florida State would be the third major college to join a new conference this year.

Penn State, a football independent and member of the Atlantic 10 in other sports, accepted an invitation last spring to join the Big Ten. Arkansas announced last month it is jumping from the Southwest Conference to the Southeastern Conference, effective next summer.

The SEC now has 11 members and is expected to invite South Carolina or Miami to fill it out at 12. Florida State had been thought to be the favorite of most SEC schools.

Corrigan, the former athletic director at Notre Dame, has been trying to strengthen the ACC in football. Florida State was ranked third after the 1988 season, finished second last year and currently is No. 2 behind Notre Dame.

''Our conference has deliberated at length about expansion,'' Corrigan said.

''The process has been comprehensive and thorough. We feel comfortable this decision is in the best interests of the member institutions.

''The more we learned about (Florida State), the more we felt they were a natural fit. Their academic and athletic programs are nationally recognized and their addition would be a plus to our conference in every way.''

Six votes from the eight current ACC members were required to invite the Seminoles. Duke and Maryland were opposed, leaving Corrigan with the bare minimum to extend the invitation at around 9 p.m. Thursday.

WASHINGTON (SEPT. 14) UPI - The United States is ready to begin phasing out U.S. military bases in the Philippines in another signal of the declining importance of the bases in the post-Cold War era, The Washington Post reported Friday.

Quoting informed Bush administration and congressional sources, the Post said U.S. negotiators will seek a phaseout period that could last up to 10 years, followed by continued military access to the facilities after the U.S. forces depart.

A Pentagon spokesman dismissed the report as nothing new. ''We have always said we were not going to stay there indefinitely,'' Air Force Lt. Col. Rick Oborn said. ''It's just a matter of when,'' which is under negotiation.

Negotiations on the bases are scheduled to begin Tuesday.

Officials familiar with the U.S. negotiating stance said it remains particularly important to the United States to maintain access to the Crow Valley training range where U.S. pilots and allied forces now train.

The officials said the United States will not propose a definite timetable for vacating the facilities - Clark Air Base in Angeles City, Subic Bay Naval Base in Olongapo and four smaller installations.

The bases have been strategic staging areas for U.S. forces in the Western Pacific in the postwar era. In recent years, however, there has been growing opposition in the Philippines to the U.S. presence, which has become a sore spot in U.S.-Filipino relations.

The officials told the Post that the U.S. negotiators will stress the need for a gradual withdrawl to allow sufficient time for the Philippine government to prepare alternative plans for the bases and to cushion what is expected to be another blow to the already staggering Philippine economy.

The lengthy phaseout is intended in part to minimize the cost of relocating the 16,000 U.S. troops now in the Philippines and also give Washington's regional allies more time to adjust to what will be the most significant security realignment in Southeast Asia since the American retreat from Vietnam in 1975.

The U.S. position reflects the changing nature of superpower relations and the declining importance of a strategic U.S. military base to counter a Soviet threat.

''The world is changing,'' one administration official told the Post. ''Those bases are not as valuable as they used to be.''

CHICAGO (SEPT. 14) UPI - Fewer than one-third of Chicagoans who have an opinion back Operation PUSH's boycott of Oregon sneaker-maker Nike Inc., a Gallup poll showed Friday.

The poll found a majority of blacks ignoring the PUSH boycott, with 34 percent of those queried saying they had no opinion.

Of those who had an opinion on the situation, 45 percent said they supported Nike, 13 percent said they supported PUSH and 5 percent said they supported both sides.

Last month, PUSH called for a boycott of Nike products, accusing the Beaverton Ore., company of not doing enough for the black community. PUSH leaders are demanding a more vigorous minority recruiting program, more blacks in decision-making jobs and more business given to black advertising agencies and banks.

Nike responded by saying it has an adequate minority hiring program and before it would take any further action, it wanted to know more about PUSH's relationship with competitor Reebok International Ltd. of Canton, Mass.

Among blacks, only 28 percent said they sided with PUSH and 16 percent backed Nike. Forty-eight percent said they did not know enough about the controversy to have formed an opinion.

Among whites, 63 percent said they supported Nike and 5 percent sided with PUSH.

The survey contacted 230 adult Chicagoans between Sept. 7 and 10 by phone. It has an error rate of plus or minus 8 percent.

Meanwhile, Nike holds its annual shareholders meeting next Monday in Portland, Ore., after which Philip Knight, the company's founder and chairman, and President Richard Donahue will meet with reporters for the first time in several weeks.

RUWEISHED, JORDAN (SEPT. 14) UPI - At the edge of Mercy Camp, a line of folded white tents stretches into the desert, ready to be assembled by the arriving Bangladeshi refugees.

As soon as they join the camp, the refugees begin clearing away stones and driving stakes into the hard sand to pitch the tents, which will be their homes until they are sent back to Bangladesh, or more likely, moved to another camp.

Mercy Camp, situated in the bleak no man's land between the Iraqi and the Jordanian border posts, holds only Bangladeshi men.

Although the refugee situation has improved in Jordan as more Asian workers depart than arrive each day, the Bangladeshis face perhaps the longest wait because their country, one of the world's poorest, cannot afford a massive airlift.

The Thai and Filipinos are the first Asians to leave. Egyptians are taken directly to Aqaba port for repatriation by ferry. Sri Lanka announced Friday it had arranged 15 flights a week to take home its citizens.

"It's just people from the poorest countries who get stuck here,'' a Red Cross worker said. ''It all depends on the international relief effort to get them home.''

Inside the Mercy Camp's medical supply tent, Augustine Ascension, a 24-year-old cook who made $100 per month in Kuwait, showed visitors large color photographs of his young wife and infant son.

''My wife doesn't know where I am,'' he said with a resigned smile. ''I don't know when I will leave. I would like to go quickly to Bangladesh. My family is waiting.''

Several Bangladeshi flags - a red disk on a green field - flew over the hundreds of khaki tents already erected in neat rows. As of Thursday, 6,775 men were in the camp with about 500 more arriving each day.

On the main road, Jordanian soldiers stop all Bangladeshi workers and send them into Mercy Camp, which is run by the Middle East Council of Churches and Save the Children, a humanitarian agency.

Although the number of displaced Asians in Jordan continues to drop, officials fear tens of thousands more may flood across the border at any time.

''It's never been decided how big it's going to be,'' said the camp director, who asked not be identified. ''But it's designed to expand to hold 20,000.''

Many workers have come to Mercy Camp from Shalaan I camp, a few miles down the road that the government shut because of its poor sanitation and barely organized facilities. In contrast to the trash filled Shalaan I, Mercy Camp is neat and well-planned with three shielded, open-ditch latrines for every 100 men. Its current capacity is 8,500.

Each section of 500 men chooses a leader and three others to oversee food and water distribution and sanitation.

Despite the relatively high level of organization, the task of feeding several thousand destitute people in the middle of the desert, nearly 180 miles from Amman, is daunting.

''It's so far out. So to get water for drinking and washing is a problem. We don't encourage washing except for hygiene,'' the Mercy Camp director said. ''Food deliveries have been erratic.''

On Thursday, the director advised fellow relief workers to pray hard for more food. There was not enough bread for everyone at the evening meal.

A shipment of salty cheese was likely to go uneaten because Bangladeshis do not like cheese and would prefer rice, which is difficult to cook in the primitive desert conditions. Bread, cheese, tomatoes, cucumbers and, occasionally, canned sardines are the staples of camp life.

Bangladeshis helping distribute food were asked to sample the salty cheese. They politely nibbled it, saying ''no good'' in Arabic, and then discreetly threw the samples away. Pending approval of the camp doctors, it was decided to give everyone rations of sugary, wafer-like ''energy bars.''

Although diarrhea and minor colds caused by the chilly desert nights remain a problem, no serious health problems have arisen, relief officials said. Several men have been stung by poisonous but not deadly scorpions.

The High Committee overseeing the relief effort said Thursday that of the 40,864 refugees stranded in Jordan, 9,799 are Bangladeshis. The International Organization for Migration has organized several flights a day to Dhaka. An IOM spokeswoman said Friday that repatriating Bangladeshis was a top priority and the majority of the flights it chartered were for them.

The camp director said several hundred left each day, a fact that gave hope to those staying behind.

DETROIT (SEPT. 14) UPI - The key issues of job security and wages remained on the table early Friday, as United Auto Workers and General Motors Corp. bargainers neared a midnight deadline for negotiating a new three-year labor agreement the union hopes to use as a pattern for pacts at Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp.

A number of non-economic issues already have been resolved, as both sides resumed bargaining early Friday morning after breaking off shortly after midnight in efforts to reach a contract covering about 310,000 active and idled GM workers.

The top automaker reportedly has agreed to provide on-site day care for workers' children as a pilot program at a plant to be selected, to improve long-term care for workers with drug abuse problems and to give the union more power to enforce quality control policies at the plant level.

The union has asked GM to limit temporary layoffs to 12 weeks over the contract's three-year life. GM wants to reduce its work force through buyouts and attrition.

The Detroit Free Press reported Friday that the union and GM also tentatively settled the issue of sourcing, or having work performed by GM employees instead of outside companies, possibly non-union firms.

Meanwhile, GM and the International Union of Electrical, Radio & Machine Workers agreed Thursday to extend their current labor pact beyond the Friday's deadline so bargainers can continue negotiations.

GM has about 24,000 IUE workers at plants in Ohio, New York, New Jersey and Mississippi in addition to its UAW-represented workforce.

The UAW also slated a meeting for its International Executive Board for this Saturday and a meeting of its 400-member GM-UAW council for Monday. Both must approve any tentative settlement before it is ratified by the UAW's rank and file.

Earlier this week, talks reportedly stalled over the core issue of job security, with sources saying GM wanted to limit a no-layoff pledge to workers with 20 years' or more seniority. UAW leaders were alerting plant-level union officials to be ready for possible strike action. Workers with 20 years' or more seniority represent over half the workforce.

The UAW wants to guarantee the jobs of all GM workers during the 1990-93 contract, but industry analysts expect GM will be allowed to reduce its workforce by between 50,000 and 70,000 workers during the next three years.

GM, which has seen its share of the U.S. auto market shrink nearly 10 points to about 36 percent during the last decade, must still close more plants to get production in line with demand, analysts believe.

GM may still want to scrap a contract provision that forces it to hire one worker for every two who quit, retire or die. Also at issue is allocation of $3 billion GM has committed for income security programs.

The union has been bargaining since mid-July for new contracts covering about 500,000 hourly workers at GM, Ford and Chrysler.

Late last month it chose GM as its strike target this year in hopes of negotiating a contract which can be used as a pattern at the other top U.S.

carmakers.

GAITHERSBURG, MD (SEPT. 14) UPI - Former Rep. Samual Stratton, D-N.Y., an ardent supporter of national defense programs, has died of a heart attack in a nursing home. He was 73.

Stratton, of Schenectady, was known for his hawkish views even as his own party backed off from a tough military stance.

He died Thursday of a heart attack, his son-in-law and former chief of staff Roger Mott said.

Stratton had retired in 1988 because of his health after serving his 15th term.

Stratton had pushed for landmark legislation which allowed women to attend military-service academies and supported the law that changed the way national holidays are observed, creating the now-routine three-day weekend holidays.

As a major figure on the House Armed Services Committee, Stratton often won the favor of local voters, who benefited from defense contracts awarded to the areas largest employers: General Electric, the Watervliet Arsenal, and the Knolls Atomic Power Laboratory.

Stratton's support led the Air National Guard to name its Glenville airbase for him following his retirement.

Before entering Congress, Stratton had served as mayor of Schenectady, where he fought against gambling and other vice.

He gained a reputation as a fearless, corruption-fighting reformer at a time when public officials were generally believed to be in partnership with those operating rackets.

He won his first bid for Congress in 1958, made an unsuccessful run for governor of New York in 1962, and then ran for the U.S. Senate in 1964, observing later that he did well ''until Bobby Kennedy decided he was a New Yorker.''

Kennedy, a Massachusetts native, won the party's nomination and went on to be elected.

In Stratton's last election in 1986, he won 96 percent of the votes for his Congressional district.

JERUSALEM (SEPT. 14) UPI - Former Mossad chiefs and Israeli officials Friday characterized information in a controversial book on the Israeli intelligence agency as ''inflated out of proportion'' and called its Canadian-Israeli author a traitor and liar.

On Thursday, a New York state appeals court lifted a lower court's ban on the distribution of ''By Way of Deception: The Making and Unmaking of a Mossad Officer'' written by former Israeli intelligence agent Victory Ostrovsky and Canadian journalist Claire Hoy.

Avi Pazner, Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir's media adviser, characterized the book as ''nothing more than a compilation of lies, half-truths, invention, very few facts and very sick imagination.'' On Thursday, however, Israeli Embassy spokeswoman Ruth Yaron in Washington said her government felt that there were ''details that could harm the security of Israel and Israelis.''

Analysts argue the book, which faces a ban on distribution in Canada at least until Sept. 17, threatens to confront Israel with its biggest embarrassment since nuclear engineer Mordechai Vanunu revealed in 1986 that Israel had stockpiled weapons-grade plutonium at a nuclear plant in Dimona. Mossad agents caught Vanunu in Rome and brought him back to Israel, where he was sentenced to 18 years in jail.

Ostrovsky, a Canadian-Israeli who was a Mossad agent from 1984 to 1986, maintains Israel is waging major smear campaign against him because of the book, including claims Ostrovsky was involved in financial wrongdoings and the falsification of credit cards - claims Ostrovsky denies.

Isser Harel and Meir Amit, two former Mossad chiefs during the 1950s and 1960s said they view Ostrovsky as a liar and a traitor.

''I'm not familiar with the specific data (in the book), but I know enough about the modus operandi of the Mossad, the division of responsibilities, etcetera, that I can say that some of the stories I heard are baseless,'' Amit told Israel Radio. ''My overall reaction is that it was inflated out of proportion. It's a joke. The whole thing is a joke.''

Harel said he did not believe there was ''any ideological background for (the book), just simple hate to Israel.''

''He portrayed Israel in the worst way and he's only a traitor,'' Harel said.

Pazner characterized Ostrovsky as a ''cadet in the Mossad'' who had violated his contractural obligation not to publish anything from his service in Israel's external intelligence agency.

Despite the strong statements by Israeli officials slamming the book as inaccurate and rich with gossip, Ostrovsky wrote in the book's forward he was ''laying my life on the line'' in publishing the account. Since the controversy erupted, Ostrovsky has been said to be hiding in Canada but has provided interviews to Israeli and other journalists.

Ostrovsky, a native Canadian who holds dual Canadian-Israeli citizenship, was a Mossad operative from 1984 to 1986. Books have been published on the Mossad before, but the first-person accounts of Mossad operations, training procedures and organization - if true - are believed to provide the most complete portrait ever presented publicly of Israel's chief spy agency.

Among the allegations in his book, Ostrovsky said the Mossad knew in advance of the 1983 suicide bombing of the U.S. Marine headquarters in Beirut in which more than 240 Americans were killed. Ostrovsky claims the Mossad failed to notify the United States beforehand because it hoped the attack would ruin U.S.-Arab relations.

The book also provides codenames for Mossad units, departments and agents around the world. The mass-circulation Yediot Ahranot newspaper provided its readers Friday with details from the book under a screaming headline in white lettering against a black background - ''Secrets of the Mossad. These are the agents. These are the methods.''

In the book, Ostrovsky writes that ''Al unit'' operates in the United States with 24 to 27 employees and ''is so secretive, and so separate from the main organization, that the majority of Mossad employees don't even know what it does and do not have access to its file on the computer.'' The book claims the unit's primary task is to gather information in the Arab world and PLO, although the ''line is often blurred.'' when it comes to gathering information about U.S. activities.

Asked if Israel was concerned about the safety of its agents because of the book's revelations, Pazner said, ''The only concern is not to disseminate lies and disinformation about our secret services.''

Pazner said the government was studying what other legal options Israel could take to halt distribution of the book. Asked whether the government would attempt to bring Ostrovsky back to Israel because he had violated his contract with the Mossad, Pazner said, ''we will have to study the legal implications. We have not done so.''

LONDON (SEPT. 14) UPI - At least 20 U.S., Soviet, British and French ships - all armed with nuclear weapons - are patrolling Middle East waters now with up to 450 nuclear bombs, missiles and depth charges on board, Greenpeace said Friday.

The environmental watchdog group, which is campaigning for nuclear- free oceans, said in a report that there are four U.S. nuclear-capable aircraft carriers and eight other U.S. warships carrying Tomahawk cruise missiles in the region.

The 20 nuclear-capable ships comprise five aircraft carriers, one battleship - the enormous USS Wisconsin - four cruisers, five destroyers and one frigate, the study said.

Together with four U.S. support vessels, which supply the U.S. warships, and an unknown number of submarines, an estimated 450 nuclear devices are being carried by warships in the region, the study said.

Overall, the report said, there were a total of five aircraft carriers, one battleship, ten cruisers, 12 destroyers and 20 frigates deployed or currently in transit to the Middle East and the Persian Gulf area from the United States Soviet Union, France and Great Britain.

The group warned of the possibility of a serious nuclear accident.

''The military build up in the gulf is creating a tinder box. The presence of nuclear reactors and up to 450 nuclear warheads means that even a simple accident could spread radioactive material around the Gulf,'' said Janet Convery, Greenpeace's nuclear free seas campaigner.

''The presence of a large number of naval nuclear weapons in the Middle East today underlines the danger of these mobile and flexible nuclear weapons,'' said William Arkin, director of the Greenpeace U.S. nuclear information unit.

Following is a list of the nuclear vessels Greenpeace said were present in the Middle East:

Five aircraft carriers:

USS Saratoga with estimated 100 nuclear bombs and depth charges.

USS Independence with 100 nuclear bombs and depth charges.

USS John F. Kennedy with 100 nuclear bombs and depth charges

USS Dwight D. Eisenhower with 100 nuclear bombs and depth charges.

Clemenceau (French) with estimated 8 to 18 nuclear bombs and air-to- surface missiles.

One battleship:

USS Wisconsin with eight Tomahawks.

Four cruisers:

USS Mississippi with 2 Tomahawks.

USS Antietam with six Tomahawks.

USS San Jacinto with six Tomahawks.

USS Philippine Sea with six Tomahawks.

Five destroyers:

USS Spurance with ten Tomahawks.

USS David R.Ray with ten Tomahawks.

USS John Rogers with two Tomahawks.

Udaloy (Soviet) with nuclear depth charges and nuclear torpedos.

HMS Gloucester (British) with 1-2 nuclear depth charges.

One frigate:

HMS Battleaxe (British) with 1-2 nuclear depth charges.

Four support ships that provide warships with supplies, including nuclear weapons:

USS Flint

USS Suribachi

USS Detriot

USS Seattle

(SEPT. 14) UPI - Iraqi troops moved against the diplomatic community in Kuwait today. France says Iraqi troops burst into its ambassador's residence in Kuwait City and took away at least four people, including the military attache . The French Foreign Ministry says three French civilians were seized. Officials urgently summoned the Iraqi ambassador to the Foreign Ministry in Paris and demanded the immediate release of the four. Dutch officials also reported that Iraqi troops also raided the Dutch ambassador's residence this week but took NO one away.

Wholesale prices for August did exactly what economists had predicted, NOT that it was hard to make the prediction. Prices jumped one-point-three percent as the cost of oil soared following Iraq's invasion of Kuwait. Prices at the wholsale level would have been up just three-tenths of one percent for August if food and energy prices are left out. .

The Commerce Department reports retail sales dropped six-tenths of one percent for August. But all of the decline came on lower auto sales as many buyers wait for the new 1991's to come out. Subtract the car sale figure from the total and August sales would have been up four- tenths of one percent. .

A third government report out this morning may contain a better picture of the econmy last month. The Federal Reserve reports a two- tenths of one percent decline for industrial production in August. And capacity utilization was down four-tenths of one percent to 83-point-one percent.

U-S Supreme Court nominee David Souter undergoes a second day of close questioning by senators this morning. Florida National Guard troops reservists and police are spending a second day going through the woods near the Gainesville apartments where the bodies of five slain college students were found. Police will NOT say if the search has turned up any clues in the deaths. But they did say it could yield more evidence against 18-year-old Edward Humphrey, one of eight suspects in the case.

Another report says Post owner Peter Kalikow is optimistic about an agreement to save the paper.

CHICAGO (SEPT. 14) UPI - Soybean complex futures opened higher on follow-through buying, but were trading at mixed levels at midmorning Friday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Grain prices were lower from the opening bell.

Thursday's late rally in soybeans carried over into the early trading, although the weakness in soybean oil limited the gains.

The 30-day outlook from the National Weather Service also was considered bearish for both corn and soybeans. It calls for normal temperatures in the major corn and soybean growing areas with normal rainfall amounts in eastern sections and below-normal rain in the western areas.

Grain futures were mostly lower in choppy trading. The September crop report continued to pressure corn and wheat along with a slow export pace.

Selling interest in the country was very light because of lower prices.

Corn and soybean basis levels were firm while the wheat basis was lower.

The midmorning prices:

Corn Sep 2.32 1/2 off 3/4; Dec 2.24 3/4 off 1; Mar 2.34 1/2 off 3/4.

Soybeans Sep 6.23 unch; Nov 6.33 1/4 off 3/4; Jan 6.47 1/2 off 1/4.

(SEPT. 14) UPI - Here is a roundup of the latest major events in the Persian Gulf crisis stemming from the Aug. 2 Iraqi invasion of the oil-rich emirate of Kuwait.

Iraqi troops burst into the Canadian and French ambassador's residences in Kuwait city and detain several diplomats, including the American consul stationed in Baghdad. All but four French citizens are released. Dutch officials say Iraqi troops also raided their ambassador's residence earlier in the week, but took no one.

LONDON - At least 20 U.S., Soviet, British and French ships - all armed with nuclear weapons - are patrolling Middle East waters. Officials of the Greenpeace enviromental group say the combined forces are carrying as many as 450 nuclear bombs, missiles and depth charges.

Iran says it is is earning windfall revenues to the tune of $700 million to $800 million a month because the Persian Gulf crisis has triggered higher oil prices. Tehran radio quoted Iranian Oil Minister Gholamreza Aqazadeh as saying Iran has become the only secure place in the Gulf to load oil and that demand for Iranian oil was currently very high.

WASHINGTON - The United States has warned Iraq privately that it will hold Baghdad responsible for any terrorist attacks carried out against U.S. or allied targets by groups supported by President Saddam Hussein. The State Department says it has tracked links between Iraq and various terrorist organizations, ''which give us cause for grave concern.''

DAMASCUS, Syria - Secretary of State James Baker has met with Syrian President Hafez Assad in an attempt to coordinate efforts by Washington and Damascus to force Iraqi troops out of Kuwait. Diplomats say although Damascus and Washington have found themselves allies in the Persian Gulf crisis, serious differences between the two countries remain.

TOKYO - Japan has pledged an additional $3 billion to Persian Gulf military effort, bringing its total commitment to $4 billion. Half of the money will go to support the international forces sent to the Gulf and the other half will be given as loans and other aid to front-line states confronting Iraq, including Egypt, Jordan and Turkey.

WASHINGTON (SEPT. 14) UPI - President Bush asked Congress Friday for $1.885 billion in new funds for fiscal 1990 to pay for growing costs in the Persian Gulf and formally requested cancellation of Egypt's $7 billion debt for foreign military sales.

White House press secretary Marlin Fitzwater told reporters that Japanese Prime Minister Toshiki Kaiful telephoned Bush Thursday night to inform him that Japan will contribute $4 billion to the burden-sharing costs.

Several members of Congress have charged Japan has failed to donate enough funds to the cause of blocking Iraq from further aggression against its neighbors.

In addition, Bush discussed the gulf situation Friday with British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, who informed him that Britain was sending 6,000 more troops to the troubled region.

take,'' the spokesman told reporters. ''The embassies are sovereign territory. We hold the Iraqi government responsible for treating them as they are supposed to be under international law.''

Fitzwater later said U.S. officials were ''talking with the French through a number of channels'' and that the administration may have something more to say later in the day.

He said that there had been no intrusion in the U.S. Embassy where Ambassador Nathaniel Howell and seven staffmembers are holding out. Fitzwater said that water and electricity have been cut off at the embassy, but Howell still is in communication with Washington and talked to Deputy Secretary of State Lawrence Eagleburger Friday morning.

In addition, he said that the embassy still has adequate food and water.

Speaking for the president, Fitzwater also said the United States supports U.N. Resolution 66, adopted Thursday evening by the Security Council, which provides a framework for delivery of foodstuffs to Iraq and Kuwait for humanitarian reasons.

''Iraq has continued to say that it has adequate foods but its policy is to feed its military first and its actual practice is to create conditions of famine for foreign nationals trapped in occupied Kuwait,'' said Fitzwater.

''Iraq wants us to accept its ruthless aggression against Kuwait or accept the starvation of innocent children and civilians,'' he added. ''We will do neither.''

Fitzwater said the appropriations request to Congress is ''for support of U.S. policies in the gulf'' to provide funding for unexpected defense costs involved in the mission and to provide a legal mechanism for sharing the burdens of ''these extraordinary costs with our friends and allies.''

In his breakdown, he said $837.2 million would go to the Army; $395.9 million to the Navy and Marine Corps and $412.2 million for the Air Force.

In connection with the cancellation of Egypt's debt, first announced Sept. 4, Fitzwater said ''it is important that a considerable burden of the efforts in the gulf crisis'' be shared, and particularly the need to help those deprived of oil.

Fitzwater said that the U.N.-authorized blockade against Iraq is ''near 100 percent effective'' and that there is ''a near cutoff'' of oil going in and out of Iraq.

(SEPT. 14) UPI - Western diplomats in the Persian Gulf are reporting Iraqi troop movements against a number of foreign embassies. The officials say Iraqi soldiers burst into the Canadian and French ambassadors' residences in Kuwait City today and detained several diplomats. The American consul stationed in Baghdad was among those detained. .

Dutch officials say their ambassador's residence was raided earlier this week, but NO one was taken into custody. Most of the envoys detained today were released, except four French citizens. A U-S State Department spokesman in Washington says there's NO truth to reports the U-S mission in Kuwait had been overrun.

One measure of inflation was up NOT unexpectedly last month because of the Iraqi crisis. The result was a one-point-three percent increase for prices on the wholesale level. Analysts say the increase is just the beginning, that more is to come as oil prices continue to rise. .

Industrial production dropped last month by two-tenths of one percent. The reading by the Federal Reserve shows small declines spread throughout most industries. The only gains were for steel and utilities. .

Would-be auto buyers stood on the curb last month instead of being inside the dealer's showroom and that led to a six-tenths of one percent drop in overall retail sales. The figures would be up four-tenths of one percent if car sales are left out.

VIENNA (SEPT. 14) UPI - OPEC Secretary-General Subroto, in a message marking the 13-nation cartel's 30th birthday, said the organization would survive the crisis in the Persian Gulf and would likely still be around 30 years from now.

''A world without OPEC is unthinkable for as long as oil continues to provide the prime source of energy - and this is likely to be the case in the foreseeable future,'' Subroto said in a statement released at the Vienna headquarters of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

The optimistic forecast comes less than three weeks after OPEC members feuded openly over whether to temporarily raise oil production in response to the Gulf crisis.

Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait and the resulting U.N. embargo against those two countries plunged prompted speculation the cartel may collapse. Iraq and Kuwait are key members of OPEC.

Downplaying the internal divisions, Subroto said the damage caused by the Gulf crisis was only temporary.

''OPEC will stay around. We have survived crises before,'' he said. ''There was 1973, then in the next decade there was the Iran-Iraq war and now we have this. Surely we'll survive this also. All disputes ultimately get resolved.''

The lack of cheap alternatives to fossil fuels and projections of vastly increased demand for oil in the next decade give OPEC considerable grounds to be optimistic for the future, Subroto said.

The changes in Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union, the emergence of a single European market in 1992 and rapid industrial development in the Third World ensures steady growth in demand for OPEC oil in the foreseeable future, the secretary-general said.

''OPEC has two-thirds of the world's reserves and it is in a position to meet the world's needs well into the 21st century,'' he said. ''No one should think otherwise because of the temporary difficulties we face today. The Gulf crisis will end some time. Of that there is little doubt.''

OPEC was founded in Baghdad on Sept. 14, 1960, and was originally made up of Iran, Iraq, Kuwait, Saudi Arabia and Venezuela.

By the middle of the next decade, it had grown to its present size, with the addition of Algeria, Libya, Nigeria, Gabon, Ecuador, Qatar, the United Arab Emirates and Indonesia.

Collectively pumping about a third of the world's crude oil, the cartel seeks to control oil prices by regulating the output of its members.

In recent years, however, the cartel has been strained by rivalries between wealthier, pro-Western nations such as Saudi Arabia and poorer, less developed members.

These rivalries were accentuated at last month's emergency talks in Vienna, at which 10 members endorsed a temporary increase in output to compensate for a shortfall of 4 million barrels a day resulting from the embargo of Iraqi and Kuwaiti crude.

Iran opposed the increase and Libya and Iraq boycotted the talks.

LONDON (SEPT. 14) UPI - Stock prices on the London International Stock Exchange fell sharply Friday as profit warnings, and growing tension in the Middle East punished a market already reeling from news that Britain's inflation climbed over 10 percent in August.

The blue-chip Financial Times 100-stock index, which fell 15.2 points Thursday tumbled 33.3 points to 2,093.8. The narrower top 30 industrial average lost 23.3 points to 1,609.6.

Volume amounted to around 418 million shares compared with only 335 million shares changing hands Thursday.

Analysts said prices tumbled on news that Britain's August inflation rose 10.6 percent on the year - above the 10.3 percent expected by most forecasters.

The Central Statistical Office reported Britain's retail price index rose 1 percent in August from July and was up 10.6 percent on the year.

The year-on-year rise was the highest since February 1982 when Britain's annual increase was 11 percent, the government reported.

The government agency attributed the higher inflation rate to a rise in seasonal food prices, the highest since February 1986.

In a seperate report, the CSO reported Britain's industrial production fell 3.6 percent in July from June and was up 0.2 percent from July 1989.

And in a third report, the CSO reported Britain's wages and salaries per unit of output in the manufacturing sector rose a seasonally adjusted 1.4 percent in July from June and were up 8.5 percent a year earlier.

Analysts said the market was further unsettled by reports that Iraqi troops had forced their way into the French and Canadian Ambassador's residences in Kuwait and had taken away four citizens.

Among the most widely traded stocks, Imperial Chemical Industries, popularly considered to be a barometer of British industry, tumbled 68 cents to $14.88 after its chairman's remarks to Canadian businessmen was taken by investors as indicating slower growth during the next 18 months.

Among some of the day's other highlights, in the brewery sector, Bass dropped 54 cents to $17.28 following a downgrading Thursday, and Guinness shares fell 29 cents to $12.29.

Troubled leisure and communications company, Polly Peck, slipped 21 cents to $4.41 with investors nervous on what the weekend press may say about the company.

Some companies did manage to buck the trend. Water shares attracted some attention of investors seeking refuge in the gloomy climate. Shares in Water Package climbed 45 cents to $40.86.

Elsewhere in Europe, stock prices on the Frankfurt Stock Exchange closed broadly lower in thin trading.

The closely watched German Stock Index, which fell 15.39 points Thursday, lost 28.88 points, or 1.8 percent, to 1,552.95.

In France, stocks tumbled in light trading on the Paris Bourse. The CAC-40 Index, which eased 1.82 points Thursday, fell another 31.34 points to 1,614.93.

WASHINGTON (SEPT. 14) UPI - A top Roman Catholic leader Friday warned President Bush to use ''utmost care'' in actions against Iraq, saying it would be immoral for the United States to deprive Iraqi civilians of food and medicine.

''We understand that Saddam Hussein, by his words and actions, makes this complex and difficult, but the moral justification for our intervention requires that we maintain the distinction between the Iraqi regime and ordinary and vulnerable Iraqi citizens,'' said Archbishop Roger Mahony of Los Angeles.

Mahony chairs the International Policy Committee of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops and is the church's top spokesman on forerign policy matters.

The archbishop made his comments in a letter to Secretary of State James Baker.

At the same time, the United Methodist Church's Council of Bishops appealed to Bush, ''as a manifestation of his faith in God as revealed in Jesus Christ, to pursue every possible political and diplomatic avenue - however lengthy - as a primary option.

The bishops of the 8.9 million-member denomination warned against turning the Persian Gulf crisis into a U.S.-Iraqi showdown.

''We urge that such political and economic pressure be directed through the United Nations rather than unilaterally by the United States,'' the bishops said. ''One of the positive and hopeful signs of the current situation is the broad consensus of world opinion.''

In the letter to Baker, Mahony reiterated the church's general support of the U.S. ''decision to oppose (Iraqi) aggression and to express our humanitarian concerns,'' noting that Archbishop Daniel Pilarczyk of Cincinnati, president of the bishops's conference, had described Iraq's invasion of Kuwait as ''devoid of provocation or any justification.''

''We wish to reiterate our strong support for the international solidarity, so successfully negotiated by this administration and by the United Nation's secretary-general, which has effectively halted Iraqi aggression and offers hope for the peaceful liberation of Kuwait and the creation of a new and more just order for the region,'' Mahony told Baker.

And, he said, the Catholic bishops associated themselves with Bush's ''clear assertion'' in his televised address to the nation Tuesday evening that ''our enemy is Saddam Hussein - not the Iraqi people.''

That means, Mahony said, that in implementing the embargo and other sanctions, ''the utmost care and sensitivity be exercised so that innocent civilians are not deprived of those essentials for the maintenance of life, i.e., food and medicines.''

OTTAWA (SEPT. 14) UPI - Canada, driven by the Persian Gulf crisis, signed a $5.2 billion pact Friday with a consortium of four oil companies to immediately begin developing the Hibernia oil field off the coast of Newfoundland.

Canadian Energy Minister Jake Epp denied that the decision to start development was driven by the Gulf crisis and escalating oil prices. ''It reflects a need for Canada to have energy self-sufficiency,'' he said.

The Gulf crisis precipitated by Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of oil-rich Kuwait has resulted in crude oil prices rising by about a third to $30 a barrel.

The oil field, estimated to contain between 525 and 650 million barrels of recoverable oil 240 feet below sea level, would begin producing oil by 1996. Hibernia would add an average of 110,000 barrels daily to Canada's oil production.

The consortium partners are Mobil Oil Canada, with a 28.125 percent interest, Gulf Canada Resources and Petro-Canada, each with a 25 percent interest, and Chevron Canada Resources, which has a 21.875 percent stake.

The agreement also was signed by the provincial government of Newfoundland.

The project, which took about 26 months to negotiate and became stalled several times last year as oil prices continued to drop, will be one of the country's largest and most controversial undertakings.

The Canadian government contributed $1 billion cash and $1.7 billion in loan guarantees to get the project started.

The oil fields were discovered 11 years ago, but many companies were skeptical whether a drilling rig structure could be designed to withstand the stormy Atlantic Ocean area known to locals as Iceberg Alley.

To withstand the environment, engineers have designed a huge concrete tub 327 feet wide by 278 feet high that will reach from the seabed to 15 feet above sealevel.

Caissons projecting from the top of the tub will support five topside ''supermodules'' containing facilities for drilling, oil and gas processing and crew quarters.

The so-called gravity base, which will be able to store up to 1.3 million barrels of oil, and one of the supermodules, will be constructed in Great Mosquito Cove in Bull Arm, an uninhabited cove about 90 miles west of St. John's, Newfoundland.

Government officials said 48 wells will be drilled from the gravity base into the Hibernia reservoir by the platform's two drilling rigs.

Floating rigs may be used to drill an additional 35 wells away from the main drilling structure. These would be fitted with subsea wellheads and connected to the gravity base by subsea pipelines.

Oil will be transferred to three specially designed 120,000 tonne tankers, each capable of carrying 850,000 barrels of oil, through two offshore loading systems located one mile from the main platform.

According to the oil consortium, as much as 60 percent of the $5.2 billion capital cost will be met by Canadian firms. Canadian companies will also supply 65 percent of the $10 billion operating expenditures.

The project will provide some 35,000 construction jobs over the next six years and another 1,100 permanent ones in Newfoundland, the poorest province in Canada.

Allan Luffman, an oil specialist with Halifax, Nova Scotia-based Geomarine, said the consortium has based its projections on a minimum world oil price of $25 a barrel. But, he said, no one knows the precise oil price the companies need to earn a profit.

Nonetheless, Luffman said the project represented an important step in bringing thousands of jobs to Newfoundland. ''It's not a godsend, (but) there's an immediate boom,'' he said, adding the project would not make Newfoundland a net contributor to the Canadian economy.

DENVER (SEPT. 14) UPI - An unemployed poker dealer who won Colorado's largest Lotto jackpot has been ordered to appear in federal court to answer a charge of trying to bribe an IRS officer into lifting a $100,000 income tax lien.

Fred Michael Jr., 30, was arrested Thursday after leaving a restaurant where he gave the IRS officer $17,000 in cash. Michael appeared before a federal magistrate and was released on $5,000 personal recognizance bond pending a Sept. 27 court appearance.

Michael won an $11 million Lotto jackpot in the Aug. 11 drawing. A criminal complaint filed in U.S. District Court Thursday said Michael went to the IRS office in Westminster on Aug. 13 and told Officer Deborah Archer he was coming into some money. He allegedly offered her $4,000 or $5,000 to lift the lien, and said he wanted it taken care of before noon that day.

Archer immediately reported the bribe offer to her supervisor. Michael called Archer shortly after noon and told her he had won the Lotto jackpot, but didn't want to claim the prize with the lien in force. He allegedly raised the bribe offer to $25,000.

Michael and his wife claimed the initial Lotto check for $209,000 after taxes later that day. He then met Archer in a restaurant parking lot and gave her a cashier's check for $25,000.

The affidavit said Michael later called Archer and asked if she ''had a problem with the check because he knew that cash was always neater.'' Archer tape-recorded all her conversations with Michael without his knowledge.

LONDON (SEPT. 14) UPI - Letters written by the first murderer believed tracked down by radio were auctioned off by Christie's for $15,593 Friday, more than three times the expected amount.

Bidding for the nine letters written by Dr. Hawley Harvey Crippen just days before he was hanged in 1910 for poisoning his wife, Cora, was expected to start at $4,650.

''The letters are very detailed ... 34 pages of intense and passionate descriptions,'' said Edmund Pollinger, Christie's book and manuscript expert.

One reason the letters drew a high bid was because of the insight they give into the mind of a doctor who poisoned his wife, then mutilated her body and hid the remains beneath the cellar floor, he said.

In letters to a Lady Somerset, who believed in his innocence, Crippen revealed his feelings, hope for acquittal and concern for his 27-year- old mistress, Ethel le Neve, who was accused of being his accomplice.

The sensational Crippen murder story began with the disappearance of Cora after a dinner date the couple had with friends. Crippen, when questioned by friends, told them Cora died while in America visiting sick relatives.

Friends reported Cora's disappearance to Scotland Yard. By this time she said, Crippen's mistress had moved in.

A Scotland Yard inspector paid Crippen a visit but found nothing. The couple, alarmed by the visit, quickly fled to The Netherlands where they boarded the SS Montrose bound for Canada.

Crippen did not want to be recognized so he had the woman dress like a boy. The captain questioned her ill-fitting disguise and the couple's affectionate behavior toward each other, so he radioed to London.

The call reached a Scotland Investigator 10 days after the discovery of Cora's body. The investigator immediately boarded a ship and arrested the pair off the water in Canada on July 31, 1910.

SAN ANTONIO (SEPT. 14) UPI - A hearing Monday in U.S. Bankruptcy Court to determine the fate of Fairchild Aircraft Corp. could turn into a bidding war, a newspaper reported Friday.

The San Antonio Light said five serious contenders are vying for control of the financially ailing San Antonio airplane maker.

Aaron Hollander of First Equity Development Inc., a Stamford, Conn.- based investment banking firm hired to sell Fairchild, told the newspaper that three of the five are Fairchild Acquisition Corp., Snow Aviation International Inc. and Futuristic Acquisition Inc. Hollander declined to disclose the name of the other two companies.

Fairchild, the world's leading manufacturer of 19-seat regional airplanes, filed Chapter 11 reorganization on Feb. 1, listing total assets of $92 million and total liabilities of $86.4 million.

The company has laid off more than 700 workers since last summer, currently employing about 230 people.

Presiding bankruptcy Judge Leif Clark is expected to approve the company's plan for reorganization on Monday, Hollander said.

Hollander said executives officials from several groups have spent the past few weeks at Fairchild analyzing the company's finances and preparing purchase proposals.

Fairchild Acquisition Corp. is made up of Carl Albert, the former chairman of Wings West airline, and several former Fairchild executives.

On Aug. 14, Fairchild trustee Bettina Whyte approved a preliminary proposal by Fairchild Acqusition to purchase the company for $45 million. But a special provision was written into the reorganization plan allowing the trustee to continue negotiating with other potential buyers before the confirmation hearing.

Snow Aviation International is a Columbus, Ohio-based company that plans to manufacture commercial and military turboprop cargo planes.

Los Angeles-based Futuristic Acquisition is in the import/export business, engaged in small operations making hair and human hair extensions.

TOKYO (SEPT. 14) UPI - Pigeons will have to take their chances as usual at future Olympic Games.

The executive board of the International Olympic Committee rejected Friday an appeal from animal protection groups to stop using the birds at opening ceremonies.

Michele Verdier, the IOC's director of information, said the groups - mostly from West Germany - had written complaints after several pigeons were incinerated when the Olympic flame burst into action at the 1988 Seoul Olympics.

After considering releasing the birds before the flame had been lit or reducing the numbers of pigeons, the executive committee decided to stick to the format which has existed since the first modern Olympics in 1896.

''It is still the tradition and their presence carries a strong message to the world,'' Verdier said.

(SEPT. 14) UPI - The State Department says that reports of the U-S mission in Kuwait being overrun by Iraqi troops are just NOT true. But Iraqi forces did enter residences of both the Canadian and French ambassador in Kuwait earlier in the day. They detained several diplomats, including the U-S consul stationed in Baghdad. All but four citizens of France were later released.

New Hampshire jurist David Souter says the failure of the executive and legislative branches of government has left the third branch, the judicial, with increased powers. President Bush's Supreme Court nominee is undergoing a second day of questioning in the Senate. Souter says failure by the executive and legislative branches to settle key issues only means that the courts have to do the job.

NEW YORK (SEPT. 14) UPI - The first Americanized edition of the Guinness Book of Records, published Friday, is filled with informational goodies including a 27-ton ice cream sundae.

The 1991 edition identifies the the the nation's oldest person (Carrie White of Palatka, Fla., 115), most prolific president (John Tyler, 14 or 15 children), biggest butterfly (giant swallowtail), and largest bowling center (Las Vegas' Showboat Lanes, 106 lanes).

It also lists record performances in scores of sports, the most expensive luxuries, the most poisonous animals and insects, the most remarkable bridges and buildings, the most valuable art, and the winners of the world's highest honors, decorations and awards.

The 29th edition is the first published by Facts on File, a New York news reference service which acquired U.S. publication rights from Sterling Publishing, a British firm, last year. Facts on File has enlarged the size of the book and added color illustrations.

The new Guinness has been specially edited for American readership, downplaying some of the British commonwealth material contained in previous editions. It also has lead-in essays on various categories of knowledge that contain information generally found only in encyclopedias.

''We've opened up whole new areas of information about the United States, expanding the presidential records, baseball and football, and so forth,'' said Mark Young, editor of the U.S. edition. ''In every category of listing, we have tried to include the American record holder, such as the oldest tree and the longest suspension bridge.''

Young said one of the prime markets for the $21.95 hardcover reference work (Bantam Books brings out a cheaper paperback edition), in addition to libraries, schools, the media, journalists and other writers, is teenage students.

''Guinness is perceived as a book used by teenagers to find quick facts for papers they are preparing in high school,'' he said. ''It's a very entertaining book, much more entertaining than an almanac. It is just fun to pick up and dip into from time to time.''

Asked for his favorite entry, Young said without hesitation it was the world's biggest ice cream sundae, a 54,914-pound confection made by Palm Dairies Ltd., Alberta, Canada, in 1988. It is listed next to the illustration of the world's tallest Easter egg, a chocolate 19-footer made by Tobler Suchard of Bedford, England, in 1987.

There is information in the 1991 edition as recent as sports records set in July of this year. A wealth of superlatives were established in 1989, such as the oldest queen in history, ex-Empress Zita of Austria who died a few days short of 97, and the most expensive dress ever, a $7.3 million diamond-decorated ball gown designed by Parisian Helene Gainville.

Guinness, as one might suspect from its name, was the brainchild of Sir Hugh Beaver, managing director of Guinness Ltd., the British brewing firm, and first published in 1955. The first U.S. edition was published the following year and there are now 262 editions in 35 languages. The first Russian edition came out this year.

The Guinness Book of Records has had its own listing in the book since 1974 as the top-selling copyright book in publishing history, with global sales surpassing 60 million in 1989. In Guinness terms, that equals 171 stacks of books, each as high as Mount Everest.

WASHINGTON (SEPT. 14) UPI - President Bush formally sent Congress a multi-billion dollar proposal Friday to pump up Latin America's struggling economies with ''trade not aid.''

Bush called the Enterprise for the Americas Inititative Act ''one of the most important initiatives of my administration'' and requested swift passage by the House and Senate.

The purpose of the measure, first announced last June, is to encourage market-oriented reform and economic growth in Latin America through investment debt reduction and environmental protection.

Under it, the United States would contribute $100 million a year over five years to an Americas Investment Fund, a multilateral effort that would be established by the Inter-American Development Bank.

The measure would also create an Enterprise for the Americas Facility in the Treasury Department, which would support debt reduction efforts for nations that meet certain investment reforms.

In addition, the United States would seek to enter environmental accords with those nations eligible for debt reduction. These agreements, in turn, would be used to create an Environmental Fund.

Bush offered the program last spring as a way to assist Latin America, particularly emerging democracies, by encouraging businesses to invest in the region.

In transmitting the legislation to Capitol Hill for introduction to Congress by GOP leaders, Bush said the initiative would be ''a bold new chapter in hemispheric relations - one based on trade, not aid.''

''For the benefit of all people in this hemisphere, the United States needs to reach out and support the efforts of these countries as each undertakes its owns approach to economic reform,'' he said.

Flanked by members of his Cabinet and representatives of the Organization of American States and the Inter-American Development Bank, Bush said leaders across the hemisphere have enthusiastically embraced his proposal.

The proposal was raised by the U.S. side during the Economic Summit in Houston in July. But it won no commitments from the six industrial democracies - Britain, France, Italy, Germany, Japan, Canada.

RALEIGH, NC (SEPT. 14) UPI - Gunfire, bombs and Iraqi soldiers rule the streets of Kuwait City where people live in fear of the answering their doors and natives are willing to die to take back their country, former hostages said.

''You see bombs, trucks blow up. There's a soldier on every street corner,'' said Lorri Zeidan of Riverside, Calif., who was on vacation with her Kuwaiti husband at the time of the Aug. 2 invasion by Iraqi President Saddam Hussein. Her husband still remains in Kuwait.

Zeidan was one of 263 people, including 147 children, permitted to leave Kuwait in a chartered flight that landed at the Raleigh-Durham International Airport at 4:54 p.m. EDT Thursday.

''You feel like a prisoner. You can't go nowhere,'' said Zeidan, who clutched her infant son and a teddy bear. ''Everything American they blew up - the Safeway, Toys 'R' Us.''

Grace Al-Wazzan, a West Virginia native who lived in Kuwait nine years, said Iraqi soldiers are making door-to-door checks of homes, looting Kuwait stores and firing bazookas on homes where people are believed to be part of a resistance movement.

''I think the people in Kuwait are willing to sacrifice their lives now,'' said Al-Wazzan, who fled with her three children but was forced to leave her Kuwaiti husband.

Al-Wazzan said she decided to leave with her children when she received a paper in the mail with instructions on how to protect yourself from chemical warfare, which was used to kill numerous people under Saddam Hussein in the Iran-Iraq war.

''You live in fear of the doorbell,'' said Al-Wazzan, adding that Iraqi soldiers go door-to-door to investigate homes.

''I heard gunfire at night,'' said Eleanor Mireles, who had sought refuge in the U.S. Embassy. ''It was very scary for all the people there.''

''They want their country back,'' said Mireles, a New Bern, N.C., native now living in Fairfax., Va. ''The Kuwaitis are willing to die, to do whatever it takes. They want Kuwait back.''

Mireles, who in June traveled with her husband to Kuwait where they once lived for eight years, said at the Embassy, Ambassador Nathaniel Howell, his staff and a handful of citizens cooked rice on charcoal grills after water and electricity was cut off Aug. 25.

The group tried to keep their spirits up by playing games, she said.

''We tried to play games at night. We put on talent shows together. Everything was done by candlelight,'' she said.

Al-Wazzan said the Kuwaitis were anxious for military help.

''Because I'm American, my neighbors kept asking me, 'When are the Marines going to arrive?''' she said.

CAPE CANAVERAL, FL (SEPT. 14) UPI - The presumably leak-free shuttle Columbia was cleared Friday for the overnight start of another countdown to blastoff Tuesday, a last-ditch bid to get the delayed ship off the ground before a higher-priority October mission.

Running more than three months behind schedule because of multiple hydrogen leaks and trouble with an on-board telescope, Columbia's countdown was scheduled to begin at 1 a.m. EDT Saturday amid a continuing debate over the possibility more leakage will show up during fuel loading Monday.

If all goes well - and some NASA officials consider that a big ''if'' - the shuttle's seven-man crew will take off at 1:28 a.m. EDT Tuesday to kick off a 10-day astronomy mission.

''We're on schedule to pick up the countdown at one o'clock in the morning,'' said NASA spokeswoman Lisa Malone. ''We're not tracking any problems right now. We've done all the leak checks required to satisfy us about the hydrogen system. So we're going to go ahead and count down and hope we don't get any leaks.''

NASA's launch team will only have two days or so to get Columbia off the ground to avoid delaying the shuttle Discovery's launch around Oct. 8 on a higher-priority $750 million mission to carry the European-built Ulysses solar probe into space.

For Columbia's crew, the stakes are high. If the ship is grounded again, NASA managers may elect to delay the flight for up to a year because of other scheduling problems. At the very best, the mission would be delayed to late next month.

So with time running out, Columbia skipper Vance Brand, 59, co-pilot Guy Gardner, 42, Robert Parker, 53, and civilian astronomer Ronald Parise, 39, planned to fly to the Kennedy Space Center from Houston Saturday night for final preparations.

Their crewmates - John ''Mike'' Lounge, 44, Jeffrey Hoffman, 45, and astronomer Samuel Durrance, 46 - were scheduled to join them Sunday afternoon.

Launch originally was scheduled for May 30, but the crew was grounded the night before when sensors detected explosive hydrogen gas leaking into the ship's engine room.

Subsequent tests led NASA managers to believe the leak was caused by damaged seals inside a massive 17-inch-wide fuel line fitting. A similar problem grounded the shuttle Atlantis in July.

Columbia was equipped with a new fuel line fitting and rescheduled for launch Sept. 1 only to be grounded again, this time by problems with an on-board telescope, one of four making up the ship's ''Astro-1'' observatory payload.

Finally, a third launch try Sept. 6 ended in failure the night before when yet another hydrogen leak showed up. Engineers replaced three suspect pumps in the shuttle's engine compartment before discovering a partially crushed seal in a fuel line valve leading to main engine No. 3.

The clearly damaged $250 seal was replaced earlier this week and launch was rescheduled for Tuesday.

Even so, many engineers questioned whether the faulty seal alone could have accounted for the hydrogen concentrations measured last week. To make sure, additional leak checks were conducted Thursday, but no more problems were found.

Still, after a disappointing summer of delays and repeated setbacks, few NASA officials were willing to make any predictions about Columbia's fourth launch try in three months.

''In the halls, some of the guys are betting whether any leaks will show up Monday,'' said one official.

In the meantime, agency managers are studying whether they can change tough post-Challenger launch guidelines to increase the allowable concentration of hydrogen in the shuttle's engine compartment.

The limit currently is 600 parts per million, a minuscule .006 percent. But given the nature of hydrogen, some leakage is inevitable and officials are studying whether the current limit is unrealistically conservative.

The goal of the 36th shuttle mission, the 11th since the Challenger disaster but only the fourth this year, is to study X-rays and ultraviolet light from energetic stars and galaxies that cannot penetrate Earth's atmosphere.

On nearby launch pad 39B, engineers are readying Discovery for blastoff around Oct. 8 to ferry the Ulysses probe into space.

To reach the proper orbit above the poles of the sun, the nuclear- powered spacecraft must first be launched to Jupiter so the giant planet's gravity can be used to fling the probe down, out of the plane of the solar system and back toward the sun.

Because of the positions of Earth and Jupiter, and the power of Ulysses' rocket booster, Discovery must be launched by Oct. 23 or the flight will be delayed 13 months to allow the planets to return to favorable launch positions.

ARLINGTON, VA (SEPT. 14) UPI - USAir said Friday it plans to increase domestic fares by 4.2 percent Oct. 1 because of the increase in jet fuel prices following Iraq's invasion of Kuwait.

''Cost of jet fuel continues to fluctuate and in recent weeks has periodically risen more than 30 cents per gallon above the average price of 58.5 cents per gallon reported by USAir for the second quarter of 1990,'' the company said.

Each penny increase equates to an annual cost of $13 million to USAir on the 1.3 billion gallons of jet fuel the carrier purchases annually for its aircraft fleet, the company said.

USAir thus becomes the third major carrier to institute a fare increase this week in response to steeply escalating fuel costs, following the lead of Delta Airlines, which announced a 4.2 percent fare boost Thursday, and before that, Pan American World Airlines, which said it would hike fares 4.4 percent effective Sept. 21.

Major U.S. carriers had raised fares by 5.3 percent on Aug. 30 to cover higher fuel costs triggered by the Aug. 2 Iraqi move into Kuwait.

But the airlines have said that initial increase failed to fully make up for the added expense - and in the meantime, jet fuel prices have continued to rise.

BALTIMORE (SEPT. 14) UPI - White men who have high blood pressure appear to produce more sweat than their counterparts with normal blood pressure, a finding that may help develop better anti-hypertension treatments, researchers said Friday.

Dr. Abraham Aviv of the University of Medicine and Dentistry in Newark, N.J., said his two-year study of sweat volume and blood pressure among 144 people supports the view that hypertension probably has more than one cause.

Aviv reported that when he put the sweat-inducing drug pilocarpine on the forearm of white males who had high blood pressure, they produced more sweat than white males who did not have hypertension. In contrast, white women with high blood pressure and black men and women with high blood pressure showed the same level of sweat formation when exposed to the drug as their counterparts with normal blood pressure.

The findings show hypertension ''does note express itself in the same way in blacks and whites, or in males and females,'' Aviv told a conference of the American Heart Association.

''An understanding of sweat metabolism may serve as a tool in developing specific criteria to determine which drugs may be appropriate for certain people,'' he said.

Aviv speculated white men with hypertension may sweat more than other people due to elevated levels of calcium circulating in their bodies. He noted that previous research suggests that when calcium levels rises in blood vessel walls, the vessels constrict and lead to high blood pressure. Higher calcium levels are in sweat glands also known to promote sweat formation, he said.

(SEPT. 14) UPI - Iraqi troops stormed the Belgian, Canadian and French diplomatic buildings in the Kuwaiti capital Friday and detained several diplomats, including the American consul from Baghdad, before releasing all but three French civilians, officials said.

The Netherlands said Iraqi troops raided its ambassador's residence in the Kuwaiti capital two days ago, but indicated no one was taken.

The U.S. State Department's Kuwaiti Task Force said it had been in contact with the U.S. mission in Kuwait and said unconfirmed ''reports it had been overrun by Iraqi troops are not true.''

Also Friday, a U.S. warship in the Gulf of Oman fired a warning shot and boarded an Iraqi-flagged oil tanker heading toward Iranian waters. The officials said the tanker stopped and an armed U.S. boarding party went aboard the ship.

Details were sketchy and it was not immediately clear what the United States planned to do with the tanker.

The Iraqi raids on the three ambassadors' residences, which have diplomatic immunity under international law, indicated Iraq was taking a new, hard-line approach toward the defiant Western nations refusing orders to leave the occupied emirate, which Iraq invaded Aug. 2 and subsequently annexed.

Authorities had been trying to force the diplomats out by cutting off their communications, electricity and water, but several embassies had steadfastly refused to shut down.

Swift condemnation met the Iraqi action.

French President Francois Mitterrand, visiting Czechoslovakia, said ''the violation by Iraqi troops of the residence of the ambassador of Kuwait is an aggression and we will respond.''

President Bush denounced the intrusions as ''outrageous,'' promised to cooperate fully with Mitterrand but said there was no immediate plan to escalate action against Iraq.

''When an escalation is required from me, Saddam Hussein will know it,'' Bush said.

BANGKOK, Thailand (SEPT. 14) UPI - The election of Cambodian resistance leader Prince Norodom Sihanouk as council chairman will be ''at the top of the agenda'' at the initial meeting of the joint Cambodian council next week, Cambodian officials said Friday.

''Everything appears set for a meeting on Monday in Bangkok, but we cannot yet confirm it because there might be some last minute change,'' said an official of the resistance group loyal to Sihanouk.

The meeting of the ''Supreme National Council'' comprised of representatives of all four battling Cambodian factions is seen as a key step in the implementation of a U.N. peace plan for Cambodia.

Sihanouk's son, Prince Norodom Ranariddh, has postponed a trip to Paris to remain in Bangkok for the meeting, the Sihanoukist official said.

Former Prime Minister Son Sann was scheduled to arrive in Bangkok Sunday to attend the meeting, another resistance official said.

Prime Minister Hun Sen of the Vietnamese-installed government in Phnom Penh earlier said he was prepared to return to Bangkok for the meeting on Monday.

''The question of the election of Prince Sihanouk as chairman of the council is at the top of the agenda,'' said a Sihanoukist official.

Earlier Friday, Sihanouk released a statement reversing his decision to take a six-month leave of absence from political activities.

''Samdech Preah (Prince) Norodom Sihanouk of Cambodia has decided to preside over the newly-formed Supreme National Council once all the Cambodian parties, in particular, the party of (Prime Minister) Hun Sen, request him (to do so) '' said a statement released by Sihanouk's office in Bangkok.

The council is a key part of a U.N. plan to return peace to Cambodia after 11 years of conflict and must immediately decide on key questions including Cambodia's representation at next week's U.N. General Assembly meeting.

Last Monday, the 67-year-old Sihanouk announced that he would refuse to serve as a member or head of the council.

He also refused to attend the meeting in Jakarta that established the council and said he would be taking a six-month leave of absence from activities as leader of the three-part resistance coalition.

In forming the 12-member council, however, the four Cambodian factions provided for the election of a 13th member as chairman of the council - a spot clearly earmarked for the mercurial Sihanouk, who is known for his abrupt changes of position.

In an interview broadcast by resistance radio Friday, Khmer Rouge leader Khieu Samphan said he and other resistance leaders had agreed to elect Sihanouk as the council chairman because ''Sihanouk is the only statesman everyone respects and accepts both in and out of the country as leader of the Cambodian nation.''

Hun Sen, the leader of the Vietnamese-installed government, however, reacted coolly to earlier hints that Sihanouk would like to join the council.

He told reporters in Bangkok Thursday he understood Sihanouk wanted to take rest and would not want to disturb him.

Instead he proposed that Chau Sen Kosal, another member of Sihanouk's group, take the chairmanship of the council.

This apparently forced Sihanouk to ask for the post directly.

The first Council meeting is expected to consider four tasks:

- election of a chairman,

- selection of a joint delegation to the U.N. General Assembly,

- implementation of a voluntary ceasefire.

- working out a moratorium on foreign arms aid to all groups.

Cambodia's seat at the United Nations currently is held by Sihanouk's coalition and the agreed change in the accreditation was a key incentive for Hun Sen's government to agree to the rest of the peace plan.

In Phnom Penh, Hun Sen told reporters that if the Council meeting could not be held before the opening of the General Assembly on Sept. 18, then all 12 members of the Council could sign the credentials for the delegation.

The U.N. peace plan provides for a transition U.N. administration that will separate and disarm the battling armies, confirm the departure of all foreign troops, enforce an end to outside military aid and hold free elections.

OTTAWA (SEPT. 14) UPI - Canada, driven by the Persian Gulf crisis, signed a $5.2 billion pact Friday with a consortium of four oil companies to immediately begin developing the Hibernia oil field off the coast of Newfoundland.

Canadian Energy Minister Jake Epp denied that the decision to start development was driven by the Gulf crisis and escalating oil prices. ''It reflects a need for Canada to have energy self-sufficiency,'' he said.

The Gulf crisis precipitated by Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of oil-rich Kuwait has resulted in crude oil prices rising by about a third to $30 a barrel.

The oil field, estimated to contain between 525 and 650 million barrels of recoverable oil 240 feet below sea level, would begin producing oil by 1996. Hibernia would add an average of 110,000 barrels daily to Canada's oil production.

The consortium partners are Mobil Oil Canada, with a 28.125 percent interest, Gulf Canada Resources and Petro-Canada, each with a 25 percent interest, and Chevron Canada Resources, which has a 21.875 percent stake.

The agreement also was signed by the provincial government of Newfoundland.

The project, which took about 26 months to negotiate and became stalled several times last year as oil prices continued to drop, will be one of the country's largest and most controversial undertakings.

The Canadian government contributed $1 billion cash and $1.7 billion in loan guarantees to get the project started.

The oil fields were discovered 11 years ago, but many companies were skeptical whether a drilling rig structure could be designed to withstand the stormy Atlantic Ocean area known to locals as Iceberg Alley.

To withstand the environment, engineers have designed a huge concrete tub 327 feet wide by 278 feet high that will reach from the seabed to 15 feet above sealevel.

Caissons projecting from the top of the tub will support five topside ''supermodules'' containing facilities for drilling, oil and gas processing and crew quarters.

The so-called gravity base, which will be able to store up to 1.3 million barrels of oil, and one of the supermodules, will be constructed in Great Mosquito Cove in Bull Arm, an uninhabited cove about 90 miles west of St. John's, Newfoundland.

Government officials said 48 wells will be drilled from the gravity base into the Hibernia reservoir by the platform's two drilling rigs.

Floating rigs may be used to drill an additional 35 wells away from the main drilling structure. These would be fitted with subsea wellheads and connected to the gravity base by subsea pipelines.

Oil will be transferred to three specially designed 120,000 tonne tankers, each capable of carrying 850,000 barrels of oil, through two offshore loading systems located one mile from the main platform.

According to the oil consortium, as much as 60 percent of the $5.2 billion capital cost will be met by Canadian firms. Canadian companies will also supply 65 percent of the $10 billion operating expenditures.

The project will provide some 35,000 construction jobs over the next six years and another 1,100 permanent ones in Newfoundland, the poorest province in Canada.

Allan Luffman, an oil specialist with Halifax, Nova Scotia-based Geomarine, said the consortium has based its projections on a minimum world oil price of $25 a barrel. But, he said, no one knows the precise oil price the companies need to earn a profit.

Nonetheless, Luffman said the project represented an important step in bringing thousands of jobs to Newfoundland. ''It's not a godsend, (but) there's an immediate boom,'' he said, adding the project would not make Newfoundland a net contributor to the Canadian economy.

DEERFIELD, Ill. (SEPT. 14) UPI - Premark International Inc. said Friday it has agreed to pay Weldotron Corp. $11.9 million in an out-of-court settlement of two patent-infringement lawsuits.

The suits, filed by Weldotron in U.S. District Court in New Jersey, accused Premark's Hobart division of infringing patents on food-wrapping machine components and sought damages in excess of $200 million.

A Premark spokesman said the company agreed to the settlement to avoid uncertainty and additional costs of further litigation. The company denied any patent infringement or impropriety.

In exchange for the $11.9 million payment, Weldotron agreed to dismiss the two suits and refrain from any futher attempt to enforce the patents against Hobart, according to Premark.

Hobart produces a broad line of food equipment, including food- wrapping machinery.

Premark is a $2.6 billion corporation whose brand names include Tupperware, West Bend, Hobart and Hartco.

WASHINGTON (SEPT. 14) UPI - President Bush has picked Walter Massey, a physicist from the University of Chicago, as the new director of the National Science Foundation, the foundation announced Friday.

Massey, 52, vice president for research at the University of Chicago and the Argonne National Laboratory, would replace Erich Bloch, whose six-year term ended last month. Massey's appointment must be confirmed by the Senate.

''Walter Massey has a distinguished record as a scientist, educator and outstanding administrator,'' said Frederick Bernthal, deputy director and acting director of the foundation.

''His selection to lead NSF through the challenges and opportunities of the coming years is an excellent one. He is a dynamic individual and will bring energetic leadership to the foundation,'' he said in a statement.

The foundation is an independent federal agency with an annual budget of more than $2 billion that awards 12,000 to 14,000 grants each year for research in all fields of science, mathematics and engineering.

Massey has been university vice president since 1984. Before that, Massey had been director of the Argonne National Laboratory and a physics professor at the University of Chicago, which manages the laboratory, since 1979.

Massey was an associate professor and professor of physics at Brown University in Providence, R.I., from 1970 to 1979, and an assistant professor of physics at the University of Illinois, Urbana, from 1969 to 1970.

Japan today raised the amount of its financial commitment to the multi-national efforts to confront Iraq in the Persian Gulf. Japan responded to pressure from its allies by pledging an additional three- BILLION dollars to the effort... increasing its total commitment to four-BILLION dollars. Half of the money will go to support troops in the Gulf and the other half will be given as loans and other aid to front- line states. .

President Bush today asked U-S lawmakers to provide more money for U- S efforts in the Gulf. Bush is seeking nearly two-BILLION dollars in new funds for fiscal 1990 to pay for the growing cost of ''Operation Desert Shield.'' The president also formally requested that lawmakers cancel Egypt's seven-BILLION-dollar debt for military sales.

Members of the Senate Judiciary Committee are continuing a second day of questioning as they look into the nomination of Judge David Souter to the U-S Supreme Court. WASHINGTON (SEPT. 14) UPI - President Bush denounced as outrageous Friday the Iraqi army's intrusion into several embassies in Kuwait, saying such incidents violate international law and raise tensions in the volatile Middle East.

Speaking to reporters on the south lawn as he left for Camp David, Bush condemned Iraq's violation of the French, Canadian, Dutch and Belgium embassies in Kuwait City, but said he ''wouldn't put it closer to a war situation.''

''I still hope that this matter can be peacefully resolved,'' Bush said.

''But any of these incidents - all of them - add up to a violation of international law and I think they do raise tensions; they clearly do.''

Asked if he were rattling his saber, Bush replied, ''When I rattle a saber the man (Iraq President Saddam Hussein) will know it.''

Bush said he called French President Francois Mitterrand after the invasion of the French Embassy residence by Iraqi forces and told him, ''I will do whatever I could to support what he decides to do.''

After the Iraqi army took over Kumwait last month, Saddam ordered all foreign embassies closed on grounds Kumwait was no longer a soverign nation, but a part of Iraq. The United States and most other countries refused to obey the order and their embassies remain open. The U.S. Embassy was not included in those that were invaded.

Iraqi forces burst into the French Embassy residence and Canadian embassy, detaining several diplomats, including the American consul, but later released all but three French civilians.

Bush described the Iraqi break-in as ''outrageous.''

''These developments not only underscore the brutal behavior of Iraq but also the international support that exists and is marshalled against '' is marshalled against

''I've often said it is not the United States against Iraq but Iraq against the world,'' Bush said.

He repeated that U.S. forces were sent to Saudi Arabia at the request of King Fahd's government ''and those same U.S. forces will depart as soon as they are no longer needed or wanted. And they will remain not one day longer.''

Bush confirmed reports that in accordance with the U.N.-sanctioned blockade, an American warship fired a warning shot across the bow of an Iraqi-flagged tanker heading for Iranian waters.

''We did cause another Iraqi vessel to heave to,'' Bush acknowledged. He said the vessel was boarded and, ''I expect, confidently, that if it is not carrying any contraband or anything that will violate the sanctions, it will be permitted to go on its way.

''But it did require a bit of a warning before the captain pulled over and permitted the boarding party to have a look,'' he explained.

In his brief opening statement, Bush thanked Japan, which had been under pressure to increase its financial commitment to the military buildup in the gulf, for providing an additional $3 billion in aid. The new infusion of money brought to $4 billion the total given by Japan.

''It is a significant contribution,'' said Bush, who also praised the British for sending an additional brigade to the troubled area.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (SEPT. 14) UPI - Kansas City Power & Light Co. Friday asked takeover target Kansas Gas and Electric Co. to release non-public information sought by KCP&L as soon as possible.

KCP&L's financial advisers requested the information Wednesday, the day after KGE said it was negotiating with a third party and would allow KCP&L to have certain information also made available to other parties.

In a letter Friday to KGE Chairman Wilson Cadman, KCP&L Chairman Drue Jennings said the company had not yet received the information.

''We are prepared to enter into a reasonable confidentiality agreement immediately provided that it does not inhibit our ability to pursue our current offer,'' he said.

KCP&L on July 23 announced an unsolicited tender of $857 million in cash, or $27 a share, for KGE's common stock.

The KGE board recommended that shareholders reject the KCP&L offer.

''This process which we are anxious to begin can only benefit your shareholders and customers and it is a surprise and somewhat disquieting to us at KCP&L that there has been such a delay in starting this process,'' Jennings said.

MANAGUA, NICARAGUA (SEPT. 14) UPI - Nicaraguans celebrated the 169th anniversary of their independence from Spain Friday, and the processions were peaceful despite Sandinista calls for a stepped-up ''popular struggle.''

Thousands of high school students gathered in Revolution Plaza where they began their annual march through the streets of the capital.

On a platform facing the students, President Violeta Chamorro and other government leaders oversaw the event.

''We have gained democracy like we gained independence in 1821 - through peace '' Chamorro told the crowd, referring to Feb. 25 election defeat of former Sandinista President Daniel Ortega.

She also announced that the national dialogue she has promised to bring together all social sectors of the country will begin next Thursday.

She said it will include ''the participation of all forces that exist in the country - workers, producers, peasants, businessmen and members of the government.''

''We have to understand that we have to strive as brothers, and strive in democracy,'' she said.

On the eve of the holiday, the Sandinista Front said the government's economic policies have not created the conditions necessary for a national dialogue.

''The Sandinista Front calls on the workers and all the people to maintain belligerent actions and to struggle for their legitimate rights by whatever means possible,'' said a written statement read by Sandinista Directorate member Luis Carrion.

Friday's banner headline in the official Sandinista newspaper Barricada read, ''Sandinista Front calls for popular struggle.''

Friday's celebrations were peaceful, however, despite some minor disturbances that broke out in the plaza between students, who typically display the same party spirit as their parents and older brothers and sisters.

Several high schools from predominantly Sandinista neighborhoods wore handerchiefs with the red and black Sandinista colors under their blue and white uniforms. As they passed the presidential platform, they pulled them out and waved them around.

Others formed human pyramids while waiting to join the march and hoisted youths carrying red and black flags high into the air. Students who support Chamorro's National Opposition Union (UNO) pelted the pyramids with plastic bags filled with water.

At one point, about 30 Sandinista youths rushed the procession in front of Chamorro before being turned back by police.

''We urge an immediate solution to our demands,'' read a banner held by some students.

Most of the school groups marched orderly, however, with marching bands playing hymns and cheerleaders walking proudly to the whistles of male admirers.

Chamorro's appearance in the plaza was her first since taking office April 25. After more than a decade of Sandinista rule, the plaza still bears the marks of the Sandinistas everywhere. On the National Palace, behind the presidential platform where Chamorro stood, hang large paintings of Sandinista namesake Augusto Cesar Sandino and the late Sandinista co-founder, Carlos Fonseca.

After the independence celebration, Chamorro dedicated a ''monument to peace'' several blocks from the plaza. Thousands of guns that have been rounded up from the population over the past few months since the Contra war ended were buried in a large hole that was filled-in with cement. The monument is to be constructed on the site.

''We are burying these arms to reinforce peace in our homeland ... so that no more blood is spilled,'' Chamorro said as trucks dumped the guns into the hole.

Although the main independence celebrations are on Friday, Nicaragua's Independence Day is Sept. 15, when in 1821 Spain signed a pact that liberated Central America from colonial control.

Sept. 14 also marks the day in 1856 when Nicaragua kicked out American opportunist William Walker, who marched into Nicaragua with a small force and proclaimed himself president of the country.

WASHINGTON (SEPT. 14) UPI - A U.S. warship and an Australian warship in the Gulf of Oman fired warning shots Friday and sent a joint boarding party aboard an Iraqi oil tanker before allowing it to proceed, the Pentagon said.

No injuries were reported.

The Navy frigate USS Brewton intercepted the 41,400-ton Iraqi tanker Al-Fao in the gulf as it was heading north toward the Strait of Hormuz, the opening to the Persian Gulf, the Pentagon said.

The Fao reported it was bound for the port of Basra, Iraq's second largest city, but the tanker refused to stop and receive a boarding party to inspect its cargo to ensure it was not violating U.N. sanctions, the Pentagon said.

''After several requests to permit boarding, the Brewton fired the first warning shots from one of its .50 caliber machine guns at approximately 4:40 p.m. local time'' across the bow of the tanker, the Pentagon said.

The Australian navy frigate HMAS Darwin, which was standing nearby, ''fired a second set of warning shots, also from a .50 caliber machine gun, about 10 minutes later,'' the Pentagon said.

President Bush, who had earlier confirmed the boarding, said ''it did require a bit of a warning'' to get the Iraqi vessel to stop.

''The master of the Al-Fao then announced he was stopping his ship and would permit boarding,'' the Pentagon said. ''A joint boarding party from the Brewton and the Darwin boarded the tanker, conducted a coordinated investigation and determined the ship contained no prohibited cargo.

''The Al-Fao was permited to proceed to its destination at approximately 9 p.m. local time,'' the Pentagon said.

It was at least the second boarding of an Iraqi ship and the third firing of warning shots by U.S. forces since the United States on Aug. 17 began enforcing a U.N. embargo against Iraqi oil and goods, an action taken in response to Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait.

On Aug. 18, U.S. warships fired warning shots across the bows of two Iraqi oil tankers heading out of the Persian Gulf, but the vessels ignored the warnings and continued on their way. The U.S. warships took no further action.

The United Nations later approved enforcement of its sanctions.

On Sept. 4, a U.S. warship boarded and seized control of the Iraqi freighter Zanoobia, heading toward the Persian Gulf with a cargo of tea from Sri Lanka. The boarding party took control of the Zanoobia for nearly a day, before obtaining assurances it would depart the area without unloading.

The Pentagon said there had been more than 840 interceptions - mostly involving radio contact - of foreign commercial vessels in the Persian Gulf, Gulf of Oman and the Red Sea as part of the effort to enforce the embargo.

So far, about 40 commercial vessels have been boarded by naval forces in the region, including about 35 by the United States, Pentagon spokesman Bob Hall said.

The United States has nearly 55 warships in the Middle East, including the aircraft carrier USS Independence in the Gulf of Oman and the aircraft carriers USS John F. Kennedy and the USS Saratoga in the Red Sea.

LONDON (SEPT. 14) UPI - Britain announced Friday it was reinforcing its military presence in the Persian Gulf with more than 6,000 British troops and 120 tanks.

''The government has decided to send the 7th Armoured Brigade to Saudi Arabia '' Defense Secretary Tom King said at a news conference.

A week after Iraq invaded Kuwait Aug. 2, Britain dispatched more than 3,000 troops to the gulf to join a multinational force in protecting Saudi Arabia and other states from any Iraqi threat.

King said the armoured brigade that will be sent to the gulf from West Germany includes 6,000 troops.

''It will consist of two armored regiments with some 120 Challanger tanks, an armoured infantry battalion equipped with warrior armoured fighting vehicles, an armoured squadron equipped with Scimitar combat vehicles, a field regiment RA with 155mm self-propelled guns, an air defense battery with Javelin missiles and a full range of supporting serveices,'' King said.

He said the government also was reinforcing its air force units already in the gulf with a squadron of Tornado GRI and Tornado air- defense aircraft.

King said the purpose for the deployment was, ''First to ensure that no further aggression can possibly succeed and that the defensive shield is sure for Saudi Arabia and the threatened gulf states.

''Secondly, to ensure that (Iraqi President) Saddam Hussein understands that while we seek the implementation of the United Nations resolutions by peaceful means, other options remain available and that, one way or another, he will lose.''

King said Britain was determined to drive Saddam out of Kuwait.

''Iraq's evil aggression must be reversed, and my announcement today confirms our determination to play our full part in the worldwide effort to achieve this.''

BETHESDA, Md. (SEPT. 14) UPI - A 4-year-old child stricken by a rare immune disease underwent the first official attempt at human gene therapy Friday, ushering in what researchers said may be a ''revolution in medicine.''

Everything went smoothly at the National Institutes of Health during the historic procedure involving a child suffering from an immune system defect similar to that which afflicted David, the famed Texas ''bubble boy,'' NIH sources said.

The name, sex and hometown of the child were not released, but researchers referred to the patient as ''her.''

Dr. W. French Anderson of the National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute, head of the research team, said although his experiment focuses on an uncommon disease that strikes few people, it marks a ''crucial, first small step'' towards using genetic techniques to fight everything from cancer to AIDS to heart disease.

''If this works, gene therapy might very well become a major new revolution in medicine. This should provide cures for diseases that are now incurable,'' Anderson told a Thursday news conference. Scientists were unavailable for comment Friday, saying they wanted to remain at the child's bedside.

Jeremy Rifkin of the non-profit Foundation on Economic Trends in Washington Friday petitioned the NIH, voicing opposition to the experiment and calling for creation of a committee to review the social and ethical implications of all human gene experiments.

''The NIH has brought us into the Brave New World of human genetic engineering. We are calling for a complete halt on future human gene therapy experiments until and advisory board on eugenics is established,'' said Rifkin a long-time critic of attempts to alter human's genetic makeup.

Every person has about 100,000 genes bearing the blueprint for everything from eye color to the risk of developing certain diseases. Gene therapy involves inserting genes with correct information into cells that contain defective genes, or putting in new genes that carry instructions for the production of disease-fighting substances.

The child treated Friday suffers from an immune disorder caused by defect in a gene that prevents the production of an enzyme known as adenosine deaminase, or ADA.

The disease affects no more than 20 children worldwide at any given time, and in the past, some affected youngsters lived in plastic bubbles to guard against life-threatening infections. Now, most such children undergo bone marrow transplants or receive injections of the missing enzyme.

The NIH team drew blood from the young patient, artifically encouraged white blood cells that play a key role in immunity to multiply, inserted correct copies of the gene and then returned the genetically altered cells back into her body.

About 1 billion genetically altered cells - about 6 tablespoons of material - were infused into the child over a half-hour period that ended about 1 p.m., the researchers said.

The child was placed in NIH's intensive care unit during the procedure and for several hours afterwards as a precautionary measure. If all goes well, the youngster will be allowed to return home Saturday. She will then undergo similar infusions every month for the next two or three years.

Researchers said it could take up to a year to see if the therapy is working to reconstitute the child's immune defenses. ''We certainly don't expect to tell you within this week that the treatment is a rousing success,'' said Dr. R. Michael Blaese of the National Cancer Institute.

It is hoped the procedure can eventually be done essentialy by ''mail order'' - shipping patients' blood back and forth between NIH and their home hospitals researchers said.

Researchers have government permission to try the therapy on up to 10 patients and they expect to treat one more child by the end of the year and another one or two by September 1991.

The gene therapy will be conducted only on youngsters who do not have siblings who can donate bone marrow and who are not responding well to enzyme replacement.

The proposal has gone through more than three years of review to address concerns of critics who worry gene therapy could lead to ethically questionable attempts at genetic engineering.

Anderson said the ''ultrasafe'' approach taken by researchers should have dispelled most of what he called the ''Frankenstein concern,'' the fear that researchers may misuse the power to manipulate human genes.

''I believe Americans are comfortable (with the idea of gene therapy) and are as excited as we are,'' Anderson said.

The FDA is still reviewing the proposal of Dr. Steven Rosenberg of the National Cancer Institute, who also recently won NIH approval to use gene therapy to enhance another experimental therapy skin cancer patients.

NEW YORK (SEPT. 14) UPI - As an 8 p.m. closure deadline approached, the New York Post had come to agreement with at least three of its nine unions Friday afternoon but roadblocks remained with its biggest union, the Newspaper Guild.

The Guild, representing 352 reporters, editors and advertising workers, appeared to be balking at demands for more than $5 million in concessions that the union says will reduce pay and benefits by 46 percent for its members.

Meanwhile, staff prepared two newspapers, one to report the tabloid's survival and another in case cost-cutting talks failed to keep the paper alive.

''We have to be prepared for either outcome,'' said Managing Editor Lou Colasuonno.

As the clock ticked closer to the 8 p.m. deadline set by owner Peter Kalikow for negotiating over $17 million in staff and salary cuts from unions, tensions prompted an abrupt request for a meeting with Cardinal John O'Connor.

One source said negotiators agreed to the meeting at St. Patrick's Cathedral for ''divine intervention.''

Kalikow has said he will shut the 189-year-old tabloid after Saturday's edition if he cannot staunch the flow of red ink which reportedly has cost him more than $100 million in the two years he has owned the paper.

Barry Lipton, head of the Newspaper Guild of New York, said management ''has resisted any approach that does not include a massive cut in wages for our members.''

A spokesman for Kalikow said the millionaire real estate developer visited the negotiating site in the morning, but denied he personally participated in the talks.

''They know he's concerned,'' said the spokesman, Gary Lewi, describing both sides as optimistic.

Downtown, at the Post building in the shadow of the Brooklyn Bridge, Colasuonno said moods varied as widely as the two potential Saturday newspapers under preparation.

''These things always go down to the wire,'' Colasuonno said. ''It could be a production problem for us. It's going to be an emotional ride for the staff.''

Colasuonno himself will write the Post front page headline.

''We'll do the front page the way we always do it. We're not going to change our style now,'' he said.

Post columnist Ray Kerrison Friday lamented the newspaper's possible fate, recalling the half-dozen papers that thrived in New York during the 1950s.

''After nearly 14 years here, I've grown to love the Post,'' he said. ''It does what tabloid newspapers are supposed to do: yell and scream, highlight issues, inform, amuse, explain, arouse.

''Some people don't understand the role, and elitists look down their noses, but I've been a tabloid newspaperman all my life and I wouldn't have it any other way.''

Management at the Daily News and The New York Times have said they would seek similar contract concessions from the same unions if they gave in to the demands by the Post's management.

Kalikow said he ''desperately'' wants to keep the Post alive but is no longer willing to pour more millions into the paper, which he said has cost him more than $100 million since he bought it from Rupert Murdoch in 1988. He expects to lose $27 million this year, a figure verified by the unions' accountants.

Unionized reporters and editors at the Post currently make a base salary of $42,000.

The closing of the Post would leave New York with just three major daily newspapers - the Daily News, The New York Times and New York Newsday. At one time, as many as twelve dailies flourished in Gotham - but since the 1960s, once-powerful papers which closed have included the Mirror, the Herald Tribune the Journal-American, the World Telegram & Sun and the Long Island Press.

JOHANNESBURG, SOUTH AFRICA (SEPT. 14) UPI - Black leader Nelson Mandela said Friday President Frederik de Klerk has concluded "some hidden hand" trying to sabotage his racial reform program is behind the wave of urban black violence.

Mandela, in a rare comment on the president's thinking after a meeting with him earlier Friday, told a news conference De Klerk had accepted the violence was the work of unidentified forces similar to the right-wing Renamo movement active in neighboring Mozambique.

He said De Klerk had outlined a ''comprehensive plan'' to crush the violence that has left more than 720 dead since early August and that further progress in negotiating a power-sharing deal in the country hung in balance pending its successful implementation.

De Klerk announced Thursday night the plan would be unveiled next week and his Law and Order Minister, Adriaan Vlok, said it included ''certain drastic steps.'' The imposition last month of emergency powers for security forces in 27 black townships has had no evident success.

De Klerk acknowledged in his statement Thursday there were unidentified ''forces which do not wish peaceful negotiations to succeed'' and that his calls for a ''new South Africa'' were being undermined by the slaughter. He vowed the offenders, ''whoever they may be, will be firmly dealt with.''

The U.S. State Department said it is ''absolutely imperative ... that all parties put political considerations aside and work together to develop a strategy for ending the violence.''

The violence continued to rage Friday, a day after 26 people were killed and more than 100 wounded when a group of black attackers rampaged through a commuter train as it headed out of Johannesburg at rush-hour.

Police spokesman Col. Frans Malberbe said 15 people were injured, again at rush-hour Friday when they were thrown off trains heading through downtown. Several victims were treated on the sidewalk outside the Jeppe Station as scores of police took up positions on overpasses and crowds gathered.

Earlier in the day, a gang of five men fatally shot three taxi drivers at point-blank range and fire-bombed their vehicles at a taxi stand in the nation's largest black township of Soweto, police said. Three passengers also were injured.

''One of the significant statements he made,'' Mandela said of his talks with De Klerk, ''was that the government is convinced that this is no longer a clash between black and black. It is no longer a clash between Inkatha and the ANC, or between Zulu and Xhosa.

''There is some hidden hand here which the government intends to track down and this comprehensive plan which they have adopted is intended to track down those people who are responsible for this carnage.''

''He also is of the opinion that behind the carnage are people who want to destabilize or derail the peace process,'' Mandela said.

De Klerk has previously called on Mandela, as leader of the ANC, and Mangosuthu Buthelezi of the rival Zulu movement Inkatha to meet in a bid to end the mayhem. Senior police officials have characterized the fighting as tribal, between Xhosas of the ANC and Zulus of Inkatha.

Indeed, the fighting that erupted between Zulus living in migrant worker hostels in the black townships surrounding Johannesburg and the permanent residents was easily characterized as Zulu-Xhosa, or Inkatha-ANC.

But attacks of recent days have become seemingly more random, more indiscriminate, with the attackers, identified by witnesses as black, staging quick strikes and then disappearing without a trace. Analysts have warned of a ''Third Force'' operating in the country.

Mandela said the bloodletting in recent days, including gunmen opening fire on pedestrians from passing mini-buses and the train attacks, was the work of ''highly professional killers.''

''We are not here dealing with amateurs. We are actually having in this country the beginning of the Renamo movement.''

Renamo, the right-wing guerrilla movement in the former Portuguese colony of Mozambique, was originally formed by the white security forces in former Rhodesia in 1977 to destabilize the newly independent Marxist-led country.

Support for the movement later shifted to South Africa when Rhodesia became Zimbabwe, extending a crippling war that has left hundreds of thousands dead and the country's economy bankrupt.

Although official South African support has ended in favor of an era of rapproachment, Mozambicans continue to allege Renamo receives funding from right-wing forces in South Africa.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (SEPT. 14) UPI - Florida's Lotto frenzy has hit such a feverish pitch that lottery officials decided Friday they would not try to estimate the final size of the jackpot, already pegged at more than $100 million.

The prize for Saturday night's drawing is currently the second largest in U.S. history - the biggest is a $115 million Pennsylvania jackpot split by 14 winners in April 1989 - and officials said there is a slim chance that last-minute purchases could drive Florida's payoff to first on the list.

At 1 p.m. Friday, players were buying the $1 Lotto tickets at a record pace, more than 590 per second, surpassing Thursday's rate of 450 per second, which itself was a record.

Lottery Secretary Rebecca Paul said sales were unpredictable because of the volumes, and lottery officials wanted to avoid overestimating the final amount which would be known along with the winners or winners by noon Sunday.

Meanwhile, Gov. Bob Martinez, who opposed creation of the lottery and has vowed never to purchase a ticket, called a revenue-estimating conference for next Monday to decide what to do with the one-time windfall, which could reach as high as $30 million.

Friday's record sales were exactly what lottery officials and retailers had predicted, since Fridays and Saturdays are traditionally the busiest days for ticket sales. Approximately 75 percent of Lotto ticket sales take place on those days, in part because many players get paid at the end of the week or buy their tickets while doing weekend grocery shopping.

The jackpot has attracted national attention and reports of large- scale purchases from residents of other states, like the two men who flew down from New York and bought 10,000 tickets from a Shell gas station in Pembroke Pines.

It took seven hours to print out the tickets, which the men picked up Friday in a shopping bag.

The men declined to give their last names.

''(If I win) I'll lose it in Atlantic City or somewhere else,'' Mike said. ''It's a chance, a gamble; it's a game.''

Tony Sinisi, the manager of the station, was shocked by the men's purchase.

''I was amazed. I couldn't believe someone would spend that much money on lottery tickets at one time - unbelievable,'' Sinisi said.

Sinisi said that if nobody won Saturday's drawing, the ticket buyers said they would return for 20,000 tickets.

Across the state, retailers were bracing for an even more hectic pace on Saturday.

''I can't even imagine what tomorrow is going to be like,'' said Linda Minter, a convenience store clerk in Tampa who served a steady stream of lottery hopefuls.

Fernando Beneda, manager of a Farm Stores outlet in Miami, said he had sold more than 2,000 tickets by midday Friday and estimated he would sell about 25,000 by the end of the week, compared with about 13,500 last week.

Not everyone has lottery fever, though. Some small business owners, like Lloyd Simon, owner of Zach Street News in downtown Tampa, said lottery sales are a major headache.

''It ties up our register and ties up the front of the store. I make 40 percent off my magazines and only 5 percent on the lottery tickets,'' Simon said.

''I told them to take this lottery stuff out before, but they begged us to keep it in,'' he said. ''Keeping this stuff means hiring extra help and extra bookkeeping. You're making a profit, but it's not worth the effort or work you put into it. ... It's a hard-earned 5 percent.''

In Tallahassee, lottery officials said the central computer was handling the crush with no problems. Another 30 computer terminals were added Wednesday and Thursday, bringing the total number of outlets statewide to about 7,480, close to the lottery computer's capacity of 7, 500 outlets.

The 30 additional terminals were added at retail outlets along the Florida border with Alabama and Georgia where all but three of the state's top 20 sales outlets are located.

Ticket sales end at 10:30 p.m. Saturday, 30 minutes before the drawing.

WASHINGTON (SEPT. 14) UPI - Supreme Court nominee David Souter, in his second day of confirmation hearings, told a Senate committee Friday ''I have not made up my mind'' about how to rule on a challenge to the 1973 decision legalizing abortion.

The federal appeals court judge repeatedly has refused to reveal to the Senate Judiciary Committee his personal feelings on abortion, seen as the lone issue that could sidetrack Souter's nomination by President Bush to replace retiring liberal Justice William Brennan.

Under questioning from Sen. Herbert Kohl, D-Wis., Souter said, ''it would be misleading'' to say he even has a concrete opinion on the landmark Roe vs. Wade ruling that guaranteed women the right to an abortion.

Bush Friday praised Souter's performance before the committee, saying he has watched nearly two hours of Souter's testimony the past two days.

''I think it's magnificent,'' Bush told reporters at the White House. ''My admiration for Judge Souter, respect for him, is even higher.''

Bush added, ''A senator has the right to ask any questions he wants. And what I think has been masterful is the way Judge Souter has gone as far as he possibly can, yet has handled it with such intellect. ... I don't think anybody gets the feeling that he is improperly avoiding things.''

Souter, 50, pledged to have an open mind if an abortion challenge comes before the high court and called abortion ''a very complex issue.''

''I do not sit here before you under oath having any commitment in my mind as to what I would do if I were on that court and that case were brought before me,'' Souter told the committee.

''I will listen to both sides of that case,'' he added. ''I have not made up my mind and I will not go on the court saying I must go one way or I must go another way.''

''I think that's a significant statement,'' Kohl replied.

Souter's position on abortion is critical because the Supreme Court stands just a single vote away from reversing the Roe vs. Wade decision.

Souter faced a wide range of questions from committee members, ranging from views on the War Powers Act, televising federal court proceedings, judicial activism on the Supreme Court, privacy rights, school desegregation and school prayer. For a second straight day, the nominee appeared confident and composed in his answers and occasionally joked with his questioners.

At one point, Souter was asked why he wanted the job.

''If I am confirmed in this office, I want to try the best that I can to exercise that responsibility (of the job) to give the Constitution good life in the time its interpretation is entrusted in me and preserve that life for generations that perhaps will be sitting in this room after you and I are long gone,'' Souter said.

Souter said the failure of the executive and legislation branches of the government to resolve divisive social issues, such as abortion, put those issues on the agenda of the Supreme Court.

''The Supreme Court is left to act alone when the political branches do not act beforehand,'' Souter said during questioning by Sen. Charles Grassley, R-Iowa.

Souter cited a ''disturbing tendency,'' due to ''a vacuum of response to the problems that have to be solved'' for the nation to assume ''the only guardians of the Constitution are the judges.''

Asked by Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., whether government has an obligation under the First Amendment to remain neutral toward religion, Souter said, ''I accept that as a personal principle.''

Pressed if he accepted that as ''legal principle,'' Souter said, ''I certainly accept it as the prevailing law of the United States, as it has been during, for practical purposes, my professional legal lifetime, and I do not have, at this time, either an agenda or a personal desire to bring about a re-examination of that position.''

The 14-member Judiciary Committee is examining Souter's nomination before his confirmation goes before the full Senate for approval to join the nation's highest court as an associate justice. Souter also has served in New Hampshire as state attorney general, a trial judge and a member of the state Supreme Court.

Sen. Paul Simon, D-Ill., expressed concern about Souter's empathy with the nation's minorities or the unfortunate.

''I want you to understand, perhaps, a little more than you do the aches of America,'' Simon told the nominee.

DAYTON, OH (SEPT. 14) UPI - Former gynecologist James Burt, who is fighting of dozens of malpractice lawsuits over his ''love surgery'' to rearrange women's genitals, threatened to burn patient files if a hospital did not retrieve them from his office, an administrator testified Friday.

James Makos, president of St. Elizabeth Medical Center, said during a hearing in the first of the lawsuits that he received a call from Burt Feb. 3, 1989, the day a bank foreclosed on the doctor's property.

''He asked me if the hospital would take possession of medical records in his office, that he was flat broke,'' Makos testified in Montgomery Common Pleas Court. ''He said that he could burn them. He said that he would burn those.''

Makos said he agreed to take possession of the documents ''reluctantly. ... Given the tenor of the times in town it was a very risky thing to do.''

The phone call came about three months after CBS aired a damning news program about Burt's so-called love surgery to rearrange women's genitals. The program alleged Burt performed the controversial procedure on many patients without their consent or knowledge.

The current hearing has focused on documents that Burt's lawyer, Earl Moore, says are surfacing in court proceedings against his client.

Previous testimony showed that a former Burt patient, Janet Phillips, claimed to have removed garbage bags filled with papers from Burt's vacated home.

The woman's lawyer, Harvey Wachsman, attempted Friday to show that Burt asked the hospital to remove all patient files from his property, and the hospital complied. He apparently wants to show that any papers left behind were abandoned.

Burt's attorney, Earl Moore, has asked Judge Richard Dodge to rule on whether the papers were obtained illegally, which would make them inadmissible in a civil malpractice trial.

Makos said the hospital agreed to remove Burt's medical files, and paid him about $30 to $50 for each of the roughly 15 cabinets in which they were stored.

The files were picked up by an administrative assistant, who stored them in a locked room at the hospital. ''I never, ever, ever went to the room, the floor or was in any way near those records,'' Makos said.

His statment apparently reflected the fact that the hospital, a co- defendant in many Burt suits, wants to avoid charges of tampering with evidence.

Also testifying Friday was an official of the National Bank of North Carolina in Charlotte, which handled the foreclosure on Burt's house.

Christopher Young said he received no word from Burt after the foreclosure date about wanting to store material at the house.

''Any property that was left on a property we foreclosed on ... was garbage. It would be thrown away,'' Young said.

WASHINGTON (SEPT. 14) UPI - Agriculture Secretary Clayton Yeutter, in the strongest administration language yet, Friday denounced the farm policy law being written by Congress as a Trojan horse ''with a belly full of malodorous policy cadavers.''

The legislation, which is in its final stage of drafting on Capitol Hill, would undermine the money-making ability of U.S. farmers by pricing them out of the world market and curtailing production, Yeutter said in a speech.

Yeutter listed a dozen areas where the administration wants to see changes. They included dairy prices, crop loan rates, land setaside rules, subsidy rates, sugar supports, a proposed soybean marketing loan and so-called planting flexibility.

In each case, Yeutter said Congress was going down the wrong road or even thwarting the needs of farmers for the sake of maintaining its own power or exercising election-year politics.

''Farmers are not a bunch of country bumpkins and this is one gift horse America's farmers will look in the mouth,'' Yeutter said. ''When they do, they're going to see a Trojan horse in our midst, with a belly full of malodorous policy cadavers left over from the pre-'85 farm bill.''

Despite the harsh tone, the speech contained no threat of a presidential veto, although the list of objectionable policy items was the same as identified earlier this summer. The White House warned in mid-July - just before floor debate in the House and Senate - that a veto was possible unless costs were cut substantially and bad policy ideas deleted.

The House and Senate versions of the farm bill would spend about $54 billion on farm supports over the next five years - roughly the same amount as if there were no change in current law.

White House officials have said several billion dollars will have to be cut as part of the efforts to reduce the deficit. Yeutter said that will entail cutting the so-called target prices that help determine the size of crop subsidy payments, the number of acres eligible for payments or both. At the moment, Congress would freeze target prices.

Yeutter's remarks were prepared for delivery to The Chicago Farmers, an organization of predominantly well-heeled landowners.

The new farm bill in general would renew the thrust of the 1985 farm policy law which tried to regain the U.S. share of the world market while protecting farm income. The House and Senate versions also would give farmers more freedom to decide which crops to grow - planting flexibility - and create a marketing loan for oilseeds, such as soybeans.

The administration prefers full-fledged planting freedom for farmers and a farm program that gives it authority to adjust loan rates, land setasides. It says that will prevent the government from distorting farm production. Some lawmakers say low support rates will deprive farmers of an income safety net.

Yeutter charged that Congress was proposed a limited form of flexibility because ''political power comes from having those decisions centered in Washington, D.C., and Congress likes power.''

Congressional leaders had no immediate comment on the speech. An aide to Senate Agriculture Committee Chairman Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., dismissed the speech as having little substance.

Meanwhile, seven senators were chosen to serve on the House-Senate committee that will write the final version of the farm bill. They were Leahy, Senate Republican leader Robert Dole of Kansas, and Sens. David Pryor, D-Ark., David Boren, D-Okla., Richard Lugar, R-Ind., and Thad Cochran. Lugar is the GOP leader on the Agriculture Committee.

FENTON, NY (SEPT. 14) UPI - The Detroit tavern owner who prosecutors say drove the pickup truck that slid off an icy road, killing baseball great Billy Martin, took the stand Friday at his trial and tearfully told jurors Billy was the driver.

William Reedy also claimed when he and Martin left the restaurant where they were eating on Christmas Day last year, neither of them was drunk.

In response to defense attorney Jon Blechman's questions about whether Reedy had been under the influence of alcohol, Reedy replied, ''No, and Billy Martin wasn't either.''

And Reedy insisted ''Billy Martin was driving and I was the passenger.''

Martin, 61, died from a fractured neck and spinal cord compression in the accident. Reedy, Martin's friend for more than 20 years, suffered a crushed hip and broken ribs and was hospitalized for several weeks.

Reedy is charged with driving with a blood alcohol level of 0.1 percent or more, a misdemeanor, and the traffic infraction of driving while ability is impaired.

Reedy said while driving to Martin's house from a restaurant the two were talking about Martin's mother who had passed away that year.

Reedy said Martin drove past his horse farm and said ''I missed my turn.''

Reedy testified Martin then made a left turn and suddenly felt the truck sliding off the road.

The last thing Reedy heard, he said to jurors, ''sounded something like hang on or hold on, and that was the last thing Billy Martin ever said.''

Reedy said he didn't recall the impact, but said the next thing he remembered was being under the dashboard and reaching to grab the steering wheel and pulling himself toward the driver's seat.

He said he looked over and saw Martin crushed against the passenger door.

At that point Reedy began to choke up and the judge called a brief recess.

On resuming his testimony, Reedy said he leaned over and thought Martin was unconscious and didn't realize he was dead.

''When the police arrived at the scene, did they ask you if you were driving the car?'' Blechman asked.

''I said I was driving the vehicle,'' Reedy said.

''Why did you say that?'' the attorney asked.

''To protect Billy,'' Reedy responded, his voice quivering with emotion.

The trial was recesssed until Monday, when Reedy's attorney is expected call accident reconstruction experts to try to show how Reedy could have been a passenger.

MAYNARD, MA (SEPT. 14) UPI - Digital Equipment Corp.'s stock fell sharply in very heavy trading Friday on growing concerns about the computer maker's earnings prospects.

The stock ended the session on the New York Stock Exchange at $56.375 a share, down $2.875 from Thursday's close, on volume of 1.95 million shares - the most active NYSE issue of the day. Earlier in the session, DEC had been down as much as $4.75 a share, but partly recouped some of its lost ground before the closing bell.

Worries about the company specifically, which recently reported its first-ever quarterly loss, and the world economy generally combined to beat down the price of the stock, analysts said.

Digital, whose stock has traded at just over $100 a share within the past 52 weeks, has been in a tailspin in which it has lost 11 points, or almost 17 percent of its value, in less than two weeks.

Analysts said they are concerned about the possibility of a second successive quarterly loss at Digital, the nation's No. 2 computer maker behind International Business Machines Corp. They are also worried about problems with Digital's roll-out of its major new line of VAX 9000 main frame computers. Digital spokesmen did not comment.

"Earnings estimates are obviously coming down and the company has been singularly mum" about its expectations, said Shao Wang, an analyst who follows Digital for Smith Barney.

John W. Adams, an analyst at Adams, Harkness and Hill in Boston, said the company's latest voluntary severance program may signal the end of its efforts to cut costs.

"You've had DEC cut its expenses as far as it can, given its philosophy" of no layoffs, Adams said. So, by definition, their costs are fixed unless they change a 35-year-old policy" of not laying off workers. "On the other hand," Adams said, "people see the tide changing on the economy. And that combination is a very leverged one."

While Digital's U.S. sales have been consistently off in recent quarters, itsEuropean business has carried the company. But now, the "shifting tide of business in Europe," where substantial declines in profits are showing up, has analysts worried, Wang said.

(SEPT. 14) UPI - Iraqi soldiers stormed the French, Belgian and Canadian diplomatic buildings in the Kuwaiti capital Friday and briefly detained five diplomats, including the U.S. consul from Baghdad, before releasing all but three French civilians.

Tensions were further heightened Friday when the U.S. Navy frigate USS Brewton and an Australian warship in the Gulf of Oman fired warning shots and sent a joint boarding party aboard an Iraqi oil tanker before allowing it to proceed toward the Persian Gulf, the Pentagon said.

No casualties were reported. It was at least the second boarding of an Iraqi ship and the third firing of warning shots by American forces since the United States on Aug. 17 began enforcing a U.N. trade embargo against Iraq.

President Bush denounced the Iraqi intrusions on the French, Canadian and Belgian diplomatic compounds in Kuwait City as ''outrageous,'' but said there was no immediate plan to escalate military action against Iraq.

''When an escalation is required from me, Saddam Hussein will know it,'' Bush said.

French President Francois Mitterrand, visiting Czechoslovakia, warned, ''The violation by Iraqi troops of the residence of the ambassador of Kuwait is an aggression and we will respond.''

French officials said Iraqi soldiers rounded up a military attache along with the three civilians, who had sought refuge at the ambassador's residence near the main French chancellory in Kuwait. The attache was released several hours later, but the fate of the three civilians was not known.

The Netherlands said Iraqi troops raided its ambassador's residence in Kuwait City two days ago, but indicated no one was taken.

The State Department said the U.S. mission in Kuwait was not raided.

The Iraqi raids on the Western compounds, which have diplomatic immunity under international law, indicated Iraq was taking a new, hard-line approach toward the defiant Western nations refusing orders to leave the occupied emirate, which Iraq invaded Aug. 2 and subsequently annexed, despite intermittent cutoffs in their communications, electricity and water.

The official Iraqi News Agency quoted an Iraqi official as ''emphatically denying reports that Iraqi troops stormed the buildings of former missions in the Kuwait province.'' The official said ''there are strict instructions to Iraqi forces not to enter diplomatic buildings.''

In other developments Friday:

- U.S. officials scheduled a flight out of Baghdad for Friday but have warned it may be the last even though the State Department estimated there are still 1,400 Americans in Kuwait and 200 in Baghdad, including diplomats.

- Japan pledged an extra $3 billion Friday to support international efforts to counter Iraqi aggression, Britain announced it will send 6, 000 more troops and 120 tanks to Saudi Arabia and Secretary of State James Baker met with Syrian President Hafez Assad, Iraq's longtime foe.

- India announced it would send a shipload of food to Iraq to alleviate the suffering of refugees in the region and to ferry back some of the nearly 200,000 Indians stranded there.

The 15-nation U.N. Security Council authorized late Thursday the distribution of food to refugees from Iraq and Kuwait following demands from India, the Phillipines and Sri Lanka, under the supervision of the Red Cross or other international relief organizations.

-The Los Angeles Times reported Iraqi had successfully tested a chemical warheaded loaded on an intermediate-range ballistic missile, adding a deadly new component to the situation.

Citing top U.S. and Arab officials, the newspaper said the test provided the first demonstration that Iraq is capable of mounting a missile-borne poison gas attack on distant targets, including key U.S. and Saudi military installations and such vital facilities as ports and cities.

- The Greenpeace watchdog group said about 20 U.S., Soviet, British and French ships - all armed with nuclear weapons - are patrolling Middle East waters now with up to 450 nuclear bombs, missiles and depth charges on board.

Spokesmen from the U.S. State Department and Canada's External Affairs Ministry said Iraqi soldiers entered the Canadian ambassador's residence in the Kuwaiti capital at 8 a.m., detaining the Canadian consul from Baghdad, Jean Gauthie, along with the American, Irish and Australian consuls from Baghdad and six Irish nationals.

All had been meeting at the Canadian residence to make arrangements for the departure of Western nationals from Kuwait later Friday.

ATLANTA (SEPT. 14) UPI - Educators must find a way to get youth-oriented health workers interested in the elderly as the senior population grows faster than any other group, a researcher said Friday.

The Southern Regional Education Board, a research group advising universities, government officials, health care administrators and others, noted in a recent report the 1990 Census probably will find there are 6 million more Americans age 65 or older than there were a decade earlier.

The percentage of elderly people in the population also will increase, from 11.3 percent in 1980 to 12.6 percent in 1990, the report said, meaning the age group is growing 2 1/2 times faster than any other segment of the U.S. population.

Meanwhile, the number of health workers specializing in geriatric issues is not increasing, and has always been less than needed, said David Denton, author of the report and a human resources planner with the SREB.

''I don't think it's anything peculiar to health care workers,'' Denton said. ''People generally don't want to work with the elderly. We're a youth-oriented society, and health workers are no different.''

The problem is twofold, Denton said: how to ensure future generations will find geriatrics' training more attractive, and how to get existing health workers to learn more about the needs of the elderly.

''Most of the elderly are not particularly sick. Most of them don't have any kind of disabling illness at all,'' Denton said, noting that many people imagine working with the elderly means working exclusively with the chronically or mentally ill.

''Ideally, you would change attitudes early on, from kindergarten on up,'' Denton said. He cited day care programs pairing young children with healthy elderly people.

The problem of convincing health care workers already in the field to learn more about geriatric care is more difficult, Denton said.

''You probably can't change their attitudes at this point in time, but you can give them the skill they will need to be dealing with older people,'' Denton said. ''Most (health care) providers do take advantage of continuing education. The idea is to make geriatric continuing education more attractive.''

The SREB focused attention on the 15 states in its self-defined region - Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia and West Virginia - noting the population of the South is aging faster than any other part of the nation.

Florida, the Southern state with the oldest population, will continue to hold the distinction through 2010, the report said. By 1990, Florida's median age will be 37.4, and will increase to 45.3 by 2010.

WASHINGTON (SEPT. 14) UPI - Agriculture Secretary Clayton Yeutter, in the strongest language by a member of the Bush Administration yet, Friday denounced the farm policy law being written by Congress as a Trojan horse "with a belly full of malodorous policy cadavers."

The legislation, in its final stage of drafting on Capitol Hill, would undermine the money-making ability of U.S. farmers by pricing them out of the world market and curtailing production, Yeutter said in a speech.

Yeutter listed a dozen areas where the administration wants to see changes. They included dairy prices, crop loan rates, land setaside rules, subsidy rates, sugar supports, a proposed soybean marketing loan and so-called planting flexibility.

In each case, Yeutter said Congress was going down the wrong road or even thwarting the needs of farmers for the sake of maintaining its own power or exercising election-year politics.

''Farmers are not a bunch of country bumpkins and this is one gift horse America's farmers will look in the mouth,'' Yeutter said. ''When they do, they're going to see a Trojan horse in our midst, with a belly full of malodorous policy cadavers left over from the pre-'85 farm bill.''

Despite the harsh tone, the speech contained no threat of a presidential veto, although the list of objectionable policy items was the same as identified earlier this summer. The White House warned in mid-July - just before floor debate in the House and Senate - that a veto was possible unless costs were cut substantially and bad policy ideas deleted.

The House and Senate versions of the farm bill would spend about $54 billion on farm supports over the next five years - roughly the same amount as if there were no change in current law.

White House officials have said several billion dollars will have to be cut as part of the efforts to reduce the deficit. Yeutter said that will entail cutting the so-called target prices that help determine the size of crop subsidy payments, the number of acres eligible for payments or both. At the moment, Congress would freeze target prices.

Yeutter's remarks were prepared for delivery to The Chicago Farmers, an organization of predominantly well-heeled landowners.

The new farm bill in general would renew the thrust of the 1985 farm policy law which tried to regain the U.S. share of the world market while protecting farm income. The House and Senate versions also would give farmers more freedom to decide which crops to grow - planting flexibility - and create a marketing loan for oilseeds, such as soybeans.

The administration prefers full-fledged planting freedom for farmers and a farm program that gives it authority to adjust loan rates, land setasides. It says that will prevent the government from distorting farm production. Some lawmakers say low support rates will deprive farmers of an income safety net.

Yeutter charged that Congress was proposed a limited form of flexibility because ''political power comes from having those decisions centered in Washington, D.C., and Congress likes power.''

Congressional leaders had no immediate comment on the speech. An aide to Senate Agriculture Committee Chairman Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., dismissed the speech as having little substance.

Meanwhile, seven senators were chosen to serve on the House-Senate committee that will write the final version of the farm bill. They were Leahy, Senate Republican leader Robert Dole of Kansas, and Sens. David Pryor, D-Ark., David Boren, D-Okla., Richard Lugar, R-Ind., and Thad Cochran. Lugar is the GOP leader on the Agriculture Committee.

WASHINGTON (SEPT. 14) UPI - In what would be the largest arms sales package in U.S. history, Saudi Arabia has informally notified Congress of its intent to purchase about $20 billion in sophisticated U.S. aircraft, advanced armored vehicles and missiles, officials said Friday.

The advance notice was given Thursday by Prince Bandar bin Sultan, Saudi ambassador to the United States, during a two-hour private session of the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

The account of the proposed sale was confirmed Friday by administration, Saudi and other diplomatic officials. They cautioned that Secretary of State James Baker, due back in the United States this weekend, has not yet approved the sale.

After being notified on a nation's intention of buying U.S. arms, Congress can kill the proposed purchase by a majority vote in the House and Senate. The Israeli lobby traditionally opposes such sales to Arab nations.

After reviewing the situation in the Persian Gulf, Bandar told the committee Saudi Arabia wants to provide for its own future defense needs after the current Persian Gulf crisis is over in order not to have to rely on outside help, including U.S. forces.

In the informal shopping list, Bandar listed:

-24 F-15s, C and F models, which would be in addition to 24 already ordered by the Saudis in a package sent to Congress Sept 4. That would make a total of 48 new F-15s for Saudi Arabia to add to its existing fleet of 60. The F-15F model has air-to-ground attack capability.

-385 M-1 tanks, the main tank used by U.S. forces.

-400 Bradley fighting vehicles, a hybrid weapon that falls between an armored personnel carrier and a medium tank.

-Between 20 and 28 Patriot missiles, which can intercept incoming ballistic missiles and aircraft. Each missile, plus launcher, would cost about $100 million. Israel has asked to buy two of them.

-Miscellaneous transportation equipment, including trucks and tracked vehicles.

-An unspecified number of AH-64 Apache helicopter gunships, the most sophisticated attack helicopter in the U.S. arsenal.

-The Saudis have already asked to buy Stinger surface-to-air missiles and that sale has not been opposed in Congress.

Officials said that the total sale, depending on how it is split up, will be between $18 billion and $23 billion.

The previous largest foreign arms sale package in U.S. peacetime history was the 1981 Saudi purchase of $8.1 billion of air defense equipment, including five AWAC early warning radar planes and F-15 fighters.

Bandar, in his discussions with congressional and administration officials, used two arguments, both of which were reported to be persuasive, for his country's proposed purchase of the weapons, the sources said.

He argued that the current crisis shows that Saudi Arabia will continue to face unknown threats and that, if it can defend itself, U.S. troops would not be required to man defense lines in the Middle East.

Secondly, he said arms sales are an efficient way to recycle the petro-dollars that Saudi Arabia will be earning in its commitment to pump more oil to make up the shortfall caused by the blockade of Kuwait and Iraqi oil supplies.

An underlying but unstated argument, according to officials, was that if the United States refused to sell the arms, the British would be willing to supply weapons, including a new tank not yet in production and Tornado fighter-attack planes.

Saudi Arabia has already purchased $5 billion worth of Tornados after Congress blocked a previous Saudi request for U.S. aircraft.

The officials said that Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Arens will arrive in the United States this weekend for talks with Secretary of Defense Dick Cheney and that the proposed Saudi arms package likely will be on their agenda.

Officials said that Arens will ask that Israel be provided with further weapons to keep the qualitative edge that the United States has promised it will maintain for Israel.

MOSCOW (SEPT. 14) UPI - The government released another set of discouraging statistics about the state of the Soviet economy Friday as top economic officials continued arguing about their rival reform plans.

The state statistics committee announced that in the first six months of this year strikes and absenteeism cost the economy 10 million man- days, the equivalent of 75,000 people not showing up for work every day.

Unauthorized absences resulted in a production shortfall equivalent to $1.7 billion, the committee said.

That figure is in addition to authorized absences of an average of 400,000 workers a day under official programs like the one that sent factory workers to help with the harvest. That figure is down from 700, 000 authorized absences a day three years ago.

Government officials blamed most of the unauthorized absenteeism on strikes and ethnic conflicts, but Soviet workers often must take time from work to stand in lines for scarce food and consumer goods and sometimes simply don't show up to work.

The figures on economic damage from absenteeism were released the day after the statistics committee announced that industrial output had continued to decline in August, falling 1.7 percent for the month.

Although nearly every Soviet and local official in the country has called for urgent measures to reform the economy and deal with the current crisis, reform continued to be bogged down in debates between rival officials.

Deputy Premier Leonid Abalkin, an economist instrumental in Premier Nikolai Ryzhkov's cautious proposal for a ''transition to a regulated market economy'' that would retain much central control, told a joint committee meeting of Parliament Friday he would probably resign if a more radical rival plan for a market economy is approved.

According to a report by the independent Interfax news agency, Abalkin told the committee if a plan developed by economist Stanislav Shatalin is approved by the Supreme Soviet ''new structures of power should be set up'' to be responsible for implementing it.

''I am not ready for this, since I do not believe this program will be able to reach the goals proclaimed in it,'' Abalkin said.

Shatalin led a commission set up by President Mikhail Gorbachev and Russian republic leader Boris Yeltsin that proposed a 500-day reform plan that includes radical privatization and decentralization.

Another top Soviet economist, Abel Aganbegyan, joined Shatalin in defending the more radical plan at the meeting of Parliament committees Friday.

Aganbegyan, who headed a commission to ''combine'' the Shatalin and Ryzhkov proposals into one plan to be presented to Parliament, acknowledged that the draft program he submitted was very similar to the Shatalin plan.

Gorbachev has said only one plan should be submitted to Parliament, but he reportedly sent three proposals - the government's, Shatalin's and the combination - to the 15 Soviet republics for consideration.

The Russian Parliament chaired by Yeltsin has already approved the Shatalin plan. It is still unclear when a plan will be officially submitted to the national Parliament and what the proposal will contain.

ROME (SEPT. 14) UPI - Secretary of State James Baker, fresh from a visit to Syria where he and Syrian President Hafez Assad were united in their condemnation of the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait, said Friday the Persian Gulf crisis could forge ''a new world order.''

''This is the first real crisis of the post-cold war period,'' Baker told an airport news conference. ''We have an opportunity to shape a new world order. The international community must act together and resist and reverse this example of unprovoked aggression.

Baker spoke to reporters at Rome's Ciampino military airport after a round of talks with Italian Foreign Minister Gianni De Michelis in the airport VIP lounge that launched his 18-hour visit to Rome.

In an encouraging gesture shortly before Baker flew into Rome, Italian Defense Minister Virginio Rognoni announced that Italy is sending eight Tornado warplanes and another navy ship to the Persian Gulf in addition to two navy frigates and a supply ship in the region.

Commenting on reports that Iraqi troops had stormed the Canadian, French, Belgian and possibly other diplomatic missions in Kuwait, Baker said: ''This is another example of the inhuman and indecent behavior Iraq has been engaging in during this crisis. It is simply outrageous to be violating the norms of international behavior.''

Baker flew into Rome from Damascus where he had nearly five hours of talks with Assad during which he said the two countries were still at odds over terrorism, but united in their condemnation of Iraq.

While in Damascus, Baker told a joint news conference with Syrian Foreign Minister Farouk Sharaa' that Syria had promised to considerably increase the number of troops serving in a U.S.-led multinational military force in the Persian Gulf.

Syria, Egypt and Morocco are the only Arab state to have sent troops to join the multinational force, which has primarily been deployed in Saudi Arabia to guard against Iraqi troops massed at the Kuwaiti border.

Damascus, which has 3,000 troops in the force, did not say how many more it was willing to send to the region. Sharaa' said the number would be determined according to Saudi needs.

The talks with Assad indicated a thaw in relations between the United States and Syria, which has long been on the U.S. list of states that support terrorism.

''My trip showed the isolation of Saddam Hussein,'' Baker said of his visit to Syria. ''U.S.-Syrian relations have not been good. There are still problems, there is no secret of that.

''We have problems with their support of terrorism,'' he said. ''But we do share a common goal - to resist the unprovoked aggression of Iraq, to see it reversed and see the restitution of the legitimate government of Kuwait.''

Baker is on a whirlwind tour of Europe and the Middle East to drum up support for U.S. military and political action in support of the U.N. embargo against Iraq to try to force its withdrawal from Kuwait. He will fly to Bonn, West Germany, Saturday.

At the joint news conference in Damascus, Baker said he and Assad discussed many issues pertaining to the Middle East - including terrorism - but had agreed that the gulf crisis was a separate issue that should not be linked to other problems in the region.

Baker conceded the United States and Syria were at odds over many of the issues he and Assad discussed, but praised Syria for the tough stand it had taken against Iraq for its Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait. The two Arab states are longtime foes, ruled by rival wings of the Baath socialist party.

FORT ORD, Calif. (SEPT. 14) UPI - Secretary of Defense Dick Cheney toured the Fort Ord Army base Friday and defended the firing of warning shots by U.S. vessels at an Iraqi oil tanker in the Gulf of Oman.

The U.S. Navy frigate USS Brewton and an Australian warship in the Gulf of Oman fired warning shots and sent a joint boarding party aboard an Iraqi oil tanker before allowing it to proceed toward the Persian Gulf, the Pentagon said.

''Well, it's sort of our ongoing effort to enforce U.N. sanctions,'' said Cheney. ''Our folks are authorized to fire warning shots and if necessary to stop and board Iraqi ships.''

No casualties were reported. It was at least the second boarding of an Iraqi ship and the third firing of warning shots by American forces since the United States on Aug. 17 began enforcing a U.N. trade embargo against Iraq.

Cheney talked to reporters enroute to San Francisco, where he was to speak to the Bay Area Council later Friday night.

Cheney also said there were no immediate plans to send Fort Ord troops to Saudi Arabia and that any such deployment decision would be made by the Joint Chiefs of Staff or commanders in the field. He said the soldiers themselves were in good spirits.

''I haven't found it necessary to give any of our soldiers a pep talk,'' Cheney said. ''They are dedicated, professional, and ready to do whatever is asked of them.''

Cheney sidestepped questions on whether the Fort Ord base would be closed, but he said defense budget cuts made it necessary for a ''balanced and strategic'' scaling down of the military infrastructure.

''Some bases will have to be closed and that's the process we're involved in now,'' said Cheney. ''No final decision's been made on Fort Ord.''

In a week or so, said Cheney, an announcement will be made on U.S. base closings in Europe.

CLEVELAND (SEPT. 14) UPI - A reporter for USA Today filed suit against the Cleveland Browns Friday over a series of disputes with players last season, including being pelted with equipment and threatened.

In the suit, Ken Myers, a freelance writer for several publications, named the team, owner Art Modell, public relations director Kevin Byrne and six current and former players - Andrew Stewart, Ted Banker, Eddie Johnson, Frank Minnifield, Lawyer Tillman and Hanford Dixon. It also said other unidentified players were involved.

He accused the Browns of defamation of character, civil assault and battery, interference with a business relationship and conspiring to interfere with a business relationship.

The dispute began with the publication on July 16, 1989, of a story in which an alleged prostitute claimed to have had relationships with Dixon and quarterback Bernie Kosar. The story, written by Myers, appeared in the Akron Beacon Journal.

Myers covered the Browns for USA Today between 1984 and 1990, contributing both game stories and weekday pieces.

Beginning in September, the suit said, there were three occasions when Byrne told Myers at weekday practices that Kosar would refuse to hold a news conference unless Myers left.

The first time that happened, Myers did leave, but he said he stayed on the other two occasions and Kosar held his news conferences regardless.

On Dec. 29, 1989, Myers was pelted with pieces of tape and equipment in the locker room, forcing him to leave. The same thing occurred Jan. 11.

Myers said Byrne was present during the first incident and did nothing to stop what was happening and, further, failed to prevent the second incident.

Byrne issued a statement after the first incident, saying the players were told it was contrary to club policy to abuse reporters.

On Jan. 16, Byrne was quoted as saying: ''In many people's estimation in our organization, what Ken Myers represents in the dirtiest, the yellowest and the ugliest side of journalism.''

Myers said he regretted having to file the suit, but said the club has never taken the incidents seriously.

''If the Cleveland Browns organization can prevent 11,000 fans in the 'Dawg Pound' from hurling dog biscuits and other objects at opposing players, they certainly could have prevented their own players ... from hurling objects at me and threatening me with bodily harm,'' he said.

''The fact that the Browns did not prevent these incidents, especially the second one, and followed the incidents with a defamatory statement in the newspaper, indicates they didn't want to prevent the incidents - and that's why I'm filing this lawsuit.''

Byrne said neither he or club lawyers had seen the lawsuit and thus would have no comment.

''We did know it was coming, because it was threatened for a little while,'' Byrne said.

Byrne, however, did say he stood by his Jan. 16 quote about Myers.

WASHINGTON (SEPT. 14) UPI - In what would be the largest arms sales package in U.S. history, Saudi Arabia has informally notified Congress of its intent to purchase about $20 billion in sophisticated U.S. aircraft, advanced armored vehicles and missiles, officials said Friday.

Advance notice was given Thursday by Prince Bandar bin Sultan, the Saudi ambassador to the United States, during a two-hour private session of the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

The account of the proposed sale was confirmed Friday by Bush administration, Saudi and diplomatic officials. They cautioned that Secretary of State James Baker, due back in the United States this weekend, has not yet approved the sale.

After being notified of a nation's intention of buying U.S. arms, Congress can kill the proposed purchase by a majority vote in the House and Senate. The Israeli lobby traditionally opposes such sales to Arab nations.

After reviewing the situation in the Persian Gulf, Bandar told the committee Saudi Arabia wants to provide for its own future defense needs after the current Persian Gulf crisis is over in order not to have to rely on outside help, including U.S. forces.

In the informal shopping list, Bandar listed:

-24 F-15s, C and F models, which would be in addition to 24 already under order by the Saudis in a package sent to Congress Sept 4. That would make a total of 48 new F-15s for Saudi Arabia to add to its existing fleet of 60. The F-15F model has air-to-ground attack capability.

-385 M-1 tanks, the main tank used by U.S. forces.

-400 Bradley fighting vehicles, a hybrid weapon that falls between an armored personnel carrier and a medium tank.

-Between 20 and 28 Patriot missiles, which can intercept incoming ballistic missiles and aircraft. Each missile, plus launcher, would cost about $100 million. Israel has asked to buy two of them.

-Miscellaneous transportation equipment, including trucks and tracked vehicles.

-An unspecified number of AH-64 Apache helicopter gunships, the most sophisticated attack helicopter in the U.S. arsenal.

The Saudis have already asked to buy Stinger surface-to-air missiles, a sale that has not been opposed in Congress.

Officials said that the total value of the sale, depending on how it is split up, will be between $18 billion and $23 billion.

The previous largest foreign arms sale package in U.S. peacetime history was the Saudis' 1981 purchase of $8.1 billion of air-defense equipment, including five AWAC early-warning radar planes and F-15 fighters.

Bandar, in his discussions with congressional and administration officials, used two arguments, both of which were reported to be persuasive, for his country's proposed purchase of the weapons, sources said.

He argued that the current crisis shows that Saudi Arabia will continue to face unknown threats and that, if it can defend itself, U.S. troops would not be required to man defense lines in the Middle East.

Secondly, he said arms sales are an efficient way to recycle the petrodollars that Saudi Arabia will be earning in its commitment to pump more oil to make up the shortfall caused by the blockade of Kuwaiti and Iraqi oil supplies.

An underlying but unstated argument, according to officials, was that if the United States refused to sell the arms, the British would be willing to supply weapons, including a new tank not yet in production and Tornado fighter-attack planes.

Saudi Arabia has already purchased $5 billion worth of these planes after Congress blocked a previous Saudi request for U.S. aircraft.

The officials said that Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Arens will arrive in the United States this weekend for talks with Secretary of Defense Dick Cheney and that the proposed Saudi arms package likely will be on their agenda.

Officials said that Arens will ask that Israel be provided with further weapons to keep the qualitative edge that the United States has promised it will maintain for Israel.

WASHINGTON (SEPT. 14) UPI - A federal study has found no conclusive evidence of increased cancer risk among people living near nuclear power plants or weapons facilities, the Health and Human Services Department said Friday.

The two-year National Cancer Institute study reached that finding in comparing cancer death rates in 107 U.S. counties either containing or near nuclear plants to 292 similar counties without such facilities.

Authors of the study said counties near nuclear facilities had no higher death rates from 16 types of cancer - including leukemia - than the counties with less exposure to any possible radioactive pollution.

In addition, they said in studying 900,000 cancer deaths in the 107 target counties from 1950 to 1984, they found no increase in cancer death rates since the plants went into operation. That conclusion was based on comparing cancer death rates in the years before and after a plant went into operation.

''From the data at hand, there was no convincing evidence of any increased risk of death from any of the cancers we surveyed due to living near nuclear facilities,'' said John Boice, chief of National Cancer Insitute's Radiation Epidemiology Branch, one of four authors of the study.

The Health and Human Services Department released only summarized findings from the report. Officials said the full study would be released Wednesday.

The 107 counties covered in the study included 52 commercial nuclear power plants, nine Energy Department nuclear weapons production facilities and one commercial fuel reprocessing plant.

Those counties were in Alabama, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Illinois, Iowa, Kentucky, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Virginia, Vermont, Washington, Wisconsin, West Virginia.

The National Cancer Institute study follows revelations of massive radioactive releases from numerous federal nuclear weapons plants, several of which are the subject of similar health effects studies.

A recently released report commissioned by the Energy Department found there were significant health effects from radioactive pollution discharged by the Hanford plant, a nuclear weapons production facility that has been operating in eastern Washington since the 1940s.

Authors of the National Cancer Institute study cautioned their findings did not definitively rule out health effects from radiation released from the nuclear facilities in the 107 counties.

In particular, they said the county-by-county approach of the study may have been too broad to detect health effects that might be limited to smaller areas closest to nuclear facilities.

''No study can prove the absence of an effect,'' Boice said. ''But if any excess cancer risk due to radiation pollution is present in counties with nuclear facilities, the risk is too small to be detected by the methods used.''

Another uncertainty involves the long latency period of cancer - the period between exposure to a cancer-causing substance and the time cancer appears. Because latency periods can last 10 years or longer, some cancers might not have become evident yet near facilities that have begun operations recently.

The study's authors also said that, in comparison to the ''non- nuclear'' counties, the counties near nuclear plants had higher death rates for certain types of cancer and lower death rates for other types. The variations occurred both before and after startup of nuclear facilities.

The researchers said those differences could not be linked to the presence of nuclear facilities and that no patterns were apparent. At the same time, officials acknowledged the study did not attempt to determine whether elevated rates for some types of cancers might be related to documented releases of certain radioactive substances, particularly at the weapons plants.

National Cancer Institute officials said their study was begun in 1987 in response to American public health concerns about radioactive emissions from nuclear facilities.

It also was prompted by a British study that found an excess of childhood leukemia deaths near some nuclear facilities in that country. No increases in total cancer deaths were found in the British study.

DALLAS (SEPT. 14) UPI - Greyhound Lines Inc., in Chapter 11 bankruptcy, said Friday its striking drivers forfeited their right to have back-pay claim treated equally with other creditors because of their union's alleged campaign of violence.

The nation's largest bus transportation company, whose bankruptcy proceedings are being heard in Brownsville, Texas, filed a lawsuit on the back-pay question in the court's Corpus Christi office.

In it, the company alleged the Amalgamated Council of Greyhound Local Unions, its officers and members intentionally used violence to acquire the company at less then fair market price or to drive it into bankruptcy.

Greyhound filed for bankruptcy June 4, three months after a walkout by some 6,300 drivers. The drivers struck when negotiations broke down over a new contract.

''As a practical effect, if our suit is successful it will be unlikely that any union member will recover any back pay,'' said George Hanthorn, the company's general counsel.

In the suit, Greyhound claimed the goal of the union was to win increased pay and other benefits for union members at the expense of other creditors.

''Therefore, any allowed portion of the back pay claim should be subordinated to the claims of all unsecured creditors in this case,'' the company said.

Hanthorn said under established legal principle, people should not profit from unlawful conduct.

Greyhound wants get some kind of value placed on any potential claim arising from back pay, so it can proceed with its plan of reorganziation. In earlier announcements, the company said it wants to file its plan by late October or early November and get it confirmed by the court by the end of summer of next year.

That strategy would be contingent upon how the National Labor Relations Board settles an unfair labor practice charge it has filed against the company. A hearing on that before an administrative law jduge was scheduled to beging in Milwaukee next Monday but has since been postponed to late November.

If Greyhound loses the NLRB case, it could be forced to rehire the striking workers and pay them tens of millions of dollars in back pay. Some estimates put the back-pay figures into the hundreds of millions of dolars. The union may seek to win creditor support for rehiring the drivers in return for dropping the NLRB case and further complicate Greyhound's reorganization effort.

To counter that possibility, the company said based on NLRB's methodolgy, the back-pay can only be a maximum of $8 million. Even that may not be applicable since the company now has fewer jobs this year than last year.

In the event it loses the NLRB case, Greyhound said it can appeal the ruling which can tie up the case for several years.

''The NLRB case will take at least three years,'' Hanthorn said. ''To get out of Chapter 11, we must put a value on the union's claims and determine its standing among all claims.''

In its lawsuit, Greyhound said if the rights of the strikers are subordinated, it will prevent each of them from collecting any back pay that may emerge from the NLRB action.

''Even those strikers who have not themselves participated directly in the violence have kept silent and have done nothing, so that they could enjoy the inequitable benefits sought by the union,'' the lawsuit charged.

NEW YORK (SEPT. 14) UPI - Stocks closed broadly lower Friday in light trading, dragged down by some bad economic news, events in the Persian Gulf and the resulting rise in oil prices.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which sank 43.07 Thursday, fell 18.56 to close at 2564.11.

Among broader market gauges, the New York Stock Exchange composite index lost 1.01 to 174.15 and Standard & Poor's 500-stock index eased 1.82 to 316.83. The price of an average share dropped 18 cents.

Declines pummeled advances 1,005-452 among the 1,936 issues crossing the NYSE tape. Big Board volume totaled 133,390,000 shares. On Thursday, 123,370,000 shares traded.

Investors got their first look at how badly the Mideast crisis affected the U.S. economy last month in the spate of government reports released before the opening.

Wholesale prices jumped 1.3 percent - led by staggering hikes in energy costs. Combined with skidding retail sales, which slipped 0.6 percent in August against expectations of a 0.1 percent drop, economists painted a grim picture of what the months ahead hold for the economy. They said the news represented the worst of all worlds - higher inflation and weakening demand.

''Even though the producer price data came in on target, there was still concern about it,'' said Alan Ackerman, senior vice president at Gruntal & Co.

A slight escalation of tensions in the Mideast also made investors jittery and sent oil prices higher. October crude oil closed up 69 cents to $31.76.

The jump was blamed on news that Iraqi troops stormed the Belgian, Canadian and French diplomatic buildings in the Kuwaiti capital Friday and detained several diplomats, including the American consul from Baghdad, before releasing all but three French civilians.

The U.S. State Department's Kuwaiti Task Force said it had been in contact with the U.S. mission in Kuwait and said unconfirmed ''reports it had been overrun by Iraqi troops are not true.''

Also Friday, a U.S. warship in the Gulf of Oman fired a warning shot and boarded an Iraqi-flagged oil tanker heading toward Iranian waters. The officials said the tanker stopped and an armed U.S. boarding party went aboard the ship.

Details were sketchy and it was not immediately clear what the United States planned to do with the tanker.

Analysts added that another factor which is starting to weigh on investors' minds is the health of the banking system.

''There's been a lot of discussion that problems in the banking system may be moving beyond thrifts and leveraged buyout firms like Drexel to the commercial banking sector,'' said Hugh Johnson, chief economist at First Albany Corp.

''It seems like (Federal Reserve Chairman Alan) Greenspan and (Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. Chairman L. William) Seidman believe it, that the asset quality problems thrifts have may be extending to commercial banks, particularly involving real estate loans.''

On the trading floor, Digital Equipment was the most active issue, tumbling 2 7/8 to 56 3/8 as the week's sell-off gained momentum, with the stock hitting its lowest levels in about five years. Disappointing company presentations and cuts in analysts' earnings estimates this week fueled the plunge.

Wal-Mart followed, off 1/8 to 26 3/8. Chemical Banking was third, down 5/8 to 20 1/4 amid talk that it may be about to close its Swiss operations. It has declined comment.

Also active was Prime Motor Inns, which tumbled 3/8 to 1 3/8 after saying it asked its bank lenders to restructure its debt and adding it could file for Chapter 11 bankruptcy protection if an agreement can't be reached.

Among the blue chips, AT&T rose 5/8 to 30 3/4, IBM fell 5/8 to 104 3/8, General Electric fell 7/8 to 59 1/2 in active trading, Procter & Gamble lost 1 1/4 to 75 1/8, General Motors dropped 3/4 to 37 1/2 as tonight's deadline for an agreement with the United Auto Workers neared, and Westinghouse tumbled 1 5/8 to 29 7/8 after PaineWebber was said to have cut its investment rating and earnings estimate on the stock.

Volume of NYSE-listed issues, including trades in stocks on regional exchanges and in the over-the-counter market, totaled 159,691,040 shares, compared with 148,040,300 shares traded in the previous session.

Prices were lower in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange.

The Amex Market Value index fell 0.56 to 321.45. Declines led advances 314-214 among the 767 issues traded. The price of an average share lost 2 cents. Composite volume totaled 12,331,670 shares, compared with 11,700,900 traded Thursday.

Energy Service led the Amex issues, up 1/8 to 3 5/8 after reportedly agreeing with another company to sell 33 oil drilling rigs to Diamond M Holding.

The National Association of Securities Dealers composite index lost 1.77 to 374.41.

LOS ANGELES (SEPT. 14) UPI - Prosecutors plan to enlist the help of French officials in Tahiti to subpoena Marlon Brando's daughter to testify about the slaying of her boyfriend by her half-brother, the District Attorney's Office said Friday.

Deputy District Attorney William Clark, co-prosecutor in the murder case against the actor's son, Christian Brando, will go to U.S. District Court in Los Angeles Monday to request that federal officials ask French officials in Tahiti to serve a subpoena on Cheyenne Brando, said office spokeswoman Sandi Gibbons.

''We will work through the U.S. government to ask the French government to subpoena her to testify at the trial,'' Gibbons said.

Christian Brando, 32, is charged with murder for shooting to death Dag Drollet 26, the lover of his 20-year-old half-sister in the actor's Hollywood Hills estate May 16. His trial is scheduled to begin Oct. 9.

Christian has admitted shooting Drollet, the son of an influential political figure in Tahiti, but said it was an accident. Prosecutors said Brando shot Drollet after Cheyenne falsely claimed Drollet had beaten her.

Cheyenne gave a statement to police in June in which police said she indicated the shooting was premeditated.

Cheyenne, who has citizenship in both Tahiti and the United States, returned in June to the French-governed South Pacific Island, thereby thwarting police and prosecutors who had wanted to subpoena her to testify at the preliminary hearing where Christian was ordered to stand trial on murder charges.

She since has given birth to Drollet's child.

Authorities in Tahiti are investigating Cheyenne as a possible suspect and reportedly have detained her in a psychiatric hospital. Los Angeles prosecutors do not consider her a suspect.

Unless Cheyenne testifies, her statement to police cannot be used as evidence against Christian.

After spending three months in County Jail, Christian was freed last month on $2 million bail when his legendary father posted his $4 million estate as collateral.

If convicted of first-degree murder, Christian could be sentenced to 25 years to life in state prison. He does not face a possible death sentence.

NEW YORK (SEPT. 14) UPI - Texaco Inc. said Friday it had started commercial production from an oil field off the coast of China, the first such production from the widely explored Pearl River Basin Mouth Basin.

Called Huizhou 21-1, the field 100 miles southeast of Hong Kong in the South China Sea is expected to reach a peak daily production rate of 30,000 barrels of crude early in 1991, a Texaco statement said.

A second Huizhou 21-1 oil field is expected to contribute another 50, 000 barrels a day when it reaches peak output in early 1992, Texaco said.

The field is being jointly developed by the Texaco Petroleum Maatschappij Nederland B.V. subsidiary, China National Offshore Oil Corp., Agip Overeseas Ltd. and Chevron Overseas Petroleum Ltd.

NEW YORK (SEPT. 14) UPI - Six of the nine unions in the Allied Printing Trades Council at the New York Post had reportedly either reached or were close to reaching agreement with management on money-saving cuts late Friday as the 8 p.m. closure deadline approached.

Unpaid union adviser Theodore Kheel said the unions were the machinists, typographers, paper handlers, electricians, mailers and stereotypers.

But roadblocks remained with the biggest union, the Newspaper Guild, which represents 352 reporters, editors and advertising workers.

Kheel said, ''The Guild is the most difficult one'' in the negotiations.

The drivers union, which has been asked to give back $8.5 million in concessions, and the pressmen, who have been asked for $2.7 million, also have yet to reach agreement with management.

Barry Lipton, head of the local Newspaper Guild chapter, said management ''has resisted any approach that does not include a massive cut in wages for our members.''

The Newspaper Guild appeared to be balking at demands that it agree to more than $5 million in concessions the union says will reduce pay and benefits by 46 percent for its members.

Meanwhile, staff prepared two newspapers - one to report the tabloid's survival and another in case cost-cutting talks failed to keep the paper alive.

''We have to be prepared for either outcome,'' Managing Editor Lou Colasuonno said of the down-to-the-wire negotiations to determine whether Saturday's paper would be the last edition of the Post.

The country's oldest - and some would say boldest - continuously published daily newspaper had settled or was close to striking a deal with at least six of its nine unions.

As the clock ticked closer to an 8 p.m. Friday deadline set by owner Peter Kalikow for negotiating over $17 million in staff and salary cuts from unions, the owner met with union leaders at the St. Patrick's Cathedral residence of Cardinal John O'Connor.

One source said negotiators agreed to the meeting at St. Patrick's Cathedral for ''divine intervention.''

Kalikow has said Saturday's edition of the 189-year-old tabloid would be the last if he cannot staunch the flow of red ink which reportedly has cost him more than $100 million in the two years he has owned the paper.

After meeting with O'Connor, Kalikow said he was ''very optimistic'' about the talks and praised the cooperative nature of the bargaining at the Sheraton Centre Hotel in midtown Manhattan.

''We are negotiating for survival,'' said Kalikow, a prominent Manhattan real estate developer.

Kalikow said he had offered unionized employees 20 percent equity in the paper and a seat on its board of directors in return for concessions. He maintains he merely wants the paper to break even or become ''slightly profitable.''

Downtown, at the Post building in the shadow of the Brooklyn Bridge, Managing Editor Colasuonno said moods varied as widely as the two potential Saturday newspapers under preparation.

''These things always go down to the wire,'' Colasuonno said. ''It could be a production problem for us. It's going to be an emotional ride for the staff.''

Colasuonno himself will write the Post front-page headline.

''We'll do the front page the way we always do it. We're not going to change our style now,'' he said.

Post columnist Ray Kerrison Friday lamented the newspaper's possible fate, recalling the half-dozen papers that thrived in New York during the 1950s.

''After nearly 14 years here, I've grown to love the Post,'' he said. ''It does what tabloid newspapers are supposed to do: yell and scream, highlight issues, inform, amuse, explain, arouse.

''Some people don't understand the role, and elitists look down their noses, but I've been a tabloid newspaperman all my life and I wouldn't have it any other way.''

Management at the Daily News and The New York Times have said they would seek similar contract concessions from the same unions if they gave in to the demands by the Post's management.

Kalikow said he ''desperately'' wants to keep the Post alive but is no longer willing to pour more millions into the paper, which he said has cost him more than $100 million since he bought it from Rupert Murdoch in 1988. He expects to lose $27 million this year, a figure verified by the unions' accountants.

Unionized reporters and editors at the Post currently make a base salary of $42,000.

(SEPT. 14) UPI - Supreme Court nominee David Souter spent a second day fielding questions from the Senate Judiciary Committee. The 50-year-old federal judge from New Hampshire may have eased fears held by lawmakers who favor legalized abortion when he said he would listen to both sides of any challenge to the landmark ruling that guaranteed a woman's access to abortion. President Bush offered positive marks for his nominee to the high bench.

Republican lawmakers threatened today to pull out of the on-going budget talks if the contents of the supposedly secret efforts continue to appear in news reports. Senate G-O-P leader Bob Dole says he is UNcertain if members of his party should negotiate while being branded by Democrats as the party of the rich. Legislators are trying to pare 50-BILLION dollars from the fiscal 1991 budget before automatic spending cuts are enacted October 1st.

The nation's oldest continuously running newspaper has reached or is close to reaching pacts with six of the nine unions representing its workers. But roadblocks remain between The New York Post and its biggest union. The presses are set to run on one of two editions... depending on whether compromises are struck with the remaining workers. One declares a settlement. The other edition declares the 189-year-old tabloid's death.

WASHINGTON (SEPT. 14) UPI - Top leaders of America's Protestant and Roman Catholic faiths Friday warned President Bush he would be acting immorally if the U.S. sanctions against Iraq harmed that nation's civilian population.

Archbishop Roger Mahony of Los Angeles, who heads the National Conference of Catholic Bishops' commitee on international policy, said Bush must use ''utmost care'' in actions against Iraq, especially in blocking food and medicine from entering the country, lest he violate moral standards.

Independently, the National Council of Churches, made up of 32 Protestant and Orthodox communions, said it supported ''the provision of essential food and medicine to civilian populations, including the Iraqi civilian population'' and that such shipments should ''be excluded from the economic embargo against Iraq, as authorized by the U.N. Security Council.''

The separate Protestant and Catholic actions were among the first signs that Bush's strategy of economic strangulation of Iraq might meet resistance from important segments of the American population.

While U.S. religious groups have been generally supportive of Bush's policy of countering the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait, the implications of that policy as it involves the civilian Iraqi population are now causing second thoughts.

The NCC resolution, for example, said that, ''Consistent with the long-standing policies of the churches regarding humanitarian aid, we would oppose any attempt on the part of the United States or any other government to withhold food or supplies for for political purposes.''

Mahoney, in a letter to Secretary of State Jame Baker, said, ''We understand that Saddam Hussein, by his words and actions, makes this complex and difficult, but the moral justification for our intervention requires that we maintain the distinction between the Iraqi regime and ordinary and vulnerable Iraqi citizens.''

At the same time, the United Methodist Church's Council of Bishops appealed to Bush, ''as a manifestation of his faith in God as revealed in Jesus Christ, to pursue every possible political and diplomatic avenue - however lengthy - as a primary option.

The bishops of the 8.9 million-member denomination warned against turning the Persian Gulf crisis into a U.S.-Iraqi showdown.

''We urge that such political and economic pressure be directed through the United Nations rather than unilaterally by the United States,'' the bishops said. ''One of the positive and hopeful signs of the current situation is the broad consensus of world opinion.''

In the letter to Baker, Mahony reiterated the church's general support of the U.S. ''decision to oppose (Iraqi) aggression and to express our humanitarian concerns,'' noting that Archbishop Daniel Pilarczyk of Cincinnati, president of the bishops's conference, had described Iraq's invasion of Kuwait as ''devoid of provocation or any justification.''

''We wish to reiterate our strong support for the international solidarity, so successfully negotiated by this administration and by the United Nation's secretary-general, which has effectively halted Iraqi aggression and offers hope for the peaceful liberation of Kuwait and the creation of a new and more just order for the region,'' Mahony told Baker.

And, he said, the Catholic bishops associated themselves with Bush's ''clear assertion'' in his televised address to the nation Tuesday evening that ''our enemy is Saddam Hussein - not the Iraqi people.''

That means, Mahony said, that in implementing the embargo and other sanctions, ''the utmost care and sensitivity be exercised so that innocent civilians are not deprived of those essentials for the maintenance of life, i.e., food and medicines.''

(SEPT. 14) UPI - Two new competitors on the verge of breaking into the billion-dollar Florida convention industry will soon vie with larger, well-established centers in Miami Beach and Orlando.

The $140 million Tampa Convention Center opens Oct. 19 with a planned $100,000 three-day celebration, while the $49 million Fort Lauderdale- Broward County Convention Center is slated to open in September 1991.

Although both centers will be considerably smaller than their counterparts in central and south Florida, each will be equipped to handle groups of up to 10,000, officials said.

''They will compete with us for certain groups. ... For certain groups, it will offer another option,'' said Ty Stroh, vice president of the Greater Miami Convention and Visitors Bureau.

''The national stuff - the major conventions looking for a site in the Southeast - are going to look at Atlanta, New Orleans and Orlando,'' said John Rutherford of the Orlando-Orange County Convention & Visitors Bureau.

''That second level - which would include state and regional business conventions - in addition to those three cities they'd be looking at Tampa, Jacksonville and Fort Lauderdale,'' he said.

The Tampa center will have 200,000 square feet of exhibit space, a 36,000-square-foot ballroom and 18 additional meeting rooms.

By comparison, the Orange County Convention-Civic Center has 350,000 square feet of exhibit space. It is slated for expansion by 1998.

The Tampa center's efforts to attract business have been limited in part by tight hotel space, said Lamar Williams, marketing director for the Tampa-Hillsborough Convention & Visitors Association.

''We've looked at booking events with requirements of 200,000 square feet or less that meet our current limited hotel space,'' Williams said.

While Tampa has roughly 15,000 hotel rooms, many of them stay full, he said. As a result, only about 3,000 rooms can be blocked by convention planners.

''Hopefully, we'll be able to interest a developer into building a hotel,'' said Joe Abrams, Tampa's parks, recreation and cultural affairs administrator.

Pre-opening bookings have netted the Tampa center an average of 30 events annually over the next three years.

The Greater Fort Lauderdale-Broward County Convention Center, with 150,000 square feet of exhibit space, also may be limited by available hotel space.

''City officials are working to build hotels near the site,'' said Francine Mason of the Greater Fort Lauderdale Convention & Visitors Bureau.

An economic impact study estimated the Fort Lauderdale center will inject $104.3 million into the local economy once the market stabilizes, Mason said. So far, officials have booked 95 events at the center.

In Tampa, conventioneers are expected to pump hundreds of millions of dollars into the economy within the first year, Williams said.

Orlando, Florida's most popular convention destination, hosted more than $1 billion in convention business last year, followed by Miami, which raked in roughly $600 million. Orange County booked 6,300 meetings and events at various locations last year.

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (SEPT. 14) UPI - Salvadoran government and rebel representatives entered Day 2 of their peace talks with neither side budging from its set position, casting much doubt on the hopes of quickly ending the civil war.

The fifth round of U.N.-mediated talks, scheduled to end Tuesday, between government representatives and commanders of the Farabundo Marti National Liberation Front appeared to get off to a poor start with accusations flying across the negotiation table, sources close to the talks said.

Negotations have been stalemated since May on the subjects of the armed forces and demilitarization.

In Washington, State Department spokesman Richard Boucher said the U.S. fully supported the talks, calling on the FMLN to soften its position.

''These talks are the best chance in years to end the war, and we are confident that they can succeed if both sides at the talks are flexible and serious,'' Boucher said. ''We urge the FMLN to respond positively to the government's call for an immediate ceasefire.''

The rebels are insisting that both their guerrilla army and the government's 55,000-strong armed forces must be dismantled to allow for lasting peace.

Citing constitutional restrictions, President Alfredo Cristiani has repeatedly said in public that ''the government is not willing to put the existence of the armed forces on the table.''

Rebel delgation leader Shafik Jorge Handal said before entering the talks Thursday that the ball is in the government's court to come up with a proposal satisfactory to both sides.

Cristiani, however, said this week the government delegation would arrive at the talks with the same proposals for military reform rejected at the last two rounds of talks, also held in Costa Rica. He said any progress would have to come from compromise on the part of the FMLN.

The Salvadoran government has offered to implement major military reductions after the war ends and has proposed that the country's three highly militarized police forces be transferred to civilian control and that the rag-tag Civil Defense forces that operate in rural areas be disbanded.

Central American deputy defense, security and foreign ministers met Friday in El Salvador to discuss the effects of rebel movements on the region. The ministers made a ''vehement'' call to guerillas throughout the area to end all violence and hostilities.

ATLANTA (SEPT. 14) UPI - A Georgia businessman and associate of former President Jimmy Carter was headed home Friday after spending 11 years in an Iranian prison on espionage charges, officials said.

E. David Rabhan, 64, a Savannah native who worked as a pilot for Carter during his 1970 gubernatorial campaign in Georgia, was scheduled to arrive at Hartsfield International Airport late Friday on a flight from Zurich, a Carter Presidential Center spokeswoman said.

State Department officials in Washington said Rabhan was released about two weeks ago.

Iranian authorities arrested Rabhan in 1979 while he was there on business - two months before the U.S. embassy in Tehran was seiged, setting off the hostage crisis that crippled Carter's presidency. Rabhan eventually was charged with espionage.

Carter has worked for years to win Rabhan's freedom.

''He was a prisoner,'' Carter said. ''He was never a spy. He never had any kind of connection with the CIA or with any sort of espionage or spying.''

Rabhan won his freedom from the Evin Prison outside Tehran Aug. 6, but Iranian authorities did not permit him to leave the Middle Eastern country until Thursday.

''I look forward to being united with a friend,'' Carter said. ''He's really an extraordinary person. I'm very proud of David.

''He says he's in good physical shape,'' the former president added. ''I've talked to him a couple of times on the phone lately. He's always had a great sense of humor, and he never has lost that. I think if anyone can come through the ordeal of 10 years in an Iranian prison, it would be David Rabhan.''

Since Rabhan was not technically considered a hostage, his story is not known to most Americans.

''I'm kind of numb,'' said Statesboro, Ga., attorney Phillips Hamilton, a close friend of Rabhan. ''We've hoped and prayed for it so long to finally come about.''

Hamilton accused the Iranian government of jailing Rabhan simply for ''being a friend of Jimmy Carter.''

''They accused him of being a spy; he was not,'' Hamilton said. ''He's closer than a brother to me and I know he was not. At that time, just being a friend of Jimmy Carter was a crime in Iran.''

Hamilton declined to identify who was involved in the negotiations that led to Rabhan's release, but he said the U.S. government was not directly involved.

After a reunion with Carter, Rabhan was to fly to Savannah, where his mother, Frances Rabhan, lives.

WESTBORO, MA (SEPT. 14) UPI - Data General Corp. said Friday it agreed to pay $6 million to settle two 5-year-old stockholder suits but also disclosed it has been named plaintiff in a new, similar class action.

The payment ended two suits filed in 1985 against the company, directors and executives including Edson de Castro, a co-founder, former president and now chairman of the computer company.

One suit had charged the company misled stockholders about its prospects. Data General has not had an annual profit since 1985 and lost $23.1 million in the quarter that ended in June.

The other suit settled out of court charged officers and directors with waste and breech of fiduciary responsibility in connection with pay and bonuses for executives.

Data General said a ''portion'' of the $6 million settlement costs was covered by insurance.

''We are pleased to be able to bring this long-standing litigation to a close on reasonable terms,'' said Ronald L. Skates, company president.

The new suit, which a spokesman, James Dunlap, said was filed in U.S. District Court more than a week ago, charges the company with making misleading statements about its business this year.

The company said in a statement that the suit is ''without merit'' and that it ''believes it will not have any material effect on its business or financial condition.''

WASHINGTON (SEPT. 14) UPI - Sen. Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., introduced legislation Friday calling for the appointment of 13 new bankruptcy judges to relieve overloaded judges and backlogged courts.

Under DeConcini's proposal, Florida would get three new judges and Arizona two. The bill calls for one additional bankruptcy judge each in Colorado, Georgia, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Puerto Rico, Tennessee, South Carolina and Virginia.

DeConcini noted that in 1989 Arizona ranked ninth of 94 national districts in the total number of bankruptcy cases filed, led the country in business reorganizations and had the second-highest number of Chapter 11 filings.

In the first half of 1990, the number of bankruptcy cases filed in Arizona jumped 21 percent.

Each of Arizona's five bankruptcy judges has more than 5,000 cases pending, including approximately 400 Chapter 11 filings, DeConcini said.

''I do not feel a judge can adequately serve the public when laboring under these types of burdens,'' DeConcini said. ''The judges are overworked, the courts are overcrowded and, inevitably, the public will suffer.''

DeConcini said the need for more judges was ''equally compelling'' in the other states included in his legislation. He asked the Sente to ''ensure that the demand for new bankruptcy judges is adequately met.''

LOS ANGELES (SEPT. 14) UPI - A court-appointed psychiatrist has found that a purported obsessed fan charged with murdering actress Rebecca Schaeffer is mentally competent to stand trial, a judge said Friday.

Superior Court Judge Jacqueline Connor said that the psychiatrist she appointed concluded that Robert Bardo, 20, who has a history of mental illness qualifies as mentally competent because he understands the nature of the proceedings against him and can assist in his own defense.

The judge ordered the psychiatric evaluation on Aug. 2, but in an unusual move did not declare she had doubts about Bardo's mental competency.

Bardo's lawyer, Deputy Public Defender Stephen Galindo, said that under California law, a judge must formally express such a doubt before a competency evaluation can be ordered.

Galindo said that since neither he nor the prosecutor, Deputy District Attorney Marcia Clark, had questioned Bardo's mental state in court, the judge had no legal grounds to order the examination.

Despite the psychiatrist's finding, Clark said she expects Galindo to present some type of psychological defense at the pending trial.

Galindo was not available Friday to comment on the psychiatrist's report. But he said last month that he is still considering having Bardo plead not guilty by reason of insanity.

Bardo, a former janitor from Tucson, Ariz., is described by police as an obsessed fan of Schaeffer. He is accused of stalking the 21-year-old actress, then shooting her to death when she answered the door of her Fairfax District apartment on July 18, 1989.

Schaeffer was best known as the co-star of the television sitcom ''My Sister Sam,'' which also starred Pam Dawber. She also appeared in the film, ''Scenes from the Class Struggle in Beverly Hills.''

Bardo remains in custody without bail and faces a possible death sentence if convicted.

(SEPT. 14) UPI - The fate of three French civilians detained by Iraqi troops during a raid on France's diplomatic building in Kuwait City today remains UNknown. French President Mitterrand warns France ''will respond.''

National leaders of the Protestant and Roman Catholic faiths say U-S forces would be acting immorally if they cut off food and medicine to Iraq. A Catholic statement said a distinction must be made between the Iraqi leadership and the Iraqi people.

One economist says anyone who doesN'T think prices went up last month doesN'T own a car. The government reports energy prices led a one-point- three percent hike in wholesale prices in August... even though retail sales skidded.

Crude oil prices went up today on markets around the world... following reports Iraqi troops stormed diplomatic residences in Kuwait City. Analysts say the markets are reacting to news reports- NOT to supply and demand.

Negotiators are still fighting over contract concessions at the New York Post. The paper's deadline for settlement came and went tonight. One union representative behind closed doors shouted that the paper is ''finished.''

American Airlines and U-S-Air today raised their domestic air fares by four-point-two percent, effective October 1st... matching a similar increase announced by Delta Air Lines. The hikes were blamed on the higher cost of jet fuel brought on by the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait.

CARSON CITY, NE (SEPT. 14) UPI - A lawyer urged the Nevada Supreme Court Friday to allow a quadriplegic man the right to die without subjecting doctors to criminal or civil prosecution.

Kenneth Bergstedt, paralyzed from the neck down in a 1969 swimming pool accident, wants to be sedated with drugs and removed from a ventilator.

His lawyer, Jack Cherry of Las Vegas, told the court medical personnel will not help him for fear of criminal charges or civil suits. Cherry said a former family physician was advised by his medical malpractice insurance company not to disconnect the ventilator or administer the drugs.

Bergstedt, 31, of Las Vegas wants to die with dignity, Cherry said. ''He does not want to die an agonizing death of suffocation by being disconnected from the ventilator,'' Cherry said. ''He wants to be properly sedated and then disconnected.''

The court took the arguments under advisement without indicating when a ruling would be handed down.

Justice John Mowbray and other court members expressed sadness for Bergstedt. Mowbray said, however, he didn't want to suggest he approved of ''suicide.''

''If we give this our blessing, I don't want it turned into a mill that will do away with a lot of people,'' he said.

Justice Thomas Steffen pointed out Bergstedt has his eyesight, can read, watch television and even work a home computer. ''His life is anything but vegetation,'' Steffen said.

Bergstedt's father Robert has taken care of his crippled son for 21 years, but the 67-year-old man may have inoperable cancer, said Cherry, adding that doctors have not determined whether a growing spot on a lung is operable.

The father tends to all the boy's needs, and the younger Bergstedt fears he will end up in an institution if his dad dies. Cherry said the quadriplegic would have to rely on ''run of the mill strangers'' for care - something that would be a ''horrible embarrassment'' to him.

Steffen told Cherry, ''I would hope that Mr. Bergstedt would not feel pressured to go ahead in concluding his life'' if the court approves his request.

PHILADELPHIA (SEPT. 14) UPI - The Philadelphia Flyers Friday signed two of their top stars, goaltender Ron Hextall and right wing Rick Tocchet, to long-term contracts.

Hextall, who held out before the beginning of the 1989-90 season due to a contract dispute, signed a deal which could earn him as much as $1.7 million per year.

Hextall, 26, missed all but eight games last season due to injuries and a suspension imposed by the NHL. He was currently in the fourth year of an eight-year deal.

Hextall's base salary will be $3.5 million over five years, but he could earn an additional $1 million per year with incentive clauses.

Tocchet signed a five-year deal worth $4.5 million.

Tocchet, 26, led the Flyers in scoring last season with 37 goals and 59 assists for a career-high 96 Points In 75 Games. He also accumulated 196 penalty minutes.

In 1988-89 Tocchet scored 45 goals.

(SEPT. 14) UPI - President Bush opted for denouncement instead of threats of military action in reacting today to Iraqi troop movements in Kuwait. Bush condemned as a violation of international law the Iraqi raids into several diplomatic buildings in the occupied emirate. But Bush says he would NOT describe the situation as any closer to war... saying he still hopes it ''can be peacefully resolved.''

There are signals among the U-S population that President Bush's hardline stance regarding a total embargo of shipments to Iraq is losing support. Two mainstream religious bodies today called upon Bush to use restraint concerning the blockade of food and medicine to Iraq's civilian population. The call came from an official with the U-S Roman Catholic Bishop's Conference and the National Council of Churches.

CAIRO, SEPT 15 - France decided Saturday to expel Iraqis and send another 4,000 soldiers to Saudi Arabia in protest at the detention the previous day of its military attache in Kuwait, while Iraq denied its troops had violated French diplomatic premises.

France's President Francois Mitterrand said after a meeting of his inner cabinet that 30 fighter jets would be assigned to the Gulf along with a 1,100-man regiment operating 48 attack helicopters.

Also ordered to Saudi Arabia were an armoured regiment with 48 tanks, an infantry regiment with five anti-tank companies and a company kitted out with Mistral anti-aircraft missiles.

''Our strategy is one of embargo,'' said Mitterrand. ''That is under a U.N. Security Council mandate. One has to make the embargo a success.'' He said however that Paris would react as it has promised to any Iraqi aggression.

Several Iraqi embassies around the world denied that their troops had ''violated the diplomatic missions'' of France and the Netherlands in Kuwait, which has been occupied by Iraq since August 2.

Orders had been issued to Iraqi soldiers not to enter these buildings ''in spite of the fact that they are not considered diplomatic missions since August 24'', the embassies said in a statement. Iraq annexed Kuwait and regards it as an Iraqi province.

The Dutch and French foreign ministries Friday said Iraqi forces had entered their missions in Kuwait.

Meanwhile, Saudi Arabia's ambassador to the United States, Prince Bandar bin Sultan, has circulated to members of the U.S. Congress a shopping list detailing between 18 and 23 billion dollars' worth of modern arms sought by Riyadh, a news report said.

Der Spiegel reported that the Saudi deputy prime minister, Abdalla Ibn Abdelasis, had summoned the new West German ambassador in Ryadh, Wolfgang Bente, and expressed his government's "deep disappointment" with Bonn's refusal to send troops to Saudi Arabia.

The report also quoted Prince Abdalla as saying the refusal could affect trade between the two countries.

Government spokesman Hans Schumacher said the ambassador was not summoned, but made his first courtesy call on the prince, and that the meeting was held in a "friendly atmosphere."

TEHERAN, (SEPT 15) - Iraq on Saturday returned an Iranian Airbus hijacked during the Gulf war, in another sign of improving relations between the two former enemies, Kayhan newspaper reported.

The Persian-language evening paper said the European-made Airbus, hijacked to Iraq in 1984, landed at Teheran airport. An Iran Air team was sent to Iraq two weeks earlier to make necessary repairs to the jet, it said.

"Iran now hopes that an Iran Air Boeing 727 can be returned in the near future " the newspaper added.

The Boeing was also hijacked in 1984, in the middle of the eight-year Iran-Iraq war, which ended with a U.N.-brokered cease-fire in August 1988.

The Airbus was the second plane returned to Iran since Iraqi President Saddam Hussein announced August 15 that he would meet Iranian demands for a final settlement to the Gulf conflict.

On September 5, Iraq returned a Falcon-20 aircraft belonging to the Iranian domestic airline Asseman that was hijacked by pro-Iraqi dissidents in 1986.

The arrival of the Airbus came less than a week after a visit here by Iraqi Foreign Minister Tareq Aziz during which Iran announced that the two countries had agreed to restore diplomatic relations.

Iranian Deputy Foreign Minister Manouchehr Mottaki was to travel Sunday to Baghdad on the first visit to Iraq by an Iranian official since the 1979 Islamic revolution.

AMMAN, (SEPT 15) - Around 120 delegates from 10 Arab countries and the PLO opened a three-day conference here Saturday to support Iraq against the U.S.-led military build-up in the Gulf.

Two radical Palestine Liberation Organization leaders, George Habash of the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine and Nayef Hawatmeh of the Democratic Front for the Liberation of Palestine, were attending the conference.

They arrived here Friday for their first official visit to Jordan since Jordanian troops drove out Palestinian guerrillas from the kingdom in fierce battles in 1970-1971.

Delegates from Algeria, Iraq, Jordan, Lebanon, Libya, Mauritania, Morocco,

Sudan, Tunisia and Yemen also took part in the Conference of Popular Arab Forces, organized by Jordanian political groups and trade unions.

The organizers said Egypt and Syria had not allowed their nationals to travel to Jordan.

Although the pro-Iraqi conference was under King Hussein's patronage, parliamentary speaker Suleiman Arar, representing the king, opened the event.

He stressed that Jordan backed all U.N. resolutions, including calls for Iraq's withdrawal from Kuwait.

Amid popular support here for Iraq, Jordan was among nine Arab League members at a summit last month that failed to vote in favour of condemning the invasion and of endorsing the deployment of foreign troops in the Gulf.

Egypt, Morocco and Syria have since sent troops to be deployed alongside U.S. forces in the Gulf.

A Jordanian official, declining to be named, said the government was not directly linked to the conference, which he said was allowed to go ahead because of recent democratic reforms in Jordan.

The conference aims to "face the imperialist American and Zionist attack triggered by the invasion and occupation of the Arabian peninsula and Gulf waters," said conference spokesman Mahmoud al-Abbadi.

He was referring to the massive build-up in the Gulf that followed Iraq's August 2 invasion of Kuwait.

NICOSIA, (SEPT 15) - The Iraqi authorities have allowed all Cypriots held in Iraq and Kuwait to return home, Foreign Minister George Iacovou announced Saturday during a visit to Baghdad.

In a statement carried on official Cypriot radio, Mr. Iacovou said eight of the 22 Cypriots still in the two countries would be flying home later Saturday.

Mr. Iacovou arrived in the Iraqi capital earlier in the day to seek the release of the Cypriots, 21 men and one woman.

He had two rounds of talks with Iraqi Foreign Minister Tareq Aziz and also met with Palestine Liberation Organisation chairman Yasser Arafat, whom he thanked for his efforts to secure the Cypriots' freedom, the radio said.

Until Saturday, 10 Cypriot women and children had been allowed to leave since the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait.

Baghdad has detained Western men to deter an attack on Iraq by the U.S.-led multinational forces deployed in the Gulf following the August 2 invasion.

NEW YORK, UNITED NATIONS (SEPT 15) - The United Nations Security Council was to meet later Saturday at France's request following the Iraqi storming Friday of a French diplomatic compound in Kuwait, U.N. officials said.

The officials said the Council could adopt a new resolution concerning the Gulf crisis, but they would not elaborate.

Earlier Saturday French President Francois Mitterrand said he would seek to extend a U.N.-mandated trade embargo of Iraq to cover air traffic into and out of Iraq and to provide for sanctions against countries which violate the embargo.

He also said France would file a complaint over the forced entry by Iraqi troops Friday into the French ambassador's residence in Iraqi-occupied Kuwait City.

The troops detained three French civilians and the embassy's military attache. The diplomat was later released but the civilians remain in Iraqi hands.

The United Nations has already adopted six resolutions condemning Iraq's August 2 invasion and subsequent annexation of Kuwait and imposing the trade embargo against Iraq.

In Bonn, U.S. Secretary of State James Baker welcomed the French suggestion of stiffer U.N. sanctions against Iraq and punishment for violaters of the embargo against Baghdad.

"Those are the types of things that we think at some point it might be appropriate to consider, that is sanctions against countries that do not observe the embargo and perhaps further U.N. sanctions to forbid violations of the embargo by air," Mr. Baker said.

TEHERAN, (SEPT 15) - Senior Iranian leaders met Saturday to discuss ways of forcing Iraq to withdraw from Kuwait and end the foreign military intervention in the Gulf, Teheran Radio reported.

The radio said the Supreme National Security Council, the country's highest political body, reaffirmed Iran's "pledge to respect the U.N. Security Council resolutions" calling for an Iraqi withdrawal and sanctions against Baghdad.

The meeting, chaired by President Ali Akbar Hashemi Rafsanjani, discussed "the various ways to force Iraq to withdraw from Kuwait," noting that it was essential to "avoid an excuse for any foreign military presence in the region."

"Given the statement by Iranian spiritual guide Ali Khamenei," the council discussed "the means to end the presence of foreign forces in the region" and the need to "maintain security by regional cooperation," the radio said.

Ayatollah Khamenei said Wednesday that popular Islamic resistance against the massive U.S. military presence in the Gulf amounted to "holy war".

Earlier Saturday, the influential Teheran Times newspaper, close to the Rafsanjani government, warned that Iran would intervene if Washington crosses "the red line" and tries to boost its grip over Moslem resources.

Kahyan International, a paper close to anti-Western hardliners, said Iran "remains as anti-American as it was in the years before the death of its founder Imam Khomeini -- the United States is still the great Satan."

Relations between Teheran and Baghdad have improved in recent weeks, after Iraqi President Saddam Hussein said August 15 he would meet longstanding Iranian demands for a settlement to the Iran-Iraq war.

NICOSIA, (SEPT 15) - Iraq Saturday denounced France's decision to expel Iraqi diplomats and send more troops to the Gulf, saying the measures were "aggressive" and a pretext for aggravating the current crisis.

A government spokesman, quoted by the Iraqi News Agency (INA) in a dispatch monitored here, said the French government "must bear full responsibility for this escalation" and its consequences.

French President Francois Mitterrand announced the moves Saturday in response to the ransacking the previous day by Iraqi troops of the French ambassador's residence in Kuwait City.

The troops, according to Paris, took away three French civilians who had taken refuge there and briefly detained the French military attache.

But the Iraqi spokesman denied that such an incident took place.

"All that happened was that a counsellor from the former French embassy was found in the private residence of a woman belonging to the former ruling family," he was quoted as saying.

"The counsellor was taken to the former French embassy after his identity was verified," the spokesman said.

"The French government has for some time been seeking a pretext to aggravate the situation and justify its policies, which are imperialist, aggressive and completely aligned to the policies of the United States," he said.

Mr. Mitterrand said France would send 4,000 troops backed by warplanes, tanks and helicopters to Saudi Arabia, expel some Iraqi diplomats and ask the U.N. Security Council to extend its anti-Iraqi sanctions to air traffic.

Government sources later said France would expel 11 Iraqi Embassy officials as well as about 36 other Iraqi nationals.

The Iraqi ambassador to France, Abdul Razzak el-Hashimi, said the French action was "unjustified escalation" that would bring reciprocal retaliation from Iraq "at the diplomatic level."

LONDON, (SEPT 15) - The holding of British hostages in Iraq and Kuwait cannot be allowed to influence any military decision in the Gulf, British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher said in an interview to appear Sunday.

She said that any other attitude would have the result that "any dictator would only have to take hostages to know that he could gain his particular purpose and would gradually extend his oppression further and further."

It would mean, she added, that the taking of hostages would become "a recipe for the aggressor".

The interview with Scotland on Sunday was given on Thursday, the day before Britain announced it was increasing its military force in the Gulf.

Mrs. Thatcher said in the interview: "What we have to do is get enough forces (in the Gulf) to be able to cope with whatever happens."

She refused to rule out the use of force in the Gulf, adding that it would be playing into "Saddam's hands" (the hands of Iraqi President Saddam Hussein) to wait for the specific approval of the United Nations before launching a military action.

PHILADELPHIA (SEPT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Usinor Sacilor and Edgcomb Corp. announced today the successful completion of the merger of the European and American metal processing companies. The merger is of Edgcomb Corp. with its wholly owned subsidiary Edgcomb Metals Company, headquartered in Bensalem, Pa. and Sollac, a subsidiary of Usinor Sacilor and the largest European producer of flat-rolled carbon steel products, including tin-mill products.

In connection with the transaction, Edgcomb repurchased all its subordinated indebtedness.

Directly or through its parent, Sollac also owns two other metal service centers in the United States: Interstate Steel Co. and Metron Steel Corp.

Michel Longchampt, president of Usinor Industries Inc., parent of Interstate Steel, said: "With the merger, we look forward to Edgcomb being the driving force for the expansion of our service center activities in the United States."

Edgcomb Corp., through its subsidiary, Edgcomb Metals Co., had sales of some $600 million for 1989. Edgcomb operates 18 service centers in most states East of the Mississippi. Edgcomb processes and distributes a full line of carbon and stainless steel as well as aluminum.

CAPE CANAVERAL, FL (SEPT. 15) UPI - The countdown began Saturday for a last-ditch bid to launch the long-delayed shuttle Columbia before NASA is forced to turn its attention to a higher-priority October flight.

Running more than three months late because of repeated hydrogen leaks and trouble with an on-board telescope, Columbia's countdown began on time at 1 a.m. EDT Saturday capping a week of around-the-clock repair work and testing.

If all goes well - and some NASA officials consider that a big ''if'' - the shuttle's seven-man crew will take off at 1:28 a.m. Tuesday to kick off a 10-day astronomy mission.

''They started the count right on time,'' NASA spokeswoman Lisa Malone said.

''The aft (engine compartment) is already closed out. We're not tracking any issues or problems. They sound like they're in a good mood out there.''

NASA's launch team will only have two days or so to get Columbia off the ground before focusing on the shuttle Discovery's launch around Oct. 8 on a higher-priority $750 million mission to carry the European-built Ulysses solar probe into space.

For Columbia's crew, the stakes are high. If the ship is grounded again, NASA managers may elect to delay the flight for up to a year because of other scheduling problems. At the very best, the mission would be delayed to late next month.

And so, with time running out, Columbia skipper Vance Brand, 59, co- pilot Guy Gardner, 42, Robert Parker, 53, and civilian astronomer Ronald Parise, 39, planned to fly to the Kennedy Space Center from Houston Saturday night for final preparations.

Their crewmates - John ''Mike'' Lounge, 44, Jeffrey Hoffman, 45, and astronomer Samuel Durrance, 46 - were scheduled to join them Sunday afternoon.

Launch originally was scheduled for May 30, but the crew was grounded the night before when sensors detected explosive hydrogen gas leaking into the ship's engine room.

Subsequent tests led NASA managers to believe the leak was caused by damaged seals inside a massive 17-inch-wide fuel line fitting. A similar problem grounded the shuttle Atlantis in July.

Columbia was equipped with a new fuel line fitting and rescheduled for launch Sept. 1 only to be grounded again, this time by problems with an on-board telescope, one of four making up the ship's ''Astro-1'' observatory payload.

Finally, a third launch try scheduled for Sept. 6 ended in failure the night before when yet another hydrogen leak showed up. Engineers replaced three suspect pumps in the shuttle's engine compartment before discovering a partially crushed seal in a fuel line valve leading to main engine No. 3.

The clearly damaged $250 seal was replaced earlier this week and launch was rescheduled for Tuesday.

Even so, many engineers questioned whether the faulty seal alone could have accounted for the hydrogen concentrations measured last week. To make sure, additional leak checks were conducted Thursday, but no more problems were found.

Still, after a disappointing summer of delays and repeated setbacks, few NASA officials were willing to make any predictions about Columbia's fourth launch try in three months.

''In the halls, some of the guys are betting whether any leaks will show up Monday,'' one official said.

In the meantime, agency managers are studying whether they can change tough post-Challenger launch guidelines to increase the allowable concentration of hydrogen in the shuttle's engine compartment.

The limit currently is 600 parts per million, a minuscule .006 percent. But given the nature of hydrogen, some leakage is inevitable and officials are studying whether the current limit is unrealistically conservative.

The goal of the 36th shuttle mission, the 11th since the Challenger disaster but only the fourth this year, is to study X-rays and ultraviolet light from energetic stars and galaxies that cannot penetrate Earth's atmosphere.

NEW YORK (SEPT. 15) UPI - The New York Post splashed an ''Ain't Over Yet'' headline on Saturday's edition to mark a last-minute tentative deal with its unions for sweeping concessions intended to save the brassy tabloid from the newspaper graveyard.

The Post's ten unions agreed Friday to more than $20 million in savings designed to staunch massive losses at the nation's oldest continuously published daily.

''I'm optimistic,'' said Post publisher Peter Kalikow, who had threatened that Saturday's editions would be the paper's last if there was no cost-cutting agreement with the unions. ''I think it's the best offer we could make.''

Soon after the agreement was announced, employees at the newspaper began publishing an edition reporting that, assuming Newspaper Guild members approve the deal Monday, the Post has been saved.

The paper had missed its own early edition deadline while it waited for the outcome of the talks.

''We worked real hard to make it a good paper, and we're glad we're going to be around for a while,'' said Tom Bonfiglio, an assistant on the Post city desk.

The country's oldest - and some would say boldest - continuously published daily newspaper had settled earlier Friday with six of its ten unions.

But the paper's largest unions - including the 352-member Newspaper Guild representing reporters, editors and advertising workers - failed to come to terms as Kalikow's 8 p.m. deadline passed.

Negotiations dragged on past a second 9:45 p.m. deadline. Union leaders then announced the tentative agreement with Kalikow at an 11:30 p.m. news conference.

The breakthrough appeared to have come when Kalikow agreed to let the Newspaper Guild members wait until Monday to vote on the proposal, which reportedly includes $5 million in givebacks from the union's members.

Newspaper guild President Barry Lipton refused to comment on specifics of the agreement.

''We won't discuss it until we've explained it to our members,'' he said.

But sources said the proposal would include the elimination of between 36 and 44 Newspaper Guild jobs through lucrative buyout packages and a 12 percent cut in benefits.

It was not known, however, whether the proposal included wage cuts, a proposal guild membership has adamantly rejected in the past.

George McDonald, president of the Allied Printing and Trades Council, said the agreement would save the paper.

''We're going to have the Post around for a long time,'' he said.

Added Kalikow, ''It was a difficult negotiation. It was a bitter pill for a lot of these people to swallow.''

Kalikow has said he has lost more than $100 million since buying the paper in 1988. He offered unionized employees 20 percent equity in the paper and a seat on its board of directors in return for concessions. He maintains he merely wants the paper to break even or become ''slightly profitable.''

Management at the Daily News and The New York Times have said they would seek similar contract concessions from the same unions if they gave in to the demands by the Post's management.

Union leaders at the Post said the decision by the Times and News to seek similar cutbacks threatened to divide the city's newspaper unions and threw a major wrench into the Post negotiations.

Kalikow said he ''desperately'' wants to keep alive the Post, which he bought from Rupert Murdoch in 1988. He expects to lose $27 million this year, a projection verified by union accountants.

(SEPT. 14) UPI - Tommy Lasorda would like to don a chauffeur's cap and show the Cincinnati Reds around.

The Los Angeles Dodgers sent 11 batters to the plate in the sixth inning Friday and scored eight times - including a grand slam by Kal Daniels - en route to a 10-4 rout of the Reds.

''It was a big win for us, but not a bad loss for Cincinnati,'' said Lasorda, the Dodgers' manager. ''The Reds are still in the driver's seat. I'd like to trade places with them.''

The victory moved the Dodgers to within 5 1-2 games of National League West-leading Cincinnati. But Los Angeles only has two more games against the Reds.

The Dodgers scored seven runs with two outs in the sixth. Eddie Murray began the onslaught with a homer to left, his 24th of the year. Mike Scioscia followed with a single and scored on Juan Samuel's double off the left field wall. Alfredo Griffin singled in Samuel and then Alfredo Griffin scored all the way from first when right fielder Glenn Braggs let pitcher Fernando Valenzuela's single roll past him, with Valenzuela taking second on the error.

Stan Javier walked to chase loser Tom Browning and Mike Sharperson singled off Tim Layana to load the bases. Daniels followed with a grand slam to center, putting the game out of reach.

Valenzuela, 13-12, yielded nine hits, struck out four and walked four in pitching his fifth complete game of the year.

Browning fell to 13-8, and was tagged for eight hits and seven runs over 5 2-3 innings.

Daniels, a former Red who has been greeted by his former fans with boos, claimed he doesn't mind, but admitted he enjoyed popping a grand slam against his old club.

''They boo me because they love me,'' Daniels said. ''Hitting the homer here felt good because I played here four years and a lot of people in Cincinnati said I was washed up. I think I've shown that I've still got something left.''

The home run was the 25th this year for Daniels and his third grand slam of the season. Daniels is the first Dodger to hit three grand slams in a season since Ron Cey in 1977.

In other National League games, Montreal beat Pittsburgh 4-2; Philadelphia defeated New York 4-1; Atlanta over San Diego 7-3; Houston edged San Francisco 2-1; and St. Louis downed Chicago 4-2.

In the American League it was: New York 5, Detroit 2; Toronto 8, Baltimore 7; Chicago 4, Boston 0; Cleveland 6, Kansas City 4; Texas 2, Milwaukee 1; California 7, Seattle 5; and Oakland 9, Minnesota 1.

Expos 4, Pirates 2

At Montreal, Larry Walker's two-out two-run homer in the eighth rallied Montreal. Trailing 2-1 in the eighth, Delino DeShields drew a two-out walk off Neal Heaton, 12-9. Tim Wallach followed with an RBI double to tie the score at 2-2. Walker then hit his 18th homer of the year over the right-field fence. Steve Frey, 8-2, who entered in the eighth, picked up the victory.

Phillies 4, Mets 1

At New York, Pat Combs pitched a four-hitter to lead Philadelphia. Combs, 8-9, pitched his second complete game of the season, beating the Mets for the second time in five days. The left-hander walked two and struck out five. Sid Fernandez, 9-13, struck out 12 over 7 1-3 innings, giving up four hits and walking five.

Braves 7, Padres 3

At Atlanta, Jim Presley homered and drove in two runs and Ron Gant ripped his team-leading 29th home run to power the Braves. Tom Glavine improved to 8-11, allowing six hits over six innings. Mark Grant tossed the final three innings to earn his first save. Derek Lilliquist fell to 3-10, surrendering six hits in 3 1-3 innings.

Cardinals 4, Cubs 2

At St. Louis, Bryn Smith won his first game in nearly two months and Pedro Guerrero drove in two runs with a pair of doubles, leading the Cardinals. Smith, 8-8, allowed no runs and four hits in six innings. Rookie Mike Perez worked 2 1-3 innings to earn his first major-league save. Mitch Williams, 1-8, who has been Chicago's closer for most of the season, was roughed up for four runs and seven hits over 3 1-3 innings in his second successive start.

Astros 2, Giants 1

At Houston, rookie Karl Rhodes doubled twice and scored two runs and Mark Portugal continued his mastery of San Francisco hitters, leading the Astros. Portugal, 9-10, worked six innings. Juan Agosto pitched three innings to notch his third save of the season. Kelly Downs fell to 1-1.

(SEPT. 14) UPI - With the help of a rookie, the Toronto Blue Jays were able to experience something they haven't done much of this season: Rally for a win.

Rookie pinch hitter John Olerud's two-out RBI single capped a three- run ninth inning rally Friday night that lifted the Toronto Blue Jays to an 8-7 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

Toronto rallied for only the second time in 62 games when trailing after eight innings. More importantly, the win helped move Toronto within three games of the Boston Red Sox in the AL East. Boston was blanked by the Chicago White Sox 4-0.

''It would have been easy for us to give up,'' Toronto third baseman Kelly Gruber said. ''But tonight we fought back even after they got another run.

''This team is capable of coming back all the time,'' Gruber said. ''We just haven't been doing it this year.''

Trailing 7-5 in the ninth, the Blue Jays tied it on pinch hitter Rance Mulliniks' two-run single with the bases loaded.

With one out, Tony Fernandez and Gruber singled off Gregg Olson, 5-5, and one out later, Fred McGriff walked on a full count to load the bases.

''Everybody on the field thought it was a strike except the guy that counted '' Baltimore Manager Frank Robinson said.

Batting for Kenny Williams, Mulliniks followed with a single on an Olson curve ball to score Fernandez and Gruber.

''I made up my mind what to look for, I didn't want to guess at whether it would be a curve or a fastball,'' Mulliniks said.

''It's his (Olson's) best pitch,'' catcher Bob Melvin said. ''You can't blame him for trying to get out of the game with his best pitch.''

Olerud, batting for Pat Borders, then bounced a single through the middle to score Fred McGriff and make a winner of Willie Bair, 2-5.

''We've fought back in late innings in passed years,'' said Gruber, who went 4 for 5, scored twice and knocked in two runs, raising his RBI total to 101. ''I hope this is a good sign for the rest of the season.''

In other American League action, New York downed Detroit 5-2, Chicago blanked Boston 4-0, Texas edged Milwaukee 2-1 in 10 innings, Cleveland rapped Kansas City 6-4, Oakland crushed Minnesota 9-1 and California beat Seattle 7-5.

In the National League, it was: Philadelphia 4, New York 1; Montreal 4, Pittsburgh 2; Los Angeles 10, Cincinnati 4; Atlanta 7, San Diego 3; Houston 2, San Francisco 1; and St. Louis 4, Chicago 2.

Yankees 5, Tigers 2

At Detroit, Tim Leary pitched seven strong innings and Roberto Kelly, Steve Balboni, Jim Leyritz each had RBI singles in a five-run third to pace New York. Mike Blowers added an RBI double in the inning. Leary, improved to 9-18. Dave Righetti pitched the ninth for his 32nd save. Scott Aldred, 1-1, took the loss.

White Sox 4, Red Sox 0

At Chicago, Sammy Sosa hit a two-run home run and Jack McDowell won his seventh game in his last nine starts to lead the White Sox. McDowell, 13-7, struck out 10, matching his career high in seven innings. Joe Hesketh, 0-3, making his second start in place of 20-game winner Roger Clemens, took the loss.

Rangers 2, Brewers 1

At Arlington, Texas, rookie Juan Gonzalez's one-out home run in the 10th lifted the Rangers. Nolan Ryan took over the league lead in strikeouts by fanning 11 Brewers and set an American League record for most 200-strikeout seasons. Kenny Rogers, 9-5, took the win. Chuck Crim fell to 3-5.

Indians 6, Royals 4

At Kansas City, Mo., Chris James belted a solo home run and Doug Jones earned his 35th save to lead Cleveland. Sergio Valdez, 4-5, allowed eight hits over 7 2-3 innings before Jones got the final four outs for his first save since August 22. Kevin Appier, 11-7, lost his third straight.

Athletics 9, Twins 1

At Oakland, Calif., Dave Stewart hurled a five-hitter and became the first pitcher since 1978 to win 20 games in four consecutive seasons. Stewart, 20-10 pitched his ninth complete game of the season. Jim Palmer of the Baltimore Orioles was the last pitcher to win 20 games four years in a row, accomplishing the feat in 1975-78. Mark Guthrie, 6- 8, took the loss.

Angels 7, Mariners 5

At Anaheim, Calif., Dave Winfield hit two home runs to drive in five runs becoming just the 26th player in major league history to reach the 1,500-RBI plateau and power California. The contest also featured the first back-to-back home runs by the father-son duo of Ken Griffey and Ken Griffey Jr. Matt Young, fell to 8-15. Reliever Bob McClure, 2-0, got the win and Bryan Harvey notched his 23rd save.

SCOTTSDALE, AZ (SEPT. 15) UPI - Tom Fogerty, who played and sang in the 1960s rock group Creedence Clearwater Revival with his better-known brother John, has died of complications from tuberculosis, a record company spokeswoman said. He was 48.

Fogerty, the group's rhythm guitarist and co-lead vocalist, died Sept. 6 of respiratory failure, stemming from tuberculosis, Terri Hinte of Fantasy Records said.

Fogerty and his younger brother John formed several bands in junior high and high school in El Cerrito, Calif., teaming up eventually with each other, bass player Stu Cook and drummer Doug ''Cosmo'' Clifford.

The four-member group variously dubbed Tommy Fogerty and the Blue Velvets and The Golliwogs ultimately became Creedence Clearwater Revival and sold more than 86 million records, including eight Top 10 singles and six gold albums.

Their hits included ''Proud Mary,'' ''Bad Moon Rising,'' ''Travelin' Band'' and ''Green River.''

Tom Fogerty left the group in February 1971 because he wanted to spend more time with his wife and children in Arizona.

The remaining members of the group continued as a trio before disbanding in October 1972.

Tom later worked as a solo artist, recording the single ''Joyful Resurrection'' and several albums.

PARIS (SEPT. 15) UPI - President Francois Mitterrand conferred with his inner cabinet Saturday on retaliation for Iraqi violation of the French Embassy in Kuwait and the Defense Ministry put a Foreign Legion regiment on alert for service in the Persian Gulf, officials said.

Mitterrand arranged to hold a news conference after the cabinet session at the Elysee Palace to announce a French ''response'' to the seizing of three French civilians from the French ambassador's residence in Kuwait City Friday.

French officials said Iraqi soldiers rounded up a military attache along with the three civilians, who had sought refuge at the ambassador's residence near the main French chancellery. The attache was released several hours later, but the fate of the three civilians was not known.

The 1st Foreign Legion Cavalry Regiment was placed on high alert at its base at Orange in southern France for possible service in the Persian Gulf, defense ministry sources said.

Mitterrand had said Friday, ''This violation is an aggression and we will respond.''

(SEPT. 14) UPI - Here is a roundup of the latest major events in the Persian Gulf crisis stemming from the Aug. 2 Iraqi invasion of the oil-rich emirate of Kuwait.

PARIS - France will expel some Iraqi diplomats from Paris, limit the movement of others and send 4,000 more troops to the Persian Gulf in retaliation for Iraqi troops' storming of diplomatic compounds in occupied Kuwait. President Francois Mitterand's action was the strongest Western response thus far to Iraqi troops' action Friday in entering the diplomatic compounds of France, Belgium and Canada in occupied Kuwait.

WASHINGTON - A U.S. and an Australian warship in the Gulf of Oman fired warning shots and sent a joint boarding party aboard an Iraqi oil tanker Friday before allowing it to proceed. No injuries were reported.

WASHINGTON - Saudi Arabia has informally notified Congress of its intent to purchase about $20 billion in sophisticated U.S. aircraft, advanced armored vehicles and missiles in what would be the largest arms sales package in U.S. history.

ROME - Secretary of State James Baker, fresh from a visit to Syria where he and Syrian President Hafez Assad were united in their condemnation of the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait, said the Persian Gulf crisis could forge ''a new world order.'' ''This is the first real crisis of the post-cold war period,'' Baker said. ''We have an opportunity to shape a new world order. The international community must act together and resist and reverse this example of unprovoked aggression.

JOHANNESBURG (SEPT. 15) UPI - The South African government said Saturday it will use curfews, roadblocks, razor wire and armed patrols in a military-stule operation dubbed ''Iron Fist'' to halt a wave of urban black violence.

Helmeted troops armed with assault rifles began throwing up roadblocks across Johannesburg and the hardest-hit townships around the city late Friday in the first phase of the operation, police Regional Commissioner Maj. Gen. Gerrit Erasmus said.

Erasmus said the Cabinet was soon expected to approve the other measures, ''which will probably be implemented next week,'' aimed at curbing the wave of urban black violence that has left as many as 750 people dead since early August.

The imposition last month of emergency powers for security forces in 27 black townships has had no evident success.

Black leader Nelson Mandela met with President Frederik de Klerk Friday and said De Klerk outlined a ''comprehensive plan'' to deal with the strife, which he said the president accepted was the work of unidentified forces trying to sabotage his seven-month-old racial reform program and not simple black-on-black conflict.

The ''comprehensive plan'' included operation ''Iron Fist,'' Erasmus said, noting African National Congress leader Mandela had agreed to the measures ''as far as I know... without exception.

''If... Mr. Mandela wants an iron fist, we're going to give an iron fist,'' he said. But ANC spokesman Saki Macomoza said later he doubted if Mandela had known precisely what the steps entailed, ''and this is what bothers us.''

Erasmus said police would summon reinforcements from across South Africa and, backed by army units, intended launching the ''stringent'' plan with the assurance the security forces ''shall definitely stop this violence - it is senseless, it's intolerable, and we're going to act very strongly against these people.''

De Klerk said in a statement Thursday that the slaughter was undermining his calls for ''a new South Africa'' and vowed the offenders ''will be firmly dealt with.''

Mandela had earlier warned the strife was threatening talks between the ANC and the government on ending 42 years of white minority rule.

Erasmus said police would patrol the most volatile of the townships in armored vehicles mounted with light machine guns to counter the growing number of attacks on lawmen. They would throw cordons of razor wire around the migrant-worker hostles housing Zulu followers of the Inkatha movement accused of mounting many of the attacks against the townships residents - predominantly Xhosa supporters of the ANC.

Security forces would enforce dusk-to-dawn curfews in some areas, and those townships residents would probably have to have permits, issued by their employers, to move through the stricken areas, Erasmus said.

Police helicopters would regularly overfly the city and the townships, picking out trouble-spots and possibly spraying offenders with colored dye for later indentification, Erasmus said.

Noted a Law and Order official, ''We're looking at thousands of police and troops and miles of razor wire to carry out all these tasks.''

The rapidly spreading fighting, which erupted between the migrant Zulus and township residents, was in the first weeks characterized as Zulu-Xhosa, or Inkatha-ANC.

But the attacks have recently become more random and indiscriminate, with the attackers, identified by witnesses as black, staging quick strikes and then disappearing without a trace.

Mandela warned Friday the latest bloodletting, including gunmen opening fire on pedestrians from passing mini-buses and a rampage by attackers through a train Thursday whick killed 26 and injured more than 100, was the work of ''highly professional killers.''

Erasmus noted, ''Whoever these people are, we intend to get them.''

ROME (SEPT. 15) UPI - U.S. Secretary of State James Baker warned Saturday the international attempt to solve the Gulf crisis by diplomatic and political means must not give Iraqi leader Saddam Hussein the illusion he can avoid the U.N. order to withdraw from Kuwait.

In a 90-minute meeting with Italian Prime Minister Giulio Andreotti, Baker also said the next six weeks will be ''crucial'' for the solution of the crisis caused by Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait, its tiny, oil- rich neighbor.

Baker, on the penultimate leg of his tour of European capitals to drum up support for the U.S. action in the Gulf, spent the morning in talks with Andreotti and Italian President Francesco Cossiga before flying on to Bonn in the afternoon.

Immediately after his arrival in Rome from Damascus, Syria late Friday Baker had similar talks with Foreign Minister Gianni De Michelis at Rome's Ciampino military airport before De Michelis left for a long- scheduled visit to Moscow.

There was no news conference after Baker's meeting with Andreotti, which was also attended by Italian Defense Minister Virginio Rognoni. But a spokesman for the prime minister briefed reporters on their talk.

He said Baker told Andreotti the United States intends to persevere with ''diplomatic, peaceful and political'' means to end the Gulf crisis. But this must not give Saddam Hussein the illusion that a solution may be achieved without the full application of the U.N. Security Council resolutions, Baker said.

Andreotti's spokesman said there was a ''total identity of views'' between the United States and Italy on the need to make the U.N. embargo on Iraq ''impenetrable.''

The Italian prime minister proposed that to enforce full application of the embargo sanctions should be imposed against countries which break it.

Andreotti said it was ''intolerable'' that such a threatening military force as that of Saddam Hussein should be allowed to remain in the Middle East. He suggested that once the crisis is solved ''a system of military security'' should be installed in the area.

He also said the United States and Europe ''must tackle the problem of the very serious lacerations and divisions which the Middle East has been living through in recent decades.''

Baker thanked Italy for its efforts in the Mediterranean area and asked Andreotti to use Italy's influence to make it clear to Arab countries that once the crisis is settled the United States ''has no intention of remaining in the area.''

He also expressed appreciation for Italy's decision, announced Friday, to send eight Tornado fighter-bombers and another frigate to the Gulf to join two Italian frigates sent there last month.

''We understand that this decision was difficult, and for this we appreciate it all the more,'' Baker said. ''What you have done is important and determining.''

Baker and Andreotti also discussed the violation by Iraqi troops of the French

Canadian and Dutch embassy residences in Kuwait which they termed ''a real aggression'' and agreed to keep in close contact on developments.

SAN DIEGO, CA (SEPT. 15) UPI - A home-made bomb exploded outside the Federal Building downtown early Saturday, shattering a large glass window but causing no injuries or other damage, authorities said.

The blast went off in front of the Federal Building at 900 Front St. about 12:45 a.m., San Diego Police Officer James Greer said.

''Early indications are that it was some kind of improvised home-made bomb,'' Sgt. Chuck Peck said.

The bomb was placed inside a 4-foot diameter tube that is part of an artwork in front of the building. The impact of the blast blew out a 30-foot-by-15-foot glass window on the front of the building, Greer said.

''It scattered the glass and fragments all over the front of the building,'' he said.

Police closed a two-block perimeter around the building and sent in bomb-sniffing dogs to check for any additional explosive devices. No other bombs were found.

Witnesses who heard the blast said they saw several men running from the scene after the explosion.

No injuries were reported.

''No one is claiming responsiblity and we have no motive,'' Greer said.

The artwork in front of the building was undamaged by the blast, Greer said.

''It's a pretty tough art structure,'' he said.

Officers said the tube apparently acted like a cannon, funneling the force of the blast toward the building where it blew out the window.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation, the federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms and the San Diego Police Department's Metro-Arson Strike Team (MAST) were investigating the bombing.

(SEPT. 14) UPI - Across the nation, voters are beginning to tell their lawmakers, ''Take this job, but don't stay too long.''

Oklahoma voters Tuesday will be the first in the nation to vote to limit the number of years their state legislators can serve.

In November, voters in both California and Colorado will follow suit. Coloradans also will be asked to limit the terms of their U.S. senators and representatives.

Additionally, citizen groups in at least 15 other states are talking about putting term-limit plans on the ballot.

''We have certainly noticed more activity in the last year on this issue than in the past,'' said Nancy Rhyme, a policy specialist for the National Conference of State Legislatures in Denver.

''There's a feeling that making legislators full-time (politicians) is just too much of a boondoggle.''

Recent polls show that voters are more than 2-to-1 in favor of limiting congressional tenure by law but, not surprisingly, members of Congress generally oppose term limits. Legislation to limit Senate and House terms to 12 years didn't even make it out of its first committee this year.

With legislation in various statehouses not faring much better, citizens are now taking it upon themselves to get term limits passed through the initiative process.

There is no organized opposition to the plans in Oklahoma and Colorado, and both are expected to pass, although the Colorado plan to limit congressional terms would likely face a court challenge.

However, in California, where legislators are full-time, many are risking reprisal from their constituents to openly fight the two November ballot initiatives that could take away their livelihoods in a few years.

One of the plans is more severe than any proposed to date. Sponsored by conservative Los Angeles County Supervisor Pete Schabarum, it would prohibit Assembly members from serving more than a total of six years in office and state senators and statewide officers, including the governor, no more than a total of eight years. While more than half the states already limit their governors' terms, California does not.

California's flamboyant Assembly speaker, Democrat Willie Brown of San Francisco, held a $1,000-per-person gala fund-raiser at a posh Beverly Hills hotel last week to kick off what is expected to be a multi-million effort by legislators to defeat the two ballot plans.

One of Brown's main arguments is a common theme against term limits: that a house full of inexperienced lawmakers invites greater control from big-money, special-interest lobbyists.

''The sleazy, cold-blooded special interests are going to see an opportunity and they're going to be supporting (the) Schabarum (initiative) because, believe me, they will dominate,'' Brown has said.

But others argue that limiting terms would allow legislators to better serve their constituencies because, rather than being concerned with re-election, they would be able to make the necessary hard choices on controversial issues.

One of Schabarum's political advisers is Lyn Nofziger, the former Reagan White House political director who was convicted of illegal lobbying but then got his conviction overturned.

''I think there's a groundswell of opinion saying, 'Let's just get people out of here,''' Nofziger said.

''California's been a bellwether state, and if one of these things wins in California, then I think it will win in other states, too,'' he said.

The latest California Poll, released Sept. 6, shows that about two- thirds of the voters approve the plans, with slightly more favoring the more lenient one which would limit legislators to 12 consecutive years in office.

But Rep. Joel Hefley, R-Colo., says that to restrict the rights of people to vote for whomever they chose is ''un-American.''

The Colorado plan, backed by state Sen. Terry Considine and Coloradans Back in Charge, would limit legislators and statewide officers to eight consecutive years, and members of Congress to 12 consecutive years.

The Oklahoma plan, sponsored by oil fortune heir Lloyd Noble II, would prohibit legislators from serving more than a total of 12 years in either house.

Arizona residents failed to qualify two term-limit plans for their ballot by a July 5 deadline.

Contrary to popular perception, a National Conference of State Legislatures study shows that from 1977 to 1989 there was a fair amount of turnover in state legislatures and Congress, even without term limits.

The U.S. Senate had a 53 percent turnover, and the House, 62 percent. Oklahoma's Senate had an 85 percent turnover and the state House, 93 percent. The Colorado Senate had a 77 percent turnover rate, and its House, 95 percent.

And, California's Senate experienced a 67 percent turnover, and its Assembly, 88 percent.

WASHINGTON (SEPT. 15) UPI - President Bush signed into law Saturday a bill keeping the strategic petroleum reserve in operation for four more years and broadening his discretion to draw on the stockpiled oil to meet the nation's emergency energy needs.

The measure also requires for the first time that a portion of the 15-year-old reserve, now made up entirely of crude oil, be devoted to refined petroleum products such as home heating oil or gasoline.

Bush signed the legislation while at the Camp David presidential retreat in Maryland.

The legislation was enacted the same day the Energy Department's authority under existing law to purchase and store oil for the reserve was due to expire. This authority is extended through September 1994 under the bill.

Maintaining the reserve and expanding the president's ability to use it in times of an energy crisis has taken on greater importance since Iraq invaded Kuwait on Aug. 2, threatening Western access to Persian Gulf oil.

The changes in the makeup of the reserve and how it functions were inspired in part by the sudden jump in West Coast gasoline prices triggered by the Alaska oil spill in March 1989 and the shortage in home heating oil in the Northeast following a severe cold spell last December.

The new law represents a compromise worked out by House and Senate negotiators this week to ward off a threatened veto and reconcile differing versions of the bill passed by the two chambers months ago.

The bill that emerged cleared the House unanimously Thursday and the Senate by voice vote an hour later.

The strategic petroleum reserve was established in 1975 after the Arab oil embargo to ensure the United States an emergency supply of oil. The reserve now holds about 590 million barrels of crude oil, stored in salt caverns on the Gulf Coast of Louisiana and Texas.

Under current law, the president can order the government to draw on the reserve only in the event of a severe cut-off of imported oil or shortages caused by sabotage or natural disasters. This authority has never been invoked.

The legislation goes further by allowing the president to tap the reserve if a severe shortage in the domestic supply occurs or is likely for any reason, such as a major spill or large spike in demand. However, such use would be limited to 30 million barrels of oil for up to 60 days.

The original House bill would have allowed the president to draw up to 50 million barrels of oil for up to 90 days in case of a domestic supply disruption.

The White House had threatened to veto the original Senate bill because of a provision to expand the size of the reserve to 1 billion barrels. Congress instead adopted language authorizing such an enlargement after 1996, when the reserve's existing capacity of 750 million barrels is expected to be reached.

Another key feature of the compromise bill is a provision that for the first time would require a portion of the reserve, now made up entirely of crude oil be devoted to refined petroleum products, such as heating oil or gasoline.

But to avert a veto threatened over this issue, storage of refined products will be authorized only as a three-year test program rather than as a permanent part of the petroleum reserve as the House originally intended.

The stockpile of refined products is to make up roughly 10 percent of the overall reserve and is to be ''located on national distribution systems that can meet the needs of those areas that are particularly dependent on foreign products.''

This provision was designed to speed delivery of gasoline or heating oil in the event of a supply shortage, shortening the time it would otherwise take to refine the petroleum before it can be shipped.

PARIS (SEPT. 15) UPI - President Francois Mitterrand Saturday ordered 4,000 additional French troops to the Persian Gulf and the expulsion of Iraqi diplomats to counter what he denounced as ''a new aggression'' by Iraqi leader Saddam Hussein.

French government sources said about a dozen Iraqi military attaches and other persons deemed to be ''intelligence agents'' operating in France would be expelled, along with 26 military trainees. In addition, the remaining Iraqi diplomatic personnel will be limited in their movements to Paris.

Mitterrand's action was the strongest Western response so far to Iraqi troops' action Friday in entering the diplomatic compounds of France, Belgium and Canada in occupied Kuwait. The Iraqi soldiers detained five Western diplomats - including an American - who were later released, and three Franch civilians whose whereabouts could not be determined.

The French leader made the announcement following an emergency meeting with eight top Cabinet ministers, saying he saw no sign from Iraq ''that would allow the avoidance of armed conflict.''

The Iraqi Ambassador to France, Abdul Razzak Al-Hachimi, called the measures announced by Mitterrand ''unjustified'' and added, ''The Iraqi government will take reciprocal measures on the diplomatic level.''

Al-Hachimi said that there had been no assault on diplomatic missions in Iraq-occupied Kuwait because Baghdad no longer recognized the annexed nation as an independent state. Iraq had ordered all foreign missions to close and move their personnel to Baghdad.

The new French military contingent destined for Saudi Arabia will add to the current strength of some 9,000 troops and 14 warships deployed as part of the U.S.-led multinational effort in the gulf region.

It includes a regiment of 1,100 men equipped with 48 combat helicopters, an armored regiment equipped with 48 AMX-10 tanks and other vehicles, plus an anti-tank regiment of five companies equipped with anti-tank hardware. The additional troop strength was estimated at 4, 000.

Additionally, 30 Mirage and Jaguar planes capable of use in reconnaissance and combat will be deployed along with an anti-aircraft section equipped with Mistral missiles will be deployed.

Mitterrand suggested that a second aircraft carrier, the Foch, could be placed into service ''to allow us to decide between the Clemenceau and the Foch'' for aircraft support.

During the storming on the French ambassador's residence in Kuwait City Iraqisoldiers rounded up a military attache along with the three civilians, who had sought refuge there. The attache was released several hours later, but the fate of the civilians was not known.

Calling the raid on the Kuwait City ambassador's residence ''a new aggression '' Mitterrand said, ''It calls for a response.''

Mitterrand said France was preparing for a worst-case scenario, saying that in Iraq ''there exists a warlike spirit that seems to poorly measure the risks. We have to be prepared.''

''We don't think this is the end of the escalation.

''One does not see ... a sign from Iraq that would allow the avoidance of armed conflict,'' he said.

He added that he found it ''surprising'' that France was now faced with such a situation after having ''contributed to saving Iraq from defeat'' in its war with Iran.

Mitterrand said his policy would be to continue to enforce the embargo on Iraq and to ensure its success.

In his announcement, Mitterrand also said he would seek a meeting of the U.N. Security Council to determine the ''means of action'' for an air embargo against Iraq and to consider measures against countries and companies breaking the U.N.-sanctioned naval embargo.

He said France would call to the attention of the council ''all cases observed of breaking or failing to observe'' the embargo and seek punishment for ''countries and companies that commit infractions.''

Mitterrand added that French companies that break the embargo would ''pay dearly'' for it.

''From this point on, for France, all customs measures have been taken and we will do what needs to be done so that every one of these companies pay dearly for this failure to respect national unity,'' he said.

European Commission President Jacques Delors said foreign ministers from the 12 European Community states would meet Monday in Brussels and ''will not fail to consider the latest development or to take common measures to reinforce the French action and demonstrate the calm determination of the European Community.''

WASHINGTON (SEPT. 15) UPI - Defense analysts say the worst-kept secret in Washington is the fact that U.S. forces in Saudi Arabia and the Persian Gulf region are geared to being able to attack and defeat Saddam Hussein if necessary.

They estimate, for instance, that the U.S. deployment in and around Saudi Arabia could hit 225,000. That force coupled with the roughly 100, 000 Saudi, Egyptian, Syrian and other Arab forces will present a formidable power.

The latest estimates suggest the Iraqi president has 173,000 troops in Kuwait, although they are not believed to be his best forces, and that he has 2,200 tanks in Kuwait or in southern Iraq.

The U.S. mission in Saudi Arabia, as outlined by President Bush, is to deter an Iraqi attack and defend Saudi Arabia if necesssary. And if the economic sanctions and diplomatic pressure are insufficient to dislodge Iraq from Kuwait, the forces would be available if called upon to drive Saddam back into Iraq.

Bill Taylor, a senior analyst at the Center for Strategic and International Studies and a retired Army colonel, said the forces are available for an attack if Bush concludes that one is necessary.

''There is no policy that we are putting units in place for an attack north, but it is very clear to anybody who pays any attention that the chairman of the Joint Chiefs and the secretary of defense are putting that option in place ... so that sometime in the next three weeks or month, by the time we get about 5 1/2 ground division equivalents (and their support troops) on the ground, if the president wants that option, he has it. That's clear,'' said Taylor. A division is usually about 16, 000 soldiers.

At the moment, he said there are enough forces in place to defend Saudi Arabia but ''we don't have near enough in place to attack north to defeat Iraq in Kuwait and certainly not to attack into Iraq with the objective of defeating the Iraqi armed forces.''

But, added Taylor, ''In about a month we'll have enough to attack north.''

At the Institute for Near East Studies analyst Barry Rubin agreed.

''It could be said it's not the best-kept secret in Washington'' that the buildup, while oriented to defend Saudi Arabia, could be used to attack Saddam and his invasion force, he said.

''I don't think there's any doubt that President Bush is retaining an option for liberating Kuwait by military force,'' said Rubin.

Rubin speculated that Bush, once enough forces are in place, might give sanctions and diplomatic efforts several months to work and ''then there is going to be pressure on the president to consider military operations.''

As he left the White House Friday for the Camp David retreat, Bush was asked about the Iraqi actions against embassies in Kuwait and whether that required a U.S. escalation.

''When an escalation is required from me, Saddam Hussein will know it,'' Bush said.

And Defense Secretary Dick Cheney commented on the issue in response to a question from a senator who said it appeared that a U.S. ''offensive mission looks less and less likely to Saddam Hussein.''

''I'd be reluctant to make the judgment that offensive possibility looks remote to Saddam Hussein. Certainly I have not been given instructions to carry out any offensive actions. But,'' he quickly added, ''it has not been ruled out either.''

The head of armor readiness at the Army armor school at Fort Knox, Ky., Col. Dennis Long, and the school's senior educator, Col. Jerry Thurman, said any long-term action would have to involve the ground troops as opposed to a quick punishing air strike or naval action.

Although the amount of U.S. armor in Saudi Arabia is still being built to the point it could just provide a defensive capabilty, more is on the way and could be used to help reach the three-to-one edge at the assault point that an attacking commander must have to feel confident of a chance at winning.

Tanks, they signaled, could be bunched in attacking formations to drive deep to rear areas where there was little armor protection to disrupt command and control centers and supply lines and ''render his defense into an incoherent operation.'' The tanks would work in concert the infantry and with the attack jets and helicopters to defeat Iraqi forces in an effort to drive them out of Kuwait.

The blunt-spoken Thurman said that ''the key is to make him manuever with major forces with an armor thrust. Once he moves to counter the thrust, that's where you'll see the blue suits (Air Force A-10 attack jets and Army Apache helicopters) kick his ass and force him out.''

GDANSK, POLAND (SEPT. 15) UPI - Former President Ronald Reagan got a hero's welcome from a crowd of 7,000 people Saturday and a priest friend of Solidarity founder Lech Walesa gave him a saber for helping to ''chop off the head of communism.''

Torrential rain and hail greeted Reagan and Walesa as they prepared to address the crowd in front of the monument to shipyard workers, some 150 feet from the gate of the Gdansk shipyard.

It was in the shipyard that workers triggered the beginning of a historic revolution in 1980 that a decade later led to the toppling of communist regimes throughout the East Bloc.

Reagan, in a beige suit, waited out the downpour by touring the hall where the Solidarity-communist accord was signed on Aug. 31, 1980, legalizing the first independent labor union in the East Bloc.

''You have triggered fast changes in the political map of Central and Eastern Europe,'' he said in an address to the crowd.

''One might say that it was the shipyard that launched a half dozen revolutions,'' he added, in a word play on the famous description of Helen of Troy as the face that launched a thousand ships.

The crowd chanted, ''Thank you, thank you,'' and singing ''Sto Lat'' (May He Live 100 years), sung only in honor of the most popular Polish leaders.

The Rev. Henryk Jankowski, formerly Walesa's parish priest, presented Reagan with a saber during a meeting in the parish house of St. Brigida's Church.

''I am giving you the saber for helping us to chop off the head of communism '' Jankowski told the former U.S. president who earned the respect of Poles for his firm opposition to communism.

Solidarity was suppressed 16 months after it was founded when martial law was imposed on Dec. 13, 1981 by communist Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski, now president of Poland and the only remaining representative of the old regime.

Reagan steadfastly supported Solidarity's right to exist in his presidential statements. The communists finally agreed to revive it in 1989 in the historic round-table talks. The union won parliamentary elections on June 4 and and formed a Solidarity-led governemnt on Sept. 12, 1989.

Walesa thanked Reagan for the unyielding support given to Solidarity when it was outlawed.

''Your position and determination were for us a hope and help in the most difficult moments,'' Walesa said, and the crowd responded by chanting Walesa's name.

Walesa recalled that Reagan's determination to tear down the Berlin Wall was strongly assisted by Solidarity.

''Solidarity was chipping off that wall from the East while you were doing it from the West,'' Walesa said.

The union leader assured Reagan that Poland will manage to carry out its bold economic reforms if Washington will back them up.

''We badly need alliance with the United States,'' Walesa said. ''We shall manage (to implement the reforms) if America will support us.''

Reagan left for the Soviet Union from Gdansk. He visited Berlin before his two-day trip to Poland and is later scheduled to meet Pope John Paul II in Rome.

WASHINGTON (SEPT. 15) UPI - When sailors aren't working to stave off Iraqi aggression in the Persian Gulf, they're looking for ways to stave off boredom.

But stranded on aircraft carriers, submarines and other ships, they have a limited choice in recreational activities. So when they're not hitting the decks, some 100 to 200 sailors and officers in the gulf are hitting the books to earn college credits.

''We think it's terrific. Even though they're on war-alert, there still is free time and time to grow intellectually and time to actually proceed with their education, while technically cut off from campuses,'' said Mara Mayor, director of the Annenberg-CPB Project, a joint effort of the Annenberg Foundation and Corporation for Public Broadcasting.

The Annenberg-CPB program, the most widely used program of its type, provides off-campus independent study college courses through videos, textbooks, study guides and computers. The computers are used for ''homework'' assignments, to receive feedback from professors and for quizzes.

Several different telecourse programs are used by servicemen in all military branches around the world. But currently in the gulf, only the Navy is offering telecourses - in this case, Annenberg-CPB courses - with the Navy picking up the tuition tab.

But the Defense Department is exploring the logistics of providing telecourses to ground troops in Saudi Arabia.

''American men can't take out Saudi Arabian women and (American) women can't go out on their own,'' said Roger Goldberg of the Defense Activity for Non-Traditional Education Support program in Pensacola, Fla. ''So there are a lot of folks interested in pursuing their education.''

Military personnel earn college credit from the particular university sponsoring the course. The universities include George Washington University, the University of Oklahoma and Coastline College in Fountain Valley, Calif.

Course offerings include psychology, economics, computer science, English, physics and the environment. A student can take longer than the usual semester to complete a course if military activities interrupt study time.

''This will only work if the student is really committed. Students who complete the course have to be pretty motivated,'' said Michael Bradley, associate professor of economics at George Washington University.

The Annenberg-CPB program has been offered to Navy personnel since 1987, and completion rates are running at about 80 percent, comparable to on-campus rates. Three years ago, however, completion rates were much lower because it had been Navy policy to encourage anyone with a high school diploma or GED equivalency certificate to take the courses.

''Now, with the screening we do (tests similar to Scholastic Achievement Tests), completion is about 80 percent,'' said Bruce Wilburn of Middlesex Research Center in Bethesda, Md., a defense contractor acting as the liaison between the Defense Department and the participating universities.

Bradley said the success rate varies from ship to ship, but he has observed that the brighter, more motivated students are aboard submarines.

''I would compare them very favorably with the GW students (on campus),'' he said.

Overall, though, Bradley has been ''pleasantly surprised. On average, they have done better than I expected,'' he said.

Wilburn said the average grade for Annenberg students is C+.

EASTERN SAUDI ARABIA (SEPT. 15) UPI - The targeted tank blithely sat in the crosshairs of an armor-piercing projectile, its crew unaware that the dark night offers no shelter from the U.S. military's endless electronic day.

''This is more fun than a video game,'' said gunner John Posey of Springfield, Ore., deftly flicking banks of dust-covered switches to test-activate the TOW missile inside his Bradley fighting vehicle. ''You have all this power around you.''

Before being deployed in Saudi Arabia against Iraq, Posey and his three other crew mates more than mastered the intricate art of killing with armor.

They were the second team to ever score a perfect 1,000 during a gunnery competition for the 24th Mechanized Division (Infantry).

Instead of textbook tricks, they rely on intuitive tactics to evade destruction, such as circling back into self-generated smoke cover to elude a predator.

And they are virtually integrated with the armored carrier's bevy of sophisticated equipment, including the TV57 thermal sight that can reveal nocturnal opponents 2 miles away.

But after years of sweat, effort and devotion, none of them really know how the vehicle performs, for the Bradley, like most items in Washington's arsenal has never been used in a sustained war.

''I think some of the itchiness of the situation is that most of the state-of-the-art weaponry has never been tested,'' said Sgt. Scott de Groot, 32, the vehicle's commander from Green Bay, Wis., pondering as he looked out into the Arabian night.

Washington has pulled out all stops to counter Iraqi leader Saddam Hussein, shipping its largest, meanest, costliest and latest weapons to the Persian Gulf.

Arms manufacturers, who are no longer hearing the distressing phrase ''peace dividend,'' will most certainly be watching with great interest if the United States becomes enmeshed in its first large-scale confict since Vietnam.

Virtually all the weaponry is new or upgraded.

Some are particularly fresh and never been seen outside the United States.

Latest aircraft include the F-17 Stealth fighter and the Apache tank- killer gunship, but there are also new versions of the F-15 fighter, the AV8B Harrier.

The skies could also be filled with the latest missiles - the Patriot anti-air the Hellfire anti-armor, the radar detecting HARM and a similarly capable advanced version of the SHRIKE, which would be fired at command and control centers.

Ground projectiles include the laser-guided copperhead artillery shells, which cost $34,000 each, an upgraded TOW anti-tank missile, and the Multiple Launch Rocket System, which in itself is a tribute to the enormous expertise and thought that goes into weaponry.

One MLRS missile casts 660 fist-sized bomblets over the area of a football field.

The bombs fall about 5 feet apart and can blast through 4 inches of steel. A properly targeted missile can swat out throusands of men, perhaps scores of vehicles.

One 12-rocket battery with its three crew has the same firepower as an entire battalion of 24 155-mm self-propelled guns with some 500 personnel.

Gen. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, commander of all U.S. forces in the Persian Gulf, said the Pentagon was using capabilities ''far more lethal, far more accurate'' than ever before seen.

But despite the endless tests and known specifications of the world's most powerful military, only a war can provide ''friction.''

What Prussian strategist Clausewitz called the ''fog'' of war is really the cumulative impact of conflict. Battles invariably drift into chaos and all the little facets of military order are usually weakened.

Friction, for instance, could bring a multi-million dollar vehicle screeching to a halt because a combination of many stresses exacerbated an undetected design fault in a vital part.

Military planners plot ways of minimizing forseeable friction, and the remedies are usually prosaic, basically by putting great stress on protecting the logistics chain of fuel, parts and munitions.

Although the Pentagon is planning to counter Iraq's greater numbers with airpower and superior technology, and has extraordinary battlefield command and control devices, the battle will still only be won by soldiers advancing and holding ground.

The vital weapon will be the M1 tank, the 60-ton battleship of the desert which by all criteria, has no rival.

But the M1's superior equipment, such as laser sights, an onboard computer and a stabilized gun that ensure great accuracy, also present plenty of openings for friction.

As many as 10 support vehicles can be required for each M1. For terminal maintainence, complete electronics and hydraulics repair shops will have to be created in the desert.

The gas turbine engine involves magnificent technology, but also in hot conditions can suck up to 8 gallons of fuel per mile, and will demand an extensive refueling charter across vast tracts of desert.

There is no easy way of trimming this lengthy tail that allows the dog to bite.

However, if the technology fails and all is going askew, friction will only be cooled by capable and dedicated soldiers.

''I think its going to work,'' said Sgt. Greg Miller, 24, a TOW- missile squad commander from Greenville, S.C, who like Posey, will survive only by close teamwork. ''We have got doctrines, but we Americans are brought up to lead. If I get killed, either one of these three guys can do my job.''

WASHINGTON (SEPT. 15) UPI - The diplomat who is favored to become the next secretary-general of the Arab League describes the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait as the worst kind of wound to the Arab world - ''self-inflicted.''

Mohammed Hassan al-Zayed, 75, a former Egyptian foreign minister and envoy to the United Nations, is expected to replace Chedli Klibi, who resigned last week as secretary-general when a majority of the badly divided Arab League voted to move its headquarters to Cairo from Tunis.

The league found itself in turmoil since the Aug. 2 Iraqi invasion of Kuwait, an act condemned by the league, which was unable to decide what action to take as a result of the aggression by one member state against another.

Zayed, speaking to a small group of diplomats and a journalist last week, said ''The invasion was a deep wound to the Arab world, the worst kind - self-inflicted. We have done to ourselves what our adversaries would liked to have done to us.''

Zayed believes that the Arab world, ''stretching from Gibraltar to Oman, with great potential underground and a great potential in its people over the ground,'' can recover from the wound, but he described the Iraqi aggression as setting back Arab political cohesion for decades.

Some of the anguish felt in the Arab political leadership was evident in the letter of resignation of Clovis Maksoud, longtime Arab League envoy to the United States and to the United Nations.

Maksoud wrote, ''Pan-Arab ties have been overcome by narrow parochial or sectarian interests, shattering many of our hopes and threatening our legitimate national causes. Faced with this frightening breakdown, we are naturally plunged into deep pain and agony. I confess that I have never before felt such a strong sense of anguish.''

Zayed described the Arab dilemma in stark terms when he said that the Iraqi invasion was condemned almost unanimously throughout the Arab world. But the breakdown comes, he said, in the next question: ''Can we interfere in another country's affairs to correct the wrong? There, too, the answer is no.''

Paralyzed by that refusal to intervene, he said, the Arab League was thrown back 50 years to its very beginnings. Asked if the organization will survive, he said, ''That is a good question,'' but he gave no firmer reply. He added that one beneficial result of the Iraqi invasion will be a re-examination of the Arab way of practicing politics.

''One of the things that is wrong was that there are no checks-and- balances in the Arab world, no brakes on the leadership. Such an invasion could not have been launched by a democratic country.''

Partly as a result of the upheaval of the Iraqi invasion, Zayed said, ''There is a new order in the Arab world, and that new order may be able to bring some solutions.''

That new order, as Zayed and other Arab diplomats describe it, involves a new awakening of what some called ''the Third Force,'' a coherent, popular political feeling that will supply a balance to the unchallenged power of the United States in the era of the post-Cold War.

The idea of a Third Force has been around since 1955, but as Maksoud and others describe it Iraqi President Saddam Hussein has given it new life as the Arab world sees how their past rules have not worked.

The new Arab world, as Zayed put it, ''will permit interference in other country's affairs by means of education and learning. Sending a Kuwaiti to Harvard to learn about democracy is a form of external interference, but it's the kind we want.''

That is the view for the long term.

The shorter term, after Iraq's invasion of Kuwait, was expressed poignantly by Maksoud: ''Now the Arab house has fallen on itself. ... Unable to rationalize or analyze these developments, I am no longer able to cope with them.''

(SEPT. 15) UPI - When the 1987 season ended, the Washington Redskins had two Super Bowl championships and were running neck-and-neck with the San Francisco 49ers for the right to be called the ''Team of the 1980s.''

You know how that race came out. The 49ers won the last two Super Bowls of the decade, while Washington failed to make the playoffs those seasons. But the Redskins' two Super Bowls, three NFC titles and 97-55 record were still second in the '80s to San Francisco's four Super Bowls and 104-47-1 mark.

The two best teams of the last decade square off Sunday when the Redskins become the first visiting team to invade Candlestick Park during the 1990 season.

Both teams won last week, but San Francisco received a scare while opening its quest for a third straight Super Bowl title with a 13-12 victory over New Orleans Monday night. The 49ers needed a 38-yard Mike Cofer field goal with nine seconds left, set up by a 60-yard drive engineered by Joe Montana, to win despite a poor offensive showing.

''We made a lot of mistakes,'' Montana admitted after completing 26 of 43 for 184 yards and was sacked six times. ''I know I didn't play worth a damn.''

San Francisco Coach George Seifert admitted he was happy to put the Saints' game behind.

''You'd better have fun with the wins when you get them - no matter how you get them - and then go to work the next week on the problems,'' Seifert said.

The Redskins opened the season by belting Phoenix 31-0 at home for their sixth consecutive victory dating to last season. The 49ers have won nine straight, counting the postseason.

Washington Coach Joe Gibbs hopes the 49ers' short week of preparation gives his team a boost.

''We did catch a little bit of a break, with the scheduling of our game with San Francisco because they had to play (Monday) night in New Orleans,'' Gibbs said. ''We got an extra day to kind of heal up and an extra day to get started with our preparations.''

At Miami, Coach Don Shula tries for his 200th regular-season victory with the Dolphins Sunday against Buffalo. Shula, the NFL's winningest active coach with 286 victories in 28 seasons with Miami and Baltimore, faces one of the few coaches he has a losing record against.

Marv Levy is 6-2 against Shula, making him among 12 of 108 coaches with a winning edge over Shula. The Dolphins have a 199-96-2 regular- season record under Shula since 1970.

AFC Central rivals Houston and Pittsburgh play in the Sunday night game at Pittsburgh. The Oilers and Steelers are both struggling with new offensive systems after making the playoffs last year.

The Steelers lost 13-3 at Cleveland last week, and the Oilers were crushed 47-27 by former coach Jerry Glanville and his Atlanta Falcons last week. Houston's loss came in the first game under Coach Jack Pardee and his run-and-shoot offense.

''I know the run-and-shoot can be effective in the NFL,'' said Pardee, who used it to set 100 NCAA records when he was the coach at the University of Houston. ''I believe any system will work as long as it's half sound and you have the players.''

Glanville's Falcons beat up on his previous team last week. This week, he returns to his native Detroit to face the Lions. Glanville was the Lions' special teams coach from 1974-76.

Detroit was a disappointing 38-21 home loser to Tampa Bay last week. The Lions may have lost the momentum gained by winning their final five games last season.

''It's hard to build a championship program in two years and we're in the second year of our program,'' Detroit Coach Wayne Fontes cautioned.

In other games Sunday, it's Chicago at Green Bay, the Los Angeles Rams at Tampa Bay, New Orleans at Minnesota, the New York Giants at Dallas, Phoenix at Philadelphia, Cincinnati at San Diego, Cleveland at the New York Jets, the Los Angeles Raiders at Seattle, and New England at Indianapolis. Kansas City visits Denver Monday night.

At Green Bay, Wisc., the Packers and Bears meet for the 140th time. Chicago holds a 75-57-6 edge but Green Bay swept last year's season series. The Packers defeated the Rams 38-24 last week behind quarterback Anthony Dilweg's three touchdown passes in place of Don Majkowski. Dilweg will start again ahead of Majkowski Sunday.

At Irving, Texas, the Cowboys are coming off their first home victory since 1988 after snapping a 14-game home losing streak with a 17-14 victory over San Diego last week. First-round draft pick Emmitt Smith, who signed five days before the opener, will make his first start Sunday against the defending NFC East champion Giants.

LOS ANGELES (SEPT. 15) UPI - A long-standing business dispute apparently led four men to kidnap an acquaintance, cover his naked body with feathers, torture him and then lock him in a cage with vicious dogs, police said Saturday.

The victim, Ronald Henry, 23, of Simi Valley, managed to escape from his captors after his three-hour ordeal Friday and was sighted by a passerby, screaming as he ran naked and feathered along a Sepulveda-area street.

Sgt. George Thomas said Henry had his hair cut off, his eyebrows shaved and had been rubbed with glue and smeared with feathers. His body bore numerous burn marks where someone had taken an electronic stun gun to his body.

''This is one of the more bizarre cases I've seen,'' said Thomas, a 17-year police veteran.

The victim told police that he had been kidnapped about 3 p.m. by the owner of a home where he was doing glass work.

Henry told police that he had been tortured by the owner and some of his friends and put handcuffed into a cage with six vicious dogs before he escaped. The man said his captors were in the process of heating tar to pour over him when he escaped.

''He was pretty shaken. He had burn marks over his entire body including the genital area,'' Thomas said.

Henry was treated at Northridge Hospital Medical Center and released.

After he was escaped, Henry led officers to the house where four suspects were arrested.

Thomas said the outcome could have been worse if Henry hadn't escaped.

''They told him they were going to take him out to the desert and leave him there for dead for the animals to eat,'' Thomas said. ''I have no doubt they meant to do it.''

Arrested were the owner of the house, Jeffrey Shephard, 29, and three other people identified as Feliz McAlpine, 61, of Sepulveda, James Marley, 25, of Simi Valley and David Lowen, 23, of Northridge. A fifth person was questioned by detectives and later released.

The four suspects were booked on suspicion of kidnapping, detective Robert Muldrew said.

The victim and the suspects all knew each other. Thomas said Shephard told police that he and the victim had been involved in a long-standing business dispute over money

PHILADELPHIA (SEPT. 15) UPI - The Persian Gulf crisis is providing ammunition for backers of the Philadelphia Navy Yard in their fight to keep open the shipyard,targeted for shutdown by the Defense Department.

''You never look for something like this when you're in a fight like we are, but it certainly does help the shipyard,'' said Anthony Green, a spokesman for Rep. Thomas Foglietta, D-Pa.

Foglietta, whose district includes the Navy complex along the Delaware River, has been leading the fight to keep the facility open.

Green said Operation Desert Shield shows the importance of the yard's role in refitting conventionally-powered aircraft carriers.

''The Gulf crisis demonstrates clearly the need for a full force of aircraft carriers,'' Green said. ''We've been saying that all along, and unfortunately the Persian Gulf crisis illustrates what we've been saying most vividly.''

Two of the aircraft carriers in the Gulf - the Saratoga and Independence - were refit at the Philadelphia complex in two-year overhauls.

''Even without a Gulf crisis, it's important that we have a full force of aircraft carriers, and we have been making that argument to the Defense Department,'' Green said.

The carriers Kitty Hawk and Constellation are now being refitted at the yard.

''The most important consideration when the crisis is over is that there are going to be a lot of tired vessels coming back to the U.S.,'' Green said. ''There is going to be more work than all the shipyards in the U.S. can handle so the shipyard is going to be a very vital part of that effort.''

''One third of all the ships currently in the Gulf have been in the shipyard '' Lt. K.J. Braithwaite, a base spokesman, said. ''With the base closure issue we're trying to show the public we're doing a bang- up job.''

Other ships in the Gulf refit at the Philadelphia base include the helicopter carrier Saipan, the command suppport ship LaSalle and the battleship Wisconsin.

Green said the current military operation aside, backers of the Navy yard hope to convince the Pentagon on purely economic grounds to keep the base open.

A recent impact study indicated that the base closure would eliminate about 18,000 military and civilian jobs with nearly $500 million in annual payroll.

Adding the indirect impact, the study estimates the closure would cost the region nearly 30,000 jobs and $712 million in annual payroll.

Green estimated the total cost of the base closure, including an environmental cleanup and the transfer of some activities to other bases, to be at least $1 billion.

A hearing on that impact study is set this week, and the Pentagon will make a decision on the fate of the base sometime next year.

(SEPT. 15) UPI - Tensions increased in the Persian Gulf following yesterday's Iraqi raid on the French, Belgian and Canadian diplomatic compounds in Kuwait City. The United States and its NATO allies called the action ''intolerable '' but did NOT say what, if any, action would be taken. A spokesman for the Belgian foreign minister says- ''The Iraqis are just trying to make things difficult for diplomats in Kuwait.''

The United Auto Workers told members at General Motors plants to report for work as usual following a last-minute agreement to extend a strike deadline. Negotiations between the automaker and the union recessed last night after the midnight deadline was extended. Talks on a three-year agreement are scheduled to resume in Detroit this morning. The main sticking point appears to be job security.

Supreme Court nominee David Souter told the Senate Judiciary Committee yesterday he still has NOT decided how he would rule on a challenge to the 1973 decision legalizing abortion. The New Hampshire judge said he would have an open mind if the controversial abortion issue comes before the high court. The hearings resume Monday.

Republican senators are lashing out at Democrats, accusing them of leaking details of the secret budget talks to score political points. Senate Republican leader Robert Dole of Kansas yesterday said there's a ''deliberate effort'' to cast the G-O-P as favoring the wealthy in the negotiations. Senate Democratic leader George Mitchell of Maine said there have been breaches of confidentiality on both sides.

SALT LAKE CITY (SEPT. 15) UPI - The approximately 200,000 troops confronting Iraq in the Middle East face a serious internal problem because they do not have one commander over all the forces, Rep. Wayne Owens, D-Utah, said Saturday.

''There is no supreme commander'' for the troops, including 140,000 U.S. military personnel, said Owens. ''We need a unified command. Somebody's got to be in charge.''

The Utah Democrat, who just returned from talks with officials in Egypt, Jordan and Syria, said the commanders of the various military forces now meet regularly ''to coordinate their operations. But no one person is in charge.''

He said the Bush administration apparently believes the U.S. commander should be in charge because ''we have the largest force. The idea of giving it up to a U.N. commander is not being seriously considered.''

While Owens believes Iraqi President Saddam Hussein ''is totally unpredictable'' and could order an attack on Saudi Arabia or other troops in the region, he does not believe the United States should launch an offensive first.

The trade embargo authorized Aug. 17 by the United Nations must be given a chance to work, said Owens, the Middle East expert on the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

''Let's make the embargo work. I think it will work, at least I hope so. I think we'll see signals of things starting to happen (in Iraq) in the next two to three months. I think America can last that long,'' he said.

If the trade embargo forces Hussein to recall the troops he sent into Kuwait on Aug. 2, or results in a change of government in Iraq, Owens said the united action by virtually all the world's nations could prove there is a means of solving conflicts without wars.

''It is amazing that basically the whole world lined up together on this,'' he said. ''This may provide a model for regional conflict resolutions.''

TALLAHASSEE, FL (SEPT. 15) UPI - Florida's megamillion-dollar Lotto frenzy became even more feverish Saturday as last-minute players jammed outlets to buy tickets at a record clip for a jackpot worth at least $100 million.

At noon, sales of the $1 Lotto tickets were running at 566 per second and climbing, lottery officials said. Almost 9 million tickets had been sold since 7 a.m., bringing the week's total to $92.2 million.

Ticket sales for the drawing were to end at 10:30 p.m. - 30 minutes before the drawing that has captured international attention.

The estimated prize for Saturday night's drawing was the second- largest in U.S. history. The biggest is a $115.6 million Pennsylvania jackpot split by 14 winners in April 1989, and officials said there was a slim chance that last-minute purchases could drive Florida's payoff to first on the list.

Lottery officials also said Saturday there was ''a 99-percent likelihood'' that there would be at least one winner, since ticket sales had probably covered all 13.98 million possibilities.

In Florida's Lotto, players pick six numbers between 1 and 49.

Lottery Secretary Rebecca Paul said the final amount of the jackpot would not be known until about noon Sunday, when the lottery's computer will also determine whether there is a winner or winners.

Paul's staff gave up trying to estimate the size of the jackpot Thursday because the volume of sales was escalating faster than they could track it. Also, officials said they wanted to avoid overestimating the final amount.

Sales on Friday and Saturday were exactly what lottery officials and retailers had predicted. About 75 percent of Lotto ticket sales take place on those days in part because many players get paid at the end of the week or buy their tickets while doing weekend grocery shopping.

The jackpot continued to attract large-scale purchases from residents of other states, some of whom were scalping the $1 tickets for $2 to $5 in their home states. Authorities in Colorado, Georgia, New York, Louisiana and Washington, D.C., reported making arrests for illegal sales.

The jackpot for Saturday's drawing built to the $100-million level because there was no winner for four weeks in a row. A jackpot of that magnitude is rare, because interest and participation builds as the top prize rolls over.

Last week, when the jackpot was $55 million, players covered 90 percent of all possible six-digit combinations, lottery officials said.

OMAHA, NE (SEPT. 15) UPI - Veterans Affairs Secretary Edward Derwinski apologized for using the term ''wetbacks'' in discussing drug trafficking and treatment during a campaign trip for Ally Milder, a Republican congressional candidate.

''I was discussing the difficulty of drug interdiction and the need for more focus on treating drug addiction,'' Derwinski said Friday. ''And in the process, I got so carried away with my subject that the term slipped, and I shouldn't have used it, obviously.''

''Again, I will apologize if I must,'' he told an Omaha television station.

Milder said, ''We're all sorry it happened. It should never have been said.''

The remark was made during a campaign event for Milder. Derwinski's campaign stops Thursday and Friday included those at three Omaha area veterans' clubs.

He also stopped at the Omaha VA Medical Center, where several employees questioned why he had to pull up in a car containing a highly visible Milder campaign poster.

''I guess several of the VA employees questioned why politics should be involved with veterans,'' said a VA supervisor who requested anonymity.

In another controversy, Derwinski has acknowledged he has nicknames for his office staff, calling some of the women ''Little Miss Coffee Maker,'' ''Zsa Zsa,'' ''Miss America'' and ''Lena.'' He said some of them call him the ''Big

Cheese.''

Gail Handleman, a spokeswoman for Rep. Peter Hoagland, D-Neb., Milder's opponent, said she was ''shocked and outraged'' at Derwinski's ''wetback'' remark and his ''callous insensitivity'' toward women.

(SEPT. 15) UPI - France is retaliating for yesterday's raid by Iraqi troops on the French diplomatic compound in Kuwait. French President Francois Mitterrand is sending four-thousand more troops to the region. France already has nine-thousand assigned there. Mitterrand also is expelling some Iraqi diplomats. Iraqi diplomats remaining in France will have to stay inside Paris.

Mitterrand did NOT say what troops will be sent, but defense sources said earlier a French Foreign Legion regiment in southern France was on alert. The Iraqi troops yesterday removed a French military attache and three civilians from the ambassador's residence. The attache was freed later, but the three civilians have NOT been heard from.

The United Auto Workers are talking, NOT walking, at General Motors. A midnight strike deadline was extended, and negotiations are continuing today in an attempt to get a contract for 310-thousand workers. BOGOTA, Colombia (SEPT. 16) UPI - Peruvian President Alberto Fujimori's decision to refuse U.S. military aid has stalled a key U.S. policy calling for deeper involvement of armed forces in the battle against South American cocaine production.

Colombian President Cesar Gaviria also is looking to ''demilitarize'' his nation's effort against the powerful cocaine cartels. Bolivia, the third country in the South American cocaine triangle, has accepted U.S. dollars in principle but will only use troops as a last resort.

The three nations are the world's major suppliers of hundreds of tons of cocaine manufactured by heavily armed and economically powerful groups, sometimes aided by leftist guerrillas.

The Bush administrations anti-drug policy as set out last year called for involving the military in the battle against the traffickers. The administration won a pledge from the other countries at the anti-drug summit in February in Cartagena, Colombia, to consider deeper military involvement.

U.S. officials have argued the armed might and economic power of the cocaine organizations requires a greater military role to back up police who so far have taken the lead in the drug war.

But the U.S. push has been politically volatile, sparking fears of escalating the level of violence and eventual direct U.S. military involvement leading to a ''South American Vietnam.''

Fujimori, in announcing his decision to turn down the $40 million, criticized the proposed agreement for limiting the money to the fight against narcotics trafficking and said, ''There are conditions that the armed forces and my office consider inconvenient.''

Peru and Bolivia - major producers of the coca leaf, which is ground up into a paste and made into cocaine - have been especially vocal in pushing the Bush administration instead for a crop substitution program.

Although Colombia, the major cocaine production nation, has received millions of dollars in military aid since the government declared war last year on the cocaine cartels, ''The objective in the long- and medium-term is to demilitarize the narcotics trafficking conflict,'' a top government official said.

''It is more and more a problem for the police and its elite forces and less for the army,'' said the official who asked not to be named.

The Colombian army has scored some significant successes in the drug war but Gaviria, who took office last month, is seeking to reduce the out-of-control violence under which the nation has lived in recent years. He has offered drug traffickers lighter sentences and no extradition to the United States for turning themselves in and confessing.

Instead of military actions, Gaviria has at the top of his agenda winning trade concessions to help the country's economy through the losses suffered in the cocaine war.

U.S. aid for Colombia for fiscal year 1990 was estimated at $88 million, with $50 million destined for the military.

Despite the large percentage of military aid, a senior U.S. official said the United States is not just focusing on the armed side of the conflict but also on issues like rebuilding the judicial system.

''If you measure it in straight dollar terms we look like were militarizing the place - were not,'' said the official.

In Bolivia, President Jaime Paz Zamora ignored strong internal criticizm and acepted the U.S. offer of $32.5 million for use in training and equipping the armed forces for drug operations. but the agreement states the army will be used only in case the police are unable to handle the problem.

Although the aid has not yet been put into use, Foreign Minister Carlos Iturralde said Friday the agreement ''will be completed''.

''Our position is very clear'', he told reporters. ''Certain units of the army will be equipped but the decision of how and when it will be adopted will be made by the president.''

The Bolivian military already is involved in the cocaine battle to some extent. Air force pilots guide U.S -supplied UH-1 Huey helicopters, while the navy patrols the nation's rivers during anti-drug operations.

PASADENA, CA (SEPT. 16) UPI - NASA's Magellan probe got back to work Saturday, successfully bouncing radar beams off the hidden surface of Venus for the first time since mysterious glitches twice knocked it out of contact with Earth last month.

''We've kicked off radar mapping. We're acquiring data and everything looks good,'' said project manager Tony Spear at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory in Pasadena.

With its electronic brain loaded with protective computer programs, the $551 million spacecraft resumed mapping operations at 9:35 a.m. PDT, gathering priceless radar data about the planet's hidden surface that can be converted into black-and-white photos by scientists on Earth.

A few hours later, the solar-powered spacecraft had beamed back data from its first two orbits, successfully completing critical navigation maneuvers without losing contact with Earth.

It was during such a ''star calibration'' Aug. 16 that Magellan suddenly went into a computer-induced state of hibernation that knocked it out of radio contact with Earth. While contact was restored the next day, it was briefly lost again five days later.

Since then, the spacecraft has been operating in a protective ''safe mode'' while engineers struggled to figure out what had gone wrong.

The cause of the trouble remains a mystery, but Magellan project engineers decided to resume mapping operations Saturday after loading the probe's master computer with programs to make it easier to restore contact should communications be interrupted again.

''They started mapping this morning at 9:35 a.m. PDT,'' said James Doyle, a spokesman for the Jet Propulsion Laboratory. ''That's the beginning of the 243-day mapping mission.''

But Doyle said more problems are possible ''since they don't know what caused the original loss of signal.'' Even so, he said, engineers are ''very hopeful if something does happen they can get contact back very swiftly.''

Magellan, launched May 4, 1989, from the space shuttle Atlantis, dropped into orbit around Venus Aug. 10.

The goal of the unprecedented mission is to map more than 90 percent of Venus's hellish surface using a cloud-piercing radar system. By subjecting the radar data to intensive computer processing on Earth, scientists can generate photo-like images showing surface features as small as a football field - 10 times better than any previous effort.

The probe's 243-day mapping mission originally was scheduled to begin around Sept. 1.

But on Aug. 16, after just one-and-a-half orbits of data gathering, the spacecraft suddenly lost contact with Earth after a mysterious event of some sort prompted its master computer to put the probe into an electronic state of hibernation.

Contact was regained the following day and then lost again shortly thereafter. Radio communications later were restored and since then, engineers have been struggling to figure out what knocked the spacecraft out of action.

Preliminary results indicate three apparently unrelated problems contributed to triggering various levels of protective hibernation called ''safe modes.''

The problems began shortly after Magellan attempted to find and lock onto a guide star. Such ''star calibrations'' are part of a routine procedure to update on-board computers about the spacecraft's orientation in space.

The safe mode programs apparently were activated when the computer that controls the spacecraft's attitude suddenly stopped sending routine timing signals, called ''heartbeats,'' to Magellan's master computer.

Despite a month of intense analysis, the cause of the original computer problem remains a mystery.

DETROIT (SEPT. 16) UPI - Bargainers for the United Auto Workers union and General Motors Corp. appeared to be grappling with key issues like job security late Saturday as talks edged into the evening hours for a new contract covering about 310,000 active and indefinitely idled workers at the giant carmaker.

Meanwhile, in Canada, bargainers for the Canadian Auto Workers and Ford Motor Co. of Canada broke off talks concerning the major issue of wages, pensions and benefits that caused about 12,800 CAW workers to start picketing plants shortly after midnight Friday.

''We are done for the day,'' Ford Canada spokesman Jim Hartford said Saturday evening, adding that talks would resume early Sunday morning.

He would not comment on the progress of the talks, but CAW President Robert White said early Saturday the two sides were ''still some ways apart.''

The strike by the Ford Canada workers was expected to spread quickly, and could affect Ford's U.S. operations within 10 days because Canadian factories supply American plants. Ford's Windsor, Ontario, engine plant, for instance, is the only source of V6 engines for many Ford car lines assembled in the United States, including the Taurus, Sable and Lincoln Continental models.

In the United States, the current GM-UAW contract was extended on an indefinite basis shortly before the Friday midnight EDT expiration upon mutual agreement between GM and the UAW, indicating both sides were not ready to accept a strike.

''We are continuing our efforts to reach a settlement,'' UAW President Owen Bieber said. GM, in a tersely worded statement, said ''meaningful progress has been made'' in the talks, and that ''an agreement will be reached.''

The union urged GM workers to report to work as scheduled until further notice. But all domestic GM facilities are closed Sunday, giving bargainers additional time to reach an agreement before production starts Monday.

There is the possibility that there could be selected walkouts at GM facilities by Monday if an agreement is not reached. GM was hit by scattered walkouts in 1984 during a two-week period in which about 25 facilities were affected.

A meeting of the UAW's 400-member GM Bargaining Council was set for Monday in Detroit, and it was believed union bargainers were aiming to have a tentative agreement in hand by then. Both the council and the UAW's executive board must approve any pact before it is voted on by workers.

Strengthening the language on job security, partly by seeking tighter restrictions on plant closings, has been at the top of the union's agenda during the talks, which began in mid-July for contracts covering about 500,000 U.S. auto workers at the nation's Big Three automakers.

The UAW is hoping any agreement reached at GM will be used as a pattern at rival carmakers Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp.

It is expected that union local leaders at the council meeting will closely scrutinize any tentative agreement because the current 1987-90 pact allowed GM to lop 45,000 jobs from its payrolls by calling numerous plants ''indefinitely idled'' instead of closed, skirting what was thought to be a moratorium on all plant closings.

Indications are that differences remain over the key issue of job security, particularly the fate of GM's 30,000 workers now on indefinite layoff.

GM has been seeking to reduce its work force through attrition and buyouts, but industry analysts say the top carmaker must close more assembly plants and cut employment by as much as 60,000 workers within the next three years.

The union had asked GM to ban permanent layoffs and limit temporary layoffs to no longer than 18 months over the life of the 1990-93 contract. That is similar to an agreement it reached with J.I. Case, a Wisconsin farm equipment maker.

Reportedly settled was the issue of sourcing, or having work performed by GM employees instead of outside companies, possibly non- union firms.

There also was said to be agreement on a new policy on absenteeism, which provides for disciplinary action against workers who have more than 16 unexcused absences per year.

MONTREAL (SEPT. 16) UPI - Canadian army troops Saturday tightened their grip on a handful of besieged Mohawks by cutting the reserve's cellular telephone contact with the outside world, officials said.

Canadian Armed Forces spokesman Capt. Marc Rouleau said the shutdown also affected the journalists who are with armed Mohawks at a detox center at the Kanesatake reserve south of Montreal.

Rouleau said the phone lines were cut ''to put the focus on direct negotiations between the (Mohawk) Warriors and the army.''

The army won a court order forcing Bell Canada to shut down cellular phones lines. On Thursday, regular phone lines to the reserve were cut.

The Mohawk's only line of communication is via a ''hot line'' that links them directly to the army, Rouleau said. He refused to say if the Mohawks were using the line.

Rouleau said army officials hoped journalists would take the army's advice and leave the area.

''Our operation is a delicate one and a dangerous one and it has become important that journalists not be within the perimeter,'' Rouleau said.

On Friday, the Mohawks released a tape recording they made of a conversation between a Mohawk leader and Quebec Indian Affairs minister John Ciaccia, in which Ciaccia suggests that once the media is gone the army could help the Mohawks leave the reserve under cover of darkness, thus ending the seige while saving Mohawk pride.

Meanwhile, Quebec police say they will turn back a 13-car convoy of American Indians headed to the reserve from Detroit. The convoy left Detroit early Friday, with members determined to show support for the besieged Mohawks.

Convoy organizers were originally hoping hundreds of cars would make the trip to the Kanesatake reservation. They said would-be members stayed away fearing harassment at the Canadian border in Windsor.

Convoy organizers told members not to bring weapons or alcohol into Canada and to obey all laws.

On Monday, the Canadian government said there would be no amnesty for Mohawk Indians suspected of crimes in the eight-week standoff in Quebec between Indians and the Canadian Armed Forces.

The standoff began July 11 when Quebec police stormed a barricade set up around disputed land that Mohawks claimed was an ancient burial ground. A police officer was killed in the action.

Days later, sympathetic Mohawks at the Kahnawake reserve threw up barricades across major highways and the Mercier Bridge, linking the town of Chateauguay to downtown Montreal. The bridge was finally reopened a week ago after Mohawks and the Canadian army agreed to jointly dismantle the barricades.

The standoff has continued, however, at the Kanesatake reserve, where several hundred soldiers have surrounded a drug treatment center, the last stand for militant Warriors as well as a handful of women and children.

Last Saturday, one of the Warriors was severely beaten by soldiers who were conducting reconnaissance behind the Mohawk lines, the Mohawks said. He was hospitalized in Montreal.

The dispute between Mohawks and the Canadian government has been complicated by contradictory statements and positions put forth by various factions of the Mohawk nation, some supporting the Warriors Society and others opposed to any show of militancy.

WEST HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (SEPT. 15) UPI - A briefcase carrying $100,000 was stolen Saturday from the business manager for the singing group New Kids On The Block as he and the group prepared to check out of their hotel, authorities said.

James Rossi, 25, and members of the singing group were checking out of the Bel Age Hotel in West Hollywood around 11 a.m. when the theft occurred, Sgt. Bob Olmsted said.

Rossi set the briefcase down by his side when he went to the hotel's front desk.

''He set it on the floor only to find it was missing two minutes later,'' Olmsted said.

Olmsted said the case contained $100,000 in cash. It was not immediately known why Rossi was carrying such a large amount of cash.

At the time of the theft, the lobby was crowded with fans of the group, which performed Friday night at Dodger Stadium.

There were no suspects in custody.

LINTHICUM, Md. (SEPT. 15) UPI - The first of two weekend flights carrying American hostages held in Kuwait arrived outside Baltimore Saturday with 285 passengers, including a man who credits his mother for his release.

Adults and children fleeing the occupied nation of Kuwait in the wake of the Aug. 2 invasion by Iraq joined a stream of fellow Americans and other detainees who started arriving in the United States less than two weeks ago.

The passengers spent the night in London and arrived at Baltimore- Washington International Airport at 5 p.m. Saturday. A second planeload is scheduled to arrive at BWI Airport at the same time Sunday, officials said.

Saturday's chartered flight carried 31 Canadians. Canada's ambassador to the United States, Ian Renken, traveled to BWI to welcome them.

One of the passengers was banker Tom Ewald, 25, of Greenwich, Conn., whose mother, poet Mary Ewald, wrote a letter to Iraqi officials appealing for her son's release. The letter was forwarded to Iraqi President Saddam Hussein and Tom Ewald says he is convinced it secured his release.

''The fact that it was a note from Mom is embarrassing,'' he joked after his BWI arrival. The younger Ewald had worked in Barclay's Bank in London and arrived in the Middle East the day before the Aug. 2 Iraqi invasion to work for a Kuwaiti bank.

Ewald said he was in hiding for two weeks before he was interrogated, taken to a Baghdad hotel and then moved to a military installation in Iraq, where he received the best treatment of captivity while being held with five British detainees.

But during the interrogation earlier in his confinement, Ewald said Iraqi soldiers questioned him to find out if he had been hidden in a ''safe house,'' which he had not.

At one point, one ''lowered his ''machine gun, took off the safety, pointed at me and said, 'We know you are lying. We will kill you in 15 minutes,''' Ewald said.

Mary Wald said that writing the letter was ''a very long shot,'' and said she found it ''a very large story that in all this huge world, a letter can get through to somebody.''

As for its contents, she said, ''It was just a heartfelt letter. I said I had no (ill feelings) to anyone, please free my son.''

Those arriving Saturday passed through Customs and were offered housing, financial aid and medical care in a makeshift repatriation center set up in a cargo hangar.

Maryland officials handling the processing had had a practice run Monday: That's when a planeload of 164 hostages, including 90 children, arrived at BWI.

Maryland's Human Resources Department helped coordinate the paperwork and aid provisions for arriving Americans, but a spokeswoman said the emotional support often is the most important service that greeters can provide.

''They are very emotional when they first get off,'' said Helen Szabalya. Usually the former hostages can make it through the paperwork without problems she said, ''and then they tend to fall apart. They suddenly realize it's over.''

Gov. William Donald Schaefer has been so pleased with the way the arrivals have been handled that he invited President Bush to greet Saturday's planeload of former hostages, though the president apparently declined.

SAN SALVADOR (SEPT. 16) UPI - The government and opposition groups sponsored separate marches Saturday to mark the 169th anniversary of Salvadoran independence, parading in a stark show of the country's division.

''What you see is the contrast of the two countries within our nation,'' said Ruben Zamora, a prominent figure in El Salvador's leftist political opposition. ''The country of the powerful and militarized, and the country of the poor who want peace and democracy.''

Some 10,000 people, many from the countryside, marched downtown protesting government policies and chanting in favor of peace and social justice.

The arrival of several thousand others was delayed or impeded by army roadblocks on the highway leading into the capital.

President Alfredo Cristiani and his Cabinet reviewed a huge official parade in which tens of thousands of children wearing school uniforms passed to the beat of marching bands and a formation of helicopters flew overhead.

Instead of marching, the traditional military contingent to the independence parade was on duty in response to what military sources called a ''state of alert.''

U.S. Embassy officials said they also were on alert to the possibility of combat in the Salvadoran capital.

Cristiani said he lamented the ''tears, destruction and hunger'' brought by a decade of civil war, and said he hoped peace talks being held in Costa Rica with rebels of the Farabundo Marti National Liberation Front, or FMLN, could reunite the nation.

''The use of violence as a means of achieving political power has been historically discarded,'' Cristiani said. ''At this point representatives of the government and the FMLN are meeting in Costa Rica ... Our attention and hopes are concentrated on that negotiating table.''

Rebel and government negotiators were at a stalemate on the issues of the armed forces and demilitarization Saturday as they entered Day 3 of their fifth round of peace talks.

A cease-fire deadline, established at a previous round of talks last May, expired Saturday without agreement between the opposing sides.

Cristiani blamed the FMLN for the lack of progress in the 5-month- old, U.N-mediated peace process.

''The peace process has been prolonged by the intransigent attitude the FMLN has adopted at the negotiating table,'' Cristiani said. ''The FMLN's lack of flexibility appears to coincide with their repeated threats of launching an offensive against the people.''

Iraqi archeologists expressed their concern for the safety of the sites in light of the thousands of "the U.S. and Western troops massed on Iraqi frontier."

The troops were deployed in Saudi Arabia in the aftermath of the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait August 2.

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt (SEPT. 16) - Belgian Foreign Minister Mark Eyskens Sunday condemned Iraq's storming of diplomatic premises in Kuwait as an act of war, the Middle East News Agency (MENA) reported.

Mr. Eyskens, speaking after talks here with Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak, said the raids Friday against the diplomatic compounds of Belgium, France and Canada were "an act of war that required a response."

According to Brussels, three Iraqi soldiers forced their way into the Belgian Embassy grounds in Kuwait City and ordered the remaining diplomats there to leave and go to the ambassador's residence.

Mr. Eyskens did not outline any Belgian reprisals over the incident, which he described as "unacceptable aggression" and a clear violation of international law and the Vienna convention.

France Saturday expelled Iraqi diplomats and announced it was sending more troops to the Gulf in response to the Iraqi action, which was strongly condemned in a resolution by the U.N. Security Council.

Italy, which holds the revolving presidency of the EEC, Sunday announced the expulsion of officials from the Iraqi Embassy in Rome.

In Amman, Belgian Defence Minister Guy Coeme said Belgium, which has already deployed two minesweepers and a supply ship in the Gulf, did not envisage further deployments and would focus on humanitarian aid.

Mr. Coeme was in Amman to check operations to evacuate thousands of Egyptians stranded in Jordan. Belgian has set up four flights a day to Cairo, each carrying some 100 passengers, on two Belgian Air Force C-130 transports.

The defence minister said he would discuss the Iraqi raids on the diplomatic premises in Kuwait during a meeting in Paris of the nine-member Western European Union, scheduled to be held within the next three days.

MOSCOW (SEPT. 16) - Some 20,000 protesters marched through the streets of Moscow Sunday demanding radical economic reform and the resignation of the government of Prime Minister Nikolai Ryzkhov.

The demonstrators, carrying banners calling for the resignation of the prime minister and supporting Russian Republic President Boris Yeltsin, marched peacefully from Moscow's Gorky Park to just outside the Kremlin walls.

One banner proclaimed "Yeltsin, the people believe in you," while another said "I have no confidence in Gorbachev, Ryzkhov and company." Yet another said "Better a resignation today than an execution tomorrow."

Various reformist opposition groups organized the authorised demonstration. A number of Russian flags and some Lithuanian flags were brandished by the demonstrators.

Moscow's progressive mayor, Gavril Popov, lent his support to the protest on public television Saturday. "We are tired of empty shops and money without value," he said.

The call for radical economic reform here coincides with a serious meat shortage, one of a series of shortages that has gripped the Soviet capital.

Commenting on this, the pro-government newspaper Izvestia said Sunday: "We are not only the victims of the tobacco crisis, the bread crisis and the meat crisis, but also the witnesses of the agonies of the distribution system."

Two weeks ago there was a severe bread shortage. This was almost unprecedented since for years bread had one of the few products available in abundance.

But Muscovites did not stage angry demonstrations. Rather, they stood patiently in long lines as they are accustomed to do for many other products. The bread shortage ended after a few days, to be replaced by the meat shortage.

Mr. Popov said Saturday that the government had never had any real plans to switch to a market economy, had no such plans now and did not want any.

Moscow's mayor is a supporter of the so-called Yeltsin-Gorbachev plan for radical economic reform, which was drawn up by Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev and the president of the Russian Federation, Boris Yeltsin.

But the prime minister has urged a more moderate reform plan, which he claimed in a television interview represented a more realistic transition to a market economy.

"I want to avoid chaos in all areas of our lives, and I support social guarantees for the people," he said, adding that it was up to parliament to decide whether he retained the public confidence.

Parliament is due to choose one of several alternative economic plans before October 1. Essentially, they have a choice between the Yeltsin-Gorbachev plan, and that of Mr. Ryzkhov's government.

ISLAMABAD (SEPT. 16) - A bomb exploded in the town of Jhang in Pakistan's Punjab province Sunday, injuring five people, the official Associated Press of Pakistan (APP) reported.

Four men and a woman were admitted to hospital after the bomb went off under a fruit vendor's cart, the report said, adding that police did not immediately know who planted the device.

Late last month, three bomb blasts in in Punjab left 12 people dead and more than 60 injured.

Syeda Abida Hussain, minister for information in the caretaker government, visited the injured at the hospital, the report said. Mr. Hussain is to contest elections in a Jhang constituency during elections scheduled for October 24.

In the past, the town has experienced violent outbreaks of tension between Sunni and Shiite Moslem sects.

BEIJING (SEPT. 16) - China intends to persevere with reforms despite current economic difficulties, but will limit capital investment, government spokesman Yuan Mu said Sunday.

In the first two years of the five-year plan for 1991 to 1995, China will focus on technical upgrading of existing enterprises rather than on new projects, which require more investment, Mr. Yuan said in an article in the official People's Daily.

Few new projects would be undertaken and the emphasis would be on modernisation to improve factory production, especially in newly built plants, the spokesman said.

Mr. Yuan also urged localities to limit the expansion of industrial zones and to build more high-rise buildings in small- and medium-sized cities to safeguard arable land.

China had already overcome its "most difficult period" thanks to the reform policies introduced 10 years ago, but was still faced with "deep-rooted problems and new contradictions," he said.

Despite increases in agricultural and industrial production and the relative stability of prices, Mr. Yuan said three major problems remained: depressed demand, a drop in profits of state-run companies and the government budget deficit.

BAGHDAD (SEPT. 16) - Iraq on Sunday challenged U.S. President George Bush to launch war against it in a commentary read over television here following a message to the Iraqi people from the U.S. leader.

"You can take such a decision but the war will be a disaster for you, your allies and your acolytes," the speaker said.

BAGHDAD (SEPT. 16) - Thousands of anti-American demonstrators, flanked by members of the ruling Baath party, poured into the streets of Baghdad Sunday to protest videotaped remarks from U.S. President George Bush, correspondents reported.

Demonstrations were also reported in Basra in the south and Erbil in the north.

Here in the capital men, women and children carried banners in Arabic and English that said: "No to Bush," "No to war" and "The Iraqi people will defend their sovereignty and dignity."

The crowd surged down Ramadan 14 Avenue, one of the longest in Baghdad, shouting slogans hostile to Mr. Bush, King Fahd of Saudi Arabia and Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak.

Mr. Bush in his seven to eight-minute message, which had been videotaped in Washington and appeared to have been aired here in its entirety, said Baghdad had made a major mistake by invading Kuwait and warned that the United States could take military action to force Iraqi troops to withdraw.

"There is no way Iraq can win," he said. "Ultimately, Iraq must withdraw from Kuwait."

ISLAMABAD (SEPT. 16) - Pakistan's caretaker prime minister Ghulam Mustafa Jatoi Sunday said Pakistan will consider sending more troops to Saudi Arabia if the Riyadh government so requested.

Islamabad has committed 5,000 troops to help defend Saudi Arabia. Of these 3,000 have already arrived.

Talking to newsmen at Karachi after a four-day visit to the Saudi kingdom, the United Arab Emirates and Bahrain, Jatoi reiterated that Pakistani troops sent to Saudi Arabia were ''part of the pan-Islamic force to defend the holy places''.

Pakistan had assured countries of the area of ''support for all measures aimed at securing unconditional Iraqi withdrawal from Kuwait and the restoration of its sovereignty''.

ROME (SEPT. 16) - Italy announced Sunday that it was expelling all of the military staff at the Iraqi Embassy here and restricting the movements of Iraqi diplomats to within 30 kilometers (19 miles) of Rome.

The decision was taken following "intolerable acts of hostility" carried out by "Iraqi occupation troops" against embassies and diplomatic representatives in Kuwait, the Italian Foreign Ministry said in a statement.

The ministry noted that the actions by Iraqi troops in occupied Kuwait had been condemned by the U.N. Security Council in Sunday's Resolution 667.

The emergency Security Council meeting was called by France Saturday after Iraqi troops stormed various diplomatic premises in Kuwait and abducted four French citizens from the French ambassador's residence, including a military attache who was later released.

Italy has given military personnel attached to the Iraqi Embassy 10 days to leave the country. The Italian ambassador to Kuwait remains at his post despite Iraqi demands and subsequent harassment.

Italy will also limit movements of Iraqi officials accredited in Rome, who will have to obtain permission to travel further than 30 kilometres (19 miles) from the capital, the statement said.

Italy, which currently holds the revolving presidency of the European Economic Community, has convoked a European-Arab meeting for October 7 to bring together ministers from the 12 EEC countries and Arab League members, excluding Iraq.

The decision to expel Iraqi military personnel was taken the day after U.S. Secretary of State James Baker's visit to Rome and a visit by Italian Foreign Minister Gianni De Michelis to Moscow.

On Friday, Italy increased its military presence in the Gulf region by sending a fourth warship to support the three it sent to the Mediterranean in August. It is also sending a squadron of eight Tornado fighter-bombers.

Prime Minister Giulio Andreotti spoke Saturday for the first time about the possibility of a military confrontation in the Gulf.

"If military actions are necessary, either to enforce respect for the embargo against Iraq or to demonstrate that we are resolved to go the distance, they should be taken," he said.

On Saturday, France announced it was expelling 11 officials of the Iraqi Embassy in Paris and another 36 Iraqis including "known agents of Iraqi intelligence". It also restricted Iraqi diplomats to the Paris area.

The acts, Tass added, "further aggravate the situation in the Gulf."

LEIPZIG, East Germany (SEPT. 16) - Chancellor Helmut Kohl said here Sunday that a united Germany must modify its constitution so it can be more actively involved in the multinational effort to solve the Gulf crisis.

The chancellor, addressing a meeting of Young Christian Democrats, called it "unacceptable" that Germany is the "world champion in exports" but "seeks cover when things go bad on the planet."

The Basic Law must be modified very quickly after unification on October 3 so that Germans can "fulfill their duty" towards the United Nations, he said.

Under the present Basic Law which serves as the West German constitution,

West Germany is prohibited from deploying troops beyond the European theatre, according to most constitutional experts.

West Germany announced Saturday that it would provide the United States and countries suffering economic hardship because of the embargo against Iraq with more than two billion dollars in aid.

Funds offered by Western, Middle Eastern and other countries to aid the international effort against Iraq reached an estimated 20 billion dollars Saturday.

NICOSIA (SEPT. 16) - Foreign ministry officials from Iran and Iraq held "cordial" talks in Baghdad Sunday on reopening embassies in each other's capitals and other bilateral issues, the Iraqi News Agency (INA) reported.

The visit to the Iraqi capital by Iranian Deputy Foreign Minister Manouchehr Mottaki, who met Director General of the Iraqi Foreign Ministry Wissam Zahowi, was the first by an Iranian official since the start of the Gulf war 10 years ago this month.

INA said the two men also discussed the continued exchange of prisoners from the Gulf war, the issue of borders and the normalization of Iraq-Iran relations.

The agency reported that the encounter took place "in a cordial atmosphere, based on the comprehension that prevails between the leaders of the two countries."

Mr. Mottaki said on arrival that he would follow up on the visit last week to Teheran by Iraqi Foreign Minister Tareq Aziz, according to an INA dispatch monitored here.

Iran announced after the September 9-10 visit by Mr. Aziz that the two countries had agreed to restore diplomatic relations.

Iran and Iraq fought a bitter war between September 1980 and August 1988, when a U.N.-sponsored cease-fire took effect. Diplomatic ties were formally severed in October 1987.

Relations between Teheran and Baghdad have sharply improved since August 15, when Iraqi President Saddam Hussein announced he had decided to meet Iran's long-standing demands for a final settlement to the eight-year conflict.

On Wednesday, Iranian Spiritual Guide Ayatollah Ali Khamenei raised the prospect of an Iran-Iraq alliance in the current Gulf crisis, saying the Islamic struggle against the U.S. build-up in the region amounted to holy war.

The call for holy war was backed Sunday by a majority of Iranian MPs.

But Iran's highest political body, the Supreme National Security Council, reiterated Teheran's call for Iraq to withdraw from Kuwait and reaffirmed Iranian pledges to respect U.N. sanctions against Baghdad.

Informed government sources in Teheran have denied that any deal has been struck to circumvent the U.N. trade embargo against Iraq, dismissing U.S. press reports of Iraqi oil sales to Iran.

LAGOS (SEPT. 16) - Elite Nigerian paratroopers backed by warplanes launched a large-scale offensive against positions held by Liberian rebels around Monrovia on Sunday, a source close to the government here said.

The source said that members of the 82nd Paratroop Division stationed in Makurdi, northern Nigeria, had been dropped behind the lines of the National Patriotic Front of Liberia (NPFL) rebels around the Liberian capital.

Nigerian air force Jaguar, MiG and Alfa planes and Puma and super-Puma helicopters provided air cover by carrying out bombing runs against the NPFL rebels, the source added.

Ghanaian warplanes also participated in the attack, the source said.

Nigeria has sent the largest contingent to a five-nation West African force known as ECOMOG, and sent to Monrovia by the Economic Community of West African States (ECOWAS) in a bid to end Liberia's nine-month civil war.

NPFL leader Charles Taylor launched a campaign last December against the regime of President Samuel Doe. Mr. Doe was killed this month by forces of a breakaway rebel force led by Prince Johnson.

The various forces in Monrovia have lately been fighting for control of the Executive Mansion, the seat of government.

The source close to the government here said that the Nigerian paratroopers from Makurdi had been sent to Freetown, the Sierra Leone capital, on Saturday.

Nigerian troops are also to be sent to the Liberian port of Buchanan in an attempt to surround the forces of NPFL leader Charles Taylor, the source said.

African diplomats in Freetown said earlier Sunday that the West African force had changed its role and was going on the offensive against the rebels.

They said that the new stand was aimed at ending the civil war and restoring peace "within the minimum possible period."

According to informed sources, Nigeria has committed about 4,000 troops to the military operations in Liberia.

The NPFL has been holding more than 1,000 Nigerian civilians hostage and refused repeated cease-fire calls.

The rebel breakaway faction under Prince Johnson has however joined forces with the Nigerian and other ECOMOG troops to fight its rivals under Mr. Taylor.

Prince Johnson's forces are reported to have freed all the ECOMOG troops that they had earlier taken hostage.

News of the Nigerian offensive came after the British Broadcasting Corporation reported Sunday that three Ghanaian warplanes had bombed NPFL lines around the capital Monrovia on two occasions over the weekend.

The raids on the NPFL forces were carried out in a bid to back up the West African troops, who have recently come under heavy rebel attack, the BBC said.

The BBC, whose reporter Elizabeth Blunt is in the Liberian capital, said the air raids followed heavy shelling on Friday of the headquarters of the peace-keeping force at the port, in which Ghanaian solders were wounded.

The radio said the shelling, which caused serious damage, killed five people, two of them from Ghana's naval forces, and wounded an unspecified number of others.

Military hospital sources in Freetown said Sunday that some 12 seriously wounded soldiers from the peace-keeping force in Monrovia were brought to the Sierra Leone capital by sea late Saturday.

Independent sources put the number of casualties at 31 and around three dead, but this was not officially confirmed.

Besides the West African force, ECOWAS has also created an interim Liberian government, to be headed by former political science professor Amos Sawyer.

Sources close to Liberian religious leaders in Freetown said the make-up of the interim government was to be officially announced "anytime after Sunday."

TOKYO (SEPT. 17) - Major oil companies in Japan raised the prices of gasoline kerosene and other petroleum products Monday.

An eight yen (6.0 cents) hike is the largest since 1978 and will push up the retail price of gasoline to a national average of about 130 yen (96 cents) per litre (2.1 pints), with kerosene rising to 53 yen (39 cents) from 45 yen (33 cents).

The increases will be effective initially for a month, industry sources said, adding that they had to take into account rising prices for oil since Iraq's August 2 invasion of Kuwait.

The government earlier this month said it would allow oil companies to raise prices, but called on them to limit the hikes to a minimum to forestall inflation.

Japan, the world's third largest oil consumer and second largest importer, gets 82 percent of its supplies from members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

Oil imports rose 5.6 percent in the year to March 31 to 1.33 billion barrels.

WILLISTON, VT (SEPT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Jacques H. Rodet, president of Rossignol Ski Company, Inc., U.S. subsidiary of Skis Rossignol S.A. (France), the world's number one ski manufacturer, and Roger Cleveland, founder and president of Roger Cleveland Golf Company, jointly announced today that on Sept. 12, 1990, they entered into a letter of intent by which Rossignol Ski Company, Inc. will acquire 100 percent of the stock of Roger Cleveland Golf Company for an undisclosed sum. The agreement and transfer of ownership should be finalized by the end of September 1990.

Rossignol Ski Company, emphasized Rodet, is committed to providing Cleveland with the working capital and technical support it warrants. Cleveland will also have the capability of drawing on Rossignol's other fields of expertise, including manufacturing, composite materials, and international distribution. Rodet stated that "this will certainly enable Cleveland to better reach its full potential and play the major role it deserves in the golf equipment industry."

Cleveland is a small, fast-growing company which has achieved success through its reputation for high quality, technically superior products. In spite of its small size, PGA tour professionals using Cleveland products have led in such PGA Tour statistics as driving distance, driving accuracy, and most tour wins by players using the company's sand wedge. At the 1990 PGA Championship, over 34 percent of the players were using Cleveland Classics.

It was further confirmed by both parties Cleveland will remain located in the Los Angeles area, will expand its upper level management team, and will continue to be operated essentially as an independent entity. Cleveland will remain with the company as an executive officer and member of the board of directors. He will continue to play a leading role in the development, marketing and promotion of Cleveland's products. According to Rodet, "Rossignol is right on target with our company's plan for growth, expansion, and diversification."

Together, Cleveland and Rodet are confident that based on these premises, Cleveland will become a leading force internationally in the golf industry, while reinforcing the Rossignol Group's position as a leader in sporting goods.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, ILL. (SEPT. 17) PR NEWSIRE - Motorola Inc.'s (NYSE: MOT) Radio-Telephone Systems Group announced today that it has been selected by the Bundespost Telekom of Germany as one of the official suppliers of infrastructure equipment for the D1 digital cellular network based on the Pan-European digital cellular standard, known as GSM (Groupe Speciale Mobile).

Telekom's decision was based upon Motorola's outstanding qualifications and experience in the GSM technology, which were amply reconfirmed over the past few months by rigorous analytical tests conducted by Detecon, an engineering consulting firm, on behalf of Telekom.

Motorola, as a major worldwide supplier of cellular systems, will participate in all the D1 network bids issued by the German Bundespost Telekom.

Telekom plans to accelerate the D1 network development as a dramatic increase in demand is anticipated by the industry when the GSM cellular digital system becomes operational.

Motorola has been awarded several digital cellular systems contracts in Europe among which are GSM validation systems for Scandinavia, Spain and the United Kingdom as well as for the German Bundespost; GSM pre-operational systems in Spain and the U.K.; and operational systems in Sweden and the U.K.

Motorola's digital cellular technology leadership has had other significant recognitions in Japan and the U.S., where each country has selected the company's speech coder as the official digital standard.

Motorola is the world's leading designer, manufacturer and supplier of cellular systems, infrastructure equipment and subscriber products. It is also a leading provider of electronic equipment, systems, components and services for worldwide markets, including two-way radios, pagers, semiconductors, defense and aerospace electronics, automotive and industrial electronic equipment, computers, data communications, and information processing and handling equipment.

(SEPT. 16) UPI - The U-N Security Council convened Saturday night at the request of the French and Canadian representatives. The 15-member panel was summoned to consider further measures against Iraq following its raid on three Western embassies in Kuwait Friday. One French diplomat says Paris wants the council to condemn the embassy raids and consider legally permissible methods of punishing Iraq.

France responded earlier Saturday to the reported Iraqi transgression by announcing that four-thousand additional French troops would head to the Persian Gulf. Other measures declared by President Mitterand included expelling some of Iraq's diplomatic staff and restricting the remaining staff members to the French capital. The Bush administration voiced approval for the French action.

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (SEPT. 16) UPI - The government Saturday rejected Iraq's offer of free oil for Third World countries willing to ignore the trade embargo imposed by the United Nations in the wake of Iraq's invasion of Kuwait.

Iraqi President Saddam Hussein's offer is ''absolutely and radically incompatible'' with resolutions passed by the U.N. Security Council, a Foreign Ministry statement said.

''Uruguay will scrupulously abide by U.N. resolutions despite the economic hardships this entails for our country,'' the statement said.

Uruguay insisted on ''the need to comply and strengthen U.N. action'' in the Persian Gulf as an international response to ''Iraqi agression against Kuwait.''

Uruguay's compliance with the U.N.-imposed embargo has caused the tiniest South American country losses estimated at $90 million in export income, about 6 percent of Uruguayan annual export earnings, according to official sources.

(SEPT. 16) UPI - Kelly Gruber is transforming Toronto into a comeback team at an opportune time.

For the second consecutive night, Gruber was part of a ninth-inning rally lifting the Blue Jays to victory and a close race with the AL East-leading Boston Red Sox.

Gruber's three-run ninth inning homer Saturday afternoon gave Toronto a 4-3 win over the Baltimore Orioles. Boston's 7-4 loss to Chicago in the evening helped the Blue Jays to pull to within two games.

Gruber also scored the tying run Friday night in another three-run ninth for an 8-7 triumph over Baltimore.

''I've got a feeling about this team,'' Gruber said. ''We're the comeback Jays again. I knew it when I joined this team and we're going to do it.''

Before Friday's game, the Blue Jays were 1-60 when trailing after eight innings.

Trailing 3-1 in the ninth, Mookie Wilson led off with a single and went to third on a single by Tony Fernandez. Gruber then drove a 2-0 pitch by Curt Schilling, 1-2, over the left-field fence for his 27th homer. Schilling replaced Orioles starter Pete Harnisch to start the ninth.

''Kelly has been hitting really well over the past eight or nine games,'' Blue Jays Manager Cito Gaston said. ''It was a great comeback that no one expected. Two days in a row to come back like that? Wow.''

Reliever Willie Blair, 3-5, retired two batters on three pitches Friday and Saturday, and picked up victories in both games.

''If he could pitch 14 more like that we'd be in business,'' Gaston said. ''I couldn't expect more from him.''

Baltimore shortstop Cal Ripken played well in the loss. In the fifth inning,

Cal and Billy Ripken gave the Orioles a 2-1 lead when they became the first brothers to hit homers in the same inning since Hank and Tommy Aaron did it July 12, 1962, for the Braves.

With his 214th career home run, Cal Ripken became the American League's all-time home-run leader for shortstops, breaking the record of 213 set by Vern Stephens.

--- AROUND THE AL ---

In other American League action, Detroit edged New York 4-3, Oakland dropped Minnesota 4-1, Chicago downed Boston 7-4, Cleveland pummeled Kansas City 14-6, Texas tripped Milwaukee 6-3 and Seattle pounded California 7-2.

Tigers 4, Yankees 3

At Detroit, rookie Milt Cuyler tripled home two runs and Frank Tanana won his third straight start since returning from the bullpen to lift Detroit. Tanana, 8-7, is unbeaten in five starts since returning from a five-game exile to the bullpen. Edwin Nunez collected his sixth save. Yankee rookie Dave Eiland, 0-1, was the loser.

Athletics 4, Twins 1

At Oakland, Calif., Bob Welch allowed two hits over eight innings for his major league-leading 24th victory and Willie McGee singled home two runs in a four-run seventh inning to guide the A's. Welch, 24-6, walked one, hit a batter and struck out two. Dennis Eckersley, who pitched the ninth for his 43rd save of the season and 137th of his career, broke Rollie Fingers' team record for career saves. Paul Abbott, 0-4, was the loser.

White Sox 7, Red Sox 4

At Chicago, Lance Johnson collected three hits and Bobby Thigpen notched his 50th save, leading the White Sox. The setback was Boston's third straight and reduced its lead in the AL East to two games over Toronto. Greg Hibbard, 13-8, allowed four runs and seven hits in 6 1-3 innings. Greg Harris, 13-7, took the loss.

Indians 14, Royals 6

At Kansas City, Mo., rookie Turner Ward drove in six runs with a three-run homer and a bases-loaded triple and scored three runs to pace Cleveland to its fourth straight victory. Greg Swindell, 11-8, picked up the victory despite allowing 13 hits and six runs in 5 1-3 innings. Andy McGaffigan, 3-3, lasted 1 2-3 innings. The Royals lost for the 11th time in 12 games.

Rangers 6, Brewers 3

At Arlington, Texas, Julio Franco's 10th homer of the season put Texas in front in the second inning and three Texas relievers combined for seven shutout innings. Jamie Moyer, 2-6, pitched 2 1-3 innings for the victory. Loser Tom Edens, 4-3, gave up five runs over the first two innings.

Mariners 7, Angels 2

At Anaheim, Calif., Harold Reynolds collected three hits and scored four times to back Erik Hanson's six-hit pitching and help Seattle. In completing his third game, Hanson, 15-9, struck out six and walked two. The Mariners tagged loser Jim Abbott, 10-13, for five earned runs on 12 hits in his 5 1-3 innings.

(SEPT. 16) UPI - The footsteps that the Cincinnati Reds hear are coming from the Los Angeles Dodgers - and they're getting louder.

''We're getting closer, we're getting a better chance to win the divison,'' Ramon Martinez said after he permitted only six hits Saturday night in pitching his 10th complete game, leading the Dodgers to a 3-0 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

The win, the Dodgers' second over the Reds in two nights, enabled Los Angeles to pull to within 4 1-2 games of National League West-leading Cincinnati.

At one point this season, the Dodgers trailed the Reds by 13 1-2 games.

''This was an important win for us,'' Martinez said. ''The closer we get, the more pressure we put on the Reds. We've got to keep winning to put even more pressure on them.''

So far the Dodgers have, going 38-25 since the All-Star break. Cincinnati, on the other hand, has gone 31-34 down the same stretch.

Reds Manager Lou Piniella has experienced pennant races before and knows that his team has to win.

''This makes Sunday's game (against Los Angeles) more important,'' Piniella said. ''If we win, we're in good shape. If we beat them, they really haven't picked up anything.''

Los Angeles Manager Tommy Lasorda agreed.

''Tomorrow (Sunday) is a very big game,'' Lasorda said. ''It's a big game for us as well as for them. It means the difference between 3 1-2 games out and 5 1-2 games out.''

And if the Dodgers keep getting pitching performances like that of Martinez, then the Reds will be closer to losing their first place grip.

Martinez, 18-6, pitched his third shutout of the season and raised his record to 3-0 against Cincinnati this year. Last week, he pitched a complete game and beat Cincinnati 6-4.

''I felt so great,'' he said. ''I felt real strong all the way. My fastball was moving and I thought my curves and changeups were very good. If I keep pitching this way, I think I can win 20 games this year.''

The hard-throwing right-hander struck out seven and walked one. Martinez leads the majors in complete games with 10 and tops the National League in strikeouts with 207.

Danny Jackson, 5-5, gave up six hits and three runs over seven innings as he lost for the third straight time.

''Jackson pitched well, but it just so happened that the Dodger pitcher was better,'' Piniella said. ''Martinez has been beating a lot of teams this year.''

--- AROUNS THE NL ---

In other National League games, New York dropped Philadelphia 4-2, Montreal rallied past Pittsburgh 4-3, San Diego scalped Atlanta 5-3 in 11 innings, Houston edged San Francisco 3-2 in 10 innings and Chicago grounded St. Louis 6-2.

Mets 4, Phillies 2

At New York, Pat Tabler's two-run bases loaded single in the third inning enabled the Mets to pull within a half-game of Pittsburgh. Frank Viola, 19-9, pitched a five-hitter. John Franco earned his 33rd save. Terry Mulholland, 8-9 allowed all four runs and took the loss. Since the Mets acquired him in August, Tabler is 2-for-2 with four RBI with the bases loaded.

Expos 4, Pirates 3

At Montreal, Spike Owens' two-run single in the seventh lifted Montreal past a slumping Pittsburgh, which lost its fourth straight. Zane Smith, 10-8, took the loss. Bill Sampen, 11-6, got the win. Tim Burke pitched the final 1 1-3 innings for his 19th save.

Padres 5, Braves 3, 11 innings

At Atlanta, Pinch-hitter Fred Lynn singled home Benito Santiago for the go-ahead run with one out in the 11th inning to lead San Diego. Jeff Parrett, fell to 5-10. Craig Lefferts, 7-4, got the win.

Astros 3, Giants 2, 10 innings

At Houston, Ken Caminiti's bases-loaded single with two out in the 10th drove home Luis Gonzalez and lifted the Astros. San Francisco remained 6 1-2 games behind first-place Cincinnati. Xavier Hernandez, 1- 0 earned the win. Steve Bedrosian, 8-9, allowed Caminiti's hit and took the loss.

Cubs 6, Cardinals 2

At St. Louis, Ryne Sandberg belted his National League-leading 35th and 36th homers and drove in four runs to power Chicago. It was Sandberg's 17th career multi-homer game and his fourth this season. Les Lancaster, 8-5, earned the victory with four innings of two-hit relief. Jose DeLeon, lost his fifth straight game, allowing five runs in 6 1-3 innings to fall to 7-17.

UNITED NATIONS (SEPT. 16) UPI - The U.N. Security Council voted unanimously early Sunday to condemn Iraq for sending troops into foreign embassies and detaining diplomats in occupied Kuwait.

Summoned for an urgent meeting at the request of France and Canada, the council voted 15-0 for a resolution that also contained a warning that ''concrete measures'' against Iraq will follow.

The Security Council ''strongly condemns aggressive acts perpetrated by Iraq against diplomatic premises and personnel in Kuwait, as well as the abduction of foreign nationals,'' the resolution said.

The council demanded the Iraqi government of President Saddam Hussein immediately release all foreign nationals, respect international conventions on diplomatic and consular missions and protect diplomatic personnel.

On Friday, Iraqi troops entered the diplomatic compounds of France, Belgium and Canada in Iraq-occupied Kuwait and detained five Western diplomats - including an American - who were later released, and three French civilians whose whereabouts could not be determined.

The Netherlands Embassy in Kuwait was violated earlier last week, but no diplomats were detained.

The incidents were the latest in a series of harassing actions taken since Iraq invaded Kuwait Aug. 2, announced that it had annexed its oil- rich neighbor and said it had stripped embassy personnel in Kuwait of diplomatic immunity.

Thomas Pickering, the U.S. representative to the United Nations, said during the early morning debate leading to Sunday's vote that Iraq had displayed a preference for force over diplomacy. He said additional measures against Iraq should be taken ''quickly.''

The Security Council resolution said the council will hold urgent consultations to take ''further concrete measures as soon as possible'' under Chapter 7 of the U.N. Charter to deal with ''Iraq's continued violation of the charter, U.N. resolutions and international law.''

Chapter 7 contains measures the council can take to punish a U.N. member state for violating international peace and security. The charter serves as the constitution of the 45-year-old United Nations.

The council has already imposed a Chapter 7 trade and arms embargo on Iraq for occupying Kuwait.

France's representative to the United Nations, Pierre-Louis Blanc, told the council before the vote that Iraq has launched a ''new aggression of an intolerable character'' aimed at the whole international community.

Blanc said the world is determined to take ''other measures'' against Iraq.

Canada's U.N. representative, Yves Fortier, said Iraqi troops briefly detained two Canadian diplomats after storming the Canadian mission. He said the action was ''totally unacceptable.''

U.N. diplomats said one of the punitive measures that might be taken is an air blockade, but one said the issue is a complex one and would require a study of international law before it can be adopted.

Kuwait's U.N. permanent representative, Mohammad Abulhassan, told reporters that the council should take ''new elements of sanctions'' against Iraq for not abiding by U.N. resolutions.

Separately, France reacted strongly Saturday to the seizure of its nationals. President Francois Mitterrand ordered 4,000 additional French troops to the Persian Gulf and the expulsion of Iraqi diplomats.

French government sources said a dozen Iraqi military attaches and other persons considered ''intelligence agents'' operating in France would be expelled, along with 26 military trainees.

France already has 9,000 troops and 14 warships in the Persian Gulf.

DHAHRAN, Saudi Arabia (SEPT. 16) UPI - Iraqi border guards allowed more Kuwaitis across the newly reopened frontier into Saudi Arabia Sunday, but stripped the refugees of all identification documents before letting them leave their homeland, officials and witnesses said.

Residents of the Saudi border town of Khafji and refugees who had entered the kingdom said at least 100 vehicles had crossed since the border was inexplicably opened Saturday morning after being sealed for weeks by Baghdad's invasion force.

They said in telephone interviews that about another 100 carloads of people were awaiting clearance from Iraqi personnel at a checkpoint some 5 miles inside the conquered emirate.

There was no announcement from Baghdad on why the frontier had been opened, and the reason for the policy change remained unclear.

Refugees had previously been able to flee Kuwait into Saudi Arabia by veering off the road and traversing the desert, but now are free to exit by the main freeway.

Saudi government officials said the Iraqi government of President Saddam Hussein might be trying to relieve pressure on its western neighbor, Jordan, which has been swamped with tens of thousands of foreign workers, mostly South Asians and Filipinos, fleeing from Kuwait.

But the refugee trail into Saudi Arabia has so far been purely Kuwaiti, and several of those who arrived believed Saddam now intends to colonize Kuwait with Iraqis, or is trying to spread havoc in Saudi Arabia, where a U.S.-led multinational military force is assembling to prevent further Iraqi aggression.

''I think this is a plan to keep Kuwait empty,'' said one of the new arrivals, who, like all those interviewed, insisted on anonymity because they fear reprisals against friends and relatives remaining in their homeland. ''Maybe Saddam wants to continue his plan to bring Iraqis into Kuwait.''

The refugees reported that Palestinians were now performing essential services in Kuwait, and that, recently, arrivals had included Iraqis from northern areas of the nation that are bastions of support for Saddam's Arab socialist Ba'athist Party.

The refugees all said Iraqi border guards had ordered them to sign their names in a book before they were stripped of all identification and, in some cases, money, jewelery and other valuables.

''They told me I can go outside and that I can't come back ever again,'' one refugee said.

The Kuwaitis predicted more of their compatriots would follow them out of the country.

''The news is spreading fast,'' one said. ''I heard it at 11 o'clock. I got my family together and left at 1 o'clock.''

Many of those interviewed said that, since Friday, there appeared to have been an Iraqi move to escalate intimidation of civilians to fuel an exodus.

One said the Iraqis apparently believed they had secured their defenses against any invasion, and were now concentrating on imposing their rule in the annexed nation, something they had not done with great perseverance before.

One person said Iraqi soldiers had stormed into his home and held a gun to the head of his son to compel him to work for the new administration, which is being undermined by mass absenteeism as a protest over the occupation.

All the Kuwaitis said armed resistance - which the nation's government-in-exile claims is mounting - had actually diminished, with shootings now minimal and the Iraqis relentlessly hunting down anyone who opposed their will.

One Kuwaiti said Baghdad's troops last week entered a supermarket and ordered the manager to hang up a protrait of Saddam and declared allegiance to Baghdad.

When the manager refused, the soldiers dragged him into an aisle of the store, blindfolded him, and killed him with three shots to the head.

But contrary to other reports, the refugees said the Iraqis appeared to have plenty of food.

''There is everything that you want,'' an elderly Kuwaiti man said. ''There is at least three months of food.''

MANILA, Philippines (SEPT. 16) UPI - Leftist protesters clashed with riot police at the U.S. Embassy Sunday as officials prepared for talks this week on the future of U.S. military bases in the Philippines, police said. One protester was injured.

Police Capt. Honorato Laurel said the brief melee erupted at the close of a three-hour protest at a park across from the seafront embassy when police chased 10 protesters who remained after the main group of about 100 trade union workers dispersed.

A worker, Manuel Arcales, 22, pitched a tiny homemade bomb at truncheon-wielding police officers running after him and was shot by embassy security guard Manuel Elepanta, Laurel said. Five other protesters were reported arrested.

U.S. and Philippine officials were expected on Tuesday to begin the second round of talks on the renewal of a 1947 treaty covering six facilities, including the sprawling Clark Air Base and Subic Bay naval complex. The treaty expires in September 1991.

Leftist groups have threatened to mount demonstrations in Manila during the talks.

Philippine authorities have stepped up security at Clark in Angeles city and at Subic in Olongapo following threats from the communist New People's Army against some 41,000 troops, military employees and dependents stationed at the facilities.

U.S. officials have suspended off-base leave and nonessential travel for the American servicemen. U.S. diplomats also have been placed on alert.

Ten Americans have been killed since October 1987 in attacks blamed on the 19,000-strong NPA, which has been battling the Manila government for 21 years. The fatalities included two visiting servicemen shot on the eve of exploratory talks on the bases in May.

President Corazon Aquino told United Press International on Friday she favors exploring a new relationship with the United States. But she stopped short of endorsing a proposed broad friendship treaty that would permit a continued U.S. military presence in the former American colony.

Washington provides Manila $461 million in aid annually in return for the use of the military bases.

NEW DELHI, India (SEPT. 16) UPI - A merchant ship sailed from southern India Sunday carrying 12,000 tons of food to Iraq, where it will unload the cargo and take on several hundred Indian citizens stranded by the Persian Gulf crisis.

The vessel Vishwa Siddhi was the first Indian supply ship to leave for Iraq since the U.N. Security Council approved a plan to let individual countries send food to Asian refugees stranded in the region. The Red Cross and other international agencies will distribute the supplies.

India sought U.N. approval for the plan after Baghdad told New Delhi it could send airplanes and ships to pick up Indian refugees trapped in Iraq and occupied Kuwait only if they arrived carrying food and medical supplies.

Nearly 200,000 Indian nationals were working in Iraq and Kuwait at the time of the Aug. 2 Iraqi invasion of Kuwait. More than 40,000 have returned to India from various parts of the Middle East as part of a massive government airlift.

But several thousand remain in refugee camps in Jordan and another 150,000 are stranded in Kuwait and Iraq. The government of Prime Minister V.P. Singh has encouraged Indians to stay in Kuwait, hoping to evacuate them from there by sea, air or even land, should Iraq open its border with Iran.

The Vishwa Siddhi sailed from the southern port of Kochi carrying 10, 000 tons of rice, 200 tons of sugar, 11,000 pounds of tea and other food and medicine, the Press Trust of India reported. Foreign Ministry officials said the ship would carry a total of 12,000 tons of food and supplies.

K.P. Unnikrishnan, the national surface transport minister, saw the ship off and told the Press Trust the food would be distributed by the Indian branch of the Red Cross to all people, irrespective of their nationality.

Although Iraq has said it would not allow the Red Cross to distribute the food an Indian spokesman said the method of distribution would be negotiated. A government spokesman said Saturday that Red Cross officials, doctors and paramedics would be aboard the ship.

The departure of the Vishwa Siddhi came amid a massive Indian effort to evacuate thousands of refugees by air. About 3,500 stranded Indians are leaving Jordan daily on about 10 flights on two different routes.

Indian air force jets have been pressed into service for the effort along with airplanes from Air India and Indian Airlines, the nation's two civil air carriers.

Air India's fleet of Airbus-320 planes, many of which were grounded following a crash earlier this year, also have been put back into operation after the Cabinet approved their use.

With 40,000 refugees already flown home and tens of thousands waiting to come out, The Times of India said Sunday the operation was likely to become the biggest air evacuation of civilians in history.

The massive movement of Indians out of Jordan is expected to prompt the Jordanian government to allow more refugees into the country. Indian officials said a 50-bus convoy would begin running this week between Kuwait and the Iraqi border with Jordan, ferrying about 2,600 Indians daily.

But for many Indians stranded in overcrowded refugee camps for weeks, the rescue effort has been too long in coming and the trip home is a voyage into more uncertainty.

''These are the strangest flights I have flown,'' one airline attendant told the Times of India. ''Everyone is deadly quiet and reflective.''

(SEPT. 16) UPI - Iraq will air President Bush's taped message to the Iraqi people, an official said Sunday, but it was not clear if Baghdad would give Iraqis enough notice to ensure a large audience.

In New York, the U.N. Security Council voted unanimously early Sunday to condemn Iraq for ordering its troops to enter foreign embassies in occupied Kuwait.

Kuwaiti refugees, meanwhile, continued streaming across the Kuwait-Saudi border after Iraq unexpectedly opened the frontier on Saturday, but no Western hostages were allowed to use the new exit from Iraq-occupied Kuwait.

Also Sunday, a senior U.S. Air Force general was quoted as saying a massive use of U.S. air power, including bombing aimed specifically at Iraqi President Saddam Hussein, would be the only effective option for forcing Baghdad out of Kuwait if war erupts in the Persian Gulf.

Bush's taped message was handed over to Foreign Ministry Undersecretary Nizar Hamdoun on Saturday in Baghdad, after the Iraqi ambassador in Washington earlier refused to accept it.

''Mr. Hamdoun's acceptance of the tape means it will definitely be aired on Iraqi television,'' an Iraqi official in Cairo said. ''But we do not yet know when. ... We expect it will be aired soon, perhaps today (Sunday).''

It was not immediately clear if Iraq planned to broadcast the Bush tape in full, or whether it would be cut.

''Even if they chop and change it, the Iraqi people will not know this, because they are cut off from the rest of the world by Iraq's jamming of foreign radio stations,'' one Western diplomat in the region said. ''If the Bush tape is broadcast without adequate prior warning, many Iraqis may miss it.''

The U.N. Security Council, including Cuba and Iraq's ally Yemen, voted 15-0 early Sunday to condemn the embassy violations and warned that ''concrete measures'' against Iraq will follow.

The council ''strongly condemns aggressive acts perpetrated by Iraq against diplomatic premises and personnel in Kuwait, as well as the abduction of foreign nationals,'' the resolution said.

The document demanded that the Iraqi government release immediately all foreign nationals, respect international conventions on diplomatic and consular missions and protect diplomatic personnel.

The resolution followed Iraq's alleged invasion last week of the embassies of France, Canada, Belgium and the Netherlands in Kuwait, the kidnapping of their personnel and three French civilians and the ransacking of diplomatic premises.

The council said in the resolution that it will hold urgent consultations to take ''further concrete measures as soon as possible under Chapter 7 of the U.N. Charter'' to deal with ''Iraq's continued violation of the charter, U.N. resolutions and international law.''

France's U.N. representative, Pierre-Louis Blanc, said the world was determined to take ''other measures'' against Iraq. U.N. diplomats said one of the measures could be an air blockade to reinforce the existing land and sea quarantine.

But a senior British military commander in Saudi Arabia warned last week that imposing an air blockade on Iraq would be difficult unless countries neighboring Iraq agreed to police their own air space.

The commander also said it would also be difficult to stop civilian planes entering Iraqi air space, and accused Libya of ferrying military supplies to Baghdad by air.

Iraq expressed regret at Cuba and Yemen's decision to go along with the U.N. Security Council resolution.

''The American and Western will was still dominating the formulation of Security Council resolutions,'' Baghdad Radio quoted a government spokesman as saying.

Saudi officials and witnesses at the Saudi border point of Khafji said Sunday Iraqi border guards allowed more Kuwaitis to cross into Saudi Arabia along the main freeway after stripping the refugees of all identification documents and telling them never to return.

At least 100 vehicles had crossed since the border was unexpectedly opened Saturday morning and another hundred carloads of refugees were waiting to clear Iraqi checkpoints and leave. Iraq's invading force had previously sealed the frontier, although refugees had managed to escape across the desert to Saudi Arabia.

No Western hostages were reported among the carloads fleeing the oil- rich emirate Sunday, and one refugee said Saddam could be allowing Kuwaitis to leave to reduce the effectiveness of the small but growing resistance to Iraqi occupation.

DENVER, CO (SEPT. 16) UPI - Firefighters worked through the night tunneling through hard clay to rescue a 20-month-old boy early Sunday from a deep construction shaft where he had been trapped for 14 hours, authorities said.

Blond-haired, blue-eyed Kevin Davis was alert as he was pulled from the shaft at 6:02 a.m. MDT. He taken to Denver General Hosptial, Fire Department Lt. Robert Clark said.

''He was glad to get out of there,'' Clark said. ''He looked pretty good to me.''

A small crowd gathered at the construction site clapped and cheered as firefighters brought the boy out, imobilized on a back board.

Firefighters said the boy was cold, but the extent of his injuries was not immediately known.

The todler had cried, dozed and talked to his parents and rescue workers as firefighters dug a tunnel through hard clay soil parallel to the construction shaft soil to reach him.

''He sang and dozed and talked and they talked to him and sang to him to keep him alert,'' Clark said. ''He wanted out of there pretty bad. He cried.''

The boy's parents talked to him periodically throughout the ordeal. They said their son told them he was scared by the hissing of an oxygen line dropped to him by rescue workers.

The shaft had been dug in the backyard of the home, which the boy's parents had recently purchased in southeast Denver, as part of a remodeling project, Clark said.

''Part of the new construction consisted of drilling a hole, a cason, to support some of the foundation,'' Clark said. The hole, 15 to 18 inches across and 12 feet deep, was to be filled with concrete.

''About 4 p.m. Saturday the mother and small child went to look at the house and the boy fell down the hole,'' he said.

The boy was in a standing position but didn't have enough strength to grab onto anything that could have been lowered into the hole to bring him out, he said.

Firefighters worked through the night to dig the parallel tunnel about 6 feet from the construction shaft. Firefighters dug down about 15 feet and then tunneled across to reach the trapped todler.

The job was slowed when firefighters ran into heavy clay soil and were forced to shore up the walls of the tunnel to prevent them from collapsing.

BAY CITY, MI (SEPT. 16) UPI - An explosion ripped through a tanker unloading fuel at a petroleum depot in the Saginaw River Sunday, and reports said at least 14 people were injured.

The explosion rocked the tanker Jupiter at about 8:45 a.m., and the tanker was engulfed in flames, a Coast Guard Spokesman said.

There were 18 crew members on the tanker when the explosion occurred, and one crewman was missing, the spokesman said.

The Coast Guard called in a ship from its station in Port Huron to help contain oil leaking from the Jupiter.

Detroit radio station WWJ reported at least 14 people were injured. One of those injured suffered a heart attack, officials said.

The radio station also quoted a witness on shore saying he observed crewmen aboard the vessel abandoning the burning tanker.

MOSCOW (SEPT. 16) UPI - Saudi Arabia's foreign minister arrived in the Soviet Union Sunday to sign a treaty reestablishing diplomatic relations broken more than 50 years ago, the official Tass news agency said.

''The program of the visit envisages talks of the Saudi representative with the Soviet leadership, as well as the signing of a treaty on establishing diplomatic relations between the two countries,'' Tass said.

Foreign Minister Prince Saud Al Faisal arrived in Moscow Sunday evening and was greeted by his Soviet counterpart, Eduard Shevardnadze, Tass said.

Saudi Arabia and the Soviet Union broke diplomatic relations more than 50 years ago, but in recent years there have been increasingly warm contacts between the staunchly anti-Communist Saudis and Soviet officials.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (SEPT. 16) UPI - Thousands of Zulu men wearing red headbands and carrying spears and axes massed at a stadium in the black township of Thokoza Sunday in a rally for peace after six weeks of urban black violence.

President Frederik de Klerk, who acknowledged Saturday unidentified forces trying to sabotage his 7-month-old racial reform program may be stirrring theblack-on-black conflict, is expected to announce further security measures this week before traveling to the United States for talks with President Bush.

More than 10,000 Zulus from the strife-torn township east of Johannesburg marched the the stadium under the escort of police in armored personnel carriers. They were cheered on by hundreds of women lining the streets and no incidents were reported.

Many Zulus wore traditional feathers and skins and engaged in war dances as they approached the stadium to hear King Goodwill Zwelethini, traditional monarch over South Africa's 6 million Zulus, appeal for an end to the fighting.

King Goodwill was joined by a Xhosa leader, Tutor Ndamase, in a symbolic disply of ethnic unity to try to end the fighting between Zulu supporters of the movement Inkatha and Xhosa members of the African National Congress.

A few ANC supporters also were seen in the crowd.

''I have come to this place to put out the fires of violence,'' said the 20-year ruler. ''I have come to tell my father's people who are here that I, as king of the Zulus, will not tolerate violence perpetrated in the name of KwaZulu (Zulu nation).''

''Everybody must lay down their arms and take their brother's hand in friendship,'' he said.

The rally followed the imposition by police on Saturday of Operation Iron Fist a security clampdown intended to crush the fighting that included roadblocks throughout the city and plans to seal off selected strife-torn areas with razor wire.

ANC leader Nelson Mandela condemned the measures as giving police a virtual license to kill ANC supporters and ineffective.

The Zulu king appealed to Mandela to meet the Zulus ''before it is too late'' but did not mention Inkatha leader Mangosuthu Buthelezi by name.

Buthelezi has consistently demanded direct talks with Mandela as the only way to secure a lasting peace between their factions, which have been locked in battle in the Indian Ocean province of Natal since 1987, leaving as many as 4,000 dead.

The clashes spilled into black townships surrounding Johannesburg in early August, leaving more than 720 dead in mainly hand-to-hand street fighting.

King Goodwill said the conflict had taken on the proportions of a ''ethnic war'' because of the politicial differences between the modertate Inkatha and the more radical ANC.

He said it began in Thokoza - one of the hardest-hit areas - because the Inkatha supporters living in migrant worker hostels objected to a consumer boycott staged by the ANC in the nearby white town of Alberton.

''There has never been a war between Zulus and Xhosas. Any tendency for Zulus to strike out at Xhosas and Xhosas to do likewise must be eliminated now and eliminated immediately,'' he said.

DETROIT (SEPT. 16) UPI - Bargaining between the United Auto Workers and General Motors Corp. went round the clock Sunday morning as negotiators grappled with the tough issues of wages, pension and job security.

The union and nation's top carmaker agreed to extend the Friday midnight deadline of the current three-year pact in efforts to reach a settlement. The union is urging all GM workers to report to their jobs until further notice, although all of the automaker's domestic assembly plants are closed Sunday.

GM, the nation's largest automaker, could face the possibility of selected walkouts starting Monday if a contract covering its 310,000 U.S. workers is not tentatively agreed to.

The union has scheduled a Monday morning meeting of its 400-member GM bargaining council, to which it hopes to bring a tentative pact for its approval before the rank-and-file votes on it. But the meeting could also be used to update the council on any progess in the talks or discuss strike strategy.

Meanwhile, in Canada, talks between the striking Canadian Auto Workers union and Ford Motor Co. of Canada resumed Sunday morning after the two sides failed to reach an agreement covering about 12,800 Ford workers Friday night. Company spokesman Jim Hartford said the two sides were still far apart on the major issues of wages and paid time off. ''We are a considerable distance apart, but dialogue continues,'' Hartford said.

A prolonged walkout at Ford's nine Canadian assembly plants and one parts depot in Canada could affect Ford's U.S. operations within about 10 days to two weeks. Hardest hit may be Ford assembly plants in Michigan, Chicago and Atlanta that depend on V6 engines made at Ford's Windsor plant.

In the United States, GM and UAW negotiators appeared to still have differences on the ''money'' issues, most notably job security, as talks passed the 26-hour mark.

There is the possibility that there could be selected walkouts at GM facilities by Monday if an agreement is not reached. GM was hit by scattered walkouts in 1984 during a two-week period in which about 25 facilities were affected.

Strengthening the language on job security, partly by seeking tighter restrictions on plant closings, has been at the top of the union's agenda during the talks, which began in mid-July for contracts covering about 500,000 U.S. auto workers at the nation's Big Three automakers.

The UAW is hoping any agreement reached at GM will be used as a pattern at rival carmakers Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp.

It is expected that union local leaders at the council meeting will closely scrutinize any tentative agreement because the current 1987-90 pact allowed GM to lop 45,000 jobs from its payrolls by calling numerous plants ''indefinitely idled'' instead of closed, skirting what was thought to be a moratorium on all plant closings.

Indications are differences remain over the key issue of job security, particularly the fate of GM's 30,000 workers now on indefinite layoff.

GM has been seeking to reduce its work force through attrition and buyouts, but industry analysts say the top carmaker must close more assembly plants and cut employment by as much as 60,000 workers within the next three years.

(SEPT. 16) UPI - The U-N Security Council has condemned Iraq and promises harsher action. The council voted 15-0 this morning to condemn Iraq's raids on foreign embassies in occupied Kuwait. On Friday, Iraqi troops raided diplomatic compounds of France, Belgium and Canada.

Ford Motor's operations in the United States may be hurt if a strike against Ford Canada lasts a long time. The Canadian plants supply American plants. The issues are wages, pensions and benefits.

TALLAHASSEE, FL (SEPT. 16) UPI - Six players will split a Florida Lotto jackpot estimated at $105 million, the second largest lottery jackpot in U.S.

history, state lottery officials said Sunday.

The exact jackpot total won't be known until Monday, but Florida Lottery Secretary Rebecca Paul estimated it at $105 million, or about $17.5 million for each of the six winners.

Lottery computers indicate the winning tickets were sold in New Smyrna Beach, Coconut Creek, Venice, Miami, Winter Haven and Longwood. None of the winners has come forward, Paul said in a noon news conference.

The winning numbers chosen in the Saturday night drawing were 5, 6, 21, 34, 35 and 45.

The burgeoning jackpot fueled a week of frenzied ticket sales, with players snatching up the $1 tickets at a record clip of 566 per second Saturday.

The jackpot is second only to the $115.6 million Pennsylvania Lottery jackpot split by 14 winners in April 1989.

VIENNA (SEPT. 16) UPI - Albania, Europe's last bastion of orthodox communism has declared it intends to honor the 1975 Helsinki Accords on human rights and wants to be a full participant in European security talks this fall in Paris.

The declaration by Albania's ruling Council of Ministers late Saturday brings the tiny Balkan country a step closer to ending the isolation that has characterized its foreign policy since 1945.

The only European state to refuse to join the 35-nation Conference on Security and Cooperation in Europe, Albania was granted observer status at a June meeting of the CSCE in Copenhagen. But several Western nations, citing Tirana's human rights record, questioned whether Albania was ready for full membership.

In its declaration Saturday, the Albanian government pointed to political and ecomomic reforms approved earlier this year which ''allow the application of the principles of the Helsinki charter.'' The changes included an easing of restrictions on travel, religion and freedom of expression.

''Proceeding from a desire to join in the process of European cooperation and security ... the Albanian government expresses its readiness and commitment to accept these (Helskini) principles,'' the official news agency ATA said in a dispatch monitored in Vienna.

In return, it said, Albania should be allowed to participate ''with complete rights in the coming conferences'' of the CSCE, including the 35-nation summit in Paris in November.

The Helsinki Accords, adopted Aug. 12, 1975, by 35 nations, including the United States and Soviet Union, stressed ''fundamental rights, economic and social progress and well-being for all peoples'' and the need to jointly promote world peace and security.

A section on humanitarian and cultural cooperation pledged the signatory nations to respect ''fundamental freedoms including the freedom of thought, conscience, religion or belief.''

Albania has been granted observer status for a series of preparatory meetings in Vienna to lay the groundwork for the Paris summit.

The political and economic reforms announced President Ramiz Alia in May represented the first cracks in Albania's monolithic facade of orthodox communism.

The changes were apparently aimed at easing economic and political unrest in Europe's poorest and most rigidly controlled country. Worsening social conditions sent thousands of Albanians fleeing to foreign embassies in Tirana in hopes of emigrating abroad.

Hundreds of others have braved barbed wire and mines to flee across the border to Greece or Yugoslavia.

In another attempt to ease tensions, Tirana last week announced across-the-board pay increases of up to 20 percent for most workers. The pay hikes, effective Oct. 1, would raise the minimum salaries of the lowest-paid workers to about $54 a month.

(SEPT. 16) UPI - The U-N Security Council pledged to take harsher measures against Iraq because of Friday's raids on foreign embassies in Kuwait. The council met until early this morning and voted 15-0 to condemn Iraq. Its resolution says ''concrete measures'' will follow. Iraqi troops in Friday's raids detained five Western diplomats, including an American. All were later released. They also took three French civilians, whose whereabouts are NOT known.

Florida lottery officials will turn to their computer today to learn if anybody won their 100-Million-dollar jackpot. They believe there's a 99-percent probability they'll have a winner. Officials also will know today the exact amount of the jackpot. The payoff would be at least the second largest in U-S history and perhaps the biggest. The winning numbers, drawn last night, were 6, 35, 34, 45, 21 and 5.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (SEPT. 16) UPI - The traditional monarch of South Africa's 6 million Zulus, King Goodwill Zwelethini, appealed to thousands of followers Sunday for an end to urban black violence that has left hundreds dead and threatens the country's racial reform program.

More than 15,000 Zulus wearing red headbands and carrying spears, axes and other weapons massed at stadiums in the black townships of Thokoza and Soweto to see Goodwill, making a rare mission outside the Zulu homeland of Natal.

Police in armored personnel carriers in Thokoza escorted the Zulus, mainly migrant workers, to the stadium and took no action to disarm them of their so-called traditional weapons previously used in bloody hand- to-hand fighting.

Hundreds of women lined the streets and cheered as the Zulus passed by.

Many wore traditional feathers and cowhide skins and engaged in war dances as they approached the stadiums for a day of emotional appeals for an end to the bloodshed.

King Goodwill was joined by a Xhosa leader, Tutor Ndamase, in a symbolic disply of ethnic unity to try to end the fighting between migrant Zulu supporters of the movement Inkatha who live in township hostels and Xhosas of the African National Congress. The battles have left more than 720 dead in mainly hand-to-hand street fighting since early August.

After the rally, police escorted Ndamase into the adjacent Phola Park squatter camp where Xhosa residents had engaged in fierce clashes with Zulus last month. Ndamase appealed for peace, then flew by helicopter with Goodwill to Soweto.

''I have come to this place to put out the fires of violence,'' said the highly respected Goodwill, who has ruled the Zulu nation in the Indian Ocean province of Natal for 20 years.

''I have come to tell my father's people who are here that I, as king of the Zulus, will not tolerate violence perpetrated in the name of KwaZulu,'' he said, referring to the Zulu nation.

''Everybody must lay down their arms and take their brother's hand in friendship,'' he said in an emotional appeal.

The rally followed the imposition by police on Saturday of Operation Iron Fist a security clampdown intended to crush the fighting. Roadblocks were thrown up throughout the city and police announced plans to seal off selected strife-torn areas with razor wire.

ANC leader Nelson Mandela condemned the measures as giving police a virtual license to kill ANC supporters and said they would be ineffective until the government purges right-wing elements in the security forces supporting Inkatha.

Both Mandela and President Frederik de Klerk have warned the continued bloodletting threatens to disrupt the government's racial reform program, including power-sharing negotiations on a post- apartheid constitution.

De Klerk, who acknowledged Saturday an unknown force may be stirring the violence, is expected to announce further security measures this week before traveling to the United States for talks in Washington with President George Bush.

The Zulu king appealed to Mandela to meet the Zulus ''before it is too late'' and called at the Soweto rally for ANC officials to stop inhibiting Mandela from meeting Inkatha leader Mangosuthu Buthelezi, the senior adviser to the king and chief minister of the Zulu homeland.

In slightly stronger language in Soweto, King Goodwill said personal attacks on Buthelezi and on the existence of Zulu homeland were intolerable.

''I call now on every political grouping in the country to stop the senseless attacking of KwaZulu,'' he said.

Buthelezi has consistently demanded direct talks with Mandela as the only way to secure a lasting peace between their factions, which have been locked in battle in the Indian Ocean province of Natal since 1987, leaving as many as 4,000 dead. The clashes spilled into black townships surrounding Johannesburg in early August.

JERUSALEM (SEPT. 16) UPI - Israel, long opposed to large-scale arms sales to its Arab neighbors, considers a proposed $20 billion purchase of U.S. weapons by Saudi Arabia a security threat and analysts said Sunday the deal could spark a Middle East arms race.

But Israel might not protest as loudly or lobby as hard to halt such an arms sale to Saudi Arabia this time because of Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait, the subsequent gulf crisis and American troop deployment in the region, analysts said.

Israel receives $3 billion a year in U.S. economic and military aid, while also involved in research and development with the United States, such as the anti-ballistic Arrow missile.

''I must say if I were in (the Israeli) government, I wouldn't advise the American government what to do,'' said Zeev Eytan, co-author of ''The Middle East Military Balance,'' an annual analysis of regional strategic issues. ''It's an American decision. Of course, it's not too pleasant for us.''

While government sources said Israel regarded such a deal with Saudi Arabia - considered the largest arms sale in U.S. history - as a threat to the country's security, they emphasized the United States was aware of Israel's defense needs and would act accordingly.

The Saudi's proposal to buy highly sophisticated and advanced weapons came on the heels of assurances from the Bush administration it would work to maintain Israel's qualitative edge in the region.

The Saudi arms purchases would include 385 M-1 tanks, the main tank used by U.S. forces, and an unspecified number of Apache helicopter gunships, the most sophisticated attack helicopter in the U.S. arsenal. It would also include between 20 to 28 Patriot missiles, which can intercept incoming ballistic missiles and aircraft.

Israel has asked to buy two of the Patriot missiles, while the first of 18 Apache helicopters ordered by Israel were displayed last week at an Israeli military base.

Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Arens also is in the United States this week for talks with Defense Secretary Dick Cheney and the latest developments are expected to be high on the agenda.

The proposed arms sale, however, was not an immediate threat to Israel because much of the weapons likely would not be available for delivery for some time and training would take even longer, Eytan said. But Eytan said he believed the planned sale would ''encourage the arms race in the Middle East.''

''Imagine Saudi Arabia getting $20 billion worth of arms and Syria, Jordan or Egypt or Israel getting absolutely nothing. This is a spiral and it will encourage others to buy more,'' he said, adding the proposed arms deal also would encourage other nations to sell more weapons to the Middle East.

U.S. officials have said an underlying but unstated argument by Saudi Arabia for approval of the sale was that if the United States refused to sell the arms, Britain would be willing to supply the weapons. In 1988, Saudi Arabia arranged arms deals estimated at between $10 to $20 billion with Western European countries, especially Britain, for highly advanced weapons.

According to ''The Middle East Military Balance 1988-1989,'' Israel has more than 3,800 tanks compared to Saudi Arabia's 550 and 635 combat aircraft, including interceptors and bombers, compared to 194 in the desert kingdom.

One worry for Israel is that while Saudi Arabia has not been a major participant in wars against Israel, with more highly sophisticated weaponry on line for the desert kingdom, ''the better they are equipped, the more pressure would be on them in case of the eventuality of war to contribute more,'' Eytan said.

''I think you have big problems,'' Morry Amitai, former head of AIPAC, the strong American-Israeli lobby, told Israel's Army Radio Sunday. ''I don't see how Israel can maintain its qualitative advantage on the basis of the latest American weaponry going to the Saudis.''

Amitai listed several recent developments, ''any one of these should have created concern for Israel and her friends in the United States.''

In addition to the proposed Saudi arms deal, Amitai mentioned U.S. Secretary of State James Baker's visit to Israel's staedfast foe Syria and the Bush administration's decision to forgive Egypt more than $7 billion in debt, without a similar commitment to forgive Israel's $4.5 billion debt.

But Eytan said he believed the underlining theme in current U.S.- Israeli relations was not to cause a rupture between the two allies, who during the past year have gone through several rough periods.

(SEPT. 16) UPI - For some reason, Iraq has partly opened the border from Kuwait into Saudi Arabia. Iraqi guards have been allowing Kuwaitis to leave. Witnesses say the guards take the Kuwaitis' identification and say they can NEVER return. Refugees say at least 100 vehicles crossed since yesterday morning. The Iraqi troops who occupied Kuwait kept the border sealed for weeks. The reason for the change is NOT known.

Iraqi officials say Baghdad will broadcast the message President Bush taped to the Iraqi people last week. Iraq's ambassador in Washington refused to accept the tape, so U-S officials presented it to the Foreign Ministry in Baghdad yesterday. An Iraqi official in Cairo believes the tape will be shown today. A Western diplomat says Iraq may NOT give much advance notice, and many Iraqis may miss the broadcast.

A tank full of crude oil exploded and burned last night at a refinery along the Houston Ship Channel in Pasadena, Texas. Firefighters brought the fire under control quickly, and plans to evacuate residents of the area were abandoned. Showers passed over the area at the same time as the fire and created a ''black rain'' that smudged cars and houses.

Japan is believed to have a low crime rate for an industrial nation. But a new survey indicates that apparently is a myth. It says most serious crimes in Japan are NOT reported, including 90 percent of sexual assaults. The survey was conducted by a research group affiliated with the National Police Agency. Three-thousand adults were polled in the survey, which found a widespread belief that Japanese crime is increasing.

(SEPT. 16) UPI - A bomb exploded this morning outside the house of Philippines Vice President Salvador Laurel, but he was NOT hurt. The bomb also damaged a bank, and injured a security guard. It's believed rebel soldiers planted the bomb. They have been blamed for 21 bombings in Manila in the past month. Laurel has been at odds with President Corazon Aquino. She says he was involved in an uprising in December that killed 119 people.

BRUSSELS, Belgium (SEPT. 16) UPI - Financial aid to Egypt, Turkey and Jordan tops the agenda at a meeting on Monday of European Community foreign ministers amid concern a split over tactics may delay final approval.

Aid to the three countries hardest hit by the Persian Gulf crisis was approved in principle by the foreign ministers at a Sept. 7 meeting in Rome, but a precise amount was not set.

Last Wednesday, the EC executive Commission proposed an aid package worth $1.95 billion. However, several countries led by Britain argue the EC should not set an exact figure until negotiations can take place with other donors, including oil-rich Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates.

By publicizing an aid formula, and the EC's share in it, the Community could limit the overall contributions from other nations, Britain contends.

''As there is not yet a consensus on what other western and Arab countries will contribute, an EC figure would seem to be premature,'' said a foreign ministry spokesman for Belgium, which agrees with the British position.

Italy, which holds the rotating EC presidency, wants the foreign ministers to approve a precise aid figure on Monday to show Europe's commitment to the U.S.-led opposition to Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait.

The weekend announcement that West Germany will contribute nearly $2 billion toward the gulf effort could further complicate the EC foreign ministers' debate. U.S. officials had been most critical of what they perceived as German and Japanese stinginess. Friday, Japan said it was increasing its overall gulf contribution from $1 billion to $4 billion.

EC diplomats concede that a delay in approving an aid package could send the wrong signal to the United States, which has increasingly pressured European allies to contribute more.

''We think it's important to send a clear political message right away by setting aid figures,'' said an official of the EC Commission.

Another aid package, $58.5 million for humanitarian relief to gulf refugess, is expected to be easily approved by the foreign ministers.

Also on the agenda are relations with Israel, the status of talks between the EC and the six-nation European Free Trade Association and transatlantic relations.

The foreign ministers will also discuss logistics for extending an aid program for Poland and Hungary to four other countries - Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria, Yugoslavia and East Germany.

That program, launched last year by 24 wealthy nations, is administered by the EC executive Commission. Extension of aid to the four other countries was approved by the 24 foreign ministers in July.

INDIANAPOLIS (SEPT. 16) UPI - The United States should take the money it is spending on ''Operation Desert Shield'' to put troops in the Middle East and spend it on urban problems, said Rep. John Conyers Jr., D-Mich.

Conyers suggested a domestic Marshall Plan for America's cities during a speech Saturday at the 25th anniversary dinner of the Community Action Against Poverty of Greater Indianapolis Inc.

He said the only need for a 125,000-member U.S. military force in Saudi Arabia is to guarantee a source of cheap oil.

''I want (Iraqi President) Saddam Hussein removed. I want him out of Kuwait,'' Conyers said. ''But I don't want the United States to be sending American troops over there in these concentrations, because when those body bags start coming home with some of our Afro-American youngsters disproportionately in that number as they were in Vietnam, then all of the thrills and romance of this military buildup over there will be a price far too high to pay.''

Conyers, chairman of the House Committee on Government Organizations, is a critic of waste in military spending.

''Let's take the $2 billion a month it's costing us, the 30 cents a gallon average that's gone on to gasoline pumps, the $31 a barrel of crude oil that we're paying now; let's take all of that money and take the (poverty) programs and spread them across every city in America,'' Conyers said.

He said the format could be much the same as the Marshall Plan that was used to reconstruct Europe after World War II.

Sen. Richard Lugar, R-Ind., told the organization that the nation needed ''comprehensive ideas in housing, education, fighting crime, basic things that are the heart of running cities. ... I hope we can restore a much larger level'' of funds for such programs.

But Lugar, who as mayor of Indianapolis was on the group's organizing committee, said the presence of U.S. troops in the Middle East involved much more than cheap oil.

''It is a matter of whether we can keep world order and world peace. And we have a great challenge, and we are paying a price for that. But we also are asking others to pay for that price. It's important that we prevail,'' Lugar said.

DALLAS (SEPT. 16) UPI - A deceased Iraqi architect linked to a Libyan chemical weapons complex invested $5 million in a Florida cherry flavoring plant as a front to collect and export cyanide compounds that could be used for toxic weapons, a Dallas newspaper reported Sunday.

Ihsan Barbouti's former associates said the Iraqi financier used his investment in an apparent effort to export deadly hydrogen cyanide - and the technology to produce it - to Middle East countries identified by the U.S. government as supporters of terrorism, The Dallas Morning News reported in a copyright story.

A chemical weapons expert said hydrogen cyanide is an odorless, colorless gas easily converted into use as a chemical weapon.

Louis Champon, president of the plant, Product Ingredient Technology Inc., in Boca Raton, Fla., said he had no role in the diversion of any toxic material from the facility.

He acknowledged, however, that at least five barrels, or 150 gallons, of a cyanide complex were unaccounted for and could have been taken from the site without his knowledge, the newspaper said.

Champon said he has filed a lawsuit to sever his business relatonship with the Barbouti family. Barbouti died July 1 in London of pneumonia at age 63, authorities said.

Another of Barbouti's former associates, Peter Kawaja, whose company installed a $1 million security system at the plant, said the cyanide was taken from the production facility during ''night trips'' to another site in Florida that he declined to identify.

''Shipments have left the U.S.,'' Kawaja said, ''and technology has left the U.S. We're talking about the research and development of chemical weapons in the United States.''

Kawaja declined to identify the purported final destination of the potentially lethal chemical.

Barbouti, who had a doctorate in architecture, has been identified in several criminal court cases in Europe as the architect of Libyan Col. Moammar Gadhafi's chemical weapons plant in Rabta, about 40 miles from Tripoli.

Champon, who was interviewed by The Morning News Sept. 7 at the office of his attorney, Anthony Pucillo, in West Palm Beach, Fla., said it was his feeling that Barbouti's intention was ''to ship out (the gas) to overseas.''

An executive order by President Ronald Reagan in February 1986, after an outbreak of hostilities between Libya and the United States, made it illegal tosend any U.S.-manufactured goods or technology to Libya. That executive order was extended last year by President Bush.

U.S. Customs Service agents last Thursday interviewed Champon at the U.S. Courthouse in Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Customs and the FBI's foreign counterintelligence services have accelerated their investigation of Barbouti's role in the flavoring plant since Iraq's invasion of Kuwait on Aug. 2.

They also are examining his vast holdings in the United States, including high-tech and real estate interests in Dallas, Houston, Oklahoma City, Tennessee, New Jersey and New York.

Barbouti's American business associates told The Morning News the international broker also acknowledged ongoing contracts with Iraq and Iran.

Control of his American holdings has been assumed by his son, Haidar Barbouti, who also was in the financing and operation of the Florida flavoring plant, said Champon and Kawaja.

Haidar Barbouti could not be reached for comment at his Manhattan condominium in New York, the newspaper said.

The manufacturing facility produced a cherry flavoring - known in the industry as natural bitter almond oil - using a process developed by Champon. The flavoring is used in such commercial products as soft drinks, candies, gum and doughnut icing.

The process involves the distillation of crushed apricot pits and produces not only bitter almond oil, or concentrate for cherry flavoring, but also sugar and hydrogen cyanide byproducts.

Champon said his process neutralizes the hydrogen cyanide gas to a safe liquid form known as ferric ferrocyanide, a common chemical used widely in cleaning solvents. He acknowledged that the ferric ferrocyanide ''easily'' can be reconverted to hydrogen cyanide.

One chemist, a senior university researcher who has been a consultant in the analysis, research and development of chemical warfare for the U.S. Army, said the Boca Raton plant was capable of producing ''significant'' quantities of hydrogen cyanide.

The chemist, who requested anonymity, said that hydrogen cyanide - in the hands of terrorists - offers a potential security threat of ''immense'' proportion.

CAPE CANAVERAL, FL (SEPT. 16) UPI - The shuttle Columbia's countdown ticked into its final hours Sunday amid cautious optimism the leak-plagued ship was finally ready for a fourth launch try Tuesday to end a dismal summer of false hopes and repeated delays.

But for the shuttle's seven astronauts and the hundreds of men and women responsible for getting them safely into orbit, a key hurdle remained: fuel loading Monday afternoon, a make-or-break milestone expected to determine the fate of the crew's long-delayed 10-day astronomy mission.

If any more crippling hydrogen leaks are present like those that grounded the ship May 30 and Sept. 6, it is then that they will show up and it is then that NASA managers will know whether the ship can be launched at 1:28 a.m. EDT Tuesday as planned to end a four-month launch drought.

And for NASA, subjected to intense criticism this summer because of problems with the Hubble Space Telescope, the shuttle program and trouble with the agency's embattled space station project, the stakes are high indeed.

Columbia must get off the launch pad by Wednesday or the flight likely will be delayed indefinitely to clear the way for an Air Force Titan 4 rocket launch later this week and the launch of the shuttle Discovery Oct. 8 on a higher-priority flight to carry a European solar probe into orbit.

With Columbia running 111 days behind schedule after a record series of three delays in as many months, engineers were hesitant to make any predictions. But with an 80 percent chance of good weather expected, they expressed cautious optimism Sunday that Columbia was at long last ready for blastoff.

''The leak is in the back of everybody's mind,'' said NASA test director Michael Leinbach. ''Although we feel real good now that we've fixed the leak and we don't expect it, it will take about 45 minutes into the tanking before we're positive that the leak has been fixed.''

Fuel loading was scheduled to begin at 4:57 p.m. Monday.

Hoping for the best, Columbia's crew - commander Vance Brand, 59, co- pilot Guy Gardner, 42, John ''Mike'' Lounge, 44, Robert Parker, 53, Jeffrey Hoffman, 45, and astronomers Ronald Parise, 39, and Samuel Durrance, 46 - reviewed their flight plans Sunday as the countdown ticked smoothly toward launch.

The goal of the mission is to turn Columbia into an orbital observatory, using four high-tech telescopes in the shuttle's cargo bay to study X-rays and ultraviolet light from exploding suns, especially violent stars and galaxies, enigmatic quasars and other objects of interest in modern astronomy.

Such light cannot penetrate Earth's atmosphere and Columbia's mission represents an unprecedented attempt to extend humanity's vision into the high-energy realm of the electromagnetic spectrum to learn more about the structure and evolution of the universe.

But few missions have had as much trouble getting off the ground as Columbia's and none has been delayed as long after beginning a countdown.

Columbia's ''Astro-1'' payload originally was scheduled for launch March 6, 1986, but the shuttle program was grounded by the Challenger disaster two months before.

Shuttle flights resumed in September 1988 and Columbia was rescheduled for blastoff May 30. During fuel loading the night before, however, sensors detected hydrogen gas leaking into the ship's engine room and the flight was canceled.

NASA managers initially believed the leak was caused solely by damaged seals in a massive 17-inch-wide fuel line fitting where propellant is fed into the belly of the orbiter from the external tank.

A similar leak also grounded Atlantis in July and after that shuttle was hauled off the launch pad for repairs, Columbia, equipped with a new fuel line fitting, was returned to the pad for a Sept. 1 liftoff.

But those hopes were dashed by an electrical glitch with one of Columbia's four telescopes that interrupted the countdown yet again and delayed the flight to Sept. 6. Another fuel leak the night the shuttle's third launch attempt caused yet another delay.

Engineers replaced three suspect fuel pumps before discovering a partially crushed seal in a fuel line valve leading to main engine No. 3. The $250 seal was replaced and Columbia was cleared for a fourth launch try Tuesday.

Along with turning Columbia into an orbital observatory, the astronauts plan to teach an astronomy lesson from space that will be beamed into classrooms across the nation and to chat with Soviet ''hams'' aboard the Mir space station during the course of their mission.

WALTERBORO, SC (SEPT. 16) UPI - Colleton County authorities Sunday were investigating the death of a Walterboro woman who was mauled to death in a ''frenzy'' by seven malnourished dogs that lived in her home.

Patricia Roberts, 48, may have had a seizure during which she had a nose bleed or other wound that attracted the starving dogs and set off the attack, Colleton Sheriff Cecil ''Eddie'' Chasteen Jr. said Sunday.

''It is possible that she had a nosebleed during a seizure or cut herself. We believe it was the combination of the seizure, the presence of blood and the condition of the animals,'' Chasteen said. ''The dogs' survival instincts took over, and they attacked her in a frenzy.''

Chasteen said investigator was considering filing animal-abuse or neglect charges against the woman's husband, Mondell Roberts, 44, in connection with the fatal mauling.

A preliminary autopsy said the dog attack killed Patricia Roberts, who had a history of seizures, but it could not be determined whether the woman was conscious when the attack occurred.

Flesh was torn from the woman's arms, her forehead and the back of her neck, and there was a deep wound on the left side of her body, Chasteen said.

Nine of the 11 dogs owned by the couple were captured and destroyed after the attack Wednesday in the four-room Roberts' home that the sheriff described as a sieve. He said two of the dogs escaped through huge cracks in the wall of the home.

The contents of the dog's stomachs determined that seven had participated in the mauling, Chasteen said. But two well-fed dogs did not attack the woman.

The dogs - each one involved in the attack was about 20 pounds underweight - were of mixed breed, varying in size and had not been known to be violent animals, he said.

''They were very malnourished and emaciated, just skin and bones,'' Chasteen said. ''They were next to starvation. All their ribs were showing. They were extremely underweight.''

A Walterboro veterinarian said the dogs' instinct apparently took over because of their extreme hunger.

''I believe they were so starved that when the seizure activity took place, they attacked - a natural instinct for food purposes,'' said Dr. Rebecca Hughes. ''Dogs just don't do what they did if they are healthy and normal.''

Mondell Roberts returned home from a painting job to find his wife's body lying on the bedroom floor.

He said he did not like the way the investigation was handled and that he had to watch the dogs put to sleep while his wife's body was yet to be removed from the house.

''It's just a nightmare to me, slaughtering my dogs,'' he said. ''I believe they could have found another way.''

NEW YORK (SEPT. 16) UPI - Employees at the New York Post Sunday worked to put out what may be the 189-year-old tabloid's last edition, as members of The Newspaper Guild agonized over whether to accept pay cuts and layoffs or vote the ailing newspaper out of business.

Negotiations Friday night brought sweeping concessions from nine of the 10 unions represented at the Post, but the temporary reprieve only lasts until the tenth and largest union, the Guild, votes on whether to accept management's demands for concessions at a meeting Monday night.

Those demands include a four-day work week at 20 percent less pay, benefit reductions, and more than 40 buyouts and layoffs.

If the 352 Post reporters, editors, photographers, and advertising and clerical workers in the Guild reject the deal, publisher Peter Kalikow has said he will fold the newspaper immediately.

The vote was set for 6 p.m. at the Guild's headquarters at West 44th Street.

Guild members adamantly have voted down wage cuts in the past, and the Post Guild executive commitee rejected the deal Friday night, but allowed it to be presented to the membership.

''Some are dead set against it, and some feel strongly that if all the other unions keep the paper going, who are we to kill it,'' said Post assistant city editor Marianne Goldstein from the paper's city desk in Lower Manhattan Sunday.

Goldstein said speculation among Guild members had been rampant during the weekend with ''no clear consensus'' on how the vote would go.

''Every one of us is wrestling with this now,'' she said. ''If the Guild votes it down, the death of the paper will always be pinned on the Guild.''

The bargaining cliffhanger, which ended in a deal expected to save the paper more than $20 million annually and preserve about 900 jobs, ended just before midnight Friday, hours past a deadline Kalikow had set for the paper's closing.

Thg deal included giving unionized employees 20 percent ownership of the company and a seat on the board of directors.

Kalikow seeks to save $5 million annually from the Guild by laying off seven non-permanent workers; offering voluntary buy-outs to about 36 others; paying for a four-day work week through a 20 percent pay cut; and reducing benefits by about 12 percent.

The other unions, including the pressmen and drivers, achieved most of their reductions by agreeing to job cuts and other savings proposed by management. The outcome of Monday's vote could also determine the fate of another financially troubled New York tabloid, the Daily News, where a bitter labor-management standoff has raged all year.

News' management has said it will seek similar cuts from the union.

The News, meanwhile, reported Sunday that although the drivers union gave up more than 92 positions at the Post during negotiations, those remaining reportedly will get raises of about $100 a week.

AZRAQ, Jordan (SEPT. 16) UPI - At a dusty truckstop, some minor players in the Persian Gulf crisis rested, weary after the long, hot ride across the desert from the Iraqi border.

At one table sat Arab truck drivers hauling Iraqi oil into Jordan in apparent violation of U.N. sanctions. Nearby sat Philippine workers fleeing Kuwait, most likely being taken from one refugee camp in Jordan to another.

All along the single desert road from Iraq, signs of the crisis could be seen. Iraqi oil tankers and buses of fleeing Asian and Arab workers sped by the dozens toward the Jordanian capital of Amman, while carloads of Palestinians headed for Baghdad.

In the last few days, there was little other commercial or private traffic crossing the desolate Jordanian Ruweished border checkpoint from Iraq as the Persian Gulf crisis moved into its seventh week.

Western and Arab nations allied against Iraq have kept a close watch on Jordan to make sure it was not helping Iraqi President Saddam Hussein break a U.N. embargo imposed after Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait. Except for the oil shipments which Jordan says is destined for local use, there was no visible evidence of serious sanctions violations.

A group of drivers at the Azraq truckstop, about 50 miles from Amman, said most oil was going to the Jordanian city of Zarqa, north of the capital, and not the Jordanian port of Aqaba - where it could be shipped out.

The Western naval blockade in the Read Sea has halted Iraqi shipping from Aqaba, a major maritime outlet for Iraq during the Iran-Iraq war that began in 1980 and was suspended nearly eight years later. During that war, 200,000 barrels a day of Iraqi oil was transported by truck to Aqaba.

Jordan, which has called for an Iraqi withdrawal from Kuwait while remaining a staunch ally of Saddam, says it is abiding by U.N. sanctions except for oil imports that are delivered in payment for Iraqi trade debts. The arrangement benefits Jordan economically but not Iraq.

Crown Prince Hassan told the Canadian Broadcasting Corp. Saturday that the oil was essential to Jordan's economy to supply light industry and even provide drinking water.

Before the Persian Gulf crisis, the Hashemite kingdom received 80 percent of 1.5 million to 2 million barrels of oil a month from Iraq. Now it gets an estimated 40 percent from Iraq, with about 50 percent coming from Saudia Arabia under an agreement whose terms have not been made public.

Despite the apparent violation of the sanctions, the U.N. Security Council committee studying how to assist countries hurt by the embargo commended Jordan last week in a draft resolution for the measures it has taken to comply with the U.N. sanctions.

In August, Jordon told the Secrity Council it could lose $4 billion by complying with the sanctions.

In the Azraq truckstop across the road from a herd of camels, the Arab truckers seemed unconcerned about U.N. sanctions as they sipped sweet tea and an Egyptian driver said he made up to nine runs a month between Baghdad and Az Zarqa.

Although wary of speaking with foreign reporters, the drivers indicated they were not unanimous in their their support of Iraqi, but objected to Western forces in the region.

''I want the American soldiers to leave Saudi Arabia and Iraq to leave Kuwait '' said the Egyptian driver, who refused to give his name.

Asked if he still supported Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak, who has sent troops to join the U.S. forces, the driver replied he did.

A Jordanian trucker coming from Baghdad strongly disagreed, stressing he suported Saddam and adding, ''The people in Baghdad are very, very angry at Bush.''

Down the road at another roadside store in Azraq, a Palestinian from the Israeli-occupied West Bank, said he was returning to his family in Kuwait.

He said he had not fled Kuwait after the Iraqi invasion, but had returned to the West Bank to renew his residency papers with the Israeli authorities.

Many Palestinians who were on vacation when Iraqi troops invaded have returned to Kuwait despite reports of food shortages and deteriorating conditions. Many feel they will benefit economically from the demise of Kuwaiti ruling family.

(SEPT. 16) UPI - Baghdad says it broadcast a video-taped message from President Bush to the Iraqi people today... but there was NO immeditate independent confirmation that it aired. Bush told the Iraqi's that their nation stands ''alone and isolated'' because of the government's decision to annex Kuwait. Bush issued the warning- quoting here- ''there is NO way Iraq can win'' a war against the multi-national forces gathered in the Persian Gulf. .

The U-S Pentagon believes U-S-led forces in the region would win a war against Iraq through their superior air power. General Michael Dugan says in a newspaper interview today that ''air power is the only answer that's available'' to avoid a bloody land war that would probably destroy Kuwait. The Air Force has about 420 combat planes and 250 support aircraft in the region.

Coast Guard officials say 11 people were hospitalized and one other was missing today following an explosion aboard a tanker at a petroleum depot in the Saginaw River at Bay City, Michigan. About 10-thousand Zulu men clad in traditional tribal wear and carrying spears and axes massed for a peace rally at a stadium in a black township near Johannesburg today. The Zulu's king asked his followers to- quote- ''put out the fires of violence.'' The rally comes as the South African government implements tough security measures aimed at halting the bloody fighting between Zulus and African National Congress followers.

Florida lottery officials say the state's record 105-Million-dollar jackpot will be split among six winning tickets. The exact winning total for each lucky ticket won't be known until tomorrow, but officials estimate each winning ticket holder will receive about 17-and-a-half- Million dollars. NO winners have come forward yet to claim shares of the second-largest lottery jackpot in U-S history.

(SEPT. 16) UPI - Iraq says it broadcast a videotaped message by President Bush today... one day after it was delivered to an Iraqi Foreign Ministry official in Baghdad. Bush refused to use the message to revile Iraqi leader Saddam Hussein... but he did say Iraq must ultimately withdraw from Kuwait. .

An Indian cargo vessel is steaming toward the Persian Gulf with 12- thousand tons of food for Asian refugees stranded in the tense region. The ship is the first to head to Iraq since the United Nations approved a plan to let individual countries send supplies to stem the suffering of the tens of thousands of refugees caught in the standoff.

A fire continues to rage aboard a tanker on Michigan's Saginaw River. The tanker Jupiter exploded this morning with 18 crew members aboard, leaving one person missing and 11 others hospitalized. Coast Guard officials say the vessel carried 54-thousand gallons of gasoline, but it's NOT clear whether any has spilled into the river.

Six ticket-holders will split the Florida Lotto jackpot estimated at 105-Million-dollars... getting about 17-and-a-half-Million dollars per ticket. State lottery officials say the exact jackpot total... the nation's second largest ever... won't be known until tomorrow.

The leader of South Africa's six-Million Zulus urged his followers today to end urban black violence that has left hundreds dead and threatens the nation's racial reform program. More than 15-thousand Zulus gathered at two stadiums near Johannesburg to greet the Zulu king on his rare mission outside the tribal homeland of Natal.

(SEPT. 16) UPI - Negotiations continue between representatives of the United Auto Workers and General Motors. The two sides are trying to hammer out an agreement and avoid a walkout that could begin tomorrow. The talks in Detroit resulted in a reprieve to stop a threatened walkout early in the weekend, but little other progress has been reported.

Saudi Arabia's foreign minister arrived in the Soviet Union today to sign a treaty re-establishing diplomatic relations which lapsed more than 50 years ago. Moscow's withdrawal from Afghanistan and its opposition to the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait are viewed as key reasons for the warming of Soviet-Saudi relations.

Albania says it intends to honor the 1975 Helsinki Accords on human rights and wants to participate in European security talks this fall in Paris. Albania is Europe's only remaining orthodox communist state and its declaration brings the tiny Balkan country closer to ending 45 years of isolation.

(SEPT. 16) UPI - The White House has received word from American diplomats in Baghdad that President Bush's videotaped message appears to have been played uncut. Presidential spokesman Bill Harlow says the strident rebuttal by Iraq following the airing of Bush's tape indicated that Bush's message ''struck home'' with the Iraqis.

An analyst of the military balance in the Middle East says a proposed 20-BILLION-dollar weapons purchase by Saudi Arabia of U-S hardware could spark an arms race in the region. Israel has historically opposed such deals, but the Jewish state is expected to assume a lower profile because of the standoff with Iraq along the Saudi border.

A deceased Iraqi architect reportedly invested in a Florida cherry flavoring plant and used his investment to collect and export cyanide compounds that could be used for toxic weapons. A published report adds the Iraqi financier was linked to a Libyan chemical weapons plant.

(SEPT. 17) UPI - Every NFL head coach has a victory now, thanks to upsets Sunday by the teams of rookie coaches Joe Bugel, Rod Rust and Bruce Coslet.

Bugel's Phoenix Cardinals scored the most surprising triumph, edging the Eagles 23-21 in Philadelphia. Rust's victory might have been the most rewarding, since his New England Patriots' 16-14 triumph came over Indianapolis, whose coach Ron Meyer once tried to fire Rust. Coslet's victory was probably the most costly, since the New York Jets lost their best three rookies in a 24-21 upset over Cleveland.

The Cardinals were two-touchdown underdogs, and fell behind 14-0 early and 21-14 in the fourth quarter. But Al Del Greco kicked three fourth-quaerter field goals, including a 42-yarder with 25 seconds left to lift Phoenix and drop the Eagles to 0-2.

Bugel, who spent the last nine years as a Redskins assistant, lost 31-0 to his old team last week.

Del Greco's 50-yard field goal with 4:44 left cut the Philadelphia lead to 21-20 and the Cardinals moved 58 yards to the winning kick.

''We were playing for the field goal,'' Bugel said. ''The one before, he really hit it. He said, 'Just get it near the 30.'''

Phoenix rookie running backs Johnny Johnson and Anthony Thompson rushed for touchdowns.

Philadelphia's Randall Cunningham passed for two touchdowns and ran for a third but threw two costly interceptions. The Eagles are off to a disappointing start after two straight playoff seasons.

Rust, a 62-year-old rookie head coach, was Meyer's defensive coordinator when Meyer was the Patriots head coach. He tried to dump Rust in 1984, but Meyer was fired instead and Raymond Berry took over as head coach. Rust, who replaced Berry after last season, may have cost Meyer his job with the Colts with Sunday's victory in Indianapolis.

''I hadn't looked at it as my first NFL win,'' said Rust, who was given a game ball by the players. ''It's the Patriots' first win of the season and that's good.''

A CBS-TV report Sunday said Meyer would be fired and Illinois Coach John Mackovic was in line to replace him. Colts General Manager Jim Irsay and Mackovic denied the report, but Indianapolis's 0-2 start does not help Meyer.

New England's Steve Grogan completed 16 of 24 passes for 187 yards, including a 27-yard touchdown to Hart Lee Dykes. John Stephens carried 25 times for 96 yards and his 2-yard run for a first down with 1:26 to play sealed New England's 11th victory in its past 13 games against the Colts.

The Colts lost five turnovers, including four interceptions by rookie Jeff George.

''It's hard to begin. There are a lot of reasons for the inadequacy of the Colts,'' Meyer said. ''The key factor was the amount of turnovers we had. We had opportunities. We could not capitalize when they arrived.''

The Jets rebounded from Eric Metcalf's 98-yard TD return of the opening kickoff to storm to a 24-7 halftime lead on a 2-yard run by Freeman McNeil, a 6-yard run by Johnny Hector and a 1-yard run by Brad Baxter. Pat Leahy added a 47-yard field goal before the Browns answered with Bernie Kosar's 4-yard TD pass to Reggie Langhorne and a 9-yard Leroy Hoard run in the second half.

Coslet, a former Bengals assistant, also lost to his old team in the opener.

''Thank God it finally happened,'' said Coslet, at 44 the youngest of the new coaches, of his first victory. ''I wanted it to happen last week.

''We're in the fix-it stage of our program here. We have the basics in. Now we have to fix what happened.''

The Jets medical staff has some fixing to do. Running back Blair Thomas, a first-round pick, left in the second quarter with strained ribs; supplemental draft pick wide receiver Rob Moore suffered a bruised shoulder; and starting rookie cornerback Tony Stargell a sprained ankle. New York also lost strong safety Brian Washington with a bruised thigh. It was not known how long they will be sidelined.

-- AROUND THE NFL --

In other games, San Francisco clubbed Washington 26-13, Minnesota trounced New Orleans 32-3, the New York Giants blasted Dallas 28-7, Miami smashed Buffalo 30-7, Chicago ripped Green Bay 31-13, the Los Angeles Raiders trimmed Seattle 17-13, Cincinnati nicked San Diego 21- 16, Detroit edged Atlanta 21-14, and the Los Angeles Rams crushed Tampa Bay 35-14.

Houston played at Pittsburgh Sunday night, and Kansas City visits Denver Monday night.

49ers 26, Redskins 13

At San Francisco, Joe Montana threw for 390 yards and two TDs to become the 49ers all-time passing leader. Montana surpassed John Brodie's career-mark of 3,548 yards in the third quarter on a 34-yard toss to John Taylor. Montana finshed with 29 completions in 44 attempts. Taylor caught eight passes for 160 yards and one touchdown.

Vikings 32, Saints 3

At Minneapolis, Wade Wilson threw three TD passes and linebacker Mike Merriweather had two interceptions to lead the Vikings. Wilson, who failed to throw for three TDs in a 1989 game, did it for the second time this season to lift the Vikings to 1-1. He completed 16 of 24 passes for 212 yards. His TD strikes of 15 yards to Anthony Carter, 5 to Herschel Walker and 15 to Steve Jordan led the Vikings to 24 unanswered points.

Giants 28, Cowboys 7

At Irving, Texas, Phil Simms threw for one TD and ran for another and linebacker Lawrence Taylor scored with a pass interception to lift New York to its fifth straight victory over Dallas.

Dolphins 30, Bills 7

At Miami, Sammie Smith ran for two TDs and the Dolphins blanked Buffalo for three quarters to snap a six-game losing streak against the Bills. Smith scored from 2 yards out in the first quarter and again from the 1 in the third. Dan Marino hit fullback Tony Paige from 17 yards out in the fourth quarter and Pete Stoyanovich kicked field goals of 23, 29 and 48 yards in the first half. Buffalo, 1-1, scored with 11:45 left in on Larry Kinnebrew's 1-yard run.

Bears 31, Packers 13

At Green Bay, Wis., Jim Harbaugh rushed for one TD and passed for two more to lift Chicago. The Bears, 2-0, sacked Anthony Dilweg six times and forced five turnovers, three of them leading to Chicago scores. The Packers fell to 1-1.

Raiders 17, Seahawks 13

Bengals 21, Chargers 16

At San Diego, Boomer Esiason's third TD pass of the game, a 23-yarder to Eddie Brown with 12:08 left, lifted the Bengals back from a 13-0 first-quarter deficit. Esiason hit scoring passes of 10 yards to James Brooks and 30 yards to Brown before the winning score. The Chargers raced to an early lead on Billy Joe Tolliver TD passes of 36-yards to Ronnie Harmon and 17 yards to Joe Caravello.

Lions 21, Falcons 14

At Pontiac, Mich., Rodney Peete threw two TD passes and Barry Sanders ran for another score to lift Detroit. The Lions, 1-1, built an early 21-7 bulge and held off the Falcons, who suffered their first loss under Coach Jerry Glanville. Atlanta pulled within 21-14 midway through the third quarter on Steve Broussard's 3-yard gallop around left end but never crossed midfield in the final period.

Rams 35, Buccaneers 14

At Tampa, Fla., Robert Delpino caught two of Jim Everett's four scoring passes and Bobby Humphery returned an interception 44 yards for a demoralizing touchdown on the final play of the opening half to lead Los Angeles.

#90259u1455 09/16/1990 ~United Press International
(SEPT. 16) UPI - During a taped message broadcast to the Iraqi people today, President Bush said President Saddam Hussein misjudged world opinion when he invaded Kuwait. Bush added Iraq that could NEVER win a war against the U-S-led multi-national force in the Persian Gulf. After the speech, Iraqi television aired a rebuttal during which Hussein's spokesman called Bush a world dictator.

Coast Guard officials say the tanker that exploded this morning on Michigan's Saginaw River is carrying more than one-Million gallons of gasoline. The tanker Jupiter suffered additional explosions this afternoon and continues to burn out of control. The tanker was UNloading fuel at a petroleum plant at the time of the blast. One of 18 crewmembers is missing and 11 others are injured.

The West African nation of Gabon held its first multi-party elections today, but the voting was marred by several incidents. A mob raided a polling place that ran out of ballots in the southern part of the country. And in the capital city of Libreville, the City Hall was closed after a commando group vandalized the offices. Security forces were called out to restore order.

Police in Miller Place, New York, say their Kbe burglar who tried to escape through a ceiling, but fell through to the floor below. Police say a patrolling officer allegedly spotted Richard Roberts, a recently released parolee, enter the Cornerstone Pub through a broken window. When the suspect spotted the officer he shimmied up an apparetnly weak ceiling partition.

The fate of the New York Post remains up in the air today as Newspaper Guild members agonize over whether to accept sweeping concessions or vote the newspaper out of business. Nine of the Post's 10 unions approved paycuts, layoffs and benefit reductions during last- minute negotiations Friday night, but the 352-member Guild is the Post's largest union and holds the deciding vote. The vote is set for tomorrow night.

(SEPT. 16) UPI - President Bush told the Iraqi people his views of the Persian Gulf crisis today during Iraq's broadcast of an eight-minute taped message. Bush told the Iraqis their nation stands ''isolated and alone.'' Iraq television immediately aired a rebuttal, calling Bush a world dictator. Meanwhile... 54 Americans who had been trapped in Baghdad arrived near Baltimore late this afternoon.

French authorities in Paris today rounded up at least 29 Iraqi nationals for immediate expulsion. The action is part of President Mitterrand's response to an Iraqi raid on a French diplomatic compound in occupied Kuwait last week. Also... Italy ordered the Iraqi military attache and his staff to leave the country within 10 days and banned Iraqi embassy employees staying in Italy from leaving Rome.

A tanker still holding about 20-thousand barrels of gasoline continues to burn on Michigan's Saginaw River. It's NOT known if any fuel has spilled into the river. An explosion rocked the tanker Jupiter this morning... leaving one crew member missing and injuring 11 others. Coast Guard officials say the fire from the vessel is too intense to fight at this time.

Members of Liberia's interim government say rebel leader Charles Taylor has rejected peace proposals aimed at ending the West African nation's nine-month-old civil war. Taylor commands the most powerful rebel force in Liberia. His rejection came amid fierce weekend fighting in the capital city of Monrovia between rebel troops and peace-keeping forces.

A 20-month-old boy who was trapped for 14 hours in a narrow construction shaft in Denver was released from the hospital today... just eight hours after his rescue. The emergency room physician who treated Kevin Davis says the toddler was given some food and fluids to treat dehydration. During the rescue operation... firefighters improvised lullabies to keep the child awake.

(SEPT. 16) UPI - President Bush told the Iraqi people today ''there is NO way Iraq can win'' a war against the international force in the Middle East. The videotaped message was shown on Iraqi television... followed by an Iraqi response saying ''Bush is envious of Iraq and its leader.''

160 Americans landed in Baltimore today after being stranded in Iraqi-controlled Kuwait. One of the freed hostages said a soldier at one point interrogated him at gunpoint and threatened to kill him.

France today rounded up at least 29 Iraqi nationals to be expelled... in return for Iraq's storming of the French ambassador's home in Kuwait. Iraqi President Saddam Hussein today reportedly said he hopes France will NOT side further with the United States.

A former Egyptian foreign minister and envoy to the United Nations is favored to become the next secretary-general of the Arab League. He says the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait damages the Arab world in a way that NON- Arab enemies would have liked.

The Persian Gulf crisis is providing ammunition for backers of the Philadelphia Navy Yard in their fight to keep the shipyard open. Supporters of the yard say the confrontation shows the need for a full force of aircraft carriers... which can be repaired at the yard.

(SEPT. 16) UPI - President Bush today accused the Iraqi leadership of miscalculating world opinion when it invaded Kuwait. In videotaped comments broadcast on Iraqi television... Bush said the Iraqi public faces tragedy because of its leaders' actions. Throughout his eight-minute message... Bush implicated Iraqi President Saddam Hussein as the root of current troubles in the Middle East. Bush vowed to maintain pressure on Iraq until troops are removed from Kuwait.

Observers say Jordan for the most part, appears faithful to its pledge to honor U-N sanctions against Iraq. The single desert road from Iraq into Jordan has been closely watched and observers say the only oil traffic from Iraq seems to be destined for domestic consumption. Jordan has joined the international call for Iraq's withdrawal from Kuwait... but has remained allied with its neighbor.

Members of Liberia's interim government say rebel leader Charles Taylor is refusing to back off his claim to become the western African nation's sole leader. Taylor's reported refusal to accept a ceasefire and yield to organized elections comes as heavy fighting occurred between Taylor's forces and Western African peacekeeping troops. It is reported that Ghana planes bombed rebel positions.

Coast Guard officials say a tanker burning on the Saginaw River in Michigan may burn well into tomorrow. An explosion rocked the tanker Jupiter this morning as it was UNloading fuel at a petroleum plant. One of the vessel's crewmembers is missing and 11 others were injured. Officials say the tanker is carrying more than one-Million gallons of gasoline. Michigan Governor James Blanchard has declared a state of emergency.

(SEPT. 16) UPI - A pro-Iranian militia leader in Lebanon told United Press International today that the Persian Gulf crisis will do little to help speed up the release of U-S hostages held in Lebanon. The remarks follow Lebanese reports that Syria would revive efforts with its ally Iran to free the 13 captives. Six Americans are among those believed to be held by pro-Iranian Shiite extremists.

Israeli and Palestinian sources say a masked Palestinian was shot and killed and another wounded by an army patrol. The shooting occurred as a group of Palestinians wrote nationalistic slogans on neighborhood walls in the Gaza Strip. Military sources say the soldiers fired their weapons after the Palestinians initiated a gunfight. The wounded Palestinian escaped and is being sought in a house-to-house search.

Authorities in Walterboro, South Carolina, are investigating the death of a woman who was mauled by seven malnourished dogs that lived in her home. Police say the dogs may have attacked Patricia Roberts after she suffered a possible nosebleed during a seizure on Wednesday. They add that the dogs that attacked Roberts were 20 pounds underweight. Two other well-fed dogs apparently did NOT attack.

Florida lottery officials say six tickets hold the winning numbers to a jackpot estimated at 105-Million dollars... or about 17-point-five- Million dollars for each ticket. Lottery Secretary Rebecca Paul says NONE of the winners has come forward. But the state has arranged free air fare to bring winners to Tallahassee to check their tickets before they claim their winnings.

BOULDER, COLO. (SEPT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Paul D. Whittle, president of American Educational Products Inc. (NASDAQ:AMEP) Monday announced the signing of an agreement to purchase 30-year-old Hubbard Scientific Inc., a leading supplier of educational science materials.

Hubbard Scientific Inc. is a dominant force in the educational market in the manufacturing and development of earth science and life science materials to elementary, junior, and senior high grades. Hubbard recorded revenues for fiscal year 1989 of approximately $5 million with a significant after-tax profit.

The Hubbard product line includes, in part, geological products, physiological models, raised relief topographic maps, and physical science items as well as a variety of other products that supplement the science teaching cirriculum. Hubbard currently markets its products through dealers and distributors and has a yearly distribution of over 500,000 four-color catalogs to school systems nationwide.

According to Whittle, the American Educational Products Inc. planned acquisition of Hubbard Scientific Inc. reinforces the corporate commitment of continued growth and expansion through the acquisition of companies in the educational industry that afford product compatibility and potential new markets as well as strong sales and profitability.

Plans for the future include a strengthening of the already existing dealer relationships, a focused product development program, revisions of existing products where necessary and increased coverage of Hubbard products in the company's Summit Learning Science catalog.

American Educational Products Inc. is a leading supplier of math and earth/science products to the nation's school systems, reported sales of $3.3 million and after-tax profits of $246,000, or 13 cents profit per share for fiscal year 1989. Sales for the first six months of 1990 were $2,028,946 with after-tax profits of $184,657, or 9 cents per share.

Denver-based Boettcher & Co., a division of Kemper Corp., serves as investment banker to the company and was instrumental in structuring the purchase agreement and is arranging the financing for the transaction.

LONDON (SEPT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Expanding its T-NET local area network product portfolio, British Telecom Monday announced it has selected Advanced Computer Communications (ACC) as its partner in providing local to wide-area network connectivity.

Under an agreement with the Santa Barbara, Calif. company, British Telecom will resell and support ACC's LAN bridge/routers, designating them in its T-NET IN2000 range.

The bridge/router products covered under the agreement provide links between T-NET LANs across both X.25 packet-switching networks and private circuits. Currently the products route both DECnet and TCP/IP packets, while bridging all other network protocols. ACC and British Telecom are already developing additional routing capabilities for other protocols supported by T-NET LANs.

All of ACC's bridge/router products comply fully with the international ISO standards 8802/3 for Ethernet and ISO 8802/2D for spanning tree bridging.

Robert Streeter, manager of British Telecom's T-NET internetworking group commented, ''Our customers are finding it increasingly important to be able to move data easily across the boundaries between local and wide-area networks. In ACC, we have found a partner willing to adapt its products to meet the requirements for our UK customers.''

According to Gary Krall, ACC's director of marketing, ''British Telecom's understanding of the market's product and service requirements allied to ACC's product strength will ensure customer's LAN and WAN needs are satisfied. The significance of this partnership is that British Telecom will be the distribution and support channel for the sale of ACC products in the United Kingdom. In addition, ACC and British Telecom will be working jointly in defining future technology enhancements for the products.''

As part of the relationship, and in close collaboration with British Telecom, ACC's bridge/router product capabilities have been expanded to support the UK and European CCITT X.21 standard for connection to public switched networks. In addition, ACC's products also conform to recognized safety and emission standards.

Since its incorporation in 1975, ACC has been developing and manufacturing data communications hardware and software products that focus on customer needs. Its internetworking products were introduced in 1988. Since that time ACC has become a market leader in the remote bridge/router and network management arena. Worldwide, ACC products are connecting local and wide-area networks in government and commercial industries.

British Telecom is the United Kingdom's principal supplier of public and private voice and data communications network services and products, and is now rapidly developing a global networking and network management capability. It has been supplying corporate communications systems since 1987 based on its T-NET LAN and Open Systems Cabling Architecture (OSCA) structured wiring platform to a significant and growing customer base in government and commercial markets.

SUNNYVALE, CA (SEPT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - An ongoing program that provides local companies with a technology pipeline from Silicon Valley to Siemens world markets celebrates its 25th seminar this year with a look at new developments in Eastern Europe.

The seven year old program is sponsored by Siemens, which each year brings together some of its international senior purchasing staff with local companies for the ''Siemens Electronics Seminar, Sunnyvale'' program.

Siemens managers with large volume purchasing responsibilities for other Siemens companies around the world meet with the valley's leading manufacturers, ranging from Intel, AMD, Motorola, Texas Instruments and NSC to Altera, Cypress, VLSI, and LSI Logic.

Siemens will host a dinner on Sept. 18 to thank the local companies that have participated in the seminars for helping Siemens executives decide where to spend its money locally.

The featured speakers will include the German Consul General from San Francisco, who will address ''The Development in Eastern Europe from a German Point of View.'' Another guest from Siemens Corporate Purchasing in Munich will speak on ''Siemens and a United Germany.'' Three of the participating companies will receive a special award.

Nearly 100 Siemens employees have visited Sunnyvale since the company began the program in 1984. They meet with about 20 local companies while attending the program. Only three of four Siemens employees participate in the seminar series at a time.

They participate in a formal program of technical presentations, visits to local IC facilities and learn to test lab, CAD workstation, fabrication and assembly operations. In addition to improving their technical knowledge, the managers also discuss export and regulatory matters.

They return to Europe, Africa, Australia or South America better able to analyze and evaluate U.S. manufacturers and products when making international purchasing decisions.

According to Siemens purchasing staff in Sunnyvale, this seminar series opens up Silicon Valley technologies to a global marketplace. Executives of local companies appreciate the unique nature of the opportunity to reach an international audience without leaving their own backyard -- an opportunity that often translates into increased sales by enhancing credibility and strengthening relationships.

Headquartered in Munich, Siemens employs more than 365,000 people worldwide and has annual sales of about $33 billion. Siemens has operations in 124 countries and has 173 wholly-owned manufacturing facilities. In the United States, Siemens employs more than 31,000 people in 49 states including more then 3,000 in the Bay Area.

In 1989, Siemens USA annual sales exceeded $3.5 billion. The company also spends more than two billion dollars annually in purchasing American products and services.

Siemens operations in the Bay Area include the Sunnyvale Purchasing office of Siemens Corp.; Siemens Components Inc., in Santa Clara and Cupertino; Crystal Technology in Palo Alto; Siemens Medical Laboratories Inc. in Concord; Siemens Ultrasound in San Ramon; Spectroscopy Imaging in Fremont; Tel Plus Communications in Pleasanton; Rofin-Sinar in San Jose; and Rolm Systems in Santa Clara.

SAN FRANCISCO (SEPT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Bank of America Monday introduced a new check series, ''Imagenes Familiares'' (Family Images), the only bilingual (English/Spanish) checks currently offered by a major California bank.

The series, painted by San Francisco artist Carmen Lomas Garza, depicts five Hispanic family scenes.

The new checks are available at all Bank of America branches beginning today. To commemorate Hispanic Heritage Month, Sept. 15 through Oct. 15, those people opening new personal checking accounts at Bank of America can get their first order of ''Imagenes Familiares'' free of charge.

The titles of the five ''Imagenes Familiares'' check scenes are:

- Banderitas: portrait of a family teaching their children the tradition of cut-out art.

- Cocinando: portrait of a family in the kitchen preparing food.

- Abuelito en el Maizal: portrait of a grandfather in the garden tending the corn.

- La Ensenanza: portrait of a parent helping children with their homework.

- Salsa Sabrosa: portrait of musicians playing congas.

''The bilingual check series is a continuation of the bank's tradition of serving the Hispanic market,'' said Thomas E. Peterson, vice president of Bank of America's Consumer Banking Group. ''The ckecks are a symbol of our commitment to provide high-quality financial services to the Latino community.''

Bank of America is also reaching the Hispanic market with Spanish-language advertising, a toll-free teleservices phone line in Spanish, Spanish-language customer information brochures and bilingual deposit and withdrawal forms. In addition, Bank of America has Spanish-speaking staff in many of its 825 branches.

REDWOOD CITY, CA (SEPT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - DHL Worldwide Express will become the first air express network to offer service to Cuba beginning this week, expanding the network's reach to 188 countries.

DHL International Ltd. has approved an agreement with Telematica de Cuba to act as DHL's exclusive agent in Cuba and will begin shipping three days a week to Havana and 15 other cities each Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

DHL International Ltd. and DHL Airways Inc., the U.S.-based company, are two separate, independently owned organizations which make up the DHL Worldwide Express network. Each company acts as an exclusive agent for the other.

The items allowed for import and export between the United States and Cuba are restricted by the U.S. Treasury Department's Office of Foreign Asset Control (OFAC). At first, DHL will only accept documents such as books, publications, newspapers, catalogs, brochures and business correspondence for shipment. Shipments of some dutiable goods are expected to follow shortly.

Because of limited flights into Havana's Jose Marti International Airport, shipments originating from the United States will initially take two to three days.

The United States has restricted trade and travel with Cuba since 1963. The passage of the Omnibus Trade Act of 1988 allows for free commerce with Cuba for select ''informational materials.''

DHL Airways Inc. received approval from OFAC to import and export limited items in, out and through the United States with Cuba as a final destination.

The DHL Worldwide Express network established the international air express market in 1969. They were the first to offer service to virtually every major destination in the world including Eastern Europe (1983), the Soviet Union (1985), and the People's Repulic of China (1988).

MILPITAS, Calif. (SEPT 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Xicor Monday announced to its employees a reorganization and the implementation of efficiency, cost savings and inventory control measures.

These measures are the result of mounting factory output in contrast to continuing sluggish bookings.

Raphael Klein, president, said in the announcement to the employees that ''while design activity at our customers for use of our products is at an all time high, bookings of customer orders so far have remained at the sluggish summer pace.

''Since our production is operating efficiently at a level significantly above the current shipment level, we have been able to build a very strong inventory position and are able to respond quickly to the short delivery times required by today's market.

''To slow down inventory build-up and to reduce costs, in mid-August we temporarily suspended or reduced hiring, salary increases, overtime and non-critical expenditures and instituted a partial shutdown during the two weeks which ended yesterday.

''As the order booking rate has continued substantially below our production capability, we need to further reduce expenditures and inventory growth and preserve cash.

''During the last several months, we studied our manufacturing and engineering operations with the goal to improve them through a more efficient organization and shorter communication channels. As a result, today we put in effect a much stronger manufacturing and engineering structure.

''In wafer fab, since our new 6-inch line is proceeding well past the infancy stage with recent initial revenue output of 512K and 1 Megabit EEPROMs, we can now consolidate the management, manufacturing operations and engineering of the 4-inch and 6-inch lines. This is a key step toward the gradual conversion over several years of the whole wafer fab to 6-inch operation.

''In the test operations, we have combined all test support services. In engineering, we have merged Product Engineering with Reliability Engineering and Quality Engineering to place full product responsibility in the hands of one group with a combined higher level of expertise.

''At the corporate level we have established a new quality information and compliance (QIC) group which will perform expanded monitoring and auditing while the daily QA and Reliability activities will now be conducted by manufacturing and engineering through intensified and improved built-in manufacturing quality and reliability procedures.

''As a result of these reorganizations, and by eliminating non-essential positions, the company is reducing its workforce by 36 people.

''In order to match expenses with revenues and to avoid further reduction in workforce as much as possible, we are also temporarily scaling back work hours. Until we see significant improvements in bookings, we will be reducing work hours (with concurrent reduced pay) for most employees by 10 to 25 percent.''

In addition, Klein stated: ''On the basis of expected significant bookings and resultant sales growth, we had previously anticipated regaining profitability during the latter part of 1990. Unless bookings for quick turn deliveries increase significantly in the near future, we will not be able to attain profitability in 1990.

''Although we will decrease operating costs, the reduced operations level will not be sufficient to cover all fixed costs, principally depreciation expense.

''In my second quarter report to shareholders I expressed my belief that in the third quarter of 1990 we will show increased revenues and further improvement in the gross profit margin compared with the second quarter of 1990.

''In about two weeks we will report what I believe will be improved results in terms of increased revenues and a marked reduction in loss for the third quarter which ended Sept. 9, 1990 compared with the second quarter of 1990.''

Klein concluded, ''Overall the company is now performing well internally and in delivery to its customers, and is very well positioned to grow further as market demand picks up.''

Xicor, a semiconductor manufacturer, is the leading supplier of proprietary devices which retain their information content without power yet can be easily reprogrammed in the system.

These advanced products, based on a technology called ''full-featured EEPROM '' enable customers to manufacture systems with reduced service costs, improved readiness, automatic self-calibration capability and simpler end-user customization.

Xicor products are now widely accepted in all the traditional markets which use semiconductors: computers and peripherals, consumer products, telecommunications, industrial controls, the military and transportation. Xicor's customer base encompasses many of the top-tier electronics companies in the United States, Europe and the Far East.

Xicor offers its customers the most complete EEPROM capabilities in the industry: products with high quality and reliability, a wide range of densities, interfaces and package configurations, proven wafer fabrication and product testing, advanced CMOS and NMOS technologies with a clear path to the future and highly competent on-site technical customer support.

The company's Advisor has guaranteed that cash distributions will be a 10 percent per annum noncompounded return on the $10 per share offering price through June 1993. The distribution is payable on Oct. 15, 1990, to shareholders of record as of Sept. 28, 1990. Shareholders who acquired their shares through June 30, 1990, will receive 25 cents per share. Those who purchased shares in the public offering after June 30, 1990, will receive a prorated distribution.

The public offering, which was effective June 23, 1989, concluded at 5 p.m. on Sept. 17, 1990. PSA's shares have already received approval from the American Stock Exchange for listing, and the company's shares will begin trading on Oct. 1, 1990.

PSA's principal investments are comprised of first mortgage convertible loans on five self-storage properties. The properites are located in Bedford Park, Ill.; Las Vegas; Los Angeles; Brooklyn, N.Y.; and Silver Spring, Md. The Bedford Park, Las Vegas and Los Angeles properties are generating rental revenues. The Brooklyn property is scheduled to commence operations in September 1990, and the Silver Spring property is expected to open in December 1990.

PSA recently acquired through a joint venture a leasehold interest in a self-storage facility located in Hillside, N.J. The Hillside property has been in operation since 1986. With this addition to the portfolio, approximately $27 million of the public offering has been committed.

PSA is a real estate investment trust (REIT) organized in March 1989. PSA has invested primarily in nonrecourse loans to PS Properties Advisors Inc. (the Advisor), an affiliate of Public Storage Inc.

The loans are secured by first priority mortgages or deeds of trust on properties that are in operation or being developed as self-storage facilities.

Additionally PSA has entered into agreements for the right to acquire properties securing the loans during a specified period. PSA's objectives are to preserve and protect its invested capital, provide for cash distributions from operations, and realize capital appreciation of its properties.

MEDFORD, ORE. (SEPT. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - Medite Corp. announced it will begin producing Medite in New Mexico and will change the name of its medium-density fiberboard (MDF) plant in Las Vegas, New Mexico, to Medite of New Mexico.

The former Montana de Fibra plant was originally purchased by Medite in May 1989. It had been producing MDF under the brand name Team MDF, while major upgrades and improvements to the manufacturing systems were being completed.

''The worldwide demand for Medite has grown dramatically in the last few years '' explained Medite Corp. marketing and sales director, Wade Gregory. ''The addition of the New Mexico plant, along with our two existing plants in Oregon and Ireland, should allow us to keep pace with this demand during the 90's.''

Medite of New Mexico is a wholly owned subsidiary of Medite Corp., currently the world's largest manufacturer of quality MDF. The New Mexico plant is being operated under the direction of Plant Manager Mike Miller and Sales Manager Bennie Young.

LAGUNA HILLS, CA (SEPT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - A new wholly owned subsidiary of Sir Speedy Inc., the quick-printing franchisor, has purchased certain assets of accounting services franchisor Comprehensive Accounting Corp.

The announcement was made Monday by Sir Speedy President and Chief Executive Officer Don Lowe. The sale includes certain franchise contracts, trademarks, trade secrets and accounts receivable. Terms were not disclosed.

With a national client base of almost 20,000, Comprehensive Accounting is considered the leading franchisor of accounting services for small and mid-size businesses. ''We see this acquisition as a natural extension of our business-to-business orientation and believe it offers excellent growth potential,'' said Lowe.

The new subsidiary will own and operate the franchise system under the name Comprehensive Business Services as a separate unit of Sir Speedy. C. Robert Wissler, Sir Speedy senior vice president, will be the company's president and chief operating officer. Wissler said a new national headquarters will eventually be established and staffed for Comprehensive Business Services in Southern California.

The company has been operating in Aurora, Ill. Wissler also said certain existing staff would be located to the new operation.

Over 200 Comprehensive franchises are operating in 34 states and in Puerto Rico. All franchisees are degreed accountants. Some are Certified Public Accountants. They provide clients with monthly accounting, bookkeeping, tax and business consultative services. Many also offer a new five-year business plan and loan application service.

Sir Speedy is one of the world's largest and most successful franchisors of printing and copying centers. At the close of 1989, the Sir Speedy system included over 800 centers operating under the Sir Speedy Printing Center name and over 60 centers carrying the Copies Now name. There are Sir Speedy franchises throughout the United States, Canada, Hong Kong, Taiwan and Columbia.

The Sir Speedy system posted sales of over $300 million in 1989. This was the first time a quick-printing company reached this sales level. It was the second consecutive year the system led the industry in sales.

Sir Speedy performance has been dramatic throughout the 1980s. Gross revenue increased from $3.9 to $13.5 million; pretax income grew from $700,000 to $5.1 million. The number of franchised operations expanded from 260 to 865.

WESTBOROUGH, MA (SEPT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - ASA Tire Systems Group, a division of ASA International Ltd., (NASDAQ: ASAA), Westborough, Mass., Monday announced that it has completed the acquisition of Computers Northwest Inc. (CNW), effective Friday, Sept. 7, 1990.

Agreement in principle for ASA to acquire the Bellevue, Wash. based CNW was announced on March 28, 1990. Terms of the sale were not disclosed.

In the announcement, both companies acknowledged the venture is expected to strengthen the ASA Tire Systems Group's position as the leading supplier of computer systems solutions to the independent tire dealer, retreader and wholesaler marketplace. The CNW office and staff will continue to operate from the Seattle area, which will strengthen ASA's support and sales coverage throughout the United States and Canada.

''The acquisition will increase the ASA Tire Systems Group client base to more than 1000 tire dealers, and improve our ability to provide quality products, services and support to independent tire dealers coast-to-coast,'' said Eli Szklanka, ASA corporate vice president and general manager of the ASA Tire Systems Group.

The ASA Tire Systems Group was formed in September 1988 when ASA acquired ASCO Inc. Atlanta, Ga., the then-largest provider of computer systems to the tire dealer marketplace. The July 1989 acquistion of Snyder Computing Systems Inc. Pittsburgh, Penn., consolidated ASA's leadership leadership position in the marketplace.

In addition to the independent tire dealers, ASA International Ltd. markets multi-user computer systems to manufacturing and international trade companies. ASA was founded in 1969 and went public in 1986. Computers Northwest Inc., incorporated in 1979, is a privately owned company that has achieved a long standing reputation for providing quality products and services to the tire dealer marketplace.

DENVER (SEPT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - United Artists Entertainment Co. (UAE) announced Monday that it will redeem its 6-3/8 percent convertible subordinated debentures due Sept. 15, 2002.

The debentures, totaling $100 million, will be repurchased by the company at 101 percent of the principal amount plus accrued interest at the rate of 6-3/8 percent to the redemption date, which is Dec. 14, 1990.

Company officials said that in accordance with the indenture agreement on the bonds, an interest rate reset was required if the market value of the debentures was less than 101 percent of the principal amount for the 30 consecutive trading days commencing 45 trading days before the interest reset date of Sept. 15, 1990.

Two investment banking firms were retained to determine the appropriate interest rate adjustment to cause the bonds to be valued at 101 percent of the principal amount. The two firms have completed their analysis and issued, in their opinion, the required reset rate.

The indenture agreement also provided that in lieu of an interest rate reset, the company could, at its discretion, exercise its right of special redemption and repurchase the bonds at 101 percent of the principal amount plus accrued interest.

''We determined that it would be in UAE's shareholders' best interest to redeem the bonds, given the opportunity to do so,'' said Brendan Clouston, executive vice president and chief financial officer. ''Our ability to take this action was made more logical by our recent refinancing of United Artists debt.''

Notice of the redemption of the bonds, which are convertible into shares of UAE common stock at $17.875 per share, will be sent to the trustee so that bond holders can be notified.

UAE common stock is traded on NASDAQ's National Market Trading System under the symbols UAECA and UAECB. Rights to put common stock also trade under the symbol TCOMR and are a security of Tele-Communications Inc. UAE is the largest publicly traded affiliate of TCI. UAE's 12-7/8 percent cumulative preferred stock is traded under the symbol UAECP.

BOSTON (SEPT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Eastern Utilities Associates (EUA) Monday announced that it was extending its cash tender offer of $36 per share for Fitchburg Gas and Electric Light Co. (Fitchburg) common stock until midnight Friday, Oct. 26, 1990, New York City time.

EUA's latest extension comes after Fitchburg's management failed again to respond to EUA's request for meaningful negotiations following the Fitchburg board's decision to put the company up for sale. EUA believes the extension will allow time for the Securities and Exchange Commission to complete the approval process that will enable EUA to purchase the shares already tendered.

As described in a letter to Fitchburg stockholders (copy follows), the fact that a majority of Fitchburg shares has been tendered has resulted in EUA's decision to separate the Fitchburg offer's regulatory approval process from the regulatory approval process for EUA's companion $40 per share tender offer for UNITIL Corp.

EUA announced that as of the close of business on Friday, Sept. 14, 1990, 657,386 shares of Fitchburg common stock had been tendered in response to the tender offer for Fitchburg.

Fitchburg provides electric and gas service to approximately 41,000 customers in the greater Fitchburg, Mass., area, according to its latest annual report.

EUA is a Boston-based, investor-owned holding company whose shares are traded on the New York and Pacific Stock Exchanges. Subsidiaries are Blackstone Valley Electric Co., Eastern Edison Co., Montaup Electric Co., Newport Electric Corp., EUA Cogenex Corp., EUA Energy Investment Corp., EUA Ocean State Corp., EUA Power Corp., and EUA Service Corp. Together, the companies are known as the EUA System. The EUA System provides electric service to approximately 287,000 customers in Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

MONTREAL (SEPT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Canadian voice processing leader Octel Communications Canada Inc., the Canadian subsidiary of Milpitas, Calif.-based Octel Communications Corp. (NASDAQ/NMS:OCTL), Monday announced Bell Canada has purchased a number of Octel voice processing systems to offer central office-based voice processing applications to its Centrex customers.

The purchase agreement has been valued at approximately $2 million (Canadian). The agreement will allow Bell Canada's Centrex customers to take advantage of Octel's industry-leading technology through rental mailboxes on the Centrex service.

''To best meet the Centrex central office requirements we knew we needed to position a voice processing system that combined high performance, high reliability, high capacity, and a user-friendly interface - characteristics proven in Octel's products,'' said J. Kim Fennell, general manager, Octel Communications Canada Inc.

''We view the emerging central office-based services market as a key area for business growth in telecommunications,'' said Fennell. ''We plan for our success in the Customer Premise Equipment (CPE) and cellular arenas to carry into the Centrex IVMS market.''

Octel Communications Canada has been cited by International Data Corp. as the 1989 market-share leader of the Canadian voice processing market in end-user revenues.

Octel Communications Canada distributes its voice processing products through Canada's major telephone companies, including AGT, Bell Canada, B.C. Tel, Manitoba Tel, Maritime Tel & Tel, New Brunswick Telephone, Newfoundland Tel, Quebec Tel and SaskTel.

Established in 1986, Octel Communications Canada has headquarters in Toronto with branches in Vancouver, Montreal, Ottawa and Calgary.

Octel Communications Corp. designs, manufactures and markets a full line of high-performance voice processing systems. These specialized computers, which integrate with a large number of telephone systems, help companies and individuals solve a range of communications problems.

Octel's Aspen product line is sold in the United States, Canada and overseas to small businesses and large multisite corporations. The recently announced Sierra multiple-application voice processing platform is a very large capacity system designed to meet the special needs of telephone companies and other voice information service providers.

Among the applications for Octel's products are voice mail, integrated telephone answering, automated attendant, call routing and audiotex (voice bulletin boards).

MILPITAS, Calif. (SEPT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Bell Canada and Canadian voice processing leader (a) Octel Communications Corp. (NASDAQ/NMS:OCTL) Monday announced an extension of their voice processing equipment distribution agreement.

Under the terms of the agreement, Bell Canada maintains its distribution rights for the Octel Aspen (a) line of voice processing systems. By extending the agreement, Bell Canada is reaffirming its selection of the Aspen line as part of the National Common Offering (NCO) for voice processing systems in Telecom Canada's national telecommunications strategy.

Bell Canada's belief in Octel systems is reflected in the fact that Bell has more than 20 Octel systems for its own internal voice processing needs and has sold more than 200 systems to its customers.

''This contract extension reinforces Bell's commitment to delivering premier telecommunications equipment and services to its customers,'' said Tony Lavia, Bell Canada's assistant vice president of marketing and development. ''The Aspen line's reliability and high performance allows use to give our customers an extremely powerful voice processing solution that can enable them to reduce costs, enhance productivity and increase revenues.''

''We are very pleased to be able to continue this mutually beneficial partnership,'' said J. Kim Fennell, general manager, for Octel Communications Canada Inc., the Canadian subsidiary of Milpitas-based Octel Communications Corp. ''The combination of Octel's product leadership and Bell Canada's strong account management will ensure that customers continue to receive the best solutions in the industry.''

SOUTHAMPTON, NY (SEPT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - John F. Kidd, president and chief executive officer of Hamptons Bancshares Inc., has announced the temporary suspension of quarterly cash dividends payable to holders of the company's common stock.

The company declared dividends of 11 cents per share for each of the first two quarters of 1990.

In a letter to stockholders, Kidd stressed the strong capital ratio of the company, 8.2 percent at Aug. 31, and of its largest subsidiary The Bank of the Hamptons, N.A., 7.4 percent on the same date. He cited maintenance of that strong capital position as the major consideration and noted that the bank's capital ratio is 10.3 percent when measured by risk-based capital requirements.

The company attributes its recent negative earnings performance to underachievement in its loan portfolio. On July 16 Bancshares announced an increased provision to its reserve for possible loan losses and a six-month earnings loss of 70 cents per share, both due to existing weaknesses in its portfolio of real estate loans. President Kidd also advised shareholders that a series of internal measures including limited lay-offs, the elimination of bonuses, certain benefits and payments of directors' fees have been implemented within the last month to further insure capital maintenance.

A one bank holding company, Bancshares owns The Bank of the Hamptons, N.A., Hamptons Mortgage Corp., Leasehampton Corp. and The Appraisal Center Inc. The Bank has scheduled the opening of its ninth branch in Westhampton Beach in October of this year. Hamptons Bancshares Inc. is traded on the NASDAQ National Market under the symbol ''HBSI''.

RICHMOND, VA (SEPT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - James River Corp. (NYSE: JR) Monday announced the resignation of Charles M. Foster, senior vice president, group executive, Dixie Products Business.

He joined James River in 1982 when the company acquired American Can Co. where he was vice president and general manager of the Folding Carton Business.

For some time, Foster had been considering pursuit of outside interests and announced his resignation effective Aug. 31.

Foster's departure, which is on the best of terms, is unrelated to James River's previously announced restructuring changes. He will remain available for advice and counsel during the coming months.

James River Corp., with headquarters in Richmond, is a major integrated manufacturer of pulp, paper, converted paper and plastics products with a sales rate of approximately $6 billion for its fiscal year which ended April 29, 1990.

DALLAS (SEPT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Continental Mortgage and Equity Trust (NASDAQ:CMETS), National Income Realty Trust (NASDAQ:NIRTS), Income Opportunity Realty Trust (ASE:IOT), and Transcontinental Realty Investors Inc. (NYSE:TCI) Monday announced dividends will be determined on an annual basis, after the trusts' calendar year end, compared with the current quarterly dividend policy.

The trusts intend to maintain annual distribution schedules as long as the uncertainties currently inherent in the real estate market continue. The minimum amount of distributions will be determined by the amount required to maintain real estate investment trust status, which is 95 percent of taxable income.

However, pursuant to a previously-announced agreement, CMETS, NIRTS, IOT and TCI agreed to distribute at least 94 cents, $1.96, 33 cents and $1.06 per share, respectively, prior to May 23, 1991. These per-share amounts are based on the current number of shares outstanding.

''The board of each trust determined it was in the best interest of the trusts and consequently their shareholders, to adopt an annual distribution policy '' said a spokesperson for the trusts.

''The trusts' cash reserves are modest and cash flows are variable because of the significant investments the trusts are making in improving their real estate portfolios and continuing uncertainty over the ability of many of the trusts' borrowers to meet their obligations. The instability of the real estate markets and the virtual non-existence of real estate financing dictate that we take a conservative approach.''

Continental Mortage and Equity Trust, National Income Realty Trust, Income Opportunity Realty Trust, and Transcontinental Realty Investors Inc. are combination mortgage and equity real estate investment trusts which operate nationwide.

FORT LAUDERDALE, FL (SEPT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - MODCOMP, the premier supplier of real-time computer systems to NASA and other major aerospace, government and commerical users, Monday announced it has won another contract from Jet Propulsion Laboratory to supply real-time computer systems for NASA's Deep Space Network (DSN), a facility used to track, control, and receive data from deep space probes.

This latest contract will total approximately $5 million during the next three years.

As part of this contract, MODCOMP is to supply 45 CLASSIC III/95 16-bit computer systems and support products during the next three years. These products will be used to track spacecraft travelling in deep space.

Under the contract, JPL purchased 25 systems, with an option to buy an additional 20 CLASSIC III/95 systems, which will replace MODCOMP systems installed several years ago. The DSN provides spacecraft tracking and communications, among other things, for NASA's scientific missions in deep space, such as Voyager 1, 2, Magellan, and Galileo.

''This latest award further strengthens our relations with JPL, known as the leader of America's unmanned exploration of the solar system,'' said David Joseph, director of government operations. ''It also further illustrates the high-performance, durability, and reliability of MODCOMP's real-time systems in time-critical applications such as this.

''The III/95 represents a cost effective and high performance solution for JPL since it provides twice as much central processing unit (CPU) performance as the previously installed systems without modification of the current application code,'' Joseph said. ''By enabling JPL to utilize the same code, the III/95 significantly reduced the cost of the necessary upgrade.

''For real-time applications, the CLASSIC III/95 is one of the most powerful 16-bit computers of its class,'' commented Joseph. ''The III/95 offers state-of-the-art real-time technology to users who need increased processing power but also want to preserve their considerable investment in existing software.''

For more than 15 years, MODCOMP computers have been gathering and analyzing data from space exploration missions managed by JPL. Last month, MODCOMP won an award from JPL to supply 57 of its real-time computer systems running on its REAL/IX Operating System for the DSN.

This latest contract reinforces MODCOMP's position as a major computer supplier in the U.S. planetary exploration program. The Jet Propulsion Laboratory is a multi-mission laboratory and a part of the California Institute of Technology and a National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) Center.

The DSN is managed by JPL and communicates with and tracks automated spacecraft throughout the solar system. The DSN consists of a worldwide complex of large dish antennas, powerful transmitters, and sensitive receivers to track, command and obtain data from lunar and planetary spacecraft.

The DSN antennas are positioned on three continents: at Goldstone in Southern California's Mojave Desert; near Madrid, Spain; and near Canberra, Australia. MODCOMP's CLASSIC III/95 computers will be used at those three locations, as well as at JPL's Pasadena, Calif., headquarters.

MODCOMP shipped the initial order of 25 systems last month.

MODCOMP, founded in 1970, is a worldwide supplier of high-performance computer systems, products, and services for real-time applications. MODCOMP is a subsidiary of AEG, a member of the Daimier-Benz group.

MIDDLETOWN, PA. (SEPT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - CareerCom Corp. (NYSE: CCM) Monday announced that Gary W. Rhodes and P. Richard Frieder had been re-elected as directors of the company, each for a three-year term to expire in 1993.

The action came by large majorities at the company's annual meeting of shareholders held in Middletown, Pa.

Rhodes, who also serves as executive vice president and chief operating officer of the company, rejoined CareerCom in February as president of the International Division. Rhodes has worked in the private career school industry for approximately the last 16 years.

Frieder is the president and owner of KSD Industries Inc., a manufacturing company located in Southampton, Pa. He has served as a director of the company since last month when he was elected to fill a vacancy created by the resignation of a former director.

Robert A. Smith, president and chief executive officer of the company, announced at the shareholder meeting that the company's average truck school enrollments had exceeded 2,100 in August and currently were in excess of 2,300.

Smith highlighted the fact that the company's average truck school enrollments in August 1990 exceeded the comparable figure from August 1989, and that he expected a similarly favorable year-to-year comparison for September.

Principally as a result of the continuing enrollment improvements in the company's truck schools, Smith reported that CareerCom anticipated revenues in the September quarter to increase more than 15 percent from the June quarter figure ($29 million).

Smith stated, ''Increased revenue in the current fiscal quarter will result in substantial improvement in the company's operating results from those of the June quarter.''

CareerCom Corp. is a leading owner and operator of career training institutes located throughout North America. The company currently maintains 72 accredited, post-secondary schools offering programs of study in a variety of career-oriented disciplines.

SAN DIEGO (SEPT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Molecular Biosystems Inc. (NYSE:MB) Monday announced it has submitted a Pre-Market Approval (PMA) application with the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) for Albunex, the company's unique ultrasound contrast agent.

The PMA, which was submitted to the FDA's Center for Devices and Radiologic Health, seeks approval for the use of Albunex in conjunction with two-dimensional echocardiography (2-D echo), a commonly performed diagnostic procedure for both left and right heart indications. It is estimated that over 5 million 2-D echo studies are performed in the United States every year.

The PMA submission reflects 2-1/2 years of human testing of Albunex in the United States, Europe and Japan. This clinical testing program was conducted to demonstrate the safety and efficacy of Albunex as a contrast agent for 2-D echo. Currently, there are no commercially available contrast products for ultrasound anywhere in the world.

Albunex is produced by sonication, a process that transforms human serum albumin, a naturally occurring substance in the blood, into microspheres of sterile air surrounded by albumin. The Albunex contrast agent solution contains millions of microspheres small enough to be injected into a vein, pass through the lung circulation and provide an effective means of imaging blood flow in the heart chambers.

Upon FDA approval, Albunex will be marketed and sold by the cardiology division of Mallinckrodt Medical Inc., based in St. Louis. Under an agreement with MBI, Mallinckrodt Medical has exclusive marketing and distribution rights for the new contrast agent in North and South America. Radiology applications are under clinical investigation by Mallinckrodt Medical.

Mallinckrodt Medical, an operating unit of IMCERA Group Inc. (NYSE:IMA), of Northbrook, Ill., is a major supplier of high-quality products for radiology, cardiology, nuclear medicine, anesthesiology and critical care. Its products are sold in more than 100 countries worldwide and are used by more than 7,000 health care facilities in the United States.

Molecular Biosystems Inc., located in San Diego, is a leading biomedical firm developing proprietary medical products that diagnose human disease, including Albunex, an injectable contrast agent for use in ultrasound imaging. In addition, it is a leading developer of direct, non-radioactively labeled genetic probe products.

ATLANTA (SEPT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Resurgens Communications Group Inc. (ASE:RCG) Monday announced that it has completed the acquisition of Resurgens West Inc., an operator services company located in Reno, Nev.

Terms of the acquisition were not disclosed.

Commenting on the announcement, John D. Phillips, president of Resurgens Communications Group Inc., said, ''We are pleased to have Resurgens West as a part of our company. Resurgens West has contracts with a number of hotels in Nevada and will give us an immediate increase in revenues and earnings.

''More importantly, however, it provides us with a presence in the western United States, where we already have contracts representing more than $12 million in annualized revenues. By adding this new location -- our fourth operator/switching center -- we will substantially reduce our operating costs associated with those revenues.''

Resurgens Communications Group Inc. is a telecommunications company which processes and transmits operator-assisted long distance telephone calls from multi-telephone facilities. Through its subsidiary, Southern Cellular Telecom Inc., the company markets and services cellular telephones, facsimile machines and other telecommunications products.

The company's common stock and debentures trade on the American Stock Exchange under the symbols RCG and RCG.A, respectively.

SACRAMENTO, CA (SEPT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - American Recreation Centers Inc. (NASDAQ:AMRC) announced record first quarter operating revenues of $12,396,000 for the quarter ended Aug. 29, 1990, an increase of 32 percent over last year's revenues of $9,412,000.

Bowling Division revenues of $7,031,000 were up 12 percent over the first quarter last year and the Direct Marketing Division's revenues (announced last week) of $5,059,000 were up 72 percent over last year's first quarter.

Operating profits, before general and administrative expenses, for the first quarter of fiscal 1991, totaled $1,336,000, compared to an operating profit of $143,000 for the first quarter last year. As announced last week, the Direct Marketing Division produced a record first quarter operating profit of $602,000, up 141 percent over last year's first quarter.

The Bowling Division, which historically operates at a loss in the first quarter, reversed that trend this year and produced an operating profit of $575,000, a $768,000 improvement over last year's first quarter.

First quarter net income of $110,000, or 2 cents per share represents a dramatic turnaround from last year's net loss of $368,000, or 7 cents per share, and from the typical first quarter operational losses which have been the norm for the last several years.

American Recreation Centers Inc., is the largest publicly held corporation in the country devoted primarily to the operation of bowling centers. The company operates 27 bowling centers, 22 in California, and 5 in Texas with an aggregate 1,126 lanes. American Recreation Centers Inc.'s wholly owned subsidary, The Right Start Catalog Inc., is a nationwide direct marketer of high-quality products for infants and children.

The company is also active in the development and management of commercial real estate. Real estate activities include management and operation of bowling division real estate assets as well as the conversion of non-profitable bowling centers, into more productive assets.

DAYTON, OH (SEPT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - J.K. Darragh, president and chief executive officer of Standard Register, stated Monday that operating results for July and August have made it quite clear that the effect of a weakening general economy and the resulting competitive environment within the business forms industry is more severe than management anticipated.

He also stated that the paper industry increased paper costs about 5 percent effective Sept. 1. He went on to say that given the current environment, it appears that Standard Register's third quarter 1990 net income will be below the 25 cents per share recorded for the like period of 1989 and that net income for 1990 will also be below the $1.35 per share reported for the year 1989.

Darragh stated that management's assessment of current economic conditions indicates that the prevailing low demand for the industry's products and severe price competition will not be of a short term nature. Therefore, over the next six months Standard Register will put into effect a major cost reduction program that will entail a reduction in employment and the closing of several production facilities. The costs associated with the program will be reflected in fourth quarter 1990 results as a one-time charge to earnings. Details concerning the program will be announced in the near future.

BARTLESVILLE, OK (SEPT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Phillips Petroleum Co. (NYSE:P) has sold 14,159,292 shares of authorized but unissued common stock at a price of $28.25 per share to its leveraged employee stock ownership plan (LTSSP).

The purchase price paid by the LTSSP was determined by the average closing market price per share from Sept. 10 through Sept. 13. As previously announced, Phillips board of directors approved the extension to its existing LTSSP at its meeting July 9.

The LTSSP borrowed, with a guarantee from Phillips, $400 million to purchase the shares. Phillips will use the proceeds from the sale of the stock to retire existing debt and maintain the company's current total debt level at about $4 billion.

Phillips' existing LTSSP provides for an annual allocation of stock to participating employees through 1998. New shares purchased will provide for an annual allocation of approximately 955,000 shares to participants for up to seven additional years beginning in 1999.

The remainder of the new shares will be primarily substituted for shares which would have been purchased on the open market for LTSSP dividend reinvestment purposes.

As a result of this sale, the number of outstanding shares increases from 245.3 million to 259.4 million shares. Employee benefit plan ownership increases from about 19 percent to 24 percent.

CHARLOTTE, NC (SEPT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - CEM Corp. (NASDAQ/NMS:CEMX) Monday announced that its board of directors has authorized the additional expenditure of up to $1,000,000 for the repurchase of the company's common stock.

The purchases would be made in the open market or directly from shareholders from time to time at current market prices. CEM currently has 4,486,000 shares outstanding.

Michael J. Collins, president and chief executive officer, noted that this is the second repurchase authorization approved by the board during the current fiscal year. He indicated that all of the $1,000,000 under the first authorization, initiated in early August, had been used to repurchase approximately 120,000 shares.

Collins remarked: ''We are pleased with this further endorsement by the board of the favorable growth outlook for CEM. The company's strong, liquid financial position supports this action which we believe will yield an attractive return for our shareholders.''

CEM produces microwave-based instrumentation for testing and analysis. The company's products are used in many manufacturing and processing industries, including chemical and food processing, and the general analytical laboratory market. The company's shares are traded over-the-counter under the National Market System symbol CEMX.

CARLSTADT, NJ (SEPT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Cliff-Engle Ltd. (BSE:CEL.B) Monday announced substantially higher first quarter results for the period ended July 31.

Sales reached $1,365,997 vs. $661,273 for the comparable period last year, a 107% increase. Net income rose to $15,535 or nil cents per share as compared to a loss of $226,153 or 7 cents per share for the same quarter in 1989. There were 4,338,700 weighted average number of common shares vs. 2,889,750 shares outstanding for the same period last year.

The company's management noted that the first quarter's strong performance is especially gratifying since the summer is typically a slow period in the sweater business. However, there has been excellent response from the marketplace to Cliff-Engle's line of officially licensed sweaters from the National Football League, Major League Baseball, National Basketball Association, National Hockey League and more than 75 colleges and universities throughout the country.

The company said that interest in sports-releated casualwear particulary items emblozoned with the logo of a person's favorite team, has been growing steadily in popularity.

Cliff-Engle is in the forefront of this expanding business and plans to add additional apparel items and licenses to its existing portfolio.

EL PASO, TX (SEPT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Texscan Corp., (NASDAQ: TXCN), announced Monday that it has been awarded two major contracts to supply fiber optic systems for major transportation projects in the United Kingdom.

The combined contracts are valued at approximately $2.3 million dollars.

The company said its Op-Tech division, headquartered in Bolton, England, has been selected to supply a fiber optic transmission system for the United Kingdom Department of Transport's Midlands Motorway area around Birmingham, England.

The division will also supply a fiber optic transmission plus passenger alarm system for the England Manchester Metro Link Project.

The Op-Tech division had previously supplied four major fiber optic systems to Great Britain's motorways. The motorway systems are a broadband transmission network with a fiber optic backbone to carry closed circuit television, data, and audio circuits back to main control rooms. The fiber optic network is used to supervise traffic flow and safety.

Op-Tech was formed in 1988 and generated approximately $4 million in revenues for the fiscal year ended April 30.

Headquartered in El Paso, Texscan Corp. (NASDAQ: TXCN) is a leading designer and manufacturer of a broad line of distribution and commercial insertion electronics products for the cable television industry, and a large scale fiber optic systems integrator.

TRENTON, N.J. (SEPT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Versus Technology Inc. (NASDAQ:VSTI) and Landis & Gyr Thursday announced that they have signed a five-year agreement under which Versus will be the exclusive supplier of telephone-based automatic meter reading (''AMR'') equipment to Landis & Gyr.

Under the terms of the contract, within 30 days, Versus will receive an initial order from Landis & Gyr for more than $100,000 in product, engineering and marketing support.

Landis & Gyr is a leading supplier of electricity metering and energy management systems in North America and the largest manufacturer of these products worldwide. Versus Technology is a world leader in the design and manufacture of telephone-based data transport networks for AMR services.

Donald M. Hooton, president of Versus Technology Inc., noted, ''This exclusive agreement with Landis & Gyr is extremely significant for Versus. We believe Landis & Gyr's extensive sales and distribution channels in the electric utility industry will enhance sales of Versus products.

''At the same time, Versus' experience in marketing to the telephone companies which offer AMR services to utilities make our combined efforts extremely effective. Versus' AMR products will now be marketed to electric, gas and water utilities by leading meter manufacturers through our exclusive agreements with Sensus Technologies Inc. for water meters, Equimeter Inc. for gas meters, and Landis & Gyr for electric meters.''

Hans Naumann, president of Landis & Gyr's metering unit, said ''Landis & Gyr's agreement with Versus is a logical extension of our commitment to provide electric utilities with metering equipment and state-of-the-art communications technology. Working with Versus, we intend to occupy a leadership position in automatic meter reading, as we do in other areas of electricity metering.''

Versus Technology Inc. designs, manufactures and markets data transport networks that allow telephone companies to offer such new services as automatic meter reading, energy management and alarm reporting.

These services can be carried over existing telephone lines without interrupting other uses of the line. Versus is the world leader in this innovative technology, with networks deployed on three continents (North America, Europe and Australia) in over 50 major cities worldwide. Versus equipment is used by more than 150,000 end users who are connected to networks providing automatic meter reading or alarm transport services.

Versus is teamed with industry leaders and some of the world's largest utility meter manufacturers, telephone equipment makers and alarm equipment suppliers, as well as major telephone companies on these three continents.

Weighted Average Shares outstanding	2,247,000	2,236,663	2,245,989	1,724,938

Donald M. Hooton, President of Versus Technology, Inc., commented, ''Contracts pending in the third quarter for the sale of VerSuSR Alarm Reporting Systems to various telephone companies are now being finalized. As a result, we expect to see sales accelerate over the next six months as these agreements are signed.

The net losses incurred in the current year continue to be reduced, as compared to 1989, as Versus implements stringent cost-cutting practices and improves profit margins while striving at all times to meet the needs of its customers and business partners.

''Several recent developments demonstrate the continuing success of Versus' marketing and sales efforts. We've just signed a long-term exclusive agreement with Landis & Gyr, the largest manufacturer of electricity metering and energy management systems worldwide, to be that Company's supplier of telephone-based automatic meter reading equipment. Also in the third quarter, we received orders for AMR equipment from Hackensack Water Company, Pacific Gas & Electric, Onondaga County (New York) Water Authority, and the City of Waconia, Minnesota. In addition, we received an expansion order from Base Ten Systems, Ltd. of London, England for British Telecom's Versus network.''

Donald Hooton continued, ''With our new affiliation with Landis & Gyr and our continuing marketing relationships with other major meter manufacturers, we are confident that new and expanded sales of our equipment will be recorded.''

Versus Technology, Inc. designs, manufactures and markets data transport networks that allow telephone companies to offer such new services as automatic meter reading, energy management and alarm reporting. WAYLAND, MA (SEPT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Candela Laser Corp. (CLZR) Monday announced that it has received a grant from the U.S. Department of Defense, under the Small Business Innovation Research (SBIR) program to develop and evaluate a new configuration for a solid state laser.

In the new configuration, the beam profile is controlled by the laser medium rather than by external mirrors, in contrast to usual laser configurations.

The Phase I grant, valued at $50,000, will allow for the development of a compact laser system that should be highly efficient and reliable with good heat transfer properties and high beam quality. The new system will benefit scientific instrumentation, as well as medical diagnostic and surgical equipment that use various types of solid state lasers.

Commenting on the grant, Dr. Brian Treacy, senior scientist, said, ''This program gives us the opportunity to test the potential of the new configuration for getting high power simultaneously with good beam quality, which is always a problem in laser applications.''

The total cost of this project is estimated at $50,000, of which the federal program is contributing 100 percent.

WESTON, MASS. (SEPT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Eastern Enterprises (NYSE Symbol:EFU) announced Monday it has reached an agreement in principle to acquire certain assets and operations of A & P Water and Sewer Supplies Inc. of Fairfax, Virg.

The price was not disclosed.

A & P Water and Sewer Supplies Inc. distributes components for municipal water systems through branch operations in the mid-Atlantic and Southeastern United States.

Robert W. Weinig, Eastern's president and chief executive officer, said, ''This acquisition, which will approximately double our sales in the distribution segment of the water products business, represents a major step towards Eastern's objective of building a significant presence in the $1.6 billion market for municipal water systems and wastewater treatment products.''

The acquisition is subject to execution of a definitive purchase and sale agreement, compliance with regulatory requirements and approval of Eastern's board of trustees.

Eastern Enterprises is the parent company of Midland Enterprises Inc., leading barge operator on the nation's inland waterways; Boston Gas Co., New England's largest distributor of natural gas, and a Water Products Group serving municipal, commercial and industrial markets with water system components and purifications systems. Eastern's 1989 net income was $56.6 million or $2.43 per share.

LAYFAYETTE, COL. (SEPT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Aspen Ribbons Inc. (NASDAQ:ARIB) announces that the company is expecting revenues of 4.5 to 4.6 million for the quarter ended Sept. 30, 1990, as compared with 4.9 million during the same quarter last year.

It also is expecting profits to be 2 cents to 3 cents per share compared with 9 cents per share for the same quarter last year. Fierce competition in the computer printer ribbon business is the primary reason for the lower revenues.

The company does expect to exceed its 1990 sales of 19.1 million in 1991. However, due to the low results in the first quarter, it is now projecting sales of between 20.5 million to 21.1 million for the year ended June 30, 1990 with profits of $900,000 to $1 million.

Rebounding sales and profits are projected to result from increased sales of ribbon products due to new product introductions and the penetration of new markets and customers. New introduction of toner products for laser printers and plastic cartridge kits should also spur revenue growth.

RESTON, VA (SEPT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - US Sprint Monday announced that it has been granted a landmark export license by the U.S. Department of Commerce to ship packet switching equipment to the USSR.

The equipment will be used by Sprint Networks USSR to provide access from the Soviet Union to global data communications services. The export license is the first ever granted for packet equipment under the new, relaxed regulations that govern the export of high technology products to Eastern Bloc nations.

The equipment is manufactured by Sprint International in the United States and will be shipped to Sprint Networks USSR for installation in Moscow in October.

Sprint Networks USSR was established in July 1990 as a joint venture of Sprint International, US Sprint's global data communications subsidiary, and Central Telegraph of the Soviet Ministry of Posts and Telecommunications.

Sprint Networks USSR is expected to receive final approval by the Soviet Ministry of Finance this month, opening the way for the company to begin business operations later this year. The firm already has U.S. and Soviet customers lined up for service.

Sprint Networks USSR will provide a switching center connected to the worldwide SprintNet data network, providing Soviet computer users with access to databases and on-line services in the United States and throughout the world. The company also will provide SprintMail electronic messaging service in the USSR and internationally, including telex and fax service.

As Soviet requirements for data communications grow, the joint venture will supply US Sprint's Telenet data communications equipment to government agencies and businesses in the USSR.

''World trade is supported by computer processing and communications networks. Access to international data communications will stimulate the growth of trade and prosperity in the USSR,'' said William T. Esrey, chairman and chief executive officer of United Telecommunications Inc., US Sprint's parent company.

''Not only will the Soviets be able to tap Western business and economic information, but the West will be able to access Soviet brainpower in space, medicine, science and engineering. And who knows what incredible new technologies, products and services will result from that mutual interchange '' Esrey added.

Esrey was in Moscow last week with the Presidential Business Development Trade Mission to the Soviet Union. Led by Secretary of Commerce Robert A. Mosbacher and Secretary of State James A. Baker, Esrey and 14 other U.S. chief executives have been exploring U.S. - USSR business opportunities in telecommunications, energy, housing, transportation and food processing.

US Sprint is a unit of United Telecommunications Inc., a diversified telecommunications company based in Kansas City.

LOS ANGELES (SEPT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - The trustees of Real Estate Investment Trust of California, at their meeting of Sept. 10, 1990, enacted a plan for the Trust to become self-managed effective Oct. 1, 1990.

This decision was in part precipitated by the announcement earlier this year by William Walters Jr., president and advisor to the Trust (who reached the age of 65 years in May 1990), of his planned retirement sometime during 1990.

At the meeting, the trustees agreed to the termination of the advisor's agreement effective Sept. 30, 1990 and the trust accepted the resignation of William A. Walters Jr., as president effective Sept. 30, 1990. Walters will continue to serve on the board of trustees.

The trustees further announced John F. Carpenter would succeed to the office of president of the trust. Carpenter, formerly a senior vice president of a national commercial real estate company, has many years of real estate experience in California.

No material change is anticipated in the current operating focus of the company. Several of the long-term staff of the advisor will become direct employees of the trust as of Oct. 1, 1990, including, LeRoy E. Carlson, vice president and chief financial officer; and John Nunn, asset manager.

Real Estate Investment Trust of California, established in 1968, is an equity-oriented real estate investment trust which owns and operates a diversified portfolio of income-producing properties in California consisting of shopping centers, apartment complexes, industrial buildings and commercial projects.

The address of the trust effective Oct. 1, 1990 will be: Real Estate Investment Trust of California, 12011 San Vicente Blvd., Suite 707, Los Angeles, Calif. 90049. The telephone number will remain 213/476-7793.

BATON ROUGE, LA (SEPT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - United Companies Financial Corp. (NASDAQ/NMS:UNCF) Monday announced that it has signed a definitive agreement with Foster Mortgage Corp. to acquire substantially all of its assets.

Foster is a wholly owned subsidiary of Benjamin Franklin Federal Savings Association, Houston, a federally chartered savings and loan association currently under conservatorship of the Resolution Trust Corp.

Recently ranked as the 27th largest mortgage loan servicing company in the United States, Foster services a portfolio of approximately $8 billion for private and agency investors. The acquisition closing date is projected for Nov. 1, 1990, with the purchase price being based primarily on the portfolio balances as of Oct. 31, 1990.

A wholly owned subsidiary of United Companies Financial Corp. will acquire the assets. Among the assets to be acquired is the name Foster Mortgage Corp.

J. Terrell Brown, chief executive officer and president of United Companies Financial Corp., stated: ''We are proud to have an outstanding organization such as Foster join our family of companies. Foster is a logical addition to our existing lines of business as it represents a progression in our strategic plan to become a national leader in the financial services industry.

''This expansion, along with the opportunities for increased efficiencies which it will allow, should provide an attractive return for our shareholders.'' He added, ''We anticipate no disruption in the quality of service provided to Foster's customers since the operation and substantially all of the employees will be maintained in its current Fort Worth headquarters.''

CUPERTINO, CA (SEPT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - The Motorola Computer Group (MCG) (NYSE:MOT) and Philips Information Systems, the information technology division of the Dutch electronics company Philips N.V. (NYSE:PHG), have signed a OEM agreement under which Philips will add Motorola's reduced instruction set computing (RISC) systems to its product line.

The announcement, which marks the expansion of a long-standing strategic partnership between Motorola and Philips, was made last week by Rob Jefferson, European general manager for MCG's International Computer Division, at the European introduction of the MultiPersonal Computer, Motorola's newest RISC-based network computer.

Jefferson said that for the past four years, Philips has been selling the P9000 m-series systems. These are Philips' version of Motorola systems based on Motorola's MC68000 family of CISC (complex instruction set computing) microprocessors and running the UNIX operating system.

''We have found the quality of Motorola's systems is excellent, and the company's philosophy regarding industry standards and client/server computing practically mirrors our own,'' said Kevin Kennedy, Philips Information Systems managing director. ''Once we made the decision to extend our product range, the choice of supplier was an easy one.''

Kennedy noted that the Motorola systems will be sold under the Philips brand name worldwide to governments, large corporations, single unit enterprises and value-added resellers. Philips will add value to these platforms in the form of hardware, software and services, including systems integration capabilities. Philips also will provide service and support through an extensive worldwide network.

''We're delighted to team up with Philips once again as a supplier for its new RISC platforms,'' said Ed Staiano, president and general manager of the Motorola General Systems Sector, of which MCG is part.

''Philips systems have a pervasive presence in European businesses and governments, which are beginning to clamor for RISC- and UNIX-based systems, network servers and open systems based on the client/server architecture. We believe our RISC systems will help answer these needs today and in the future.''

The Motorola Computer Group (MCG) is part of the General Systems sector of Motorola Inc. It is comprised of four divisions:

The Computer Systems Division (CSD), based in Cupertino, Calif., markets midrange, multi-user computer systems and software solutions for commercial and government end users, and value-added resellers; the Field Service Division (FSD), based in Dallas, provides comprehensive service, support and systems integration capabilities for Motorola systems and component users nationwide; the International Computer Division (ICD), based in Schaumburg, Ill., markets, supports and services all Microcomputer Division and CSD products that are sold outside the United States; and the Microcomputer Division (MCD), based in Tempe, Ariz., is the world's largest designer and manufacturer of boards and systems based on the VMEbus architecture and markets fully configured systems to technical and OEM computing markets.

MANCHESTER, ENGLAND (SEPT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - United Airlines' proposed daily non-stop service linking Manchester Airport with Washington, D.C.'s Dulles International Airport would provide the greatest economic benefit to northern England, according to the U.S. airline's chairman and president, Stephen M. Wolf.

During a two-day visit to Manchester, Wolf says he is confident U.S. regulators will select United to serve the route once the licensing process is complete.

''We believe United offers the strongest case and would provide the best service of any applicant,'' Wolf said.

''In four short years United has developed Dulles into a major hub which will have more than 130 daily flights to 35 destinations by next summer. United is seeking to join in the development effort already underway to establish Manchester as one of Europe's premier hub airports.''

The carrier said passengers and cargo shippers in Manchester will benefit from having a carrier with the global size and scope of United to provide a competitive service to and from the United States. A large number of major companies in northern England have strong links with business and industry in the Washington, D.C. area. In addition, more than 360 companies in this region are actively involved in trade with the United States.

United has applied to serve the route with Boeing 767-200 aircraft configured in three classes. The flights will operate non-stop to Dulles and continue to Los Angeles.

United has a fleet of 450 aircraft and serves 156 cities in its U.S. domestic and international route networks. Earlier this year, United launched service linking Frankfurt with both Chicago and Washington, D.C. and Paris with Chicago.

Wolf said, ''The success of our Pacific network where we have become the number one carrier and our newly and successfully launched European services have demonstrated yet again United's ability to compete and to build traffic between key business and leisure travel centers. We look forward to bringing United's brand of service to Manchester.''

During his visit to Manchester, Wolf is meeting with airport officials and hosting a dinner for civic and business leaders. His stay coincides with a visit by the Washington Airports Authority and the Washington Airports Task Force who traveled to Manchester on a fact-finding mission. United already has strong support for its Manchester application from Washington, D.C. parties.

The U.S. Department of Transportation will select two new U.S. carriers to provide service between Manchester and the United States with a decision expected by Dec. 14.

DALLAS (SEPT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Super Club announced the appointment of Jaap J. van Weezendonk to the position of vice chairman of Super Club N.V.'s board of directors.

Van Weezendonk is the executive vice president and chief financial officer for the Philips group of companies headquartered in Belgium. Worldwide, Philips is a $28 billion electronics company.

Commenting on the announcement, Darrell Baldwin, president and chief executive officer of Super Club's North American operations, said, ''Mr. van Weezendonk has been a member of our parent company's board since early 1989. His forte is in the area of corporate financial structuring -- for which he has outstanding professional background and experience.

''His election to the vice chairman's position underlines a further strengthening of the ties and cooperation between Philips and Super Club. Philips, of course, is a Super club shareholder, and we have a long-standing history of mutually satisfying, joint-effort projects in the electronics area...with additional projects on the drawing board for the future.''

Prior to joining Philips in 1985, van Weezendonk served as the vice president of Finance and Taxes with Douwe Egberts, a division of the Sara Lee Corp. from 1979 to 1985. He was the Director of Taxes for KLM Royal Dutch Airlines from 1974 to 1979, following his position as a lawyer in the firm of Wisselink and Co. in Amsterdam.

Super Club N.V., headquartered in Belgium, is the world's third largest video retail and distribution company and the largest retailer of video products in Europe. Super Club North America is a subsidiary of Super Club N.V. and operates over 435 audio and video retail stores in 26 states.

HUNT VALLEY, MD (SEPT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - McCormick & Co. Inc. (NASDAQ:MCCRK), Monday reported earnings from continuing operations increased for both the third quarter and nine months, ended August 31.

Third quarter earnings per share of 43 cents increased 10 percent over last year. Excluding the 15 cents per share gain from the sale of some land in the United Kingdom, food and packaging earnings for the nine months rose 22 percent to 89 cents per share from 73 cents last year. Total income for the period in 1989 of $2.61 per share included $1.88 from the sale of real estate operations.

Sales for the third quarter of fiscal 1990 were $322 million, a 2 percent increase over the same period last year. Sales of $924 million for the nine months were up 4 percent over last year. Comparisons were adversely affected by the 1989 divestitures of portion control and food color businesses as well as operations in Brazil. Accordingly, sales from ongoing operations in 1990 increased 4 percent and 6 percent respectively.

Also today, the board of directors declared a quarterly dividend of 12 cents per share on its common stocks, payable Oct. 10, to shareholders of record Sept. 28.

NATICK, MA (SEPT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Prime Computer Inc. Monday announced it has been awarded a $19 million contract from the United States Navy to provide hardware maintenance for the Navy's CAD/CAM and Computer-Aided Engineering and Documentation (CAEDOS) systems.

Under the four-year contract, Prime will provide maintenance to the Naval Air Systems Command, Naval Sea Systems Command, Space and Naval Warfare Command and Naval Facilities Engineering Command. Prime will service its CAD systems as well as systems from Digital Equipment Corp., Hewlett Packard, Tektronix, Calcomp and Versatec.

The CAD systems and equipment are located at more than 50 sites in the continental United States and Hawaii.

''This is a major win for Prime and strengthens the long-standing relationship we have enjoyed with the U.S. Navy,'' said Carl J. Madsen, federal contract manager of Prime's federal support group.

Prime Computer Inc., headquartered in Natick, Mass., is an open systems supplier of integrated solutions to selected end-user markets worldwide. The company is the leading supplier in the PICK data management marketplace and the second largest worldwide supplier of integrated CAD/CAM/CAE systems. Prime has a major international presence and a global field service maintenance organization for its customer base.

MATTHEWS, NC (SEPT. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - ALLTEL Corp. (NYSE:AT) last week became one of the first independent telephone companies in the nation to successfully test Common Channel Signaling, (CCS), a new technology that will introduce a new generation of customer telephone services.

The test was conducted between Matthews and Charlotte, N.C.

Common Channel Signaling reduces to a split second, the speed at which calls are connected. It also provides the avenue for delivering more advanced services, giving customers greater control over their personal telephone calls.

Advanced custom calling features or Custom Local Area Signaling Service (CLASS), may include automatic callback, call trace, selective call forwarding or distinctive ringing.

''These advanced features provided through Common Channel Signaling break new ground in personal communication in the 90's,'' says Steve Maginnis, president of ALLTEL Carolina Inc. in Matthews.

Beginning in 1991, ALLTEL will offer advanced custom calling features to more than 21,000 ALLTEL customers in four exchanges in the Matthews area.

Initially, selected exchanges in Matthews will be able to use these services for calls to and from all exchanges in Charlotte.

ALLTEL is the first independent telephone company to offer its customers these advanced services for calls they make or receive from outside their local exchange areas, according to Research First Inc., of Birmingham, Ala.

When ALLTEL introduces the new services, customers will have the ability to automatically call the last number that called them and automatically call back to a line that was busy. The advanced features will also give customers the ability to selectively trace incoming calls.

The advanced custom calling features offered through Common Channel Signaling will complement some of the existing custom calling features currently offered by ALLTEL, such as call waiting, call forwarding, speed calling and three-way conference call.

ALLTEL Corp. provides local telephone service to over 1.1 million customers in 25 states and has subsidiaries or investments in companies that provide cellular telephone and long-distance service. Communications products and other related businesses.

SHAWNEE, OK (SEPT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Barton Industries Inc. (NASDAQ:BART) states that the Integrated Technology Systems Division (ITSD) has announced its latest product for the energy industry, the On-Line BTU Analyzer, and is currently negotiating multi-million dollar contracts with several major natural gas companies for delivery of this product.

According to C. W. Earl Johnson, chairman of the board and chief executive officer, the Barton On-Line BTU Analyzer offers immediate on-line acquisition of true BTU value and significantly reduces the analysis time for true BTU content of sales gas streams from weeks to less than two minutes.

Since gas is sold by total BTU content and quantity, no adjustment for manually acquired BTU analysis is necessary.

Barton's fast, accurate, highly repeatable, On-Line BTU Analyzer can also be integrated with local gas flow computers in the field or can communicate remotely to the customer's corporate headquarters.

Providing innovative products like the On-Line BTU Analyzer through Barton's ITSD continues to demonstrate Barton's strategy of Total Energy Resource Management Solutions to the energy industry.

WASHINGTON (SEPT. 17) COMTEX - The registration statement filed at the SEC shows Burnley Corp.(TICKER: BURE) filed to sell 100,000 units at a purchase price of $1 per unit.

The minimum purchase per buyer is 100 units.

Each unit consists of one share of the company's Class A common stock, 20 Class A warrants and 20 Class B warrants.

Each warrant is immediately detachable and transferrable.

Each Class A warrant entitles the holder to purchase one share of common stock at $1.50 per share for a period of 24 months.

Each Class B warrant entitles the holder to purchase one share of common stock at $2 per share for 48 months.

Both the exercise price of the warrants and the period for their exercise may be changed without warrant holder approval upon the occurrence of certain events, such as stock dividends, stock splits or combinations, re-classifications, certain warrants or rights offerings for the purchase of shares of common stock, certain distributions of property to stockholders, and certain mergers or reorganization.

Upon at least 30 days notice, the warrants may be redeemed by the company at $0.0001 per warrant, at any time during the exercise period.

Any warrant holder who does not exercise warrants prior to either expiration or redemption will forfeit his right to purchase the shares of common stock underlying his warrants.

The company reports that it has not been operational since it was organized on Aug. 15, 1990, has no specific plan of operation and has virtually no assets.

If this offer is successful, management will have a "blank check" with respect to investors' funds, since no determination has been made as to how such funds will be used.

WASHINGTON (SEPT. 17) COMTEX - The 8-K report filed at the SEC shows Chester Co. Bancshares Inc.(TICKER: CCBA) on Sept. 5, 1990, on the recommendation of the audit committee of Chester Co.'s wholly-owned subsidiary, the Bank of Chester Co., resolved to dismiss its independent auditor, KPMG Peat Marwick.

The company hired Grant Thornton, an independent certified public accounting firm, to audit the books and records of Chester Co. for the fiscal year ending Dec. 31, 1990.

The company reports the decision was made for economic reasons and because the company's board of directors believe Thornton's experience as auditors for financial institutions of a similar size to Chester Co. makes Thornton well-suited to be the company's auditors.

For the previous two fiscal years, audits performed by those former auditors contained no adverse opinion or disclaimer of opinion nor were they modified as to uncertainty, audit scope, or accounting principles.

WASHINGTON (SEPT. 17) COMTEX - The 8-K report filed at the SEC shows Riggs National Bank of Washington, D.C. (the "bank"), the principle subsidiary of Riggs National Corp.(TICKER: RIGS), entered an agreement Aug. 10, 1990, with the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

(FDIC) to acquire certain assets and assume the deposits of the National Bank of Washington ("NBW").

Under terms of the agreement, the FDIC, as receiver for NBW, has transferred approximately $1.00 billion of assets and approximately $1.1 billion of deposits to the bank as of Aug. 10, 1990.

The bank also purchased NBW's trust business with approximately $700 million in assets under management.

The FDIC granted the bank various options to acquire certain other NBW assets, including options to purchase owned bank premises at their fair market value.

The bank will pay the FDIC $33.0 million in the transaction with existing working capital.

Assets purchased include primarily cash, securities and approximately $750.0 million in loans, but exclude adversely classified assets of approximately $500 million.

Additionally, the bank has the option to sell back to the FDIC essentially all NBW loans, excluding approximately $20 million of overdraft loans related to demand deposit accounts.

The bank has exercised, or given notice that it would exercise, on Sept. 9, 1990, its option with respect to approximately $655.00 million - $680.00 million of the loans.

It will determine soon whether to retain the remaining loans covered by the agreement, approximately $50-$75 million.

SCHEDULE 14D9

SEC - AMENDMENT NUMBER: 43

ANNOUNCEMENT:

At a special meeting on Sept. 14, 1990, and recessed to a reconvened on Sept. 16, 1990, the board of Apple Bancorp Inc.(TICKER: APK) voted to redeem all of the rights issued pursuant to the shareholder rights plan effected upon the purchase by Stahl of all of the company's common shares. Additionally, the board agreed that, if Stahl completes his offer and purchases shares that give him a majority prior to the annual meeting scheduled for Oct. 1, 1990, the board will withdraw its nominees for election at the meeting and take steps to assure that Stahl's nominees are elected to the board. The board has extended the annual meeting from Oct. 1 to Oct. 10, 1990 due to the fact that Stahl's offer is set to expire on Oct. 1 so that Stahl will have the time to purchase all tendered shares prior to the meeting. At the meeting, the board changed its opinion of the offer such that they have no opinion as to whether shareholders should tender their shares upon advice of financial and legal counsel. The company has entered into trust agreements designed to protect members of the company from litigation, and related expenses, as well as compensation, should a change of control take place. At a meeting of the Banking Board on Sept. 13, 1990, the Banking Board denied the Company's request to reconsider its previous approval of the acquisition of the company by Stahl.
